

Does Not Stimulate

Ayer's Sarsaparilla does not stimulate. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. It is not a strong drink. No reaction after you stop using it. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. You have the steady, even gain that comes from a strong tonic and alterative. We wish you would ask your doctor about this. He knows. Trust him. Do as he says. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

What are Ayer's Pills? Liver Pills. How long have they been sold? Nearly sixty years. Do doctors recommend them? Ask your own doctor and find out.

Mr. Patterson was brought to the Freeman Drug Store where Dr. Walker dressed the wounded hand.

Doing Their Duty.

Scores of Burlington Readers Are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys.

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills follow: Urinary trouble, diabetes. Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all.

Burlington people endorse our claim.

Mrs. Ella J. Hughes, Dixie St., Burlington, N. C., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills at different times for several years and they have never failed to give me prompt relief. Some time ago I suffered from severe pains in the small of my back and frequent spells of dizziness, caused by disordered kidneys. I finally procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the Freeman Drug Co., and they quickly removed my trouble. I have had slight return attacks, but Doan's Kidney Pills have always brought satisfactory results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The readers of this paper will be pained to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known, to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO. In the United States court Monday Henry A. Bason, a sawmill operator of Mebane, Alamance county, was adjudged a bankrupt on his own petition. The assets are normal, while the liabilities are about $8,300. Henry W. Bason, manufacturer of Mebane was also adjudged bankrupt, the liabilities being about $35,000. The assets are nominal. Both cases were referred to G. S. Ferguson Jr., referee. Jacob A. Long, Esq., of Graham, is attorney for Bason.

Mr. West Warren and Mr. Arthur Scott came near getting seriously hurt Sunday night, in returning home from the county, in passing from the abutment of the new bridge at Muddy creek. The connection was so bad that the buggy turned over throwing them both out, fortunate doing no serious damage. It is said you can not sue a county for defective roads, but nothing is said about making somebody for leaving them in a perilous condition.

Lee County Times.

On last Sunday afternoon about five o'clock Charlie Minter shot and killed Tom Waddell, both colored. They were both young men, the murdered man perhaps the oldest, who was about 21 years old. We do not know the cause which led up to the killing, but heard the remark on the street that they had been gambling and that Minter said Waddell had taken six dollars from him, whereupon he went to his home got his shot gun and followed Waddell down street and shot him down on Main street near the center of town. Waddell lived about three hours. Charlie Minter made his escape and has not been captured.

Saturday Mr. Cicero Leonard had the misfortune to "mix it up" with a wood saw, losing instantly one finger and so badly injuring three others that they had to be amputated. Drs. Siler City Grit.

The accommodating star route carrier between this place and Pittsboro is usually very careful but Sunday night his horse was carelessly tied and became unfastened on Hickory Mountain and ate a large number of pumpkins. A horse simply will not stand in the cold for more than three hours, when his owner is otherwise pleasantly engaged.

It seems that pigs are worse than automobiles in making teams run away around here. A team driven to a wheat drill Nov. 1st by Mr. Frank Murray became frightened at a pig and ran away bruising Mr. Murray up considerably. A mule driven to a buggy by Mr. Willie Brewer last Friday couldn't stand the noise of pigs grunting in a sack and ran away fortunately no harm but the shafts and a wheel were demolished and a few bruises to Mr. Brewer.

A large stack of corn on the stack containing about 250 bushels of corn on the farm of Hon. R.N. Hackett above town caught on the Wednesday night just after sunset and was almost consumed before any could be saved. The corn had been cut and shocked on the hill above the bottom land.

Some men had been shucking that day and it is supposed that the fire originated accidentally, from smoking probably. Mr. Hackett had left for Charlotte via Taylorsville that day to secure the release of a prisoner. Elkin Times.

The work of grading on the Elkin & Alleghany Railroad is progressing quite satisfactorily. The force is now at work between the Elkin Shoe factory and town. It is expected that by the last of next week a squad of convicts will be working in the bluff between the dam across Elkin creek and the cotton factory. It looks now like the grading will be completed by February, though it may take a little longer.

