He choked himself to death in an improvised gallows he made by twisting leather straps and a telephone wire together. He is survived by a wife and three sons. He had been dependent for some time, and this morning he said to his wife he would rather be dead than alive. He went into the bath room and provided his gallows and his wife going to the place a few minutes later found him choking to death.

Triumphant Entry of Millionaire.

Washington, Feb. 4.—"Butch" McDevitt, "millionaire for a day" from Wilkesbarre, who made a triumphant entry to the capital with a statue of himself which he proposed to put in the Hall of Fame, at the capitol, spent most of the day in bed at his hotel, nursing disappointment.

Speaker Clark refused "Butch's" request for permission to make a speech from the steps of the capitol but the chief of police granted one for him to speak in the market place. Several managers of amusement resorts offered to put the statue on exhibition, without paying for it, however.

"President Wilson is jealous of me and wants to get me out of town," mourned "Butch" when he recited the day's disappointments to his retainers.

He afterwards was appointed second lieutenant of Cavalry in the regular army and when he resigned from the service in 1910, he was a captain.

While in the army Capt. McClintock, at one time was a collector of internal revenue in the Southern division of the Island of Luzon in the Philippines. He is 40 years old.

Man's Legs Burned When He Sleeps on Lime Kiln.

Frederick, Md., Feb. 3.—Because it was warm there, J. Lewis Demmitt, 45 years old, retired on the top of a lime kiln last night near Woodsboro and dropped off to sleep. When he awakened both his legs were charred. His screams brought residents of Woodsboro to the lime kiln, where they found him helpless and the flames shooting about his limbs. Demmitt was hurried to Montview Hospital, where it was said both legs probably would be amputated.

Wife Called "House Flower" and Doused Awarded Divorce.

Georgetown, Del., Feb. 3.—Because his late wife would not go into the field and work on the farm, Levin Magee, of Frankford, named her his "House Flower" and then doused her with buckets of water to make her grow according to testimony of Mrs. Magee in Court at Georgetown today when she was granted a divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Magee testified that her husband had insisted on her working in the field and, because she was not strong enough to do the work, called her his "House Flower" and then threw buckets of water on her as often as three times a day. She averred that the practice had given her nervous prostration and as Magee did not appear to defend himself, the judge gave the pretty young woman a divorce nisi, until one year when it will be made permanent.

Mrs. Magee said she was compelled to leave the young man and return to her parents' home where she is now living.

Deserted Girl After Elopement, Is Charged.

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 3.—Alderman H. B. McCool tonight sent to prison here, in default of $1,000 bail, Archie C. Deer, of Palo Alto, a suburb of Pottsville, charging him with eloping with Amanda Lindermath, 17 years old, of Schuylkill Haven, to Wilmington, Del.

with whom she lived preferred the charge, alleging that last July Deer coaxed her to leave home, saying that they would go to Wilmington and be married. Becker charges that Deer first told her to get twenty-five dollars which she had in the bank, saying that he would get the same sum. On the trip she found that her money was all they had, it is alleged. When they arrived in Wilmington, Deer got work for a short time and then quit when their money ran low she was compelled to go to work in a factory, Becker alleges. Finally, she pawned her coat, and with the money which she gave him they went to Philadelphia, where she was deserted in one of the parks, the uncle said.

Situation in Port au Prince Reaches State of Tension.

Port au Prince, Haiti, Feb. 5.—The situation in Port au Prince has reached a state of tension. Orestes Zamor, who defeated the revolutionists under Senator Davilmar Theodore, a few days ago at Gonavies, is on his way to the capital and probably will reach here Saturday. Diplomatic representatives of foreign countries are opposed to the revolutionary troops entering the city and agree to the entry of the revolutionary leaders only. It is considered certain that this prohibition cannot be enforced except by arms and it is believed if the diplomatic body does not withdraw its attitude fighting will ensue. Detachments from American and German warships are atroling the city. The French and British war vessels today landed detachments to assist those already on duty. The press and public have protested against the landing of foreign force. At the same time the military authorities here, who favor the aspirations of Zamor, have prevented the despatch of arms and ammunition to Theodores, who has proclaimed himself president. The convocation of Congress for the election of a President was without result, as not a sufficient number of members appeared to constitute a quorum.

