HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Ballock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Cañon, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Ballock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me.

I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

DEMOCRACY IS UNITED.

year reversed the 50 years of Republican misrule and plunder, and has justified the faith of the world in "government of the people, by the people and for the people."

"It has not only filled its own pledges, but has redeemed dishonored promises of Republicans, which for a half-century has kept the word of promise to our ear and broke it to our hope."

"It has entered a decree of absolute divorce between public legislation and private interests and driven the lobby from the halls of Congress."

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE.

"By its banking and currency laws it has emancipated business enterprises from slavery to the money power; by its tariff laws, it has destroyed the fountain-head of trusts and monopolies; by its new trust law it will dig deep the grave of all trusts and combinations that are too lawless for a decent resurrection; by its foreign policy it has demanded for all Nations the fundamental right and the unrestricted opportunity of self-government; by its avoidance of war and its zealous promotion of all the arts of peace and industry it has pursued a high and noble career of human uplift and development."

"We assure the President that the hearts of the people are with him and we rejoice that our Senators and Representatives, conspicuous for efficiency and energy, are giving him zealous and hearty support."

"By his wisdom, his courage, his straightforward frankness and directness, his unselfish patriotism, his lofty idealism and practical humanitarianism, he has revived the most glorious days of the Republic and completed the great trio of Democratic statesmen, the trio unsurpassed in the annals of any people, Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson."

NIGHT SESSION.

Governor Craig convened the night session at 8 o'clock, the first speaker being Hon. Josephus Daniels.

In his address Mr. Daniels declared that North Carolina has experienced five crises of special note as testing the capacity of State Democracy and that in each of these Democracy has proven equal to the occasion. There was, briefly stated, the Constitutional Convention at Hillsboro, that refused to ratify the Constitution until the bill of rights was included; when Nathaniel Macon aided Jefferson to overthrow the federalism under Adams; when David Reid led the fight to abolish the "land owner" right to vote; the era of Vance when carpet-baggers were expelled; and the era during which Republican-Populism was driven from power through the leadership of Aycock, "who unfettered the people and brought back government for the people and by the people."

Mr. Daniels declared that the day for debate and argument about progressive policies has passed. He said legalized primaries for all parties on a common day have been adopted by many States and that soon there will be a primary system for selecting nominees for President of the United States.

He endorsed the other progressive measures enunciated by the convention.

Following the address made by Mr. Daniels, Major A. W. Graham, of Oxford, was introduced to present the creator of the evening, Senator Pomerene, of Ohio. Major Graham made a striking presentation of the achievements of Democracy in the State and Nation and then presented Senator Pomerene in whose honor the members of the convention stood and cheered for some time.

He paid pleasing tribute to Secretary of the Navy Daniels, whom he said was making good in his high position. He convulsed his audience with the remark that Secretary Daniels made an order a few days ago that gave new significance to the famous saying: "Water, water everywhere and not one drop to drink."

Senator Pomerene launched on a presentation of the progressive record of Ohio Democracy which was heard with intense interest and frequent applause.

Mrs. Wilson Not Fully Recovered.
Mrs. Wilson did not appear to be entirely recovered from her recent illness. She will stay perhaps two weeks, and according to tentative plans, the President after spending next week in Washington will return Thursday to spend the week-end with his family.

When the President got back from his ride the young folks were tangoing in the hotel. They were too absorbed to observe the President as he passed the hall room and slipped up stairs to his apartment.

Secretary McAdoo is expected to join the party tomorrow. The President will leave Sunday night for Washington. Attaches of the party said no official dispatches of importance were received by the President during today, the White House staff having planned to afford as much relief from official burdens as possible.

Amusement or Nuisance?
Lexington has been enjoying a carnival. It took its departure from the town about in the early hours of Sunday morning, and if we may trust
The Dispatch, the town will not soon forget its stay.
Among other souvenirs of the carnival's visit is a pile of covering of waste paper, excelsior, sawdust, or even boxes, odds and ends of planks and old clothes. The lot is in the heart of the town, and the health authorities, or the city league or somebody will have a good day's work before them before Lexington can present
a respectable front to the public again.

