To Make Demand for New Party Platform.

Washington, Dec. 15.—The Republican national committee, when it meets here Tuesday to determine upon a new party platform, will find itself confronted with a well-defined demand that the proposed new platform take up the framing of a platform for the congressional election fight in 1914.

The framing of the rules of the party has been limited to the discussion of the few months to the proposed platform. The representation of the Southern States is not a convention, but a primary election of delegates in different states is suggested; and that the national committee retire immediately when new members are elected, instead of holding over through the presidential campaign.

Party leaders of pronounced progressive type are now demanding, however, that the Republican forces prepare for the drafting of a platform to be adopted at the proposed national convention and to form the foundation for the Republican fight in 1914 and 1916.

Republican committeemen are arriving in Washington in anticipation of the committee meeting, and advocates of the special convention idea express confidence that a majority of the committee favors their plan.

Former Governor Hadley, of Missouri, will reach Washington Monday and a meeting will be held then of the special "conciliation committee" of Democrats and Republicans, appointed at Chicago last spring, which has been foremost in pushing the program for party reorganization.

Senator Cameron, a leader of the "conciliation" forces, today said he favors the proposed national convention's adopting a new party platform, providing it agrees on a thoroughly progressive platform.

A forest surrounding the Republican meeting was intensified today when Senator Callahan, Republican leader of the Senate, inaugurated a boom for Senator Root, of New York, as a presidential candidate.

Immediately after Senator Root concluded his speech in the Senate on the Currency Bill, Senator Callahan issued a statement lauding Mr. Root as the ablest advocate of sound currency and financial principles in this country. The statement said:

"I lead the Republican party as Senator Root as its candidate for the presidency of the United States. It will give the greatest opportunity that has ever presented itself to the party."

A Correction.

To the Editor of The Dispatch:

In your issue of December 12th, where you give a short notice of the death of Mrs. Jane Sharpe, there were some errors in the notice that I hope you will correct.

Mrs. Sharpe, since the death of her husband, Jeremiah Sharpe, some years ago, has made her home with her son, W. A. J. Sharpe, then a few months with her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Sharpe, and a few months with each of the other children. You were in error when you stated she was at her son's when she died. She was at her daughter's, Mrs. Mary A. Neese, when she was taken sick and died there.

Please print this correction and oblige.

Wm. A. J. Sharpe.

Grey Eagle Killed Near Glencoe.

A grey eagle measuring seven feet and five inches from tip to tip was killed on the river near Glencoe Saturday morning by Mr. James McIntyre. The eagle while flying was shot down and after coming to the ground made an attack on Mr. McIntyre for a fish. Seeing the ugly bill and claws of the eagle Mr. McIntyre lost no time in making a safe shot which cut off the bird's head. The body is a rarity and is on exhibition in front of the Burlington Drug Company. The few is an unusually large one, as those familiar with eagles tell us that five or six feet from tip to tip is a large eagle.

Funeral of Mr. Rich.

The funeral Sunday of Mr. W. H. Rich, of Graham, was one of the largest attended funerals conducted in this section for a long time. The services were conducted from the home by Rev. Curry, pastor of the Methodist Church, assisted by Rev. Murray. Not only was the house filled with people, but the yard also. The floral designs were many and beautiful.

Death of Mr. John Clark.

The community of Saxapahaw was shocked Saturday morning caused by the sudden death of Mr. John Clark, the miller at that place, who had been in his usual health. Mr. Clark was 54 years old; twice married and leaves a wife and several children. Funeral services were conducted Sunday at Antioch, Chatham county.

Frank Flynn Dies at Home Near Raleigh.

Raleigh, Dec. 15.—Dr. S. G. Jott, county coroner, was called to the home of Frank Flynn, between Pine and Stoneville today to hold an inquest over the remains of Flynn, who from all appearances had been killed the Sunday morning previous. Flynn's wife and two children had been away from home for a week, and nothing was known of Flynn's whereabouts until a neighbor went to borrow a car—only to find it was discovered that the man was dead in the house. A door leading to the room in which his body lay had been nailed up and the murderer evidently made his escape from a window, judging by tracks made under the window by some one who had on overshoes.

Flynn was about 45 years of age. He had a reputation for running a blind tiger and handling his own racketeers. The room showed that a terrible battle had been enacted here. Flynn's body was covered with blood. There were several pistol bullet holes in the walls and doors and Flynn had been shot in the back and in the back of the head.

Evidence introduced at the coroner's inquest showed that Flynn was at Ridgeway, Va., Saturday, and was there, and was supposed to have spent Saturday night in a hotel or boarding house at that place. It is probable however, that he left his lodging place during Saturday night or very early Sunday morning for his home. The bed in Flynn's house had not been turned down and he probably arrived there either too late to go to bed Sunday morning or found the party who shot him already there when the battle ensued.