Up in the Air.

Charlesston News and Courier. Johnson, who has been higher up in the air with a clear view beneath than any other human being of whom we know, declares that the earth presented to him the appearance of a great concave bowl. Instead of appearing as the outside of a globe. We do not know that there was anything the matter with Johnstone's eyes, and presume that the earth would present the same concave appearance to anybody else who happened to be a couple of miles up in the air looking down.

We call attention to the matter only to emphasize the importance of the old adage relative to not believing all that you see. Proving that the earth is round by noting the disappearance of ships over the horizon is just as likely to be erroneous as proving the earth concave because it looked that way to Johnstone, and Johnstone had a better chance to see the earth than any man who has gone before. The eye at the best is a treacherous organ, not to be trusted at all in many cases, easily fooled as Edison proved so ably when he discovered the secret of moving pictures.

Dangerous Teaching.

Baltimore American.

To center the sensitive minds of children upon crime and to impress their receptive intelligence with lurid depictions of orgies and horrors of blood, to train them in the mechanism by which the unhappy victims in times of a great social disorder were put to death, and then to require of them that they shall make models of the paraphernalia of executions is a grave moral offense. It matters not under what auspices such undertakings in the name of education are carried on, these performing the work are doing disaster to character, they are blunting the sensibility of formative minds. They must surely result either in making their charges emotional irresponsibles, callous toward brutality or else leave them the prey of criminal suggestions derived from furnishing their minds with gruesome sensations that become fixed in the brain cells. Anyone who has appreciation of the rudiments of child psychology who understand anything of the way in which the individual is built up by his environment, who can form any exact judgment with regard to the proper function of education should know better than to teach children to construct models of the French guillotine. As if in fear they may not become well enough acquainted with the instrument of barbaric murder, to saturate minds with lurid depictions of executions by the guillotine is to debauch the intellects of the youth.

Yet in the name of education there appears in the National Educational Journal an article accredited to a female supervisor of grammar schools in Baltimore history by models. She uses as an illustration the detailed directions of a precocious youth of how to construct a guillotine. Commending this kind of exercise for the children in certain grades where the French Revolution is taught, the writer gives columns of citations of the most lurid depiction of the actual work of the bloody knife, all of which are recommended for study by the victims of perverted education.

As a sample of the citizens that accompany the directions for building guillotine models for school uses is the following which will show parents the kind of teaching these so-called scientific teachers are doing: "Three times the great knife fell. Three times the heavy stroke shook the scaffold. Three times there fell into the basket a head with eyelids that still fluttered and with jaws still working that bit the bloody sawdust." Many other citations equally nauseating are given. It is hardly creditable that any one not wholly lost in morbidity would delight in reading such passages, it is inconceivable that any teacher of the youth would recommend such passages for the instruction of seventh and eighth grade children. Such teaching indicates a slack sense of educational responsibility. That one occupying the position of supervisor of grammar grades should advocate such instruction and that a reputable educational publication should publish such an article showing the extremes to which the present trend of education may go. No one objects to really improved methods of teaching, and no one objects to the use of models—but to carry the children to the foot of the guillotine and saturate their minds with its most noxious incidents is a perversion of educational ends.

Mice For Whooping-cough.

A fairly alarming relic of medieval nostrums came to my notice recently. A mother was discussing with her housekeeper the probability of her children taking whooping-cough, which was then prevalent in the community. The housekeeper, a most dependable, valuable helper, of more than average good sense and judgement, said, "Mrs. Black, if you'll let me, I can keep your children from having whooping-cough. I've kept lots of children from having it, but I wouldn't do it without telling you first." "Well, Martha, what is it?" "You catch a live mouse and kill and dress it and stuff it and bake it and feed it to the child. It isn't bad to take and of course they don't know what it is—that would spoil the charm." To my friend's exclamation of horror she replied with conviction, "I've given it to lots of children, and never one of them had whooping-cough."—Mary Newell Youtz in THE DESIGNER for December.

News of Mr. J. P. Caldwell.

