WEEKS SOCIAL EVENTS

Many Pleasant and Profitable Evenings Spent During the Past Week.

At Various Homes

Thursday evening 7:30 to 12, Miss Byrde Bailey was the charming hostess at a rook party at her home on Union street in honor of her guest, Miss Bernice Hornaday, of Weldon. The affair was very informal and very enjoyable. Besides rook there were several vocal and instrumental selections given. The guests were the ushers, groomsmen and bridesmaids of the Cameron-Lasley marriage and Misses Bettie Vann Ward, Lou Ola Tuttle and Olive Abernathy, of Gastonia, and Messrs. Conter, Douglass and Hornaday. Delightful refreshments were served.

Miss Lou Ola Tuttle entertained the Embroidery Club at her home on Davis Street Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, in honor of her sister, Mrs. L. L. Sloop, of Shelby, who is visiting here. Decoratives of cut flowers were used. Instead of embroidery, rook was played at several tables. Refreshments were served in two courses. Beside the club members there were present the two sisters of the hostess, home for their vacation, Misses Ella Tuttle, from Trinity College, and Evelyn Tuttle, who has been teaching in Graham College. Miss Mrs. Tuttle's sister, Miss Weisatt, of Wilmington, and Mrs. O. E. Crowson and her two guests, Misses Bernice McVey and Lucy Sawall, of Northville, Va.

Miss Sophie Moore entertained Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock, in the Pelechia Club at her home on Davis Street. The hours were spent with games, dancing and singing. Refreshments were served in two courses.

Miss J. W. Lasky entertained the Royal Dutch Club at her home on Park Terrace Tuesday afternoon 7:30 to 9 in extra meeting in honor of Miss Bernice Hornaday, of Weldon who came as bridesmaid at her daughter's marriage. The guests were shown the lovely bridal gifts more than a hundred, sent to her week's bride. Refreshments, consisting of food and sandwiches, cream and cake, nuts, crystallized ginger and salted almonds, were served. Miss Byrde Bailey gave several piano selections. Besides the members there were present Mrs. L. L. Sloop, of Shelby; Misses Byrde Bailey, Florine Robertson, Bernice Hornaday and Ada Belle Isley and Mr. John Lasky.

In the spacious basement of the Methodist Church Thursday evening, 7:30 to 10, a banquet was served by the ladies of the town to the Chautauque quartets, their wives and the ticket-sellers. The ticket-sellers, forty in number, divided up according to wards, started out at four o'clock, making a house-to-house canvass of the town to sell the tickets for the Chautauque, which is to open here Saturday, June 27, and continue through July 3rd. These canvassers covered the entire town and returned to the church to partake of the supper and tell their experiences at 7:30. A delightful supper in two courses was served. Mrs. W. H. Carroll being in charge. Mr. J. L. Scott acted as master of ceremonies and called on many of the gentlemen and ladies for speeches after supper. They responded with a good will, and their wit and experiences of the afternoon made a merry recital. The total number of tickets sold in the afternoon was 396, and the guarantors feel that that was a splendid result. There is no fear felt that the entire 700 will not be

LOSING GOLD

Great Quantity of Gold Lost by This County During the Past Week.

On Large Scale

New York, June 20.—What is said in the financial district to have been the greatest transfer of gold ever made between entreprenaries occurred during the week, when $43,000,000 of the precious metal was shipped to the subtreasury here.

The gold in bars and coin came from other branches of the United States treasury, and the shipment, it was said, was prompted by the fact that for the last six weeks this country has been losing gold to Europe on a large scale. Since the first of May $53,000,000 has gone out, and since the beginning of the year $50,000,000. Bankers say that little if any of the gold just shipped here is likely to be needed, as the crest of the gold inflow was reached early in the week.

District Conference

The Durham District Conference, at E. Church, South, meets tomorrow, June 29th in Hillsboro and will be in session for three days. The Front Street M. E. Church, of this city will be represented by the Pastor, Rev. D. H. Tuttle, and by Mr. George W. Anthony, E. W. Atwater, W. F. Bailey and W. E. Sharpe, delegates. The work of the District Conference is to legislate into the official, financial and spiritual condition of the Church.

Manliness Rewarded

Mr. G. F. Crowson, editor of The Burlington News, was an applicant for the postman's pension in his town. The application went to another, and Crowson did not get it. He took his defeat gracefully. In a short while the man who got the place for which Crowson had applied, resigned, and Crowson was invited to step in an invitation which he accepted in a becoming manner. The reward was well bestowed and The Observer cheerfully joins in the congratulation being handed out to both Congressman Stedman and to Postmaster Crowson.