Habit-Forming Drugs Sold in Appalling Quantities.

New York, Feb. 5.—Habit-forming drugs are sold here in "appalling quantities," said Carl E. Whitney, today, speaking before the County Medical Society. Mr. Whitney, as an Assistant United States District Attorney, had charge of enforcing the laws regarding the sale and use of these drugs. He asserted that upwards of 100 doctors and druggists in New York are engaged in the drug traffic which threatens health and morals. One physician in a single month purchased on prescription $2,500 worth.

"The drug habit," he said, "can be cured by legislation. It does not need segregation and societies for social uplift."

He recommended that the manufacture and importation of "dope" drugs be limited and the traffic regulated by a system of registration which would make it possible to trace a container from the manufacturer to the dispenser.

High Finance.

In an office in New York recently the office boy owed one of the clerks three cents, the clerk owed the cashier two cents and the cashier owed the office boy two cents. The office boy, having a cent in his pocket, concluded to diminish his debt, and thereupon handed the copper over to the clerk, who in turn paid half of his debt by giving the coin to the cashier. The latter handed the cent to the office boy, remarking: 'Now I only owe you one cent.' The office boy again passed it back to the cashier, who passed it back to the office boy and the latter individual squared all accounts by paying it to the clerk, thereby discharging the entire debt.—The Solicitor.

Giving Mamma Away.

A beautiful young widow sat in her deck chair in the stern and near her sat a very handsome man, relates The Washingtons Herald. The widow's daughter, a cute little girl of four or five years, crossed over to the man and said: "What's your name?" "Herkimer Wilkinson," was the reply. "Is you married?" "No, I'm a bachelor." The child turned to the mother and said: "What else did you tell me to ask him, mamma?"

Chief Justice Clark Speaks at Roanoke.

Roanoke, Va., Jan. 31.—Before a small audience, numbering possibly 100 enthusiasts for the "cause" of woman suffrage, Judge Clark, of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, delivered an eloquent and instructive address here tonight on "Woman Suffrage."

Judge Clark discussed the principles of woman suffrage, basing his argument on the Constitution of the United States.

The address was a lengthy one and every phase of the question was discussed.

Judge Clark admitted in his speech here tonight there might be some women who did not desire the ballot, but claimed they should be given an opportunity to say so.

The Chief Justice considered it time that women go into politics, "if for no other purpose than a political house cleaning."

The Justice claimed the cause for woman suffrage was already won and declared it could not be delayed, nor its onward progress checked.

The speech occupied two hours in its delivery and was listened to with rapt attention by the few enthusiasts present.

Prominent Buncombe Lady Takes Her Life.

Asheville, Feb. 2.—Mrs. J. B. Sumner, of Skyland, committed suicide this morning by shooting herself. She had been ill health for the past 13 years, suffering with a nervous trouble and the cause of the rash act is attributed to this condition. She had been constantly watched by a nurse for a long time and when the latter left her room for a few moments early this morning Mrs. Sumner locked her door and shot herself, dying before medical aid could be reached.

She was 47 years old and is survived by her widower and two daughters.

Mr. Sumner is one of the prominent farmers of the section and was a Roosevelt elector in the last presidential election.

An Ambiguous Answer.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy were frequently in court. Sometimes Murphy complained of his wife, at other times Mrs. Murphy had her husband arrested for abuse, and on still other occasions neighbors had them both in court for disturbing the peace with their brawls. The judge was becoming rather tired of having them before him.

"This is the sixth time one or the other of you has been up before me for fighting," he declared, out of patience: "now, tell me truthfully, cannot you two live happily without fighting?"

"No, yer honor," replied Mrs. Murphy; "not happily."—Lippincotts.

Organize New Women's Betterment Association.