Monday Morning Judge P. C. Critch-er's usual two-hour term of court lasted all day and even at that the docket was not cleared. With an ac-cruage of four lines to the case, the old lot of cases of people charged with crimes ranging from plain drunk to assault with a deadly weapon, all of a good nature. The Dispatch.
The people living in the neighborhood of the place where the carnival set up have been taking this week off to recuperate, and to catch up on the sleep,
that was impossible for a solid week.

We have never taken much stock in the objection raised against things of this kind that they take money out of a town. The man who feels his money away on a carnival is going to fool it away anyhow, and nobody has a right to dictate to him how he shall spend it. But when next a carnival applies for admission to Lexington, it will not be the financial drain that will be urged against it, but the charge that it is not an amusement,
but a common nuisance, and in view of this experience that charge will be justified.—Greensboro News.

Great Political Influence.
The victory of Senator Underwood
indicates that Congressman Claude Kitchin will succeed Mr. Underwood as chairman of this committee and succeed to the leadership of the House unless precedent is upset, and it is not probable that precedent will be broken.
Senator Simmons heads the Finance Committee of the Senate; Claude Kitchin heads the powerful Ways and Means Committee. This means great political influence for the State. We do not wonder at the strong effort in the newspaper world to Republicanize the State at this time.—High Point Enterprise.

Diamond King Isn't a Hit With Murphy.
New York, April 11.—There is at last one man in town who is not a baseball fan. He is Assistant Postmaster Murphy. Once, when three men were on bases in the last inning of a tie game, Murphy left his friends at the grounds, saying, "I'm going to seek something more exciting."

Tuesday night Mr. Murphy, riding home in a trolley car, struck up a conversation with a tall, athletic looking young man.
"Ever go to the ball games?" finally asked the stranger.
"Nope," replied Mr. Murphy. "They keep me too busy in my job as assistant postmaster."
"You the assistant postmaster?
Glad to know you. Expect great things of the Giants this season, I suppose?"
"Giants?" echoed Murphy. "Mean
those circus fellows?"
"Wow!" gasped the stranger. "I mean the New York baseball team.
Were you born in New York?"
"Born in New York and lived here
all my life and proud of it," replied Murphy.

"Well, then, perhaps you know me," volunteered the stranger, producing a highly embellished card. "I'm Artie Devlin. I used to pull 'em down at third base. I was with the Giants when they won the pennant in 1905."
"What pennant?" asked Murphy.
"The former great third baseman jumped off the car, exclaiming, "Of all New Yorkers, you're the limit.
Good night."

Simmons "On The Job."
A Washington dispatch states that Senator Simmons has been asked by several persons close to President Wilson to organize the forces in the Senate for the Panama free toll repeal bill. Since Senator Simmons is on the job some effective work will be done to aid the cause the President is pushing. And Simmons is the man that was going to be so out of harmony with the Wilson administration.—

Webb-Keaton Law Upheld.
Topeka, Kan., April 11.—The Webb-

upheld by the Kansas Supreme Court today. As a result of the decision, Kansas will take charge of all liquor
shipped into the State.

Biddle Gave Bibles and Bibles in the Camp.
Philadelphia, April 11.—"Tony Biddle, the society pugilist and the Bible class organizer, is back from a trip
to Canada with his boxing gloves,
snow shoes and a bundle of papers
bearing the names of half dozen Drexel-Biddle Bible Classes enrolled in the land of the lumberjacks.

Behind him Biddle left a stack
of Bibles and three perfectly sound front teeth.
The Canadian lumber rafter had heard of Biddle, and readily there came a call from one of the camps in the northwest to see "the young dude who can box." Biddle packed his bibles, his snow shoes and his boxing gloves and started north. As soon as he got over the United States border
he found a wide impression that he was some sort of a "white hope."

As fast as he could issue invitations to join the Bible class, he received challenges to fight. He fought. The camps would pick out a husky and when a meeting organized the class
would wait a few minutes while Biddle and the lumber pugilists "put on the gloves." After the fight, Biddle preached a sermon on "Athletic Christianity," his husky opponents listening at the improvised ringside.
It is said that Biddle lost some of his teeth. He visited his dentist as soon as he returned home, and now he smilingly refuses to discuss the athletic features of his organizing trip except to admit rather grudgingly that he didn't take "all the punishment" in the lumber camp encounters.