There was no evidence adduced at the hearing to justify even the faintest suspicion as to the perpetrator of the crime, and the affair may always remain a mystery, although efforts will be made to get a clue. The body of Flynn was not decomposed, the cold weather preserving it, but the hand had been eaten away by rats.

It is all right to send poor white folks and niggers to the roads for violating the prohibition law, but when it comes to those of more standing in the community the courts always manage to find a way around it.

The Superintendent announced this morning that the City Graded Schools would close December 19th, for a two-week holiday, opening again January 5, 1914.

The public is cordially invited to attend a box party at Mayor's School House next Saturday night at 7:00 o'clock. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the school.

If the south or any other section of the country has an undue advantage under the present system, it is an argument in favor of rather than against the preferential primary.

Mr. Long's Bill and the...

"The biggest development in our section of the country," said Representative J. Elmer Long, of Graham, who was at Raleigh attending a meeting of the Fire Insurance Investigating Committee of the Legislature, "is the construction of an eight hundred thousand dollar power house by the Piedmont Electric Railway Company."

"The Wise Granite Company, of Richmond, has the contract for the power house and the several dams which the Piedmont Electric Co. will do in its development of power."

"Many people think that the Piedmont Electric Co. is merely a branch of the Piedmont Power Co., the corporation which is doing so much in the way of establishment of the Piedmont section of North and South Carolina. Be that as it may, everybody ought to see the big development that is going on around Burlington, Graham and Haw River."

The Piedmont Electric Company owns the steel car line connecting the three cities that I have just mentioned. It is laying, too, as it is enjoying a good patronage. The same company owns the lighting systems in Burlington and Graham and is setting up the poles preparatory to lighting the town of Melrose with lights."

First National Bank Adapts New Plan for Savings.

The First National Bank announces that they have found and adopted what they have long been looking for—an accurate and simple and inexpensive but rapid system of handling deposits so that they can profitably receive small sums on deposit and allow interest on them. To keep this new feature separate and distinct from their regular Savings Department they have instituted their Ready Money Club. They invite every man, woman or child to join this club and enjoy this special service they now offer. It costs you nothing to join. You have only to go to the bank and open a Ready Money Account. The first thing you do is ready money. It makes the rough places smooth. It solves the problems that constantly perplex and annoy. It is the best friend whom trouble comes. These Ready Money Accounts are arranged for weekly deposits of fifty cents. Deposits may be made in advance to suit the depositor's convenience, but in such case no more interest will be allowed than if deposits are made each week. There are two classes: A and B, and the corresponding weekly deposits are 25c and 50c, but a member can have as many accounts as he desires, so if you wish to do $100 a month or five dollars a week you can do so. All accounts are desired to be closed at the end of the fifth week by a Ready Money Certificate for the amount deposited. Interest is paid at the rate of four per cent per annum, compounded on demand. During the first week deposit period interest is allowed at four per cent per annum and can be drawn in cash when the account has been regularly matured. No interest will be allowed on lapsed accounts. A member's furnished for each account he opens an envelope bearing the account number and the rules governing the account. Should a member lose his envelope and receipts and forget his account number he would still be absolutely safe as the records in the bank would show his name and the amount deposited. It is as easy to acquire a habit of saving as any other habit, but it can be acquired as other habits are—by doing a little at a time. And after all the systematic way is the only way that gets results. You must save money as you earn it a little bit at a time.

We cheerfully recommend this Ready Money Club as an excellent way to achieve the habit.

"My Wife's Relations."

A play of ten characters, "My Wife's Relations," will be pulled off Thursday night, December 18th, at the Burlington Graded School Auditorium, by the Senior Class. The play is full of wit and humor and will be the treat of the season for local talent. The minimum admission price of twenty-five cents to all will be charged. The curtain will be pulled at eight o'clock. If you want to see a good play be sure to attend.

Mrs. O. P. Crowson was hostess last Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock to the Round Dozen, a club which has just been organized for social intercourse among the ladies.

The members are: Mesdames A. D. Pate, president; R. F. DuRant, E. L. Morgan, J. L. Davis, J. S. Frost, C. C. Gentry, J. W. Lasky, E. B. Gentry, W. H. Walker, J. M. Brown, and W. F. Dailey. The meetings will be held twice a month on Thursday. The hostess chooses the form of entertainment. Mrs. Crowson elected to have a progressive rock and it proved very entertaining. The parlor was decorated with ferns and potted plants. The invited guests were Mrs. D. B. Latta and Misses Jordan, Freeman and Johnston. Refreshments in two courses were served.

