Spit, Quit, Fit.

Hines, Ala.—In a letter from this place, Mrs. Eula Mae Bradley says: "I used to spit up all I ate. I was tired and sleepy all the time. My head ached, and I could hardly drag around. Since taking Cardui, this has entirely quit, and now I feel quite fit." Mrs. Bradley suffered from nervous indigestion. Cardui builds up the nervous system, and strengthens the womanly constitution. That's why Cardui helped Mrs. Bradley and why it will help you. Try it.

Reward Offered

I will pay a reward of $5.00 for information that will enable me to get possession of a black bicycle, make Genron, steel rims, clycher tires, frame bent near the handlebars, small seat, kelly handlebars without grips and also information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person who stole the bicycle. (signed) W. C. Thurston.

Get In Line.

We're coming, Father Woodrow, A hundred thousand strong; They've kept us out of office For sixteen years too long.

We're hungry and we're thirsty, But manna you'll supply, From messenger to cabinet The heads will surely fly.

We've waited and we've waited To hear the big horn blow; And now we'll feast on plenty While others eat the crow.

And now from Maine to Texas You'll hear our battle cry— We're coming, Father Woodrow, We're coming for our PIE. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Miss Eva Dell Goforth Becomes The Bride of William J. Barker.

Lenoir, Nov. 14.—A wedding that will be of interest to many friends in different parts of the state was solemnized this morning at 7:30 o'clock at the beautiful suburban home of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Goforth, a mile west of Lenoir, when William J. Barker led to the hymenal alter their attractive daughter, Miss Eva Dell Goforth. The parlor was tastily and effectively decorated for the occasion.

Promptly at the appointed hour, the bridal party made their appearance from the dining room, entering the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's popular wedding march, rendered in a pleasant manner by Miss Zelma Winkler. The bride wore a pretty traveling suit of blue, with hat and shoes to match, and carried a shower bouquet of brides roses. The only attendant Mrs. Willis R. Boyd the matron of honor, was becomingly dressed in white and carried a large bouquet of white carnations.

Jury To Try Virginia Outlaws In The Box.

Wytheville, Va., Nov. 11.—A jury was secured in the Wythe county circuit court today for the trial of Sidna Allen for the murder of Judge Thornton L. Massey, when the Allens shot up the Carroll county court house on March 14, last. The jury comes from Grayson county which adjoins the county of Carroll. A motion of the defence to dismiss the jury was over ruled by the court and adjournment was then taken until tomorrow, when the opening statements of council will be made.

Thanksgiving at Elon.

Thanksgiving will be duly celebrated, as usual, at the college. Morning exercise will be held at eleven o'clock in the chapel, at which time the annual offering for the Orphanage of place will be taken.

Following this Thanksgiving seance, the annual banquet will be served in the dining hall at West Dormitory, to which happy event, both faculty and students look forward with the fondest of anticipation for real pleasure and delightful social intercourse.

At eight P.M. in the college chapel, the Philogian Literary Society holds its annual celebration and all who are familiar with these evenings will spare no effort to be present. An unusually attractive program has been prepared. Messrs. C. Paul Ingle and W. Duncan Loy will deliver orations. Mr. C. C. Johnson has "College Cuts" for this occasion. The chief event of the evening, however, will be the debate. Query: Is it that it would be unwise to vacate the public schools of our land. Messrs. O. D. Poythress and R. A. Truitt will support the affirmative, with Wm. C. Franks and J. V. Knight presenting the opposition.

The public is cordially invited to attend these exercises.

Interest is beginning to be aroused in the State Inter-Collegiate Peace contest to be held in the auditorium at Raleigh during the sitting of the next Legislature. Elon will hold her preliminary contest, probably in December, to decide who shall represent this institution in the State Contest. The following have entered for the preliminary test: Messrs. J. F. Hogan, A. T. Banks, J. V. Knight, O. D. Poythress, W. T. Dowd, W. R. Hardesty, F. P. Harwood, H. E. Woods, F. F. Myrick, I. J. Kellom.

Columbia Likely Wilson's Choice.

