

Gold in Quarries
 Jan. 22.—There is a prospect that there is to be a real gold boom in the Quarries. Scores of these of Leadville, Deadwood and Cripple Creek may be repeated especially if the gold discovery recently made two and one-half miles north of this place by J. G. Mease on his homestead in his Three-Fly mine turns out to be the bonanza upon more thorough development than it appears to be now.

Real gold has been discovered. Gold that one can see in the rock with the naked eye. Gold ore that the Government assay office at Philadelphia says runs $18.60 per ton, with the assay certificate signed by the assayer with a statement from the director of the mint. Rich enough by far to be worked at an enormous profit, with apparently countless tons of rock in the ground where for thirteen years old Mr. Mease, now seventy years old, has toiled in his tunnel in the ravine below his house as time and money would permit.

The mine lies between two high mountains, a quarter of a mile from the Mease residence. From the house the path has been worn smooth and deep by thirteen years of travel back and forth by this persistent old man, firm in his faith that some day he would go down the hill in the morning a poor man and come back up at night rich beyond his fondest dreams.

The gold is scattered through the rock in different places in very minute particles, being rarely discernible. Mr. Mease terms it flour gold, free milling. Several times he has pounded up pieces of the rock very fine, he says, and panned it, getting a recovery in the bottom of the pan of flour gold mixed with particles of heavy sand, of which the rock is partly composed. He further states that the gold is of a much higher grade than California gold.

The character of the ore leads to the belief that it can be profitably treated with a simple stamp-mill.

This is not the first discovery of gold in Marion and Baxter counties, in Arkansas, but the assays showed such small returns that commercially the ore had no value. In some instances gold has also been found associated with iron ore and iron pyrites in small quantities, but was not of commercial value because it could not be separated successfully because the per cent. to the ton was too small to pay.

Except a few wild-catters, no one has ever looked for the richer minerals in the hills, the miners and prospectors devoting all their time and research of the prospecting for and mining of lead and zinc. There are legends, however, that have been handed down year after year from father to son that tell of gold in the hills, of Spaniards mining here in the early days and of mines known to the Indians. These have been regarded for the most part as mythical. It may be possible that the cave in which Mr. Mease started his tunnel was the working of some Spaniard and that by chance he discovered a location that had been worked for gold before.

Aid Non-Commissioned Officers From Islands.
 Washington, Jan. 22.—Regulations which it is hoped will allay grievances of non-commissioned officers in the Philippines who reached that rank in their own regiments, but who if they should re-enlist in another regiment in the United States after their enlistment has expired in the Philippines would simply be privates, are forthcoming from the War Department. According to the Secretary there has been considerable dissatisfaction among non-commissioned officers in the Philippine service because of the fact that when they recruited in another regiment in the United States they have to do so as privates. They cease to be non-commissioned officers the instant they enter another regiment.

"We are going to correct this by regulations so as to continue the non-commissioned officers in regiments in this country," Secretary Garrison has informed Representative Anthony, of Kansas. "Those who have been non-commissioned officers in the Philippines will be brought over here and attached as non-commissioned officers and their places taken by others. This does not require legislation. We are going to exchange sergeants."

"As for the permanent stationing of regiments in the Philippines, Secretary Garrison says it is saving of money to the Government. 'I don't think it is detrimental to the health of the men for their three years or so the officers' he declared. 'It saves travel and the permanent stationing of those regiments in the Philippines is saving money to the government.'"

Smallpox Scare Leads to Clerk's Vaccination.
 Altoona, Pa., Jan. 22.—Officials and clerks in the Pennsylvania Laboratory Building here were much relieved today when they found that what had at first been diagnosed as smallpox was only measles. A clerk in Master Mechanic J. C. Mengle's office became ill and skin eruptions on his body led the attending physician to pronounce his ailment smallpox.

Doors were locked and the one hundred or more men detained until their clothing could be fumigated and the suites disinfected. Some clerks were escorted to a doctor's office and vaccinated. Today it was found that the cause of the scare had only a bad case of measles.