Misses Nettie and Byrde Dailey entertained the Epworth League in a social meeting at their home Tuesday evening, 8 to 11. There were many guests there, and the evening was very pleasant. Rook was played. Music was furnished by the young ladies present. Rev. T. A. Sikes was present for his last time, as he is transferred to Beaufort. Refreshments were served.

A Ten O'clock Luncheon was given last Thursday night by a select party of the young men of the town at the home of Misses Pearl and Gertrude Elia. Before the luncheon the guests were escorted to The Crotto and drug stores upon returning a complete selected fruit luncheon with sandwiches added was served. Music was occasionally interspersed to add harmony to the occasion. These fortunate enough to be present were: Misses Ruth Lee Holt, Gladys and Lucy Brown, Pearl and Gertrude Elia, Messrs. Jake Murray, Carl Barrett, Ralph Holt, Robert Long and T. K. Hart.

GRAHAM.

The car party given by Miss Mamie at her handsome new home on North Main Street, Friday afternoon, December 14, was elegant in its simplicity. The occasion was the annual meeting of the card club, of which Miss Parker is a member. The members of the club besides Miss Parker are Mesdames Lynn B. Williamson, Edwin D. Scott, J. Elmer Scott, J. J. Barfoot, Misses Kathleen and Blanche Scott, Margaret and James Geley. Besides the regular members the invited guests were Mesdames Banks Williamson, of Mebane; Mel Thompson, of Mebane; J. Jack Scott, Adolph Long, M. R. Reeves, E. S. Parker, J. V. Foneray, and J. Harvey White, of Graham. Four tables of bridge and euchre were enjoyed, after which Miss Parker served an elegant salad course.

Miss Parker is easily one of Graham's most charming hostesses and invitations to her entertainments are pleasantly received.

Horse Meat in Berlin. Berlin, Dec. 12.—The Taegliche Rundschau says that as one consequence of the continued rise in meat prices in Berlin a special municipal slaughter house for horses will shortly be established in Berlin.

An extraordinary story circulated by the Deutsche Orientkorrespondenz from St. Petersburg, declares that a Russian knacker who previously buried the bodies of old horses slaughtered at Reval and Dorpat for their hides has recently been making a big profit by picking his horsemeat and importing it for food into Germany. The story meets with considerable incredulity, as such importation should be impossible under the German regulations, but the Berliner Tageblatt demands an inquiry.

The official figures recently published by the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung showed a considerable increase in the consumption of horse meat.

HAD CATARRH FIVE YEARS.

Mr. Johnson of St. Elmo, Illinois, was troubled five years with catarrh. The catarrh was so severe in his case that his life seemed threatened. As he expresses it himself, he had "one foot in the grave." Of course he tried to get relief. Many practitioners were consulted and a catarrh specialist in St. Louis was tried. He got so weak and thoroughly run down that he declares he could not walk more than a hundred yards without resting. Few people understand that catarrh is a constant drain on the system. The discharge of mucus which is going on in such cases is largely composed of blood serum, and is a great waste. Sooner or later it will weaken the strongest man. According to reports received from Mr. Johnson, he was in a desperate condition, but he found relief from his trouble. We will let him say how he found it. His own words say: "My friends told me to take Peruna, and I did so. I now feel that Peruna has saved my life. It is the best medicine on earth, and I would not be without it." This seems almost too good to be true. No doubt there are some readers that will think so. The above statements, however, can be verified by writing Mr. Johnson. Every home should be provided with the last edition of "The Ills of Life," sent free by the Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.

The Treason of the Senate. The report of the Secretary of the Senate throws a sinister light on the Sybaritism of what was thought to be a regenerated and Spartan body, which has put behind it the luxuries of the obsolete "Millionaires Club." Years ago the marble magnificence of the senate baths shocked the Hon. Victor Murdock, of Wichita. He had fondly believed that there were no more of these Balan follies in the cap-fell of Judas hair. The relentless secretary shows that the government is spending money for bags of salt for tubbing senators. Free salt for senators while the plain people can not get eggs to put it on. Will tribunes of the people like Jimmy Martine and John Sharp Williams consent to pampered splashing? Isn't plain water good enough for them? "Grapefruit knives," too. Is breakfast served in the Senate? Or are grapefruit knives part of a full grape-juice set and a bryanized regimen and regime? "Mineral waters" for senators. Won't honest old Adam's ale do for their lordly stomachs? "Taxicabs" for senators. Where are the Washington street cars? Where is shank's mare? Does the government pay for the plain people's taxicabs in Washington? "Ploss pillows," what are they for? For our purple patricians to go to sleep on when Battle Bob LaFollette is up or to protect from the zephyrs the deforested pate of the Hon. Ollie James? "Bromo Seltzer," does any senator dare to have an aching headache after a night of Nebraska wine? "Grgling oil" is more intelligible. Many conscript throats must be rasped with too sedulous exercise. "Razors." Why not manicure sets? Pond lily," as, those perfumed Helio-gabalusses! "Jamaica ginger," 'tis the whiskey prohibition, but why must the taxpayers be pilled to feed it to these august stomachs? Last, saddest, worst of all; for supplies to the Hon. Thomas Filey Marshall's official automobile, his high-power curule chair, his vice-presidency in circulation, wheels on wheels, $67.46 to $246.30 a month. Besides the wage of his charioter. O frugality, whither are thou fled? O ancient simplicity of early Romans and Hoosiers! O Jeffersonianism! Oh, jiminy! —New York Sun.