It will be remembered that some time ago the late John Charles McNeill went to Newton to write up an important event for The Observer, and found that he had got there a week ahead of time. This performance was repeated yesterday by Editor Harris who went to Hickory to write up the fair and the Charlotte-to-Asheville good roads convention. He found that he was a day ahead of schedule but availed himself of the opportunity of going on to Morganton and spending the day with the former beloved chief of The Observer. Mr. Caldwell's friends throughout the state and elsewhere will be glad to know that he is faring well. His condition may be summed up in the statement that he is contented and happy. It was a great pleasure to note his cheerfulness and it was a pleasant surprise to observe the number of friends he had in mind and the particularity with which he inquired about them. He is most agreeably located and is surrounded, in the official family of the institution for which he has done so much good, by the best people in the world.—Charlotte Observer.

The rank and file did it!

No boodle, no booze, no office.

What the rank and file did to
 was a p.

There seems to be but one sunny spot:—Tennessee.

1825 tried and true Republicans from principle. Bully by George?

The stay at home vote did the work. Men aint you sorry you didn't vote.

The best advertising medium in the county. The State Dispatch. Try it.

Even South Carolina and Alabama elected Democratic govern-ers. Now wouldn't that jar you?

When the leaders say that each other are grand rascals, you need not expect the voters to believe otherwise.—See.

The State Dispatch has more paid up subscribers than any weekly paper in the county.
 This is a pointer to you Mr. Advertiser.

From the way some of the little "me too's" whooped 'em up it seems that they have forgotten that soup houses were "once upon a time" popular resorts in this country.

The Democrats liked 66 votes polling as many as they did two years ago. Not such a land slide after all, yet they got the offices and that was all they were after.

If the Democratic party can bring better times, let 'er come.
 But what does the average Democratic politician care if the people are fed at soup houses so long as he has his snout in the pie tub.

For our part we are glad it occurred. It will give the Democratic party another opportunity to kill itself for a decade or two.
 The people appear to have short memories, but it will come back to them.

November 24th, is thanksgiving Day. But the Republican party in this state has very little to give thanks for in the way of offices, but the turkey crop seems to be as large as usual under this Republican prosperity. Thanks awfully.

To those who stood firm and voted the ticket straight, we admire and respect, but to those who sulked, or voted a scratched ticket thereby giving aid and comfort to the enemy. Well, why didn't you have the manhood to go the whole hog, or none?

Even the moon has gone Democratic. As we go to press it is in full eclipse. We presume it did this in order to give the Democratic judges a chance to fix the result.

We are a little late again this week, but now that the election is over and our contest, which was responsible for our coming out late this week, has closed we will endeavor to come out on time in the future. There is a large number of new subscribers that were handed in at the close of the contest that may be late in getting their paper, but we assure them that as rapidly as possible they will be placed upon our regular mailing list and they shall receive the paper regular.
 It takes time to do these things, especially with a small force.

The Result and Its Lesson.

The result of the election like everything else, has its lesson, and the most important lesson taught is that no matter how smart, shrewd and powerful any one man or faction of men, they cannot win an election by themselves. If victory comes in a county as close as this one, all must pull together. The turning down of one faction and putting in control of another rarely ever accomplishes what is intended, therefore if we are to win in the future we must lay aside factions and strife and act as a unit for the common cause. There should be no conflict between the old guard and the new, but both should be recognized according to their worth as political workers, having due regard for the standing of each with the masses.

Notwithstanding the landslide and the almost complete annihilation of our party, yet with the lesson it has taught we should be in better position for the conflict in 1912. The result has solidified the party as nothing else could do, and we are now prepared to go forth to battle with a solid Republican phalanx that will prove invincible in the next campaign.

Death of Chairman McVey.

To the Republicans of Alamance County:

Fellow Republicans:
 The Republican party of Alamance County has received a severe rebuke at the hands of the voters in the recent election. We have been disintegrated, scattered, flushed so to speak. But this is small chastisement for which we have only passing regrets, but the loss by death of our beloved Chairman, Thomas F. Mc-Vey, is a loss that we can ill afford. The election can be fought over again two years hence, but him who has departed can not be brought back. We shall miss his advice, counsel and influence for years and years to come, if it was possible we would say give us back our Chairman and we will give you the election for the next twenty years to come. And while our loss is great, let us not despair. We belong to a strong constructive party whose policies have ruled the nation in happiness and prosperity since the birth of the party.