President Does Not Consider Draft of Bills Was Final.
 Washington, Jan. 23.—The anti-trust legislative program as outlined in bills made public yesterday is not the last word in proposed remedial legislation to regulate big business. That the tentative measures submitted may be altered or extended was emphasized today in both branches of Congress, and the President let it be known that he did not consider that the forms of the bills drafted were final.

Pursuant to the purpose of administration leaders to exhaust the subject it was determined by the House Judiciary and Senate Interstate Commerce Committees not to introduce at this time the measures relating to prohibition of interlocking directorates, definitions of restraints of trade and specification of "cut throat" competition. Hearings on questions are to be held before the bills go to Congress. The Interstate Trade Commission bill introduced yesterday will be taken up by the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, which they may see fit to alter the provisions suggested by the Judiciary Sub-Committee and Senator Newlands, chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

The fifth of the proposed bills, that to authorize federal regulation of railroad securities, probably will not be drawn for several weeks. As a basis for this measure, however, a bill introduced some time ago by Representative Adamson, of Georgia, probably will be taken.

Plans for the hearing now are engaging attention. Representative Clayton has called a meeting of the Judiciary Committee tomorrow to fix a course of procedure. When the Democrats of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee met today to discuss the subject the suggestion was made that hearings should be conducted jointly by the House and Senate Committees in order to expedite certain of the bills.

Late today Representatives Clayton, Carlin and Floyd of the Judiciary sub-committee conferred with Senator Newlands and other Democrats of the Interstate Commerce Committee, including Senators Smith of South Carolina; Pomerene, Thomas, Myers, Robinson, Saulsbury and Thompson.

"We are exchanging views," said Representative Carlin later; "going over the bills studiously with a view to determining where they may be improved and to insure harmonious action upon any changes that may be suggested."

Members of both committees, after discussing the question of making the bills party measures through caucus action, expressed the hope that it would not be necessary to handle them in this way. In this connection:

Senator Newlands pointed out that minority members would be given opportunity to participate in deliberations on the bill at hearings and through consultation with the committee.

Another joint conference of the House and Senate Committees will be held tomorrow.

Exports of United States Show Increase.
 Washington, Jan. 22.—The foreign commerce of the United States in the calendar year 1913 approximated one and three-quarter billion dollars of imports and two and one-half billion of exports. The imports of the eleven months ending with November were 1,609 million, and should the December imports equal those of November, the total for the full year would be $1,756,000,000. The exports of the eleven months ended with November were 2,251 million, and should the December exports equal those of November, the total would be $2,497,000,000. This estimate would make the excess of exports over imports approximately 740 million dollars.

The figures of exports and of excess of exports over imports will exceed those of any earlier year. The largest export in any preceding calendar year was that of 1912, which showed a total of $2,399,217,983; and as the eleven months ended with November are 102 million in excess of the corresponding period of the preceding year, the estimate of approximately two and one-half billion for 1913 seems to be justified. The excess of exports over imports in the eleven months ended with November was 642 million dollars, and for the single month of November 97 million, thus apparently justifying the estimate of 740 million excess of exports for the full year.

In imports, the total for 1913 will be less than that of 1912, but larger than that of any year preceding 1912. This decline in imports in 1913 is due in part in reductions in prices of certain articles imported. While the quantity of sugar imported in the ten months ended with October exceeded that of the corresponding period of 1912 by 368 million pounds, the value of this larger quantity imported during the 1913 period was 22 million dollars less than that of the corresponding period of 1912.

Coffee imports are much below the 1912 figures for the ten months ended with October 1913, being 635 million pounds against 752 million in the same period of last year and the value but 80 million dollars, against 104 million dollars in the corresponding period of last year. Tea shows a fall in imports of one and one-half million dollars in value. Manufacturers' materials show, as a group, a decline of about five per cent. when compared with the corresponding period of last year, this being due, in part, to a reduction of prices and in some instances, a reduction in quantity. Imports of crude rubber, for example, show for the ten months ended with October a reduction of a little over one million pounds in quantity, but a reduction of 16 million dollars in value. Copper imports show an increase in quantity over the corresponding period of last year, both in ore and in the group, pigs, bars, old and ingots. Raw silk shows a marked increase in the quantity imported in 1913.