Washington, Nov. 12.—"Columbia, S. C." was the recipient of a vast deal of widely distributed publicity this morning—and publicity of the sort that does not hurt.

The special correspondents at Princeton of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington papers conveyed to their journal's the distinct impression that Columbia's offer to be the winter capital of the United States was favorably received by the president elect, and in headlines in those papers this morning Columbia is referred to as the "probable winter capital." The Washington Post and the New York Sun give especial prominence to the visit of the Columbia delegation. The Post, in its headline, says, "South Carolina's Tender of Boyhood Home Please President-elect. Hopes to Spend Part of Each Winter There." And that was what the governor said to the correspondents.

The Washington Herald Herald quoted Gov. Wilson as follows: "They asked me to say that I would go down there this winter but I explained my duties would not permit me but I would be delighted to consider it for another winter."

"It is a house of four large rooms on the first floor and five bed rooms on the second floor. We sold it when we left Columbia about 1877, 35 years ago. I lived there about five years. It has been occupied continuously ever since and is in a pretty good state of preservation. I certainly would be inclined to use it. It stands on an acre of ground. The squares, as they call them in Columbia, are four acres, and this is a quarter of a square. Of course I expect to have my same old room when I return to the old homestead."

"Mr. Gonzales, of the delegation, said, after calling on the governor, that the house had been purchased by the people of South Carolina, and that it had been placed at the disposition of president-elect for a period of eight years."

"But Mr. Bryan says that Mr. Wilson is to only have one term," it was suggested.

"That is where Mr. Bryan is wrong," was the prompt reply."

Mr. Gonzales passed through Washington today returning to Columbia in advance of other members of the delegation, several of whom went on to New York. Mayor Gibbs stopped in Baltimore for a few hours to see his son. Mr. Gonzales said he regarded the attitude of Governor Wilson and his family toward Columbia's invitation as very favorable and he expected the acceptance to be made positive just as soon after the inauguration as the president could think of matters affecting him personally.

Lawson articles, beginning in the October number of Everybody's Magazine. Whatever may be said of some of Mr. Lawson's personal enterprise in the past, it is undeniable that he is equipped with knowledge to tell the facts about his subject.

And it is unquestionable that stock-watering has a tremendous influence upon the prices of necessities of life. The evil confronts every investigator and every agency dealing with the problems of adjusting living conditions. It raises itself before the Interstate Commerce Commission, before every body which deals with the relations of capital and labor, before every association or party which seeks to meet complaints of the high cost of living.

It is the thing which the interests which devised it are most determined to perpetuate for it is at the very core of their power. It is by far the largest single item in the high cost of living in this country.

Death of Mrs. Pyles.

Mrs. Della Pyles, wife of Mr. Jet Pyles died in their home at Sidney Mills near Graham station Nov. 18, 1912, aged 41 years, 6 months and 16 days after a lingering illness with lung trouble. She was the mother of 4 children 3 of whom are living, viz: Norman, Claude and Flora. Early in life Mrs. Pyles united the Methodist Episcopal Church. On Oct. 13, 1907 she was received into the Burlington Reformed Church by certificate from the M. E. Church. She was faithful to the services of the church until her health failed and then more than ever before she appreciated the visits of her pastor in the home. Besides her husband and three children she leaves three sisters.

Her funeral was conducted in New Providence Christian Church right by her door by her pastor Rev. J. D. Andrew, assisted by Rev. Mr. Morgan of the Christian Church and Rev. Mr. Walker of the Presbyterian Church and her body was laid to rest in the cemetery by the side of that church. These weeping relatives have the sympathy of many relatives and friends.

There will be two services at Baptist Church Sunday. The pulpit will be occupied by visiting ministers of the M. P. Conference.

The ladies of the Episcopal Guild will have a Doll and Apron sale and Oyster supper Dec. 17, 1912. All cordially invited.

Burlington Choral Society is Reorganized.

The music lovers of Burlington are elated over the reorganization of the Choral Society which took place here Friday evening last, with Prof. Brown of the Normal College Greensboro, conductor. The society was organized four years ago with Prof. Brown as conductor for two years in succession and the third year, owing to Prof. Brown's being abroad, Prof. D. H. Hill of Greensboro served the society. Last year the society took a rest. The society begins this year with about 65 members and with the assurance of a hundred in the near future. Mrs. J. L. Scott, pianist for the society has more than anyone else contributed to the society's success in her untiring musical zeal and enthusiasm.