For Unity in Buncombe County

The get together movement of the Republicans and Progressives is meeting with success. In Buncombe county the spirit of union between the parties is said to be strong, even the veteran Republican, Colonel Virgil S. Lusk, it is said, being among the advocates of such a movement.

Miss Mamie and Sophie Provine entertained the Christian Young People's Society of the Christian Church at their home last Thursday evening 7:30 to 10. About 25 members were present. At the regular business meeting the guests were delightfully entertained with readings by Rev. Kendall and Miss Nellie Fleming. Miss Sophie Trollinger furnished music throughout the evening. Ice and cake were served and every moment of the time was thoroughly enjoyed.

Miss Miriam Williams very pleasantly entertained the Ann Judson Class of the Baptist Church at her home on Broad Street Friday evening. Rook and other games were played. Music was furnished for the occasion by Miss Miriam Williams. Cream and cake were served and the evening enjoyed to its fullest extent.

WATTS GIVES ELON $500.00

Durham Philanthropist Donates $500 for the New Ladies' Hall at Elon College.

"A Wise Rich Man"

President W. A. Harper, of Elon College, announces a gift of $500 from Mr. George W. Watts, of Durham for the recently constructed Ladies' Hall of the college. President Harper spent last Saturday here in the interest of Elon and visiting old friends, and in the current issue of The Christian Star he has the following to say of the gift:

"I called upon my good friend, Mr. George W. Watts, a noted Sunday school worker, a devoted layman of the Presbyterian church, a distinguished philanthropist. His benefactions to Durham and to the numerous colleges and seminaries of his church would fill a long space. He is a rich man whose wealth has been a blessing to him and to the world. He has repeatedly shown his interest in our Elon and had her latest enlargement on his desk as I was ushered into his private office. We chatted for ten minutes of the things in which Elon stands and he rejoiced mightily with a donation of $500 to be applied to the recently constructed Ladies' Hall. This announcement will gladden many not only because of its generosity, but also because of its source, the gift, and many a loyal heart among our friends will take new courage for larger sacrifice because of this gracious recognition of Elon's desires from this great and good man. If all rich men knew how to use their wealth as Brother Watts does, how would all join in praying the Lord to multiply their millions rapidly in the face of the nation, and that to many of them in our faces, sorrowfully from the world's' outraged opportunities for service. It is the rich young man of last Sunday's lesson. I would very much like to have Brother Watts teach next Sunday lesson and he is a Sunday school teacher that teaches with authority. For I know ever after that phrase would have a new meaning for me." Barham Sam.

Democratic Urged to Redeem Plodder. Washington, June 20.—Senator Owen today called upon his Democratic colleagues in the Senate to re-form the plank in the party platform calling for the expunction of corruption, fraud and machine rule in American politics, and offered four bills designed, he said, to bring about the needed reforms.

"If he," he said, "the Democratic party leaves the country under the machine rule system with the door open to fraudulent practices in omnigrading senators and Congressmen, after its solemn promise to the people, it undoubtedly will receive condonation."

"No counter would venture to say he thought it wise to permit corruption in our election machinery," said Senator Owen. "But," he continued, "no individual seems to feel charged with the responsibility of preparing the necessary measure and urging its passage. I propose, therefore, a resolution charging the committee on privileges and elections with this duty in the hope that it may meet with sympathetic co-operation."

Death of Mr. Robert J. Scott. Mr. Robert J. Scott died on the 18th and was buried the following day at Haw River. He was 53 years of age. He was a Christian man and leaves many relatives and friends to mourn his death. The funeral was conducted by Rev. H. G. L. Edwards, of Graham.

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER

Accordian Pleating is Used for the Waists and the Skirts of Skirts of Chiffon.

Basque and Tonic

New York, June 20.—From our Father Time's Chest from the year 1880 have come the basque and pleating. To be sure they look different but a slight change that it seems as though it is the figure of the woman, rather than the of the garment itself that makes them seem a part of the fashions of 1914. Then the waists were small and compressed, now the larger the waist the prouder the well built woman is. In fact, pads have been worn by naturally small-waisted women to make them appear larger around the waist than nature really intended them to be. Sashes are worn with these waists which tie at a low line in the back, causing or adding to the bustle effect which was also a part of the fashions when these waists were worn before.

The skirts of these dresses are mostly made with the long tucks, although some are made with a series of ruffles from hem to waistline.

The long tucks are being made in sheer and thin materials and are even more elaborate than in the heavier materials. A dress of crisp crepe with a wide stripe is made with a long tuck over a narrow underskirt.

Of course you will find the skirt is made with a variety from having a shawl collar, a kimono, a 1914 children's evening white is worn with the tuck of the waist hanging from the shoulders to follow the waist in a circular cape.