Of course that New Bern postmaster was incompetent, but it took a Democrat who wanted the job to find it out. The offices are to be given out and it is but natural that those who want them should be interested. Mr. Hobson may be all right in Alabama, but he is not making much of a hit with the balance of the country. When a majority of women want equal suffrage it will be time enough for the political parties or congress to take it up. There are too many generals among the rebels for us to hope for peace even if they should succeed in driving Huerta out. We are glad that the New Bern postmaster is out, but the fact that he is a Republican should have been reason enough. We are glad that Editor Oliver did not get down and crawl on his belly before anybody in the hope of getting that postoffice job. Cold storage may have something to do with it, but it does not explain why eggs are selling higher in Durham than in Chicago. If those weekly papers that have increased their price of subscription will get it that they may find themselves in easier circumstances. The country may not be ready for nation-wide prohibition, but this will not prevent some people from attempting to get into office on the strength of it.

Cripple Watch Tomatoes Grow.
 Washington, Dec. 10.—Of all the strange letters that reach the government daily, none is stranger than the affidavit of a New York man as to his qualifications for office under the Wilson administration. This letter has just come to the attention of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo.

The gentleman, calmly and confidently let Secretary McAdoo into the dark secret that the United States government is losing money in losing the services of a thoroughly competent man every day that it neglects to put him on its payroll. He spared nothing in his modest appraisal of his own virtues. In fact, he was just the man for almost any job that the Secretary might have at his disposal.

And lest someone would think that his fulsome praise came from an exaggerated or untruthful source, Mr. New Yorker calmly put it all down in black and white, swore to it in the presence of witnesses, and had a notary public examine it, and then put on his big official seal.

All the pathos of life isn't huddled up in the slums of the big cities, reports from field agents of the Department of Agriculture show. Here is the story of a little cripple, whose only joy in life is watching tomatoes grow. She lives in Alabama and the field agent writes:

"Two young girl members of a tomato club, with four friends set out the tomato plants for the little sick girl. She was carried out in a chair to see the fruiting plants, and with tears streaming down her face tried to extend her thanks."

Then there's another girl "whose father is so contrary" that he makes her do all the cooking and washing for four laborers, and won't reward her with even a few cans or new tops so that she may help do some canning with the other girls in the canning club. And a little 12-year-old girl in South Carolina is running a small farm—not much more than a garden patch—because her father is crippled. She even has to follow the plow. Another girl and her grandmother had to clear and fence a "farm" on an Alabama mountain top.

Ex-President Taft on the Monroe Doctrine.

New York, Dec. 11.—"We are international trustees of the prosperity we have and the power we enjoy, and we are in duty bound to them when it is both civil and proper to help our neighbors," declared Former President William Howard Taft tonight in a lecture before the New York Peace Society on the Monroe Doctrine, which he held should be continued in full force despite the hostility to it expressed in some quarters.

"We cannot be too careful to avoid forcing our own ideas of government on peoples, who though favoring popular government, have such different ideas as to what constitutes it," continued Mr. Taft. He alluded to criticism of the application of the doctrine as leading to inter-meddling in the politics of the smaller countries like San Domingo and the Central American republics.

"What we are doing with respect to them," he continued, "is in the interest of civilization and we ought to do it to aid our neighboring governments whether the Monroe Doctrine prevails or not.

"When we come to Mexico, the intervention by force means the expenditure of enormous treasure, the loss of lives and the dragging out of a most tedious year against guerrillas in a trackless country. All that those of us who are not in the government can do, is to support the hands of the President and the Secretary of State and to present to the world a solid front. The present situation illustrates the beneficent influence of the Monroe Doctrine on the attitude of the European powers which look to the United States as a guide in working out a solution."

Mr. Taft alluded to Theodore Roosevelt's visit to South American countries and said he was glad to see that Mr. Roosevelt had sought to impress them with the view of the Monroe Doctrine that the speaker had expressed.

"Indeed," continued Mr. Taft, "he would have helped them and us too far more, if he had confined his lectures to the Monroe Doctrine and had not sought to destroy the independence of the judiciary and demoralize the sense of justice in two continents."