Newton, Feb. 2.—In May of last year there was organized at the Killion School house the first Women's Betterment Association in the county under the direction of Mrs. J. W. Robinson. In August a similar association was formed at Pleasant Grove school house under the direction of Mrs. Gordon Wilfong. The third association for the county was organized at Minera school house Friday night with Miss Clara Powell, a teacher in the school, as president. The first two named societies have done a great work in their respective districts in teaching the women higher ideals of home life, assisting in improving the school and social and religious life of the community. The work has started off well and it is expected before very long to have a society in every school district in the county.

The Story of the Monroe.

The genius of Byron has pictured it for us:

Then rose from sea to sky the wild farewell,
Then shrieked the timit, and stood still the brave,
Then some peayed overboard with dreadful yell,
As eager to anticipate the grave;
And the sea yawned around her like a hell,
And down she sucked with her the whirling wave.

The circumstantial narrative of the Monroe disaster, "a story of awful and sudden death, sweeping out of the dark and fog and taking unaware the doomed half-hundred with the bewilderment of sleep still upon their

One man, while it emphasizes anew the duty fidelity of our humanity, it shows a glory upon it. Right manhood were they that thus confronted a gaudy tragedy staling suddenly upon them from black obscurity.

True to the heroic traditions of one of the newest crafts, the chief wireless operator Kuehn, after pulsing out his mysterious summons to discontinue and shore, presented his life a gift to a woman. Assistant Engineer Perkins went down into the bowels of death to perform a service for others; it was ordered so that he escaped. The second officer, Gaitley, performed a deed of chivalry the parallel of that of Kuehn, but a similar sacrifice was not required of him.

"Women first" seems to have been as punctiliously observed in that wild moment as in the commonplace gatherings of social diversion. Courage and honor and unselfishness—from the officer in supreme command down to the humblest was the rule; although a few went mad. Who of us can be sure that he would not have done so?

With all its faults, its proneness to error and to folly, its selfishness and its blindness, humanity not only has its conceptions of divinity, but there is a leaven of it in the lump.

Piteous and sad and awful though it is, it is a beautiful story; it carries courage to the heart.—Greensboro News.

Circumstantial Evidence.

Mrs. Clark came running hurriedly into her husband's office one morning. "Oh, Dick," she cried, as she gasped for breath, "I dropped my diamond ring off my finger, and I can't find it anywhere."

"It's all right, Bess," replied Mr. Clark, "I came across it in my trouser pocket."

He Knew.

A Washingtonian, who was touring the Shenandoah Valley, stopped his motor car in the road one day and asked an aged darkey who was painfully proceeding in the opposite direction whether he knew where Mr. Lippincotts lived.

"Yessuh," was the reply. "He live in de valley."

"Do you know where his house is?" The aged negro chuckled. "Deed I do, boss," he said. "I only wish I had as many dollars as I knows where dat house is."—Lippincotts.

AN INCESSANT COUGH.

A severe cough is always a grave symptom. It may not indicate organic disease of the lungs. Even though the cough is a functional disturbance it is of sufficient gravity to demand prompt attention.

The dropping of mucus from the back part of the nose into the throat indicates nasal catarrh. Sometimes this goes on a long time before the patient pays any attention to it. It is stated on good authority that mucus dripping into the throat in this way is apt to excite catarrh of the stomach. At any rate, the condition ought to be corrected as soon as possible.

Mrs. Bourland, of Bonaston, Texas, found relief from chronic catarrh. I had a severe misery and burning in the top of my head. There was almost a continual dropping of mucus into my throat, which caused frequent expectoration. My entire system gradually became involved, and my condition grew worse. I had an incessant cough and frequent attacks of bilious colic, from which it seemed I could not recover. My bowels also became affected, causing disagreeable attacks of hemorrhages.

I tried many remedies, which gave only temporary relief, or no relief at all. I at last tried Eucalypti and in three days I was relieved of the worst symptoms. After using five bottles of Eucalypti I was cured.

I need cheeringly recommend the use of Eucalypti to you and all others.

Wilson's Reply—Just a Smile—Angers Women.
Washington, Feb. 2.—Women workers who toil daily in the mills and the mines, and in the sweat shops and the factories of the nation, pleaded with President Wilson today for his assistance to the cause of woman suffrage. The President regrettably told them as he did a delegation last December that he could not urge anything on Congress which had not received the organic consideration of the Democratic party.