With the hat worn a charming Louis XVI hat of feathers, well shaped at the back and upheld by a band of small flowers. A variety of these small flowers of blue, rose and forget-me-nots circles the top, across which a Hank velvet ribbon crosses, tying loosely under the bend of flowers, and falling well onto the hair beneath.

Likewise for afternoon and evening wear, planned to wear with this same higher hat, was a sheer organza frack, bonnet and shoe edged. The three bonnets were narrower both in depth and width as they descended. This gave a wide rim and narrow footline silhouette.

There are always occasions when trips to town or week-ends in the country are suddenly planned and if one's clothes are not in condition for such a contingency, the pleasant trip is spoiled. For such an occasion a silk dress, light in weight and stylishly made is appreciated. It does not have to be laundered, its simple suits it for all sorts of informal affairs, while more dressy materials will allow of its being used for more formal occasions. The illustration is a smart example of a dress to fill such a need—in blue flannel. The waist has the raglan shoulder line with set-in sleeves. The revers of the waist turn back from a vestee of net, whose fullness is gathered up on a stiffener. The skirt is made with fullness in the flared lower section in a Basque. The white hat worn with this dress is of the stylish tricorne shape—with a single white rose, and green leaves set in each indentation at the front of the hat with a long feather extended from each.

With the returning fullness of the skirts, accordian pleating is enjoying unexpected favor. The lower section of the long Dutch tunic skirts are accordian pleated, and sometimes the tunic itself with a plain lower section. A charming blouse is made of accordian pleated chiffon, which is set on

THE REAL CHILD LABOR.

Truth About Conditions in North Carolina Mills as Seen by The High Point Enterprise.

We desire to take issue with many of the writers on child labor. There has grown up around our industrial system in the South a sentiment wholly out of the trend of all progress, and carries with it a plea for the child that would make you believe we are living in an era of sweatshop problems, which is diametrically opposite to the true child labor conditions we find here in High Point, North Carolina, and hundreds of them, who have worked up to a point of financial independence, who live in clean homes, which they own themselves. They draw good salaries, are well fed, well clothed and housed. Since the war the Southern white boy and girl have sought this industrial emancipation, and the wonderful prosperity of the South is answering the call.

There may be isolated cases where a child enters the factory too early, but it is not the fault of the mill owner, but of the parents.

Half of this sickly sentiment about child labor is far fetched and without any meritorious point of view. Let the Southern white boy and girl learn to do their own work and the problems of efficiency on the one hand and poverty on the other will have been solved. Today the condition of the Southern boy and girl is a thousand times better than it was 55 years ago when the negro did the work in the South and the white boy and girl were educated for a life of leisure. Today the reverse order of things is true. The Southern boys and girls are now the producers.

The Failure of Free Love.

Power over faculty of loving is undoubted to some degree attainable, but there is no evidence that it does or should work only in the direction of unloving. The clear definition of mate-love, and its distinction from all the subsidiary issues ordinarily tied up with it, will operate to raise the plane upon which the personal problem is worked out, but it cannot alter the balance of the equation.

Admitting the general social good as the larger criterion of marriage, we can find but one righteous solution of the particular unhappy instance, and that is that each affair should be charged with its own consequences. And such consequences, of whatever degree, must rest equally on both parties; loving or unloving control can not justly lie in the hands of one member to the disparagement of the other. Where freedom is desired, they must come free together, for that is a mere travesty of liberty which in discharging the account of one member, leaves the other bound to grief and humiliation. One may ask for freedom and one bestow it, but neither may demand and neither compel. And this law of equity in loving must hold not only for the public certified relation, but for every kind of union between men and women as between men and men. It is not the spirit in which the adventure is undertaken nor the inventive to it which establishes the basis of its dissolution, but the contingencies in which it involves us.

This is the new morality of sex which has been worked out for us in a thousand departments of life which have no apparent bearing on sex—the morality of social consequences. A man is not free to deny his child on the ground that no child was wished, nor exempt himself from the broken life on the ground that no breakage was intended. This is the law of conduct worked out for us in battle where though the risk is death, it cannot be wholly assumed by the widow and orphan, worked out in trade where the maimed limb or the phony jaw is not absolutely at the cost of the loser, worked out in labor where the blame of unemployment cannot be entirely to the unemployed—the morality of the shared consequence.

This is the way to the new freedom when freedom is desired, neither to cheat nor to lie nor to compel, but to stand superior to the passions of the sex as we are learning to stand free to the passions of trade and industry, and to play fair alike in loving and unloving.