The concerts given in the spring by the Choral society have heretofore been very successful but the magnificent beginning this year causes this coming concert at the close of the society season to be looked forward to with still greater anticipation.

THE A-B-C OF HIGH-COST LIVING

During the recent campaign there was one issue which in the minds of the people overshadowed all others. Discussion of tariff wrongs and theories, trust regulation and measures of social justice gained attentive hearing. But deep down not to be shaken by any argument or appeal, was the conviction that the necessities of life—food and clothing and rent and transportation—are too high in price. And it was chiefly with the hope of remedying these conditions that millions of Americans voted as they did.

From the manner in which the Democratic and Progressive ballots overwhelmed the Republican vote, it is apparent that a vast majority believed the cure to lie in treating the tariff and trust problems by methods radically different from those pursued by the Republican party.

Undoubtedly there is logic in this demand. Undoubtedly, also, the high cost of living is materially affected by other forces—by congestion of population in cities, by the overproduction of goods, by the wasteful methods of delivering products to the consumer through the hands of heedless middlemen, each of whom extracts a profit.

But there is still another cause, so plain in its operations and so tremendous in its effects that any proposal which ignores it must inevitably fail to solve the problem. We refer to the evil of stock watering—that monstrous system which during the last fifteen or twenty years has loaded down virtually every American industry with billions upon billions of securities representing no investment, but demanding payment of dividends.

Let no one imagine that this system concerns only the interests which manufacture the so-called "securities" and those who invest in them or gamble in them. Every share of stock issued in these great flotations adds its burden to the American people—a burden which is felt in the pocketbook of every American family. There are many reasons why the necessities of life are excessive in cost, but the least potent cause assuredly is not the system which compels the consumer to pay every year billions of dividends upon stocks falsely issued upon inflated values.

This condition is familiar—it may even seem commonplace—to readers of The North American. Again and again in recent years we have pointed out the palpable economic falsity of the system and its inevitable results. Now that the effects have become acute, we are fortunate in being able to cite clear and powerful revelations in support of our reiterated warnings. These will be found in a series of articles by Thomas W. Lawson, of Boston, the first of which is published in the October number of Everybody's Magazine.

Mr. Lawson some years ago performed valued public service by telling in the same magazine the secrets of "frenzied finance," and The North American commended his needed contribution to general knowledge. Later he attempted a stock-jobbing scheme, the ostensible purpose of which was to get millions from the public with which to attack the "System" in the stock market; this plan The North American was prompt to denounce as unsound. Now that he has resumed the task of uncovering the gross evils which he understands so well, we recommend a careful reading of his articles by every citizen.

Heading his November article "The A-B-C of High-Cost Living," Mr. Lawson says that his endeavor will be to treat his subject in terms so direct and in words so simple that readers unfamiliar with the technicalities of commerce, finance and political economy will readily understand what he writes. He defines the four kinds of labor—the labor of body, mind, machinery and capital—which enter into production, and by means of a simple allegorical illustration shows how the products are exchanged in the country's markets, and how, under ideal conditions, all prices would be automatically adjusted to production and consumption. And he makes this obvious deduction:

When the records show that production is greater than consumption and that there is a surplus, and at the same time prices increase instead of decrease, it is proof positive that there is cheating in the price-making of the people's productions.

The only place where cheating can enter into the price-making is in the false measuring, by a trick in the marketplace, of the amount of capital-labor which enters into the production of the world's necessities.

The false measuring is done, he says, through the stock exchange, with the result that, while "prosperity in the United States during the last forty years has been so great that it has struck an average surplus balance each year of more than 2000 millions of dollars, yet the cost of living has increased steadily instead of decreasing."