He accompanied his words with friendly smiles upon the women, and shook hands with all of them who chose to file past and accept his hand. Some of the women, plainly indignant, defined the hand-clasp.

To-day—demonstration—not the brass band, the street procession, the colored pennants and battleflags of the cause, but the tale of hardships of the struggle to live on low wages, of the sanitariums for those who sickened at their work and the heart-breaking tragedies of poverty, affected the President deeply.

As the delegation left the executive office, discouraged and disappointed because they obtained no positive aid, they did not know that the President himself was depressed, perhaps even more than they, as he went to lunch with his family. The President told his friends afterward that he wished he could help, but saw no way to do it. There is every reason to believe, however, that the day gave added stimulus to the President's desire for early legislation on social justice and industrial reform mentioned in his first annual message.

Five Hundred women—old and young—most of them plainly dressed but earnest and determined, went to the White House, but only a committee of twenty-five with live speakers gained audience with the President, the others waiting until the argument had passed and Mr. Wilson asked to shake hands with all.

MURDER OF INFANT SOLVED AT LAST.
Greenville, S. C., Feb. 3.—Development in the case of the two-year-old baby girl found drowned in a millpond Saturday came to a startling climax when the alleged parents were arrested this afternoon, almost simultaneously—the mother in a boarding house on Magnolia street, as she was arranging to take a train for Charleston, the father, E. C. White, was preparing to leave for San Francisco. She is Miss Fieta Pendleton, 19 years old, daughter of a shoe salesman of Durham, N. C. He is a Clyde Caldwell Clement, aged 25 of Sandy Springs, N. C., son of Robert C. Clement, a merchant. He was until recently a student at the Wofford College Fitting School. Miss Pendleton was a student at a local business school.

The arrest of Miss Pendleton was dramatic in the extreme. Mrs. W. M. Hodges, of No. 205 Richardson street, Greenville, had come to Spartanburg this morning and identified the baby as that of a young woman who lived in her boarding house as "Mrs. Caldwell" last month. The police had reason to believe that the young woman in question was living at a boarding house in this city.

CHILD IDENTIFIED.
Taking Mrs. Hodges with them, Mayor John F. Floyd, Chief John Hill, of the police force; Solicitor Albert E. Hill and Robert E. Miller, a special officer, went to the house. The girl's trunk was being taken to the station as they entered.

When Mrs. Hodges laid eyes on the girl she burst into a flood of tears and said: "Oh, God, Mrs. Caldwell! Why did you kill that dear little baby?"

Miss Pendleton collapsed. When she had partly recomposed she told her story:

MISS PENDLETON'S STORY.
She became intimate with Clement last year when he was a student at Wofford and she was taking a course in telegraphy at a local business school. After completing the course she held various positions in Spartanburg and Georgia. Clement paid her frequent visits. When her condition became alarming she went to Charlotte, living for a while in a boarding house there and later going to the Presbyterian Hospital, where the baby, named Virginia, was born December 6.

After various vicissitudes Clement took her to Greenville on January 13 and they obtained a room at the home of Mrs. Hodges, where they gave the name of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Caldwell. Clement did not stay there, but frequently visited the girl.

FATHER'S ATTITUDE.
Clement, the girl said, constantly importuned her to get rid of the baby, saying he did not love "the d—n brat," and would not marry her while she had it.

Miss Pendleton said she called at the Salvation Army Rescue Home in Greenville and asked the matron, Mrs. Mary E. Bebout, to take the infant and give it to somebody who wanted a baby. Mrs. Bebout informed her, she said, that it was contrary to the rules of the institution to take babies while they were still nursing.

Mrs. Hodges in her meanwhile suspected that things were not as they should be, and on making inquiries, learned the real identity of the couple. They decided to leave Greenville.

They took a train last Friday night and came to Spartanburg, arriving here at 8:10 o'clock. They had decided, the girl said, to put the baby out of the way.

BABY IS DROWNED.
They engaged a hack at the station, drove to the outskirts of the city and then dismissed the hack. They then walked to the bridge over Lawson's Ford Creek. Miss Pendleton faltered, she said, when it came to the crucial test, but Clement repeated to her that unless they made way with the child he would not marry her.