Women—many large-waisted, clear-seeing women, such as men think least about when they think of loving—know this way out; men must learn it. Although they do not know it, their feet are in the paths that lead to it, for love, like empire, no more veiled and apart, must walk openly in the streets of Equality and Fraternity.—Harpers' Weekly.

American Highway Association.

Entire streets are to be removed and roofed and thus turned into adjuncts to the large auditorium; accommodations are to be provided for more than five thousand guests; arrangements are completed for the greatest government exhibit that has ever been made; and the city itself is to be turned over to the visitors from all parts of the country with a view to making the Fourth American Road Congress to be held in Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 9 to 14, the most successful and striking road convention ever held in this country.

This is the report brought back by L. S. Pennybacker, executive assistant of the American Highway Association, which, with the American Automobile Association and their allied organizations, is in charge of the Congress. The movement for better roads in the United States is expected to reach its climax at Atlanta, and the new government-maintained highway from Washington to Atlanta will be ready for the touringists who will attend the convention. In a statement given our upon his return to Washington, Mr. Pennybacker said:

"There is no doubt that the coming convention will be the largest and certainly one of the most successful ever held in the history of the road movement in the United States. Highway engineers and legislators from every State in the Union have already announced their intention of being present. There will be representatives from foreign countries and the exhibits will be the most striking ever shown at a road Congress.

"Already the exhibits indicate a tendency to overflow the auditorium and while I was in Atlanta arrangements were being made to remove the cobble-stone pavement of Gilmer street and replace it with more modern materials. The street is to be roofed so it can be used for the overflow exhibits. The city itself is going to give organ recitals for the pleasure of the guests and is also to give a municipal tea to the ladies who accompany the delegates. The whole city is working together to make the convention the biggest and most successful ever held in this country. An entertainment fund of $5,000 has been provided and there is no doubt about the comfort of the guests. The program, with its speeches and its papers on the road movement, read by the most eminent authorities in the United States, will be the most interesting we have ever arranged.

Charles P. Light, business manager of the American Road Congress, will leave for Atlanta within the next few days and will take charge of the arrangements of exhibits for the coming road Congress and especially of the allotment of space for the exhibitors.

Hon. A. B. Fletcher, president of the congress and State Highway Engineer of California, and Hon. L. W. Page, president of the American Highway Association and Director of the U. S. Office of Public Roads, are taking a deep and active interest in the success of the Congress.

POOR P

How Is Your County Fair?

Once again, we urge the importance of the county fair. "But why a fair?" some one asks. Oh, well, why any effort for the good of the county or the State? For though the fairs, both county and State are for the most part organized as private associations, they generally represent praiseworthy patriotism on the part of the backers, and too often their reward is only the privilege of going down into their pockets to meet some deficiency occasioned in part perhaps by your failure to make an exhibit or to attend. The answer in brief as to why you should have a fair is for the public good—for giving individuals new ideas and for stimulating community pride.

But these fairs are social organizations as well and so helpful in this respect that it is questionable whether in any way they serve so large a purpose. Bringing together the representatives of every township at some central place like the county seat leads the people to know one another; a knowledge as powerful with the community as the "know thyself" with the individual. They are likewise educational. The average fair, county or State, has something for the visitor who goes with his eyes open and his mind alert.

Moreover, our fairs are putting larger stress on these educational features each year. The midway is lessening, the gambling devices and those who play there are on the decrease, and the drinking places have gone or are going. This new order of things means much for the larger fairs, but more for the smaller ones, which have suffered from the false impression and special attractions beyond their financial reach were necessary to their success. Numerous most successful county fairs were held last year with their agricultural, educational, and livestock exhibits for their sole drawing cards.

If your county isn't in line with the progressive counties with fairs, why not you and your neighbor get busy at once? By a little determined effort on the part of all classes, you may have a fair yet—may at least make a good start in 1914, and do better next year.—Progressive Farmer.

Teacher Had Mexico Sized Up Just About Right.

Cumming, Ga., June 18.—In the state examination for teachers in the public schools held Saturday, the following question appeared in the subject of geography: "Locate Mexico, give its climate, principal imports, exports and form of government." To this question one of the applicants answered: "Mexico is located southwest of the United States. Its climate is very unhealthy at present. Its chief imports are powder and lead. Its chief exports are dead Americans. Nobody but God and Bill Bryan know its form of government." The superintendent says he thinks this applicant should be graded 100 per cent. in geography.

The platform committee may be satisfied for the Democratic party to go on increasing taxes, increasing the State debt and issuing bonds to meet the shortage every two years, but the rank and file of the Democratic party in our opinion is getting tired of this thing.—Catawba County News.