Easter a Time for the Growth of Faith.
Easter is a season of flowers—let it also be a time for the growth of faiths; it is a season when joyful chorals are sung on every hand—let it also be marked by generous charities and Christlike ministries to those who now sit in the shadow of death, or who pine in the deserts of a religious experience. Resurrection should not all of it be postponed until the last day—much of it may take place on earth in redeemed hearts and evangelized societies. It should be remembered that the Lord is even now by his spirit converting hearts to the likeness of a higher life. Resurrection thus becomes a continual process, consummated at last in the skies, where it reaches the plane of a perfect life. The Lord, if we believe and are faithful, will perfect that which concerneth us.—Selected.

30-Year-Term Man Is Pardoned to Mary.

Springfield, W. Va., April 11.—Charles A. Kimsley was pardoned and married immediately afterward in the State Penitentiary at Chester. Kimsley had served three years of a 30-year sentence for a statutory offense against one Gilbert, a 16-year-old mother, who became his bride on the day he was released.

The wedding took place in the reception room of the prison, Rev. J. R. McDuffey, the prison chaplain, officiating. Present at the time were the members of the State Board of Pardons, Lusevia Kimsey, niece of the convict; Walter Kimsey, a nephew, and L. D. Porter, grandfather and guardian of the girl.

The pardon, which was granted by Governor Dummie upon recommendation of the board of pardons, was handed to the girl and she, in turn gave it to Kimsey, the wedding ceremony following immediately.

Since the circumstances in the case became public, several days ago, petitions were sent to the board of pardons asking for the release of Kimsley, it being shown that both he and the girl desired to marry.

Promises to Marry if He Loses a Game.

New Orleans, La., April 11.—"If I lose this game I'll quit and get married."

With this declaration, Joseph Peter Feicht, young man of Gretna, started a game of pool at Bracklein's cafe and poolroom at Gretna a few nights ago.

"Then I'll foot the bill," said Bracklein. "We'll see if you are game."

Feicht lost; Bracklein carried out his agreement to "foot the bill."

Those who witnessed the pool contest were spanned by sight to the courthouse after he had gone to Amersville and brought back Miss Falby Richardson.

Deputy Clerk of Court Tillotson was hustled from his home and a messenger was dispatched from Justice of the Peace Daenhausen.

Miss Richardson was told about the pool game, but she was as game as Feicht. She was just 18 years old and daughter of Wilford Richardson, overseer of a plantation.

Fred Bracklein, Jr., John Mahler and Ernest Linden was those who signed the wedding certificate.

Presbyterian Church to be Dedicated.
 The First Presbyterian Church will be formally dedicated next Sunday, April 19th, at 11 o'clock.

Rev. Walter W. Moore, D. D., President of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., will preach the sermon and offer the dedication prayer.

After the sermon a brief history of the Church will be read.

All the former pastors, now living have been invited, but their attendance is uncertain owing to the distance at which they live. It is hoped, however that we may have a brief message from each of them to be read to the congregation.

At the eight o'clock service Dr. Moore will preach especially to the men and boys.

Dr. Moore is a native of Charlotte and has been president of Union Seminary for many years. A more cultured and gifted speaker has never visited Burlington. It is a rare opportunity to hear this distinguished preacher.

A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Forgot Former Fiancee.

A man from Amsterdam, New York, walked over to the manager at the Biltmore yesterday at lunch time and said:

"Great place, this lobby for meeting people."
 "You are quite right," returned the manager with a shade of pride in his tone.

"Remarkable," went on the nun. "Do you know, as I crossed the lobby just now a woman rushed up to me and called me by my first name. 'Hello, Sackett,' she said, 'I could have sworn I had never seen her in my life before.'"

The manager looked at little concerned. "That is unusual," he said. "I must—"

"Oh, it's all right," said the other.

Would Not Cut It Up.

An Easterner who had bought a farm in California had heard of his neighbor's talent for raising large potatoes, so sent his farm hand over to get 100 pounds.

"You go back home," answered the talented farmer, to the messenger, "and tell your boss that I won't cut a potato for anyone."—Everybody's.

What Do American People Want for Children?

"If the sawmill men in your State had always used mules and it was proposed that they should give up using mules and use oxen instead; and if they agreed that it would be better to use oxen and a law should be introduced to compel them to substitute oxen for mules; and then if they did everything in their power to defeat the law, wouldn't you think that they wanted to use mules?" This parable of the opposition to child labor laws which he has met in his personal experience is quoted from W. H. Swift, in The Survey for April 11th, in the course of a note on the Tenth National Conference on Child Labor recently held in New Orleans. The note is published under the caption, "What Do American People Want for Their Children?" and the writer says:

"The fight against child labor will enter on its second decade with increased vigor, a wider outlook and a new method, if the spirit and the substance of the Tenth National Conference on Child Labor are a fair indication of the future.