When the Republican party rules the nation, peace, plenty and prosperity pervades the land.
 When our opponents rule, want, misery and starvation is abroad in the land. Then let us cherish the memory of our deceased Chairman, and let his influence be felt in all our party councils, primaries and conventions, in this way we can still have the benefit of his influence, although he is departed. Remember when any and all subjects of doubtful propriety were being discussed in party caucus or elsewhere, our beloved Chairman never failed to take a stand for the right and to disapprove the wrong. Through his influence we have been able to build up a party that has been a strong competitor against our opponents for years, and while we are apparently scattered, to the four winds, yet we must pull ourselves together, reorganize our forces and become a formidable and worthy political opponent for the year 1912.

Respectfully,
 J. ZEB WALLER.

Prostituting of Politics.

It is a pity for the people, a pity and a disgrace for the nation that politics should have become so prostituted, the discussion of the issues pitched upon such a low plane. Misrepresentation, and unqualified abuse constituted very largely the elements of discussion.

In the absence of specific facts you might think that our contention referred to the cheap John politician, to the small fellow, for the lie is banded around with ease and grace among our most distinguished politicians, men that we would suppose would conduct a political campaign upon a high plane, that would discuss issues in an honest frank, and sincere way. In truth it is the men who are occupying the most exalted places in state, and nation, that have been most conspicuous in their manner of dealing with the facts and substituting falsehoods. Its an effort at wholesale deception, degradation to the extreme. It is well enough for us to want our side to win, or you to want yours to win, but any political victory won at the price of lies and misrepresentation cost entirely too much.

This is not only a habit with many politicians but is grown habitual with a number of leading daily, political papers. What kind of government can we hope for when every agency used in its operation, from the humblest to the highest and most powerful is practicing a species of deception, literally lying to deceive.

 There is a class of men from which you expect nothing better, but it is horrifying to think the state and nation is honey combed with falsehood, with arrant deception. Can we wonder that the common people have no better show?—Mebane Leader.

[Well said Brother Foy, and you might have added that the use of Boodle and Booze to demoralize the electorate is quite as bad as lying and the deception practiced by the newspapers—

Ministers' Appeal for Thanksgiving Day.

Whereas it has long been recognized as a proper and beautiful custom; to set apart one day in each year, as a time of special thanksgiving to God, for His blessings, when business is suspended largely, and the people assemble for worship, and

Whereas this custom has a national sanction in that it is set apart as a legal holiday, and a call for a worthy observance of the day is issued by the President and by the governors of most of the states, and

Whereas a large per cent of the cities and towns of our country, North and South, do observe the day, closing places of business for all or a part of the day.

We, the Burlington Pastors' Association, respectfully and earnestly appeal to the business men of Burlington to consider whether they may not close all places of Business for the entire day, or if that seems impracticable, we respectfully urge that all places of business, public and private, be closed from 10:00 to 1 o'clock, in order that all our people may have opportunity to attend Thanksgiving services, which will be held in most of the churches, beginning at 11 o'clock.

"Reforms in Funeral Customs."

Under this heading there will be found in this issue some recommendations by the Burlington pastors touching funeral and burial customs. In order to convince the public of the reasonableness of these recommendations, several of the pastors desire to print in turn brief articles setting forth the reasons which they feel justify the recommendations. I open the discussion with some general comments on funerals. I am grateful for the interest in this subject expressed by the Editor of this paper, and for his generous offer of space in his columns.

I may speak for every minister of the city in saying first of all that our chief concern will be to conduct funerals as the bereaved ones desire. When their hearts are broken our one inquiry will be how they wish us to help them in laying away their dead. If they ask us how a funeral ought to be conducted, our answer is found largely in the recommendations printed herewith. But it is not our purpose nor wish to be bound by these recommendations when the family of the deceased in any case desire the contrary.