Mr. Newman explains that the use of United States Senator's stationery was not to boost the God Hill mine property. He would render more service to the public if he would tell why it was used. His explanation does not explain anything.—Catawba County News.

If Mr. Cameron Morrison, Chairman of the Platform Committee had put one tenth the effort to put something into the platform that he has spent since the convention trying to explain why it has nothing in it, he would have rendered to the Democratic party and the State some real service.—Catawba County News.

The esteemed Albemarle Enterprise nicely states the case in observing that "on the whole the platform is all that could have been expected at this time."—Greensboro News.

A Forgotten Pledge.

A plant in the Democratic platform of 1912 which is rarely referred to as binding upon anybody, reads: "We denounce the profligate waste of the money rung from the people by oppressive taxation through the lavish appropriations of recent Republican congresses, which have kept taxes high and reduced the purchasing power of the people's toil. We do demand a return to the simplicity and economy which benefits a democratic government."

The total ordinary disbursements of the National Government for a period covered by the Roosevelt and Taft administration ranged from $375,000,000 in 1902 to $692,000,000 in 1913. As a mere incident of a Treasury statement just issued by Secretary McAdoo, it appears that the total ordinary expenditures for a fiscal year ending with the 30th of this month are likely to be $703,000,000. Referring to this fact, there are opponents of the Wilson administration who are rather gleefully predicting a great deficit in the national revenue if the end of another fiscal year, and possibly a bond issue.

The chances are all against a deficit. Taxes are still very high. The reductions in customs dues has been much more than offset by the increase in receipts from incomes and corporations. Some relief has been had in lower tariffs; some of the burden has been shifted from the shoulders of the consumer; some taxation now falls directly upon wealth; but the golden stream pours in the Treasury without interruption and the aggregate is greater than ever before.

Nothing is the matter with income except that it is too lavish. We are collecting too much money and it is spent as a matter of course. The habit is growing in municipalities and states as well as in the Nation. Taxation is eating the life out of industry and commerce. No matter where it rests, it is excessive.—Catawba County News.

Democrats Want to Look After the Fences.

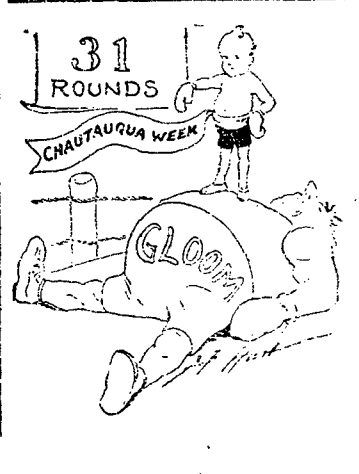

Washington, June 19.—President Wilson and Majority Leader Underwood, after an hour's conference this morning, found themselves still far from an agreement on the necessity of trust legislation at this time. Mr. Underwood said that it is imperiling the seats of many Democrats by keeping the members at Washington. There is a possibility that the president will face a revolt in the House soon, as the members are chafing under his insistence that they remain here. However, this afternoon, Mr. Underwood is quoted as saying that the House will probably put through trust legislation and also the administration conservation bill before adjournment.

If you can't sleep you need a good laugh.—See A. G. Allen's Minstrels and get the laugh, after that the sleep will come natural.

Did the convention think that the Democratic party as a whole considers that little affair of 1861-65 a rebellion?—Greensboro News.

CRYING FOR HELP.

Lots of It in Burlington, But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys often cry for help. Not another organ in the whole body more delicately constructed; Not one more important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood. When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous. There can be no health where there is poisoned blood. Backache is one of the frequent indications of kidney trouble. It is often the kidney's cry for help. Head it.

Read what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for overworked kidneys. Read what Doan's have done for Burlington people.

Mrs. J. A. Loy, near Fair Grounds, Burlington, N. C., says: "My kidneys were irregular in action and I had backaches at times. Doan's Kidney Pills made me feel stronger and better."

Mrs. Loy is only one of many Burlington people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidney bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Loy had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. ONE WEAK SPOT.

Many Burlington People Have a Weak Part and Too Often It's the Back.

Many people have a weak spot. Too often it's a bad back. Twinges follow every sudden twist. Dull aching keeps up, day and night. Backache is often from weak kidneys.

In such cases a kidney medicine is needed. Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys. For backache and urinary ills. Good proof of merit in the following statement.

A. T. Webster, mail carrier, 97 S. Maple Street, Graham, N. C., says: "I suffered from pains in the small of my back and there seemed to be soreness across my kidneys. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills, and they soon made me feel much better. I am sure that this remedy is all that it is claimed to be. All I said about Doan's Kidney Pills when I recommended them before, still holds good." Price 50c. at all dealers. Doan's simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Webster had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

BAD LUCK.