"One member of the National Child Labor Committee staff who has attended all these conferences with one exception put it tersely, 'These people have set their teeth against child labor. They are in the fight to the finish.' And as Jane Addams said in her address to the mass meeting in Lafayette Square, attended by some 2,000 people besides the 1,000 whom the mayor had arranged to seat: 'When people are willing to stand through child labor speeches, child labor is doomed.'

"Is the New Orleans public typical? Does the spirit of the leaders gathered in conference reflect the temper of the American people. Or is their fighting blood aroused by increasingly insistent opposition to good child labor laws?"

"Two little incidents at the conference do not answer these questions but they do warn us against an indolent optimism. Telegraphic news never was received from four legislatures and from two of these States came word of defeats on the firing line. O. R. Lovejoy's review of the needs and activities of the committee showed how the activities—investigation, publicity, legislative campaigns and study of enforcement—had been restricted in scope and hindered in efficiency by the failure of the rank and file of thoughtful, well-to-do people to supply the wherewithal for a sufficient staff.

"Less time than usual was devoted to a description of child labor, but certain unforgettable impressions on the subject were made rather incidentally by Ella Hans and Pauline Neuman, who had been child workers themselves, and by L. B. Hise with his stereotyped lecture on the high cost of child labor.

"The indigent widow, the uninteresting teacher, the misfit curriculum, the parent who does not control his children, the employer of cheap labor, the inspector who does not know how to inspect, the judge who is out of touch with the new industrial consciousness, the editor who adds to the general inertia by drifting with the majority, and ourselves, the great American people who pass laws and let them die—all these came in for a share of the discussion. The old three-cornered fight between the employer, the reformer and the legislator is still on, but it no longer occupies the center of the stage.

"There was a pretty general feeling that the motive for the effort to correlate these scattered erring elements should be found not so much in pity for the physical harm wrought by child labor as in a keener sense of the stunting of the spirit. The loss in artistic and creative power was touched on by Jane Addams, the degradation of citizenship by Felix Adler. Alex. Johnson made the statement that unless girls are to be mothers of a decadent race they should not be allowed to work in industry until they are 16 or, better, 18 years old.

"The National Child Labor Committee presented to the conference for the first time a federal child labor bill drafted by the committee and pending in Congress. Sampel McC. Lindsay reviewed the attitude of the committee in the past and predicted that the same reasons which led the committee recently to endorse the principle would shortly bring about a general demand for a federal child labor law.

"The other defenders of the bill were Felix Adler, who pleaded for clear thinking and common sense as the primary guides in division of power between State and nation; Mrs. Florence Kelly, who gave incidents from her personal experience illustrating at once the relative value Uncle Sam has placed on children and on food stuffs and the contrast between our disregard of State laws and our respect for Federal law; and A. J. McKelway, who quoted millions from the census to show the majorities of American people who have already enacted State laws embodying the four provisions concerning ages and hours which the Palmer-Owen bill would apply to establishments manufacturing goods for interstate commerce.

"Here again, the fine temper of the New Orleans audience was manifest, for it listened with keen attention and enthusiasm to the speakers on the federal bill. Afterwards several business men confessed to immediate conversion to federal legislation on child labor.

"When one remembers the relatively high standard of the Louisiana law as it is enforced in New Orleans and realizes that the Palmer-Owen bill would affect New Orleans' factories in only one respect, one wonders whether the real source of opposition is going to be not the States' rights doctrine but the employer whose convenience will be at stake."

Colombia Will Use Panama Canal Free.

Washington, April 10.—Free use of the Panama Canal by Colombian warships, troop ships and army and navy supply vessels is proposed in the new treaty between the United States and Colombia, signed at Bogota Tuesday, to seal the breach between two countries over the separation of Panama. Secretary Bryan announced this tonight with the explanation that the clause in the convention was identical with one in the Colombian treaty negotiated by Secretary Root in 1909, with the approval of Great Britain and ratified by the United States Senate, though never accepted by Colombia.