Gamble for a Girl and Loser Skips With the Stakes.
 Rolette, N. D., Jan. 24.—James and George Belnap, brothers and suitors for the same girl, played poker to determine which should have a "clear way" to the girl's affections.

James won and told the girl, Miss Jessie Peltier, their method of selection. They arranged to be married.

When James returned home, George was absent, but he thought nothing of it until morning when investigation was made resulting in the discovery that George, the poker game loser, had eloped with the girl and that they had gone to Canada.

The parties live in the Turtle mountain district.

Margaret Wilson Climbed a Pole.
 New York, Jan. 22.—Margaret Wilson, a young girl, climbed up the side of the White Star Majestic at Quarantine today to greet her sister Jessie, who returned from a trip with her husband, Francis James Sayre. Miss Margaret went down the bay on the steamer cutter, Manhattan with Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port. The sea was slightly rough and the rope was made fast about Miss Wilson's waist as a precaution.

During the rough weather that the Majestic experienced Mrs. Sayre was thrown against the door of her state room, wrenching her wrist. It was necessary to carry it in a sling for a day or two, but when the ship docked today she was experiencing no ill effects from the injury.

The Real Bryan Conspiracy.
 Once more have the foundations of this country of ours been tested and found true and solid. How easily the nation has survived the mental earthquake of a week ago, when the thrilling announcement was made that there was a dire conspiracy abroad in the land to make trouble between the President and his Secretary of State. And this plot, so the story ran, had for its object no less fearful happening than the retirement of Mr. Bryan from the Cabinet.

The lurid lightning of detail accompanied this thunderous uncovering of the conspiracy. It was a plot of the guilty rich. These were afraid of the influence of the self-acknowledged Commoner upon the President, fearful of the power that the only real simon-pure, name-blown-in-the-bottle, friend of the people was acquiring at Washington, frightened at his control of legislation and administration policies. Therefore, the horrible and awful plot to part these life-long friends of a few months standing, and thus to deprive the nation of the services of the Nebraska altruist.

Barely a week has elapsed, and already the dreadful conspiracy has passed into the attic of forgotten things. The world wags on as if no such danger had ever threatened it. The Ship of State runs on even keel again. There are voices in the street and in the meeting places of men, as of yore. Instead of a bomb that should shake the earth and rend the clouds, it turns out to be but a big rubber ball that hit the ground and bounded harmlessly away.

What a splendid fairy tale it was, almost like our childhood's story of Little Red Riding Hood, with the fierce wolf, the tall trees of the forest and the trust child. What a novel attempt to secure the sympathy of the people for the man who is serving his country at as large financial advance from the current wage paid to other members of the Cabinet. What a splendid myth, and how small the attention it received.

If there is a conspiracy to throw the apple of discord between the White House and the State Department, to bring about such a state of things that there must be a new chief for our foreign relations, the arch conspirator, is William Jennings Bryan. He is the one who is doing the things that would bring this result.

It is Mr. Bryan himself who has made popularity and puff his watchwords. He is building up a Bryan colony among the officeholders of the Wilson administration. Whether it is at the embassy at St. Petersburg, in the legations among the far-off lands of South America or in the position of court marshal in the city of Washington, it is the same policy. Bryan men must be put on guard. Also, Bryan pockets must be kept filled by well-paid lectures and speeches.

It is the Nebraskan himself who is showing that he has neither the acquirements nor the gifts for a Secretary of State. It is to him that we owe the policy of mystery and meandering that rules his Department. A man who in times of peace is a mortification to the country, and in times of danger would be a real peril to the nation, is a conspiracy of his own against his retention in office. The arch conspirator against the present Secretary of State is Mr. Bryan.—Press.