By Mrs. Grace Meares, Clifton, N. C., with apologies to Walt Mason.

"I have no luck," said farmer Ed. "I almost wish that I were dead, as he sprang upon the floor of the little village store. "My cotton stands knee deep in grass; we have no fruit or garden save. My potatoes most all failed to sprout. My cabbage plants need thinning out. My wife, she didn't plant no beans, she's always rearing them magazines. The corn I planted late last year won't make half a crop I fear. The crows got out and eat my rye. I'll fix that doggone fence or die." He leaned his head against the door and yawned and spat upon the floor and said, "Friends, do you think there's any chance to get a drink in this old Barg or anywhere? I can't find a drop, I swear." Then "I'd go home and go to bed if I was sure my wife had fed the stock and cut the wood and had me something cooked up good. Next morn he'll go back to the store and plant himself upon the floor and from the early morning light into the darker shades of night he'll tell of want and weal and woe, of how he never had much to show and tell again the same old tale of how his crops most always fail.—News and Observer

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper.

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

A good kidney medicine, possessing real healing and curative value, should be a blessing to thousands of nervous, over-worked women.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy, will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase the regular

CONFIRMED PROOF.

Residents of Burlington Cannot Doubt What Has Been Twice Proved.

In gratitude for relief from aches and pains of bad backs—from distressing kidney ills—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Burlington, who so testified years ago, now say the results were permanent. This testimony doubly proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Burlington kidney sufferers.

Mrs. Bertha Stanfield, 1015 Dixie St., Burlington, N. C., says: "I was in bad shape with backache and had trouble in straightening after stooping. I was bothered by nervous spells. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and got some. They helped me in every way. The pains left and my kidneys became normal. The before, was true. I am glad to confirm it now."

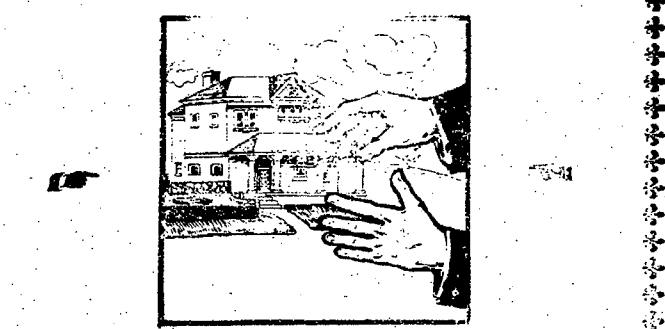

Mrs. Stanfield is only one of many Burlington people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. Negro to Succeed Negro.

Washington, June 20.—President Wilson has asked for the resignation of Henry L. Johnson, a republican negro of Atlanta, Ga., as recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia, to take effect July 1.

The position has been filled by a negro for a number of years.

Southern Democrats are disturbed at the reported intention of the President to appoint a negro to succeed Johnson. It was said today the President will not be halted by criticism, but that another negro will be named.

How does this set on the stomach of white Democrats?

Give me, next, good, an understanding wife

By nature wise, not learned by much art;

Some knowledge on her part, will, all her life,

N. Y. FASHION LETTER

to a yoke which is in one with the sleeves.

Dark Blue Fouillard Dress With New Paquin Skirt.

Many of the thin frocks are made with a hem of the heavier material. A red voile had a hem of natural colored linen. A dress of embroidery flouncing had a wide fold of pink silk set under the scalloped edge of the skirt hem, thereby adding to the charm as well as to the durability of the frock, for a hem is usually of material stronger than that which it is used on.

Sashes are seen on many of the summer models. They are often on around the waist and tied into a loose bow much in the same manner as the sashes of a child's apron. To keep up with this popularity the ribbons are much more elaborate than they were, and are a reminder of what our grandmothers wore in their girlhood, flowered and brocaded, in which satin and velvet designs are intermingled with moire effects. There are also the Egyptian sashes of Oriental colorings which wind round and round the body fully swathing the waist and the hips.

President Has a "Boss."

A few days ago, while I was chatting with Secretary Josephus Daniels in his room in the Navy Department, discussing the effects of the recent election, bossism, candidates dominated by bosses, the Secretary remarked in a serious tone, with a twinkle in his eye as he looked out of the window and pointed to the White House:

"Speaking of boss rule and the domination of powerful bosses, there is a man who dares not sign a single paper, who dares not decide a single issue, however important, without consulting his boss. It may seem strange to you, you may be surprised, but I believe that Woodrow Wilson who is a genius as a statesman, is the most boss-ridden President we have ever had! Every act of his, every move he makes, every issue he takes up, is determined not only by his own free will, but by a boss, by a master.

