There appears to have been some misunderstanding about an article in Tuesday's issue which was clipped from a Raleigh paper and gave the name of the paper it was clipped from. The article said there was some talk of placing colored people in the sewing room at that place. It had nothing to do with the sewing room at this place. We understand from the management at this place that the idea has been abandoned altogether.

Rev. C. E. Wilbur, D. D., of Pittsburg, Pa., will lecture at the Methodist Protestant Church Sunday night at 8 o'clock and give stereotypical illustrations. Rev. Says There Were No Ghosts. We have a card from Mrs. Browning in Orange County, stating that the story about the ghosts at her home, as heard by our Mr. Pearson was erroneous. We suppose Mr. Pearson was dreaming and saw ghosts in his sleep. The story was more of a joke on Bob, and we are glad to announce that there was nothing to it, and that all is quiet in this home and that no one is trying to scare them. Of course there was nothing to it, but we thought perhaps there was someone trying to play a practical joke on the family. We are glad to make this correction.—Burlington News.

SLEEP DISTURBING BLADDER WEAKNESS BACKACHE - RHEUMATISM, QUICKLY VANISH

Even Most Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After A Few Doses Are Taken

Backache, urinary disorders, and rheumatism, are caused from weak, inactive kidneys, which fail to filter out the impurities and keep the blood pure, and the only way on earth to permanently and positively cure such troubles, is to remove the cause.

The new discovery, Crozone, cures such conditions because it reaches the very roots of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped up, inactive kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering cells and glands; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and cause rheumatism; it neutralizes the urine so it no longer irritates the tender membranes of the bladder, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped up, lifeless kidneys so they filter and slit all the poisons from the blood, and drive it out of the system.

So sure, so positive, so quick and lasting, are the results obtained, from the use of Crozone, that three doses a day for a few days are often all that is required to cure the worst case of backache, regulate the most annoying bladder disorders, and overcome the numerous other similar conditions.

It is the most wonderful preparation ever made for the purpose. It is entirely different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth to compare with it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

You can obtain an original package of Crozone at trifling cost from any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Crozone fails to give desired results, regardless of how old you are, how long you have suffered, or what else has failed to cure you.

Mr. Lewis A. Riffle tells his experience with coughs and colds that lead to nervousness and debility.

Colds are often aggravated during the summer because inactive bowels and a stomach out of order are prime causes in keeping a cold from getting well. Pe-ru-na has very beneficial laxative qualities that neutralize such conditions. Its tonic ingredients tone up the system, and thus invigorate the stomach's functions to normal activity.

Mr. Riffle's experience is especially interesting at this time of the year because it shows the close relationship there is between a nervous breakdown and a neglected cold.

Pe-ru-na should be kept in the home at all times, that a cold upon its first appearance may be treated promptly and successfully. This often saves money and time, and what is more important, a great deal of vitality.

Mr. Riffle, of 758 Gautenbein Ave., Portland, Ore., writes: "I have found Pe-ru-na a most remarkable medicine for building up the system and for curing coughs and colds.

"I took it for four weeks a few months ago when I was all run down, nervous and debilitated, and it quickly restored my health.

"I always keep it on hand, as a few doses will cure a cold it taken in time." People who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Pe-ru-na Tablets.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 55 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

First Rules for Being a Happy Wife.

One of the first rules for those who wish to be happy wives is to be content with their lot, and not to be continually finding fault. Every wife should bear in mind that, as a rule, her partner is doing his best to make a good living, and that if he fails to make as much money as they hoped, she should not complain. On the contrary, she should try her best to manage with what sum he can afford to allow her.

Helpful, encouraging words spoken in love and sympathy will do more good to a man than anything else, and a wife will feel far happier acting this way than if she were always bemoaning her lot.

The secret of the happy homemaker lies in unselfishness. When trouble comes she will have only cheerful hopeful words of sympathy. She will keep her house in spotless order so when her husband is at home he will realize more and more that truly "there is no place like home."

"Spotless order," however, does not mean primness, or the order that makes a house look as though it were on parade and never used. A young man, recently married, said some time ago that he hated to take a friend home to dinner with him, because every time he did so his wife imagined that it was necessary to scrub the house from cellar to garret, and polish ever bit of silver on the sideboard. It made him uncomfortable to think of his wife working hard all day when it was entirely unnecessary.

"Of course, a man likes to see his home looking nice," he said, "but I'd be far happier if I could convince my wife that a house can look tidy even if it has no been gone over that day. I like the books to look a little disorderly; you get a feeling that they're being read all the time. I like the music on the piano to be disarranged; it gives a fellow a cozy feeling all over. What if the curtains aren't even at every window. Things ought to look as if they were used and enjoyed. If the sofa pillows are dented, you know some one has leaned against them. If they stare at a man in a prim row, it's a brave guest, indeed, that will put his back against one of them—much less his head."

Millionaire Buys Big Piece of Land.

New Berns, N. C., May 20.—Purchasing from J. W. Stewart a tract of land containing four hundred and fifteen acres and also acquiring another tract from Craven county of twenty-five acres adjoining his first purchase, the whole located on Trent river, two miles west of New Bern, Dr. Earl S. Sloan, manufacturer of a linen, bearing his name, and whose home has for years been at Boston, Mass., plans to erect a mansion and build up an estate which will equal if not surpass the famous Biltmore estate in Western North Carolina.