Huerts, according to announcement, is again about to resign, but it isn't worth while losing sleep over such a regular thing as that.

Congressman Moon, of Tennessee does not recognize the Civil Service declaration of the Democratic national platform, but he has nothing on Dr. Wilson who does not recognize the one-term declaration.

Missing Girl Finds Herself.
 Chicago, Jan. 24.—Seventeen year old Judith Klausner, of Dusseldorf, Germany, has been found. The girl, who had kept Lieut. Joel Smith and more than a dozen detectives searching for her the last three days, walked into the Town Hall station yesterday afternoon.

There was battle in her eye. "Why is it," she said, waving an afternoon newspaper in the face of the astonished desk sergeant, "that you put my picture in the paper?" I should like to know.

Lieutenant Smith took the girl into his private office. There she told her story.

"I am the daughter of Max Klausner, of Dusseldorf. He formerly was a wealthy cigaret manufacturer, but lost nearly all of his fortune through bad investments. I attended a private school at this time, but in order to help my family I stopped my studies to go to Bonn and take up dress-making.

"Last summer my mother and I discussed setting up a dressmaking establishment of our own. It was decided that I should come to the United States to learn American dress-making. So it was that four months ago I found myself here in Chicago, living with my cousins, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Klaus, of 3735 Greenview avenue.

"Shortly after arriving here I tried to get a position with a dressmaking establishment. I finally obtained work with a firm named Kussbach, or Korshback, with offices in the Zeigfeld Theater building. But the pay—well, it was $1.25 a week. Can a girl live on that? No. So I quit, after three days of work. I have since been there twice to get my pay for those days, but each time they said that the pay day had been changed.

"Well, after that I tramped the streets every day looking for another position in a dressmaking establishment. I could not get one. My cousins became impatient that I get work of some sort, even as a servant girl. You see their schooling was somewhat different from mine, and they did not realize how hard it was for me to accept a position of that kind.

"I finally went to work in the home of a family in Rogers Park. The work was disagreeable for me, but I managed to do it for three weeks. One day, though, my mistress made an unpleasant remark. I told the landlady about it and the mistress overheard. She discharged both of us."

J. J. Whitley, 318 South Street, Durham, N. C., says: "For some time my kidneys gave me a great deal of trouble and the kidney secretions were too frequent and painful in passage. I suffered from dull pains in my back and though I used several kinds of medicine, I did not improve. A friend finally told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a supply. Two boxes were all that was needed to drive away the trouble. It gives me pleasure to confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. The benefit they brought me has been lasting."

The trustees of the Philadelphia Produce Exchange attribute the rising cost of living to the fear of "fool legislation," which they say prevented old storage men from preserving a sufficient quantity of food products. After viewing the prices obtained for the stuff they did sell it must have been anguish to some of these gentlemen to reflect that after all they guessed wrong.

AN INCESSANT COUGH.

A severe cough is always a grave symptom. It may not indicate organic disease of the lungs. Even though the cough is a functional disturbance it is of sufficient gravity to demand prompt attention.

The dropping of mucus from the back part of the nose into the throat indicates nasal catarrh. Sometimes this goes on a long time before the patient pays any attention to it. It is stated on good authority that mucus dropping into the throat in this way is apt to excite catarrh of the stomach. At any rate, the condition ought to be corrected as soon as possible.

Mrs. Bourland, of Frankton, Texas, found after using Peruna that not only did the incessant cough disappear, but the dropping of mucus into the throat had also ceased. Read what she says:

"For twenty-three years I was a constant sufferer from chronic catarrh. I had a severe misery and burning in the top of my head. There was almost a continual dropping of mucus into my throat, which caused frequent expectoration. My entire system gradually became involved, and my condition grew worse. I had an incessant cough and frequent attacks of bilious colic, from which it seemed I could not recover. My bowels also became affected, causing alarming attacks of hemorrhage.