"In matters of State, in national as well as international affairs, he never decides and never acts without first consulting his master boss. In determining great policies, affecting the interests of the American people, he never does a single thing without first ascertaining the will of his boss. Truly, we have an exhibition of the domination of a boss in the White House.

"The President is weak and powerless in the presence of the boss—a tool in his hands; the dictates of his boss are law to him; he obeys his every command!

"For instance, I know he was very eager to go to Panama last summer, but his boss wouldn't let him go. He wanted to go to his family in Cornish last summer for rest; he was very tired and needed the rest very badly. He didn't go; his boss wouldn't let him. He stayed here. He felt that he must not leave this place, that he was needed right here.

"One day a friend asked the President why he did not do a certain thing. The President replied, 'I cannot do it; my boss won't let me.'"

The friend thought that the President was perhaps referring to Mrs. Wilson when the President added: "My conscience is my boss!"

Basque and Bustle Return.

They're here—the basque and the bustle skirt. They were among the regencies which appeared on the boardwalk during the morning hours yesterday.

For the benefit of all those who do not know, the basque is a thin fitting waist—absolutely no fullness anywhere—and is especially adapted to the figure of petite women with excellent backs. The sleeves are long—three fourths length and tight from shoulder to wrist.

The bustle skirt in reality is not a bustle skirt, but a skirt that looks just as if a bustle were worn with it. The fullness, which is made up of a series of ruffles is placed in the back, and the more ruffles the better. It is far from looking old-fashioned, therefore, a certain charm about the style that is sure to make it popular. Adaptive throughout to Washington East.

Factions Get Together.

Wentworth, June 20.—The Republicans and Progressives in Rockingham county have about gotten together and the battle cry "in unity there is strength" seems to have been inscribed on the battle flags.

A call signed by F. N. Cox chairman of the Progressive forces, and J. R. Joyce, chairman of the Republican committee, was issued this week and has created a great deal of comment.

The meeting will be held in Wentworth on Saturday, July 11, and all citizens, regardless of past party affiliations, who are desirous of an honest and economical county government, of an accounting to the people of the true conditions of their finances and of fostering and advancing the time honored principle of protection, which brought prosperity to the whole country when in operation, are requested to participate.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father, in his all-wise Providence, has seen best to call from earth to reward the soul of our deceased sister, Mrs. Mary (Cole) Moser, while we bow in humble submission to the will of Him, who is too wise to err and too good to be thanked. Therefore be it, resolved:

First, That we the members of Burlington Council No. 22, D. of I. meet every Monday this month.

Resolved, Second, That while we have lost a faithful member, the home has also lost a devoted wife.

Resolved, Third, That a copy of these resolutions be recorded on the minutes of our Council and a copy be sent to the bereaved husband, also that a copy be sent to each city papers for publication.

Holt-Tickle.

Elon College, June 20.—A simple but beautiful home wedding was solemnized on the evening of Wednesday, June 10th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Tickle, when their daughter, Irene Cladora, became the bride of Mr. Daniel Cicero Holt, of Burlington.

The parlor was tastily decorated with white lilies, ferns, roses and magnolias.

Promptly at 8:30, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Eva Christman, the officiating minister, Rev. B. S. Dasher, entered the parlor. Next, entered Miss Mamie Tickle, sister of the bride, with Mr. Ralph Steele, followed by the bride and groom. The bride wore a beautiful white shadow lace-veiled net and grew more beautiful as she assumed the marriage vows.

Following the ceremony, the few invited guests retired to the dining room where a salad course followed by delicious cream and cake, was served. A bouquet of Easter lilies, a gift to the bride, served as the only decoration for the table.

Both the bride and groom are graduates from Lenoir College, Hickory. The bride is a most charming young woman and has been teaching at Duke City, Va., during the past year. Mr. Holt is the elder son of our county surveyor, Mr. L. H. Holt, and has made a most commendable record during the past year as principal of Vaughan public school, Vaughan.

After receiving congratulations and many good wishes, the newly wedded pair drove to Burlington, where they will make their home until fall, when Mr. Holt will resume his work as principal of the school at Vaughan.

Only a few very intimate friends of both parties were present. These were: Misses Charlotte Cline, Hickory; Edna Hamman, Virginia; Nellie Shepherd, Lessie and Clea Wegener, Genie Patton and Messrs. Zel Patton and Ralph Steele, Gibsonville; Mr. and Mrs. Holt, Miss Cynthia Garrett, Lewis Parr, Mr. I. C. Christman and family, of Burlington, and Mr. Henry Baldwin and family, Elon College.