After showing that only five charges enter price-making of the people's products—raw material, labor, incidentals (government taxes, etc.), capital and profit—Mr. Lawson turns his attention to the stock-watering evil. Here is part of his lucid exposition:

The wealth of the country forty years ago was $25,000,000,000; today it is $131,000,000,000. The $131,000,000,000 is not in the possession of the whole people—the ones who produced it and now number 100,000,000—but ever three-fourths of it is in possession by 10,000 of the 100,000,000 people.

Sixty billion dollars of the nation's wealth is represented in stocks and bonds, the paper titles to ownership to the nation's incorporated industries.

Forty years ago the stocks, and bonds which represented the actual capital employed in the nation's industries ($5,000,000,000) called for an annual interest charge of $250,000,000. That is, in the making of the prices of productions there was added each year to the cost of raw material, labor, incidentals and profit charges $250,000,000, or 5 cents per cent on the capital employed. This was real capital, the accumulated earnings of labor—body, mind, machinery and capital labor.

Today, when the prices of products are made up there is added another charge of $3,000,000,000. The owners of the $60,000,000,000 stocks and bonds take each year, through the cost of the people's living, $3,000,000,000 for which they give nothing in return but the use for a year of the capital the people require in the running of their industries.

The problem of high-cost living centers in this $60,000,000 of stocks and bonds. If any part of it is counterfeit capital, the people are being robbed of all that they pay for the use of the counterfeit part. If forty of the sixty billions are counterfeit, then the people are not only being robbed but enslaved.

Over forty billions of the sixty billions of stocks and bonds capital is counterfeit. It represented when issued no accumulated labor—body, mind, machinery and capital labor. It represented nothing but a trick, and this forty billions of fictitious capital is largely owned by the 10,000 people, who every year receive $2,000,000,000 interest for it.

In other words, 10,000 people collect an annual tribute of $2,000,000,000 from the whole American people. And it is this $2,000,000,000 added each year to the price of the people's necessities which, in conjunction with another enormous amount taken in another way through the stock exchange, has brought high-cost living.

There is a great deal more of this kind of clear explanation, with illustrations taken from the overcapitalization of various industries; and then there is a simple recital of how stocks and artificial fluctuations are used in the great system of stock exchange gambling—all leading to these conclusions:

High-cost living is created by the stock exchange trick. The regulation or destruction of tariff, trust, insurance or transportation frauds, or the money trusts, will not cure high-cost living.

High-cost living can be cured only the closing of the stock exchange as a gambling institution.

If high-cost living continues, it will bring the American people to black, brutal revolution.

We urge every reader of The North American to study the Chapel Hill, Nov. 16.—A vital factor in the life of the State University is the Young Men's Christian Association. An idea of the magnitude of its work can be ascertained by noting some of the facts set forth in a recent report issued by the general secretary of the Association. Its membership at present numbers 326, three fourths of the number being active members. Two meetings are held each week, at each meeting topics of individual and campus life are discussed. 20 members of the Association engage in Sunday School work in seven of the Sunday schools surrounding Chapel Hill as teachers and helpers. For the past two years the Y. M. C. A. has raised each year $500 for the support of a missionary in China.

The American Medical Association has given a $200 award to Dr. W. B. MacNider, professor of pharmacology and college physician of the University. For scientific research for the 1912 award is a recognition of Dr. MacNider's extensive scientific research in the medical world in recent years.

Prof. J. S. Holmes, State Forester, read a paper before the 201st meeting of the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society this week, on the "Forestry for the Eastern North Carolina Lumbermen." In regarding forestry as a financial investment for both lumbermen and landowners of eastern North Carolina, Prof. Holmes gave three precautions that should be headed: The prevention of forest fires, protection of young growth, and provision for a regrowth.

Prof. W. W. Peele, headmaster of Trinity Park School of Durham addressed the Y. M. C. A. at the University this week on the subject of "Safe Principles." The speaker said there were three requisites for goodness: strong conscience, strong will and a strong intellect.

"The North Carolina Booklet," issued from Raleigh quarterly by the North Carolina Society, Daughters of Revolution, carries in this issue two creditable articles on "The forests of North Carolina."

In the series of interviews we go to live on this meager wage! Much less, how are many of them going to live and support a dependent mother, or a crippled brother or sister, or a little child?