"I tried many remedies, which gave only temporary relief, or no relief at all. I at last tried Peruna, and in three days I was relieved of the bowel derangement. After using five bottles I was entirely cured.

"I most cheerfully recommend the use of Peruna to any one similarly afflicted."

Peruna also cures the most obstinate cases of nasal catarrh, rhinitis, and other ailments of the nose.

Stay Away From Pacific Coast Thousands Starving There.

Clinton, Jan. 22.—Stay away from the Pacific coast, thousands are starving there now. This is the warning contained in a staff special to the Atlanta Journal from Jack Jenks, dated San Francisco, January 1. The correspondent of the Atlantic paper says the army of the unemployed in California, Oregon and Washington is as large as Uncle Sam's entire army and there is no work and little food for them. The dispatch follows:
 There is as many unemployed on the Pacific coast this winter as the entire standing army of the United States.
 In California the number alone approximates 100,000.
 San Francisco's jobless are estimated at 20,000; those in Los Angeles at 35,000; Portland's and Seattle's at about 20,000.
 And on the heels of this congestion of the destitute in the larger cities, has followed the biggest crime wave in years.
 Harrassed by hunger and responsibility for distressed families, thousands of law-abiding men are on the brink of desperate measures.
 In Portland they have already begun to "rush" the restaurants, demanding food.
 The calling of a special session of the Legislature to deal with the acute problem is being urged in California, local relief measures having proven entirely inadequate.
 This is part of the price the West coast is paying for the alluring but lying advertisements of big business to flood the many markets of California, Oregon and Washington—to bring down the price of muscle and sweat—as well as the enticement of big real estate corporations.
 Hope of employment with the 1915 exposition has greatly stimulated the influx to San Francisco. Here certain railroads' advertisements are blamed.
 The utility of this hope is apparent in the announcement of the exposition comptroller that there are already over 22,000 applicants on the waiting list.
 Then take Los Angeles. Not an industrial city, the demand for labor is never very large. But big business, with its fight to preserve the "open shop" in every way encourage a glut of idle labor tending to lower wages.
 Portland, normally the winter stamping grounds of thousands of idle timber and construction workers, suspended at this season has watched the problem grow even more acute this year.
 Here, too, the employers' association with their "open shop" encouraging the influx.
 Seattle finds itself in a similar situation, with hordes seeking a hand-to-mouth existence.
 "The hardest winter in years"—everywhere this qudisisting statement is being made.
 The holidays brought out the sharp contrast between joyous opulence and abject distress in blunt fashion, the shoppers running the gauntlet of the army of destitute, existing on street doles.
 In growing alarm, municipalities have passed emergency employment and charity measures, but—
 No steps have been taken for a fundamental solution of thep robiem of unemployment, increasing every year.
 Thousands of sullen, hungry men desperate for a job and thankful for even a doughnut diet, thronging the streets about the employment agen-

...of Pacific coast cities.
 ...of destitute which approx-
 ...the strength of our standing
 ...and militia!
 Men cursing government and "soo-
 ...ing red" in their saloons!
 These are harsh but faithful pic-
 ...ures of conditions on the Pacific coast
 ...this winter. Pictures are not included
 ...in the alluring advertisements through
 ...which the railroads and Big Business
 ...encourage that pilgrimage to the "land
 ...of romance and sunshine" of which
 ...this is the distressing side.
 To the abject misery of individual
 ...victims of the exploiters' glowing an-
 ...ouncements, has been added a heavy
 ...burden upon municipalities, which
 ...must deal with the increased unem-
 ...ployed problem.
 In neither case are those largely
 ...responsible for the conditions willing
 ...to aid.
 The interest of the railroads ends
 ...with the sale of tickets. Employers'
 ...associations gloat over a glutted mar-
 ...ket. It helps to lower wages.
 While California is a land of promise
 ...to those who have assured jobs or
 ...hunt to tide over the long harrowing
 ...hunt for work, the advice of this pa-
 ...per is that he be given the warning of
 ...State Labor Commissioner Mc-
 ...Laughlin:
 "Don't come to the coast this win-
 ...ter unless you have means for an as-