Collects Money to Bury Live Negroes.

Salisbury, Dec. 12.—Claiming to be soliciting funds with which to bury dead negroes, a colored woman has "stung" a number of Salisburyans in the past week. Her plan was to work upon well-known and hospitable white men, soliciting money to bury reputable negroes known to the party from whom the funds were expected.

In one instance it was alleged that Uncle Joe Ballard, now nearing the century mark, was dead and money was wanted to pay his burial expenses. Later in the day the party making the donation found Uncle Joe very much alive. A number of other instances of the same kind occurred, and the solicitor has skipped.

CRITICISM.

The Dispatch invites criticism, we want the honest criticism of our readers as to how they like The Dispatch. Jump upon us with both feet, tell us of our short comings, criticize the news, the paper's makeup, the editorials. Tell us if there is too much politics or not enough. What kind of news you think the paper should contain, is the print large enough do you like large headlines or small ones; in general, do you like the paper, and along what line could improvements be made? Sign your correct name to the article and mail it to or hand it to us. Let us have your opinion.

WHERE TO TRADE.

When we say Burlington is the best place to trade, we mean that you can get the best and the most complete assortment here. There are other firms in Alamance county who carry something as good as those carried here, but they do not carry as many kinds. They do not sell out as often and therefore do not replenish their stock with fresh goods as often as do the live progressive merchants in Burlington. There are some merchants here who are no more progressive than some merchants in other parts of the county, and whose goods are no better, these are the merchants who do not advertise, and therefore they do not sell out and replenish their stock as often as those who let the public know what they have and the price of the same. To those last named, we again say "It Pays to Advertise." Try it in The Twice-A-Week Dispatch, and watch results.

MANY ARE IDLE IN CHICAGO.
Chicago, Dec. 3.—Chicago faces a crisis, caused by an army of thousands of unemployed men, according to a report of the committee on homeless men submitted today at a meeting of representatives of charitable organizations.

These organizations have been overrun with applications for work and shelter and the report demands instant action by the city to meet the situation.

A large number of men ordinarily engaged on railroad construction work are without employment because of the retrenchment policy of most of the roads. Stagnation of the steel industry is another cause.—New York Times, Dec. 4.

Is this not rather a painful picture to think about, right here at Christmas times, when the Divine sayings are so appropriate, "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men" With what heart can these poor unfortunate beings enjoy these sentiments, when their appetites are gnawing into their nobler sentiments and feelings, will the American people ever learn to let well enough alone, so mote it be.

PRINTING THE NEWS.

The Dispatch sometimes prints news that some of our business men would like to suppress, and while we would like to do all we can to meet their views along this line, still it is the functions of a Progressive Newspaper to print the news without stint or color. If The Dispatch knows itself, and we think she does. We want to be honest with our readers and fair to our business men, we are a booster, not a kicker, but we cannot boost by lying, if the truth will not suffice to keep the patronage and good will of our advertisers, then we must part company, and if The Dispatch cannot live by truth, then we will die by truth. We do not mind saying that our advertisers are among the best and finest merchants in this community, because this would be literally the truth, we do not mind saying our advertisers are the most wide awake and conscientious business men to be found anywhere, and that they will treat you white, because this would be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, but when we say these things we must be excused from further coloring of existing conditions, if the truth about present or future conditions hurt your business, and makes people buy more conservative, then it will have to hurt so far as The Dispatch is concerned. We may die for the want of patronage, but we will not die for the want of truthfulness, and honesty of purpose. Impress this upon your memory for future consideration, if may be worth something to you.

BETTER NOT LET HIM GO.

The Democrats must be rich indeed in men possessing qualifications for office which require very exceptional equipment, if they can afford to let go a man like Bank Examiner Fred A. Hull. Starting out with a peculiar mental and temperamental adaptation for handling the intricacies of banking facts and figures, Mr. Hull has a life of experience in this work. We doubt very much if there are men at the disposal of the political powers who can step into his shoes and fill them. Such men are drawing large salaries from banks and similar concerns.

To displace Mr. Hull would be of very doubtful political value—leaving considerations of the public service out of consideration entirely. He has never done very much for the Republican party, and since he has been in office has done nothing for it, except to reflect credit upon it by his work. No man who takes his place and does very much for any party.

Mr. Hull it is stated, may be retained by the treasury department. That, at least, sounds like sense.—Greensboro News.