But we are convinced that these recommendations embody the best usage in all parts of the country, and the best sentiment of our own community. Many of the people of Burlington, besides the ministers and undertakers, devoutly wish to see some of the reforms introduced which are set forth in the recommendations but they shrink from doing what the sentiment of many others would brand as eccentric. Our aim is to explain and to crystallize the best sentiment, and to conduct all funerals in accordance with this sentiment, whenever there is no expressed wish to the contrary.

As a basis for funeral reforms some fundamental facts must be held in mind. I mention some popular misconceptions.

First, the idea seems to prevail widely that a funeral is a proper occasion for almost any degree of pomp and display, and for the assembling of a large, promiscuous throng to see the tears and hear the sobs of the bereaved. It is easy to show that all this is out of harmony with the proper conception of a funeral.

Another misconception is that one's popularity in the community, or the love and esteem in which he is held, may be estimated by the size of the throng that comes to gaze on his dead body, or that follows it to the grave. It cannot be so estimated. Any citizen notorious for wickedness will have a crowd at his funeral. Any sensational circumstance, such as murder or suicide, will bring a throng to a funeral.

A third misconception is that the love of relatives for the deceased is to be shown by the beauty and cost of the casket, the number of carriages in the procession, the loudness of mourning on the part of the bereaved, and their wearing of crepe. None of this is true. The highest form of love is shown in deeds of kindness and charity to the living, not in display over the dead. The deepest love usually weeps silently and unseen, and refuses to draw to itself the gaze of the curious by the wearing of crepe as a badge of mourning. The tendency among people of the most refined feeling is more and more to discard the wearing of black as a sign of mourning.

The right conception of a funeral is first of all that it is a sacred, private matter. Deep grief ought to be permitted to weep alone, or at least unseen by the eyes of an unsympathetic crowd. In the death chamber and at the grave only intimate or sympathetic friends should be present to see the tears of the bereaved. Our custom exposes the weeping relatives to the gaze of many that are curious and unsympathetic. These go away from the sacred scene to report to the world how the bereaved ones "took the death." "The wife did not seem to care much for her husband's death," they say, "she did not shed a tear. I watched her." A custom that permits this is heartless. For a promiscuous crowd to file past the coffin and make a spectacle of "viewing the remains," when the whole occasion should be treated as sacred and private is rightly viewed by many with a feeling of revulsion, and almost of horror.

Funeral customs in the North are to be admired in most respects. I have just now been reading the funeral notices in a Philadelphia daily. In many of the notices one sees the singular phrase, "Interment private." I am told that as a rule that phrase is found in the notices of all people of the best taste and trust refinement. It means a polite request to all but near relatives and intimate friends to retire as soon as the funeral service is concluded. The bereaved are left alone to shed the last tears before none but sympathetic eyes. There is no imposing procession to the cemetery and therefore little expense for carriages. The bereaved, with a very few close friends, go together to the cemetery. The last scene is rendered more sacred because it is private. The burial service ended, the relatives retire, leaving the mere filling of the grave to the undertaker or to the cemetery superintendent. Southern cities are rapidly coming to adopt this custom; and the best taste everywhere approves it.

The ministers earnestly desire that the people of our community shall read and ponder the brief articles that are to follow, and to join with them in effecting the reforms proposed as far as they seem to accord with good taste.

Man Who Told You So.

Circulating hither and thither among the victors and the vanquished is the post-election propheet—the gay and festive cuss who told you so. Irrepressible and ubiquitous is he, announcing everywhere his omniscient foreknowledge, heeding neither the good-natured thrust of the winners nor the maledictions of those who went down in the dust of defeat.

It is the hour of his glory. He didn't amount to much before the election, and soon his importance will dwindle to its original measure. But, great in little things, he rides high on the flood tide of his opportunity. A few short days ago he gave expression to the inamensity of his inward convictions by meaning nods and winks, futher emphasized at suitable moments with a purse of the lip and a deep, portentous frown. But these have suddenly been translated into terms of no uncertain value. Now he is a changed man. He stands erect, legs spread wide apart to secure a better purchase on the firm earth beneath. His discourse is more than oracular. His words are short, snappy, and to the point. "I told you how 'twould be—Eh, Jim? Eh, Bill? Member when you asked my opinion what I said? You was standin' right there at the time, Sam; course you remember—and didn't I dope it out right? Well, I guess!"