Mr. Bryan's statement followed a conference at the State Department with Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the Senate Canals Committee, which has under consideration the bill repealing the clause in the Panama Canal act exempting American coastwise shipping from canal tolls. Senator O'Gorman, who is leading Democratic opposition to President's Wilson's repeal policy, went back to the Capitol, carrying new ammunition for his fight. He would not discuss the matter, but other opponents of exemption repeal pointed to the fact that Great Britain in 1909 had agreed to preferential treatment for Colombia vessels because of Colombia's peculiar relation to the canal, as evidence that Great Britain and President Wilson now are putting a new construction on the words "all nations" in the clause of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, guaranteeing equal treatment to the vessels of the nations of the world using the canal. Their claim is that these words were not intended to apply to the United States, the owner of the canal, and they will urge the admission of Great Britain in the Colombian matter as proof.

Mr. Bryan said the treaty signed at Bogota employs the language of the Root-Cortez ship canal treaty, granting the use of the waterway to "the troops, materials for war and ships of war of the Republic of Colombia without paying any duty to the United States; even in the case of an international war between Colombia and another country." Mr. Bryan would not say whether the acceptance by all concerned of the treaties would solve all the problems pending between Panama, Colombia and the United States.

President Has a Corking Time.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 10.—President Wilson spent his first day here in company with his family, bothered little by the throng of people here for Easter. The President could not resist the ties of his college days, however, and tonight he and the family accepted the invitation of the Princeton University Glee, Mandolin, and Babjo Clubs to attend their concert.

A Princeton locomotive cheer rang through the ball room as the President took his seat in the audience. He was given an ovation by the crowd as well, and seemed to enjoy the songs and selections.

Mr. Wilson golfed early in the day, shortly after his train arrived and before the fashionable colony had aroused itself from its slumbers. He played 18 holes and climbed up and went down the hills with a vigorous stride. The Wilson family took their meals in their apartments. In the afternoon the President and Mrs. Wilson, accompanied by their second daughter, Mrs. F. B. Sayre, went driving, while two other members of the Presidential party rode horseback over the hills. The President and Mrs. Wilson hardly had left the hotel when two newspaper photographers waylaid them. When the President raised his hand and Mrs. Wilson asked that no pictures of her be taken the photographers retreated with apologies.

Clew to Missing Ship Found.

St. Johns, N. F., April 10.—Seal pelts, thought to have come from the missing sealing steamer, the Southern Cross, were sighted today seventy miles south of St. Mary's bay, by the steamer Kyle, which has been searching the coast for a week. This is the first definite clew to the fate of the vessel, which with 175 men on board was last reported off the southern coast on March 31.

Rebels Receive Defeat in Big Engagement.

El Paso, Texas, April 9.—News of an important rebel defeat at San Pedro, about forty miles northeast of Torreon, was brought here today by newspaper men who were not allowed to send the news from the rebel camp. Before the correspondents left Torreon the defeated rebel column returned to Torreon.

It also was said at Torreon that General Velasco, who evacuated that city five days ago, had joined Federal General Garcia Hidalgo at Saltillo. Hidalgo, with seven thousand men, had started to reinforce Velasco at Torreon, but was delayed. The combined forces at Saltillo therefore number about 12,000, if the Hidalgo report proves correct.

Villa sent only a brigade under General Ortega against San Pedro. The defeated column returned Tuesday, it is said. The Federal rapid firers, sweeping the level plain, worked havoc among them. Night attacks failed to dislodge the enemy and Ortega returned with the explanation that he found the Federals in unexpected force.

Burlington Gives Credit to Bankers by Sewing Mill.

Washington, April 9.—Economics effected by Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Blakelee during the first year of his administration have netted the Government a saving of one million dollars, according to figures announced today by Postmaster General Burleson.

The replacing of the old-fashioned mail locker with new and lighter lockers is said to have resulted in a saving of $200,000; $55,000 was saved by using canvas instead of leather pouches, reduction in office employees netted $143,000, and the manufacture and purchase of cancelling machines $100,000.

Rebels Drive Back Reinforcements for Tampico.

Brownsville, Tex., April 9.—Reinforcements enroute to the aid of the Tampico federal garrison were defeated yesterday with a loss of forty men, according to Constitutional reports today to Matamoros headquarters. So far as known, Matamoros has had no recent reports from the Constitutional seige of Tampico.