The above warning is likely to fall upon deaf ears. What does the Democratic party care about efficiency when the pie is in sight? This truth has been demonstrated many times since they came into power. While the Democrats were out in the cold, regarding pie, they were the warmest champions of Civil Service, but no sooner than they became victors and the thought of office beseged them, than they said Civil Service was a farce, and they were always against it any way. However The Dispatch believes in the old saying: "The Victor Belongs the Spoils." It is the inconsistency of the Democratic party that we make mention of these things. The Republican party has always advocated what it believed in, and this fact has won them many friends they would not otherwise have had. What ever may be the sins of omission and commission of the Republican party, they have always had the manhood and frankness to stand up for what they believed in and advocated. Can the Democrats truthfully say this, well hardly—

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

(Continued from Page One) — history of the west is aware that among all the pioneers no shaping hand has left a deeper impress than that of the preacher. The problem of securing an adequate supply of the right kind of ministers, and of maintaining them on a proper scale at the end of their days, belongs to the realm of good citizenship, as well as of religion.

While the distribution of the land was under way, old Caleb, with the privilege of long friendship, asked a special favor of his comrade Joshua. We may say he was exercising "pull." But why? Did he want a fat slice of land, a choice portion, a safe corner? Was he asking to be let in on the ground floor? Not Caleb! He craved as a special boon, "Give me giants and hill country to conquer."

We lift up our heads as we look at the old hero. Our blood courses faster and our nerves tingle. Here is this old brave scout of 45 years ago still true to type. He was courageous then; he is just as courageous now. The fire of youth is in his eye; there is no "dead line" except for deadened hearts. Burning mightily in his heart was the old ambition to conquer that hill country with its giants, which had so frightened his fellow spies. Now, the pertinacious old warrior wants to prove at this late day that he was right all along. The matter touched the honor of Jehovah, and Caleb wanted to vindicate it. So he had the fighters joy of winning over a formidable adversary.

The race is slandered by those who say that everybody is looking for an easy job, a "soft snap." Far from it. There is that in the common heart which responds to the call to hardship. What war among freemen ever failed of volunteers! The hardest mission fields find it easiest to get recruits. One reason that church work does not prosper more is that it has been established too much upon a basis of indulging and coddling Christians. If members were given harder tasks the response would be better. Phillips Brooks knew the heart of man when he sounded the trumpet call: "Do not pray for easy lives; pray to be stronger men. Do not pray for tasks equal to your tasks but pray from power to equal your tasks."

Some of us are busy watching the waves that we overlook the tide. We are so interested in battles that we do not see the outcome of the war. The habit of taking long looks belongs to the wise. Patience is God-like; for with Him "a thousand years are as a day." God takes time for the working out of his plans. He is quite used to reversing today's verdict tomorrow.

An early instance of "recall" is in this lesson story. Look back 45 years, to Kadesh-Barnea. Do you see the Israelites voting down Caleb and Joshua and their report? They discredited these men utterly; in fact tried to mob them. Now, where are those voters? And where the winning ticket of ten spies? Ah, the decision has been recalled, the judgment reversed, and Joshua and Caleb comrades in conquest are vindicated before the nation. As has been true countless times since, the minority was right and the majority wrong.

That is the fashion of history. The martyr fires of yesterday are the beacon lights of today. The real victors all down the centuries, have been those who dared stand fast by truth and conscience. The Promised Land—all promised lands—may surely be won; let us stand by that faith in God and man, and never desert the eternal program for the moment's advantage. It seems a far cry from Israel in Egypt, a horde of slaves, to Israel triumphing in Canaan, but that is only typical of God's programme for human life."

At the Aycock Graded School, of Haw River, an unusual treat is in store for everyone. Carl Jansen is there on the night of the 18th. This is enough.

What Has Become of Secretary Redfield?

What has become of the Honorable William C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce and high priest of trade in the Wilson Cabinet? For weeks the winds that blow from the south have borne to us no sound of his voice. Moons have waxed and waned since this apostle of the new rule of business has given utterance to public words of wisdom and of warning. Why is there this silence along the Potomac?

Who and what has fettered his voice and numbed his capacity? What power has interfered with the crusade which he so joyfully marked out for himself?—What has become of this glorious expedition in which he was to play the role of St. George and go forth and slay the dragon of manufacturers' greed? Why did he sound the trumpet so loud if action is to be confined to threat?

Only a few months have passed since Mr. Redfield splendidly announced that a low tariff ought not to injure business, and, moreover, would not be permitted to do so. He, himself, would prevent it. Manufacture must keep on, even though duties fall. Woe unto that man who reduced wages or cut down his force of wage-earners. The minions of Redfield would swoop down upon him, and dire and awful punishment would follow.

Business should obey a new law, the law of Redfield. This says that a manufacturer must operate at a must pay wages from which he is not to get a margin of profit. Water must run up hill, or be declared a malefactor and pay that penalty. The Secretary of Commerce was to be the Jack-the-Giant-Killer of the Administration. He would beard the ogres of industry in their dens. Not a loom must falter, not a factory wheel cease to turn.