The mother could not stand it. She turned and fled. Clement, she said, dropped the baby from the bridge into the cold, black water below and coolly rejoined her. They returned to the city and he engaged a room for her at the boarding house where she was found. He returned to his father's home in North Carolina.

CLEMENT FLEES.
When the hue and cry became hot, Clement, she said, decided it would be well for both of them to leave this vicinity. He came to town this morning, gave her $20 and bade her leave at once for Charleston. He told her, she said, that he would depart tomorrow for San Francisco.

It was through Mrs. Hodges that the arrest of the couple was affected.

The only tangible clue presented to the officers when the baby's body was found was the laundry mark on her undergarment, which, it has been since learned, was the mark of a Charlotte laundry.

MRS. HODGES SUSPICIOUS.
Robert E. Miller, special officer went to Greenville Saturday evening to see if any of the Greenville laundries could identify the mark. He procured the assistance of C. M. Thompson, desk sergeant of the police force in Greenville. Sergeant Thompson boards with the sister of Mrs. Hodges. When Mrs. Hodges learned of the case she at once surmised that the drowned baby was the infant of the woman she had known at "Mrs. Caldwell." Sergeant Thompson notified Sheriff W. J. White, who arranged that Mrs. Hodges should come to the city to identify the baby. In the meantime Mr. Miller returned to Greenville, questioned Mrs. Hodges and learned who the couple were who had lived at her house. Through telephone messages Clement was located last night at the home of his father at Sandy Springs in Polk County, N. C., but his arrest was deferred until today.

Accompanied by Sergeant Thompson, Mrs. Hodges came to the city today, looked at the baby and at once recognized it. She was then taken to the boarding house where Miss Pendleton was arrested as told.

CLEMENT ARRESTED.
After visiting Miss Pendleton this morning Clement engaged an automobile and started back to his home. Sheriff White and Moss Hayes, a detective, on their way to Sandy Springs, encountered Clement at Chesnee this afternoon and arrested him at almost exactly the same time that the warrant was being served on Miss Pendleton.

Sheriff White telephoned to Mr. Miller: "Have you done business?" "Yes," answered Mr. Miller. "So have we," said the sheriff. "We have our man tied and are bringing him to jail."

Both were placed in cells and held without bond on a charge of murder. The girl begged to see her little child and arrangements have been made to carry the tiny corpse to the jail tomorrow.

CLEMENT CALM.
Clement was perfectly calm. He declined to make any statement except this: He is 23 years old and has known Miss Pendleton since she was 13 years old. They lived near each other in Polk County for a number of years.

Solicitor Hill returned from Columbia, where he was attending the session of the Legislature to take charge of the case. He issued a statement this evening in which he said:

"This is one of the most cold-blooded premeditated murders in my experience. Even without the confession of the girl I have enough evidence in my possession to convict both the culprits. They are equally guilty."

The arrests have caused a tremendous sensation, and the crowds of morbid people who call at the morgue to see the baby's body have increased enormously. It is estimated that 5,000 people have visited the morgue since Sunday.

Miss Pendleton made a complete confession to Solicitor Albert E. Hill in the jail tonight. It was recorded by a stenographer.

She begged to see Clement. "When he was brought from his cell she reached her hands through the bars and clasped him, with many expressions of love and devotion. Tears streamed down her face as she thoughtfully murmured her love for the man, and she would not release her feverish hold of his hands. Clement did not utter a word. She begged the solicitor to let Clement remain with her, but he would not consent.