Lion Fondles A Child.

In Pittsburg a savage lion fondled the hand that a child thrust into his cage. Danger to a child is sometimes great when least regarded. Often it comes through Colds, Croup, and Whooping Cough. They slay thousands that Dr. King's New Discovery could have saved. "A few doses cured our baby of a very bad case of Croup," writes Mrs. George B. Davis, of Flat Rock, N. C. "We always give it to him when he talks cold. Its a wonderful medicine for babies. Best for Coughs, Cold, LaGrippe, Asthma, Hemorrhages, Weak Lungs. 50c. $1.00 Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Freeman Drug Co.

Peter Liebach, the miser, in whose little hut perched high on a hillside near Pittsburg was found $30,000 in coin a year ago is tired of his way of life and wants a wife. Although 46 years old he has never spoken to any woman, except his mother, and she has been dead 20 years.

RURAL CARRIER ITEMS

R. F. D. No. 2.

Miss Rosa Sartin who has been visiting her friend Miss Clara Smith of Gastonia, returned home last week she reports a grand time.

Mr. and Mrs. Junias Rascoe will begin housekeeping this week on No. 2. Glad to have them locate on our route.

Mrs. Charlie Garrison and daughter visited her father Mr. Alex Cantrell the past week.

Mr. Charlie Dameron and Miss Ella Howard of Yanceysville visited the latter's sister, Miss Annie who is teaching school at Mt. Vernon, last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Jno. Gilliam and Miss Ruby Dickey visited No. 3 last Monday.

Miss Bertha Garrison came home from Elon College Friday, and returned Sunday.

LOST—Between Anthony's saw mill and the First National Bank a storm over coat. Finder will please leave it at the Post Office and receive reasonable reward for the trouble.

R. F. D. No. 7.

J. Gurney Holt had the misfortune to lose his home and part of his house hold effects, Sunday by fire. Mr. Holt is one of our good patrons and we hope the good people will aid him liberally so he will be able to rebuild his home at once. He had no insurance on his house so it is a total loss to him.

Miss Ida Simpson of Route No. 8, has taken charge of the public School at Bellemont and is assisted by T. T. Stafford of Burlington. We hope they will have a successful school and induce all the children of school to attend.

J. R. Randolph who had been so critically ill for a month or more died Saturday a week ago and his remains carried to Alamahaw the following Monday for burial. Rev. J. A. Burgess conducted the funeral service.

Mrs. J. W. H. Isley and daughters, Flossie and Vergie spent Thursday night with Mrs. Polly Isley over on No. 1.

We are sorry to learn that Miss Bertha Randolph is on the sick list but hope she will soon be well again.

Wonder how Dennis Linnens felt Saturday night and Sunday when he saw that little black haired girl.

"Dan" has been at work on Prof Cary Branson and Jessie Redden for some time so you may listen for the "bells" to ring at Bellemont ere long.

Our farmers are about done sowing wheat, shucking corn and picking cotton and can now begin to eat fresh meat, sop ham gravy and sit by the fire.

The road scraper has done some much needed work on part of our roads. Hope they will continue until all our roads have been attended to and put in good condition.

R. F. D. No. 5.

Farmers have been very busy, for the past week getting through sewing wheat and shucking corn.

J. J. Squires still continues very sick.

Miss Carrie Anderson is visiting her grandmother Whitted who is right sick.

Quite a number of our young people enjoyed an opossum hunting one night last week they claim to have caught three, we can't say.

Messrs. J. L. and E. N. Allen of High Point, visited their mother last Sunday.

Mrs. Barbara Allen entertained at her hospitable home Sunday about forty invited guests in honor of her granddaughter and grandson, Annie Myrtle Hester and Ralph Emmett Rogers. At eleven o'clock the crowd began to assemble, and at one o'clock we were invited in the dining room, where the dinner was served in several courses of every thing that was good, they were the recipient of many nice presents, and we hope they and their grandmother will live to see many such birthdays.