The result of the new tariff is the recruiting of a new army of unemployed. With each week there is new addition to the ranks of idle workmen. Across the State, the steel workers are facing thinner pay envelopes, and fewer. The new Wilson law is the one thing that is constantly at work.

That which Mr. Redfield declared would not happen, and could not, is now taking place. There are in existence the very conditions regarding which he threatened an inquisition should they occur. He asserted that a reduction of either wage or hours of labor would mean a conspiracy on the part of manufacture to discredit the new tariff law, an industrial treason that would be promptly investigated, convicted and punished.

Where is Mr. Redfield in this crisis? Where is his threatened inquiry that was to prove that only inefficient manufacturers needed tariff protection? What becomes of his loudly-applauded tariff speeches on the floor of the House of Representatives, those very speeches which won him his place in the Cabinet, in which he talked so learnedly on cost of manufacture and efficiency of labor? Where is his proof of "conspiracy?" This is no time for a master of subject and a miracle worker to be silent and inactive. Where is Mr. Redfield?—Philadelphia Press.

Because I Loved Her I Killed Her.
New York, Dec. 12.—The confession of Hans Schmidt to the murder of Anna Amuller was read into the record of his trial today by Police Inspector Faurot. It was Faurot who arrested Schmidt, and to him the one-time priest told the story of his crime.

Faurot, with dramatic gesture and word, re-enacted the scenes of the confession. From the prisoner's dock Schmidt viewed the procedure with unchanged stolidity.

"I slapped Schmidt on the back," said the inspector, "and said 'Come now, tell us the whole truth,' Schmidt buried his face in his hands and began to cry. Presently he said 'I killed her because I loved her.'"

"Father Quinn, who was with me asked 'Are you a regularly ordained priest of God?' and Schmidt replied 'I was ordained by St. Elizabeth.'"

Instead of swearing the State's alienists who were expected to testify today, Assistant District Attorney Stevenson called Dr. Arnold G. Leo of his city.

Dr. Leo testified that Schmidt and the Amuller girl came to his office last April and expressed their intention of being married.

"On September 4, two days after the murder," said the doctor, "he called at my office and asked that a V-shaped wound on his right hand be treated. He said he had had an accident."

Ambitious Girl Weds to Finish Education.
Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 10.—That she might complete her education and finish her course at Polytechnic High School, Miss Leah Jeanne Fontenette consented to change her name and became Mrs. William Thomas Grey. Before her marriage Mrs. Grey studied at night school and worked during the day, but she found the double duty too hard. Her fiance was eager to have her continue her studies, so she decided to enter high school here via matrimony.

Miss Fontenette, which name is inscribed on the school roll is from Cuba, though her father was a native of Paris. Having travelled a great deal, she longed for an education, but her father's death prevented her from attending school. She studied stenography and finally secured a position in the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce where she became acquainted with many well educated people. This fired her ambition and she entered night school.

While in Pasadena Miss Fontenette met Mr. Grey. "I had not been going out at all," she said, "but one evening a friend invited me to a theater party. There I met Mr. Grey. He proposed to me that night. I did not listen. However he said he would come back at the end of a month to get me."

Mr. Grey returned in a month. Miss Fontenette protested that she wished to finish her education.

"That's all right, little girl," he said. "We'll get married and you can go to day school."

They were married the following month.

SPECIAL MEETING OF REPUBLICANS.

Campaign Committee for a Reapportionment of Convention Members Cuts Southern Delegation.

Washington, Dec. 12.—The National Republican Congressional Campaign Committee went to record here today as favoring a special national convention of the Republican party next year and suggested three plans for reapportionment of delegaterrepresentation to future conventions. It was resolved by the committee that in its judgment:

"A special national convention of the Republican party should be held as soon as practicable for the purpose of taking action relative to the apportionment of delegates to the national nominating conventions of the party; to the unit of representation; to the full recognition of the primary laws of the various States pertaining to the election of delegates and members of the national committee and the time when the latter shall take office, and to such other matters as may seem desirable."

This resolution will be submitted to the Republican National Committee which meets here next Tuesday, together with the plans for reapportionment of the delegates.

The present apportionment of delegates provides for four delegates-at-large from each State, two delegates-at-large for each representative-at-large in Congress and two delegates from each Congressional district.

The present delegate representation is 1,062.

The first suggestion of the Congressional Committee which would make the total delegate representation, 1,044, is as follows:

"For each of such districts in which the vote cast for the Republican candidate for presidential electors in the year 1908 was not more than 40 per cent. of the total vote cast for presidential electors in such district in such election, one delegate; for each of such districts in which such Republican vote was 40 per cent. but not more than 60 per cent. two delegates; for each of such districts in which such Republican vote was more than 60 per cent. three delegates. In any State where a reapportionment act has not been passed to provide the full number of Congressional districts such State shall be entitled to delegates-at-large for each representative, comparing the full vote of the State with the total Republican vote in the State.