Dr. Sloan came to New Bern several weeks ago to investigate the advantages of this section, and after traveling all over the United States in search of a desirable location, decided to locate here, and at once began negotiations tending to the purchase of the property which is more familiarly known as the Colonel Ransom estate and these were concluded yesterday.

The tract of land in question has a river frontage of about one mile, is covered with one of the prettiest pine groves in North Carolina and has a spring on it which has often been called the "spring of eternal youth."

The water from this spring is crystal clear and at all times retains an equal temperature, making it cold and sparkling in the summer months and of an even temperature in the winter. The overflow from the spring will be turned into a fish pond and this will be stocked by numerous varieties of the finny tribe.

Immediately after making the purchase Dr. Sloan telegraphed Robert L. Smallwood, a New York architect and former New Bernian, to draw up plans for a home to contain about fourteen rooms. There will also be a home for the caretaker of the estate, garage, boathouse, an observatory tower and a building in which will be located the pumping station to be used in securing and furnishing water for the place and also the plant which will generate the electricity to be used. The contract for the erection of these buildings is to be awarded to a local firm, and as some of the plans are ready the actual work of construction will begin. The type

Warning Against Dangerous Preserving Powders and Canning Compounds Used by the Housewife.

The attention of the department has recently been called to the wide-spread use, especially in rural communities, of salicylic acid in putting up preserves. The head of a large drug and chemical supply house states that people living in southwest Virginia, North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee and western Georgia have been purchasing salicylic acid in one-fourth pound packages for a number of years and that this practice has grown to an enormous extent. This dealer states further that only a few weeks ago he received an order from one wholesale grocer for 50 gross of these goods.

The department is aware that this practice is not confined to salicylic acid under its own name alone, but that large quantities of this acid, and of boric acid as well, are sold under fanciful names as preserving powders or canning compounds at prices which are much in excess of their real value.

In the directions for use the housewife is told to fill the jar with the fruit or vegetables, cover with water, and add a teaspoonful of the powder. It is true that these powders prevent decay of the fruit or vegetable, but they also encourage uncleanly or careless work, and their excessive use may be attended with very serious efforts upon the health. Salicylic acid is a medicine of the greatest value in acute articular rheumatism and certain other diseases. It is well known as a poisonous substance, and one of the evils which may accompany its use is derangement of the digestion. It is therefore plain that its extensive use in food may lead to disturbance of digestion and health.

It is entirely practicable to put up both fruits and vegetables in such a manner that, if not opened, they will keep indefinitely, by sterilizing the products by means of heat, and there is no excuse for running any risk by using preserving powders. The Department of Agriculture has issued the following Farmers' Bulletins on canning and preserving:

- B F 203. Canned Fruit, Preserves, and Jellies.
  - F B 359. Canning Vegetables in the Home.
  - F B 521. Canning Tomatoes at Home and in Club Work.
- These bulletins, which may be obtained without cost by apply to the division of publication of the department, give exact directions for canning and preserving foods without the use of preserving powders or canning compounds.—Weekly News Letter.

News From Whitsett.

Alamance County was well represented in the student body of the school this year, and furnished two of the speakers in the society contests on Saturday and three of the marshals for the commencement occasion. The school has always drawn a large patronage from Alamance county, and has sent into the active business life of Alamance numbers of its most successful workers. The future of the institution is unusually bright, and extensive improvements are being planned to take care of the growing patronage.

The new catalogue will appear in about ten days, and will be one of the finest school catalogues ever sent out from the institution. It will be beautifully illustrated by a series of new engravings made especially for this issue. The school has been under its present management for twenty-six years, and some members of the faculty have been engaged in the present work for almost this long also. Get a fine teacher and keep him has been the motto of the school, and the success of the graduates from Whitsett has been notable. About six thousand students have attended school here during the past quarter of a century.

My City.

"City of porphyry and amber,
Stained by the dying sun,
Canyoned and vaulted and mightily,
What is the race that you run?
Fair as the tower of Heaven,
Under the flaming sky,
Reaching your spired arms aloft,
Bearing your soul on high!

Beautiful, rare and holy,
Just for a sunset's breath—
Then back to your festering caves of pain,
Back to your tunnelled death!
Flinging your heights to the stars,
Year upon year the hordes go down,
Cursing your prison bars.

City of prophery and amber—
City of nameless shame,
Rearing your fluted beautiful walls,
In greed's remorseless name,
Under your massive girders,
Grinding the souls of men,
Narrowing, blighting and blinding,
Again and forever again!

So raise the walls of Athens,
So gleamed the marble of Rome,
Jerusalem, Carthage and Florence,
A tyrant but never a home,
Made by the hands of many,
In toil and fear and love;
Bartered by grim tradition,
To iron hards above.

Your streets disgorge the builders,
In shoddy hungry mass,
In solitude the owners—
They count them as they pass.
And in the market places,
The people kneel and bend
Before the bloody bearded gods
Of Rent and Dividend.

City, O my city!
When shall you learn at last,
To build for the sunset's glory,
And build for the flouted beauty,
And build for the human soul,
Till the one shall greet the other,
In God's immortal Whole!"