All present agree that Miss Cornelia Allen, and Mrs. B. T. Lester who prepared the dinner are two of the best cooks in the country.

There will be a box party and voting contest at Long's Chapel School Friday night Nov. 25th, 1910. Everybody is invited to come.

The term of Senator "Paynter" of Kentucky, expires next March and he is a candidate for re-election. Whitewashers, however, are more in demand at the national capital.

Haw River Items.

Messrs J. L. and Newton Allen of High Point visited in town Sunday.

Last Wednesday night the Philathea Class of the Baptist Sunday School met with Miss Ruth Hughes at Miss Julia Blackman's, after the business of the class light refreshments were served. The writer was not invited but we are informed that a very pleasant evening was spent. We hope to be on hand next time.

Mrs. R. L. Myrick who has been on an extended visit to her mother and friends in Greensboro returned home last week much refreshed and said she had a delightful stay.

J. M. Murray took a flying trip to Greensboro Saturday to see his boy arrived some days ago and reports a most delightful trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Terrell of Hillsboro spent Saturday night and Sunday with his mother and Sunday night with their aunt Mrs. G. W. P. Cates, left for Burlington on the eleven train to do some shopping and returned to Hillsboro on the four.

Mrs. J. H. Blackman Jr. spent a few days in Burlington visiting, Mrs. B. Goodman accompanied her home to spend a few days last week.

A. Q. Percell and his two little boys spent last Sunday in Burlington. If Mrs. Percell could take a peep at him what a lonely sight she would see. She is at Hot Springs Ark.

Mr. Virgil Clark and Miss Maude Sapps of South Atrolina left Sunday evening and went into the presence of J. M. McCracken, Esq. and were made one returned home rejoicing, we wish them a long and happy life.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Allen spent Sunday at his mothers about eight miles in the country, there was quite an enjoyable time Will said he got one more square meal.

The M. P. Church held their last quarterly conference Saturday at Haw River and found their work in good shape. The pastor preached his farewell sermon 1st Sunday and now awaits the decision of the annual conference.

Miss Julia Thompson spent Saturday and Sunday at home returned Monday morning to resume her work in school.

Our telegraph operator went to Greensboro Saturday night returned Saturday and reports a good time.

On Friday night the death angel entered the home of Weldon Ward and his wife also Bynum Barker and his wife and carried a child from each to the skies.

Both children were born the same night, both died the same night and both were buried the same day, something that don't often occur. Weep not parents they are just gone on before waiting for you.

Mr. J. C. Crutchfield who has been working for a stove company for the last three weeks spent Saturday and Sunday at Haw River with his family.

Mr. Joe Bason of New York is spending a few days in Alamance looking over the fields and paths of his boyhood days and will make war on the feathered trite while here, we wish him a pleasant sojourn while here.

The Point is Well Taken.

Mr. Editor:—The election is over, and it is the patriotic duty of every loyal citizen of our county and State to stop talking politics, and to get down to business and do what they can to help build up our county and State—and also to help better the condition, both morally and financially of our people, and to agitate such reforms as will accomplish the above.

We heard a great deal said by the papers and politicians about "Boodle and Booze". Where there is so much smoke there must be some fire. I have heard that the Republicans in the late campaign made overtures to the Democrats not to use any money in the late election, except for legitimate campaign expenses. In fact I am told that one of the latest acts of our late and beloved Chairman, Mr. Thos. F. McVey, was to write a letter to the Chairman of Alamance County Democratic Executive Committee asking for an appointment to take this matter up, and to which letter he did not even get the courtesy of a reply. However let us forget the past, and I suggest that the newspapers of our county agitate this question and to urge our Representative, Hon. Elmer Long, to pass a law to compel each and every county official to file a full and complete itemized expense account of their campaign expenses. This is being done in nearly every state in the Nation and it is a reform in the right direction, and I am sure that our able young representative, Hon. Elmer Long, will do any thing that he can to carry out this reform. CITIZEN.