West Chester Hotels Seek Liquor Licenses.
 West Chester, Pa., Jan. 22.—At the coming session of the License Court of Chester County, there will be seven applications for retail liquor licenses in this borough—James G. Milhizer, Mansion House Hotel, Morris Sellers, Turks' Head Inn; Percy C. Morris, West Chester House, all licensed last year. In addition will be Charles Weingartner, Green Tree Inn; John O'Brien, Farmers' Hotel; Joseph Melton, colored, for Magnolia House; James Spense, colored, at the Imperial House. The No-License Committee will contest each one of these applications on the general grounds, of no necessity.
 The old Eagle Hotel, licensed in 1804, was refused license last year, and is now occupied by several business establishments.

Lone Bandit Held Up and Robbed Pullman.
 Chicago, Jan. 23.—With the assistance of two reluctant but badly scared porters a lone bandit held up four passengers on the rear sleeper of the Michigan Central passenger train due here from Detroit at 7:30 o'clock this morning. It was a serio-comic affair, which netted the bandit something under $300.
 The robber entered the train at Jackson, Mich., and left it about 15 minutes later, when one of the porters signalled for the emergency brakes.
 T. M. Merritts, porter of the car attacked, was the first to view the robber, who pointed a pistol at him and handed him a bag.
 "Here," said the intruder, "you go ahead and wake the passengers. Tell 'em there's a robber wants their money. No monkey business. I've got three or four pals with me."
 Merritts took the bag—or hat, he is not sure which but thinks it was a bag—and shook the occupant of the first berth he came to.
 "Excuse me, sir," said the porter. "But there's a man here says give him your money."
 "Aw, quit your kidding, and let me sleep," came the angry reply from the berth.

Orders to Vaccinate Fort Bliss Refugees.
 Washington, Jan. 23.—Some unbusiness was occasioned at the War Department today by the appearance of small pox among the Federal soldiers and refugees near El Paso, Tex., and instructions went forward to Brigadier General Bliss to proceed at once with the vaccination of the several thousand soldiers as well as the women and children who crossed over into Texas after the fall of Ojinaga.

Billions in Farm Animals.
 Available statistics of the farm animals of the United States are intensely interesting from several points of view. They show an increase in value for twelve months of $443,750,000 and a grand total of all classes of farm animals amounting to over five and a half billion dollars. It would require twice as much money as all the legal tender in the country to pay for their purchase and the aggregate would come near equaling the total deposits in the 7,490 national banks now established.
 Considerably more than half the value is represented by horses and mules. There has been an actual increase, though a slight one, in the number of horses. This fact goes to show that the 1,129,000 registered au-

What Happened in Harper's.
 Within the cloistered precincts of Harper's Weekly, Mr. Norman Haggood, resting the frantate shell of a many cragged and cloud swept intellect upon an embattled desk, gently slept and was at peace. Error crouched in a corner and licked its wounds, whipped for the day and thankful for the armistice granted while intellect dozed.
 At such a moment the devout members of the staff saw and grasped an opportunity, an opportunity for the performance of a sacred duty. While Mr. Haggood dozed they went respectfully but stealthily, like the Pirates of Penzance, with catlike tread into the composing room, and with much whispered urgency, to make speed silently, had set and placed in the form of the Weekly an article entitled "New Wine in Old Bottles"—an interview with "an elderly country woman living in the south," written by Corra Harris.
 When Mr. Haggood awoke he first scowled at Error, as is his habit, and Error whined and licked its wounds, fearing others. Then Mr. Haggood picked up the still wet copy of the Weekly, and, as he turned the pages found himself suddenly looking in a mirror.
 The old bottle of the little parable was the Weekly; the new wine was Norman.
 "The editorials are wonderful," Mr. Haggood read. "It is a long time since Pericles, Herodotus, Sophocles, Marcus Aurelius, Euripides, all the ancients except Jehopah, have cast the grave and steady light of immovable intelligence upon modern affairs, if they ever have been allowed to do it. But they do it in the Weekly, and what is quoted from them reads as if it was written yesterday for us. The flavor is delightful. It raises us to the dignity of the ancients."
 This and much more, ever so much more, columns more, did Norman read; and then he said, "Tut." He said "Tut" reflectively, and he said "Tut" absentmindedly. None of the "Tuts" was exasperated, and none was annoyed.
 Mr. Haggood looked up at the pallid bust of Pallas, and the thin lips of his early feminist seemed to smile in approval.
 "They are good, boys, and full of commendable zeal," said Mr. Haggood, and rose to action.
 When the devout members of the staff returned from tea they found the editor lambasting Error with the barrel stave of eternal truth, and the howls of the wretched creature were as music to their ears.—Chicago Tribune.