Upon this basis representation from the Southern States would be diminished. For example, Alabama would be reduced from 24 to 15 delegates; Georgia from 28 to 18; South Carolina from 18 to 11 and other Southern States accordingly.

New York would be increased from 90 to 102, Massachusetts from 36 to 44, Illinois from 58 to 61 and so on.

Alternative reapportionment plans suggested are:

Four delegates-at-large for each State and in addition thereto one delegate for each ten thousand votes or major fraction thereof cast for the Republican candidate for Presidential electors in 1908 or four delegates-at-large for each State and for each Congressional District one delegate for each ten thousand votes or major fraction thereof cast for the Republican presidential electors in 1908. Provided that each Congressional district shall have at least one delegate and there shall be two for each Congressman-at-large.

The former plan would cut the total delegate representation to 945 and the latter to 1,016. Members of the committee who joined in support of the resolutions represented twenty States.

Certainly that congressional lobby exonerated Mr. Webb—and all the rest of them.

While Mr. Wilson cannot hurry congress he has found a way to keep it at work.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed executed to the undersigned on the 1st day of February, 1913, Cuba, though her father was a native of Paris. Having travelled a great deal, she longed for an education, but her father's death prevented her from attending school. She studied stenography and finally secured a position in the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce where she became acquainted with many well educated people. This fired her ambition and she entered night school.

F. L. WILIAMSON,

Girl's Soprano Voice Calms Raging Bull.

Sunbury, Pa., Dec. 10.—Her almost hypnotic control over a young a vicious bull caused Miss Rosie Yocum, eighteen years old, of White Deer near here, to easily save the life of James Wertz, fifty years old, who was being gored to death.

Wertz was in the barnyard while the young woman was in another part milking cows. The bull refused to leave its stall, when he prodded it with a pitchfork handle. It made a lunge, knocked him down, and plunged its horns into his face and body.

Hearing his cries, Miss Yocum ran out and called "Billy, Billy!" to the enraged animal. As though she had poured oil on troubled waters the effect of her musical soprano voice was wondrous. The bull stopped and slowly walked over to her side, where it stood contentedly, allowing her to rub its nose, while the injured man crawled away.

He was rushed to the Williamsport Hospital, where he is suffering from a broken jaw, terrible lacerations of the face and possible internal injuries. Miss Yocum had petted and fed the bull ever since it was a calf, and it will follow her anywhere.

Presidential Primaries and the South.

We wonder if there ever will arise a national issue that cannot be somehow connected with the Sacred Doctrine of States' Rights by those who are willing to give the time and trouble to so connect it? The proposal embodied in the President's message concerning presidential primaries has evoked a howl to the effect that the South will be eternally ruined if the plan goes into effect, because it would wipe us out of existence in so far as the selection of a President is concerned.

It has been vociferously pointed out that if the votes of the people were counted as a whole, instead of by states, the South's representation would be materially reduced, for we haven't votes enough to maintain our present standing. The gentlemen who take this position are particularly scandalized by the proposal for the abolition of national conventions as they are at present organized; they seem to believe that in the national convention lies the palladium of State's Rights, and if the convention is abolished that doctrine will go with it.

But why will the institution of the new sort of convention necessarily mean the destruction of the doctrine of States' Rights? As we understand it, the convention would be composed of candidates; necessarily, in one party there cannot be more nominees than there are offices, and the present state delegations consist of representatives for each congressional district. Wherein is the essential difference in sending the congressmen themselves, and sending two delegates for each congressman, in so far as the numerical representation of the State is concerned?

Mr. Wilson claims to be a Democrat. He was elected to the presidency as the nominee of the Democratic party. But the doctrine of States' Rights is one of the mudsills of Democracy. Do the gentlemen mean to assert that the Democratic party has elected a President who forthwith abandoned one of the foundation principles of that party?

There is one institution, however, that would be utterly destroyed by such an innovation. That is the "party worker," who never has held an office, who never could be elected to one, and who, therefore, never runs, but who, nevertheless, wields a tremendous influence in convention. This is the gentleman commonly known as the boss. It is probably too much to expect that the new system will destroy him altogether, but it would certainly make his work vastly more difficult, and naturally he is bitterly opposed to it.

But to save us we cannot see where anybody else stands a chance to lose by the President's idea; in fact, we have a suspicion that the vote of the average, North Carolinian would count for far more rather than less, under that plan. And since it is such an evident proposition that the machine politician stands to lose all and gain nothing by it, when we see a statesman bitterly denouncing the whole business we forthwith begin to speculate as to the real cause for his anguish.—Greensboro News.