Confirmation of the statement that the baby of Fieta Pendleton and Clyde Caldwell Clement was born in the Presbyterian Hospital December 6 and that a local physician rendered such medical assistance as was necessary was secured from the officials of the hospital and from the attending physician himself last night. The young woman gave her name here as "Mrs. C. C. Caldwell." She stopped on her arrival in the city at a boarding house on West Third street. The proprietor learned of her condition and notified the local physician who ordered that she be removed to the hospital. This was done and the baby was born next day. The mother remained in the hospital about two weeks. There was no question as to the bills and both were paid promptly by "Mr. Caldwell," who arrived in the city several days after the baby was born. The attending physician stated last night that he was certain that there was something out-of-the-way about the case for the mother would never refer to her husband, save by the name of "Mr. Caldwell," and always gave the impression of keeping something back. She stated however that she was from Spartanburg and that her name, prior to her marriage, was Pendleton. She also stated that she had lived at one time in the upper part of Cleveland County. She appeared well educated and was rather handsome.—Charlotte Observer.

Early Morning Fire in Winston-Salem Destroys About $100,000 Worth of Property.
Winston-Salem, Feb. 3.—The conflagration which visited Winston-Salem at 5:30 this morning has left nothing but smouldering ruins, into which tons of water are still being poured tonight, to mark the site of the three-story O'Hanlon drug store building on the northwest corner of the court house square, in the center of the retail district of the city. The stock and building are a complete loss. The two-story building on the west, owned by Mr. O'Hanlon and occupied on the first floor by Frank C. Brown Sons Company, clothing, and on the second and third floors by Lin-ack & Edwards, photographers was also a complete loss, with its contents. The roofs of both buildings were burned completely off, the second floors falling through. The north wall of the O'Hanlon store fell during the day. The other three walls are standing, but will be destroyed to avoid accidents.

The building on the north side of O'Hanlon's, occupied by Fred N. Day jeweler, and physicians and dentists, was badly damaged by smoke and water, with some fire near the roof Meyers-Westbrook department stores on both sides of the burned buildings escaped with water and smoke damage only.

The two upper floors of the O'Hanlon drug store building were occupied by a large number of physicians and dentists, who lost everything in the flames. The third floor was occupied by the Odd Fellows' and Red Men, who lost all records and paraphernalia.

Frank C. Brown Sons Company and the Red Men suffered complete loss in the fire which destroyed the Brown-Rogers hardware store a year ago.

The origin of today's fire has not been ascertained. It was discovered at 5:30 by a passing newspaper man on his way home from his night's work. At that time smoke and flame were pouring from the second and third floors of the O'Hanlon building and before the firemen could get the streams of water playing on the flames, they had eaten their way into the surrounding buildings, where they were confined after hours of hard work.

While nobody was hurt seriously during the fire, there were several narrow escapes and some few minor accidents. The street car service in all directions except to South Winston-Salem was discontinued for several hours.

The O'Hanlon Drug Company will open temporary quarters tomorrow. Frank C. Brown Sons Co., which has experienced its fourth disastrous fire, will re-open as soon as a location can be found. Mr. O'Hanlon has long contemplated a modern skyscraper on the site of his dress store building, and it is the presumption that this will replace the burned buildings.

The property loss at to-day's fire is estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000, with about 70 per cent. insurance on buildings and stocks.

Burned to Death.
"Aunt" Harriet Mills, a colored woman, was burned to death Wednesday afternoon in the field near the home of her son, Tom Mills, about two miles from town. She had gone out in the morning trying to burn some brush and sedge, but it was too wet and Tom told her to let it alone and he would burn it for her when it dried. In the afternoon she went out alone and by some means her clothing caught fire and she was found after several hours lying dead and her clothing entirely burned from her body. She was about 90 years old.—Walnut Cove News.

Rowan Appropriation.
Salisbury, Feb. 3.—The Rowan county commissioners today voted an appropriation of $2,500 annually for the support of a farm life school to be conducted at China Grove. A similar amount is to be given by the State and the school will be operated in connection with the high school at China Grove, which place is to furnish a plant.

Ministers Fight Sale of Soft Drinks on Sundays.
Elizabeth City, Feb. 3.—The Ministerial Association of Elizabeth City, has asked the board of Aldermen to prohibit the sale of all kinds of soft drinks in drug stores on Sunday. In fact, the union has asked that everything except medicines be debarred from Sunday sale.

The board continued the matter until the next meeting and no action was taken.

The proprietors of drug stores are resisting the enactment of such ordinances as they say it will work a hardship upon them. They claim that they have to keep open on Sundays.