What would a woman making these wages do with a church membership? Where would she be welcome, in the clothes she would be obliged to wear?

The question is one for the churches to answer. The need is not for Christian charity, but for Christian justice. The way to get people into the Kingdom of God is first to provide some way whereby they may maintain a decent standing in the brotherhood of man. It is true that "man cannot live by bread alone" but it is doubly true that men and women cannot live without bread at all.

CHILDREN RUN AWAY

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Federal officials this afternoon began an investigation of the stories of two Japanese children who said that they had been sold for $25 each by their parents and had been brought to this country to be trained as athletes.

The children, Yoshi Wakahama, 15 years old and Otome Tamaka, 14 years old, ran away from the home of Kumatra Namba in Chicago, where they were being trained as members of an acrobatic team. The police took them in custody.

State May Rest in Allen Trial Today.

Withevill, Va., Nov. 15.—After the examination of one witness tomorrow, the state expects to rest in the trial of Sidney Allen for the murder of Judge Massie. A large number of witnesses were examined today, all but one of whom had testified at previous trials growing out of the Hillsville tragedy, and their evidence was a repetition of what they related when on the stand before.

Eli A. Packet was a member of the Carroll county jury that convicted Floyd Allen, which conviction precipitated the Hillsville shooting. He was placed on the witness stand today for the first time and partially corroborated the evidence given by deputy Sheriff Fowler to the effect that Sidney Allen shot twice at Judge Massie after the latter fallen out of his chair mortally wounded. He could not positively identify the man he saw doing the shooting as the prisoner.

In cross examining today the defence sought to bring out the position of Sheriff Webb with reference to other court officers when the firing began. The defence contends that the sheriff was shot by one of the others.

THE PICKERTS HAVE A BIG HIT.

That the Pickerts Stockpany! as made a big hit in Columbia was shown by the audience and enthusiastic applause which greeted the opera house last night. The audience was the largest ever attended a Wednesday performance of a reperory company here for many years. The company gave an excellent play of Mrs. Southworth "Isahel," following the closely, with faithful reproductions of the several characters. Val. C. Cleary won his share with two fine illustrations in which he had the Democrats and Bull join in the chorus in turning Pickerts gave a fine singing specialty, and Ed Cox brought down the house with his saxophone and phonos solos.

To night they will "The Fifth Commandment," "The Chief of Police," story of a big city. They are an entire change of speed. A big bargain matinee given Saturday.

Mr. Roosevelt On The Floor

The Progressive Party

If any question exists about the permanence of the Progressive party as a force or as to the value of a stance of what it has accomplished, such doubt certainly be dispelled by Roosevelt's statement last week. Mr. Roosevelt said his declaration that the Progressive party has come to a point that "so far from being the battle has just begun" pointing out that what has actually accomplished in months since the new party founded is "literally unprecedented in the history of free government under representative institutions." His summary of difficulties encountered and results actually accomplished by volunteers hastily brought together is both complete and convincing:

Without much money, any organization, against the wealth of the country, the entire organized ability of the country, the bitter hostility of ninety percent of the press of the country, against the furious opposition of every upholder of special privilege, whether in politics, business, and with the lack of information to the public, the Progressive party has polled between four and one-half million votes, hopelessly beaten one of the parties both in the election and in the popular vote carried several of the important States in the Union, taken second place in the and either first or second in some thirty-seven of the States.

That the rank and file Progressive party is determined and enthusiastic was seen at a great meeting at Boston on the evening of November 9. Mount Temple a throng of thousands cheered as heartily as other thousands did at the Boston Square Garden Progressive meetings. An overflow at Faneuil Hall was equally enthusiastic. The address of Dean Kirchwey, of the Law School, of Winston-Salem, of New Hampshire; Charles Hale, the chairman, others, were all in agreement declaring that the struggle for human rights and social justice to be continued and that effort must and shall be made to perfect the organization of the party. This sentiment was expressed by quoting from an address (progressive paper) "unparalleled by the whole of the world," and, resolutions adopted pledging the party to compromise. A practical demonstration of the earnestness of the party was shown by the subscription on the spot of over eight hundred dollars for the future campaign.