York Women Plan Charity Ball.
 York, Pa., Jan. 22.—Plans are being made by the Public Playground Committee of the Woman's Club to hold a charity ball.
 The committee is composed of Mrs. John B. Hamme, Miss Charlotte Kee sey, Mrs. J. Schall Smith, Miss Mary Schmidt, Mrs. J. St. Clair McCall, Mrs. Smith Heiges, Mrs. D. E. Kee sey, Miss Mildred Williams, Mrs. Gu. Webster, Miss Purdon Smith, Miss Elizabeth Bonhan, Mrs. Francis Farquhar, Mrs. Cassandra Small and Mrs. Blanche Loucks. This will be the second charity ball. W. H. Keist, the proprietor of a hotel, has given over the entire sixth floor for the occasion.

Reduction of five per cent. of beef cattle and of seven per cent. of pigs is an item directly bearing on the high cost of living. A considerable reduction in the number of sheep is attributed to the low price of wool and dissatisfaction with the new tariff among wool growers. The number of silt cows remains virtually unchanged, but their average per head has advanced 21 per cent. Similar advances 18 per cent.; hogs, 17 per cent.; and sheep, 8 per cent. He cholera in some states and the shortage of the corn crops are held responsible for the decrease in the number of hogs.
 For several years the supply of beef cattle has been steadily decreasing, while the population has been steadily increasing. Evidently, if the balance is to be restored, some cheaper method of producing beef cattle must be devised. Farmers are having more recourse to silos for the utilization of the corn field forage, the returns indicating an increase of thirty per cent. in the number of silos. Other economics of the farm, greater efficiency in using the land and intensive methods of agriculture appear to offer the only hope of retarding the further advances in the cost of living. To bring about this result the Department of Agriculture at Washington and the Departments of Agriculture in the States need to direct every energy in order to awaken the farmer to the importance of neglecting none of his opportunities for profit.—Press.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Conviction in administration circles that Huerta regime in Mexico is rapidly approaching the collapse which has been persistently predicted has led to much discussion here of the nature of John Lind's frequent conference with the Mexican leaders. The belief is freely expressed that President Wilson's representative is surveying the situation with a view to determining how events will shape themselves when the Huerta structure falls.
 Mr. Lind's latest conference with Magon and other Mexican statesmen have interested members of the diplomatic corps who pointed out tonight that in view of President Wilson's reiterated statements that he would not recognize Huerta nor any of the things he stands for, the American envoy might very naturally be induced to throw out hints as to what type of man would meet with approval at the White House.
 They thought that Mexicans would in all likelihood embrace an opportunity to sound Mr. Lind informally as to the acceptability of various leaders who might arise when the crisis is reached.

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic
 "Mrs. Jane Callahan suffered from womanly trouble for nearly ten years. In a letter from Whiteville, N. C., she says: 'I was not able to do my own housework. My stomach was weak, and my blood was wrong. I had back-ache, and was very weak. I tried several doctors, but they did me no good. I used Cardui for 3 or 4 months, and now I am in the best health I have ever been. I can now pursue Cardui enough.' It is the best tonic for women.
 Whether suddenly sick, or simply weak, try Cardui."