Can't you spare a little time from your work and donate one gate ticket and help the boys bear the expense of the game? As they play without compensation they are due at least a little encouragement from our home folks.

Merchants Ask for Legislation.

Durham, June 18.—The North Carolina Retail Merchants Association adjourned this afternoon after selecting Asheville for the next meeting place and setting the third Wednesday in June for the meeting. Durham was honored in the selection of two Durham merchants as officers of the association for the coming year.

The nomination committee made the following report and it was adopted: President, L. P. Markham, Durham; Vice President, P. L. Poston, Statesville; Secretary, M. E. Newson, Durham; Treasurer, T. B. Burton, Asheville.

The most important business other than the election of officers, which came up before the merchants today was the report of the legislative committee. This committee recommended the constitutional amendment relative to the homestead law, and it was fully discussed by the association, which finally decided to ask the next legislature to take such action as would be necessary looking to the amendment of the Constitution of North Carolina along those lines.

The merchants say that this homestead and exemption law is used by hundreds and hundreds of people in the State to defraud the merchants and other people who have to do business with them. The petition for this homestead and exemption law was presented by Mr. Frank Morris, and was later incorporated in the list of special legislation that was reported by the committee.

The report of the legislative committee embodied a letter signed by all of the officials of the organization in which the next General Assembly was importuned to so amend these laws that it would make it impossible for the dishonest man to hide behind the homestead law in order to get out of paying his debts.

SEVEN BIBLE GIRLS.

By Rev. D. H. Tuttle.

1 The faithful little sister: Exodus 2:1-10. At no time do we know how great work we are doing. This girl watching over her little brother knew not that she was caring for the world's greatest law-giver—the man through whom God would give the Ten Commandments to the world. Lesson: Be faithful in little duties. God may make them great destinies.

2 The captive girl and her message. II Kings 5:1-4. Among strangers she was true to her religion; told what she knew of God, and a great man was healed of leprosy, giving glory to the God of Israel.

3 The daughter Jephtha. Judges 11:34-40. Here was a true child—one who would rather consecrate herself to God than have her father break his vow to God. She will have her place in the white-robed throng of heaven.

4 The daughter of Jairus—a girl of 12 years—Luke 8:49-16. This girl had died and Jesus raised her from the dead—"her spirit came again." This girl was a type of all girls or boys that are spiritually dead and need Jesus to come and raise them from the "death of sin unto the life of righteousness." Parents, have you called upon Jesus to do this for your children?

5 The devil-possessed girl: Matt. 15:21-27. The Bible teaches that we are all born in sin. See Psalms 51:5, Psalms 58:3. The mother of this girl went to Jesus for help and with a persistent faith she plead for her child. Jesus told her that her faith was great—that it should be with her child as she wished. Her daughter was made whole from that hour. Parents pray for your children.

6 The girl Rhoda and what she did. Acts 12:13-16. This girl was at prayer meeting and was the first to find out that the prayer was answered. Many times children get answers to prayer before grown persons.

7 The fortune-telling girl and her conversion. Acts 16:16-18. Paul caught this girl to be converted. Then her "masters" got mad with Paul, put him in jail, but God turned Paul out and converted the jailer. The devil never made gain by fighting God's folks. Fortune telling is sin. Nobody can tell the future but God.

Kaiser Wilhelm II. In Anchored at Sea.

Southampton, June 17.—The North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II. which left Southampton shortly after noon today for New York with 1,000 passengers, is anchored tonight off Netley, three miles to the southeast with a big hole in her side amidships, caused by a collision with the Liverpool grain steamer Incmore from a Black Sea port for Antwerp.

The Incmore, a smaller craft than the German steamer is in dock here with her bows badly smashed.

The collision occurred in the English Channel in a fog. Just how it occurred and which vessel was responsible could not be ascertained tonight. Officers of the Kaiser Wilhelm refuse to give out any information. Scant details came from the Incmore. That vessel, those on board said, virtually had stopped because of the danger of continuing under way in a thick fog, when suddenly there loomed up just ahead of her the Kaiser Wilhelm.

Both captains did their best to avoid a collision, but the Incmore struck the liner on the starboard side amidships. The impact crumpled up her bows and tore a big gap in the Kaiser Wilhelm's side. Those aboard the Incmore believed the hole was entirely above the water line.

The two steamers stood by each other until it was ascertained that neither needed immediate assistance; then both started slowly for Southampton.

The forepeak of the Incmore rapidly filled with water, but the bulkhead confined it there and she managed to crawl into port. There was found the damage to the bows extended for a length of twelve and a width of ten feet.

A newspaper is to the town what a brass band is to a circus. Of course the circus with no band at all is not worthy of mention. And, if the band is pucky, the performance is apt to be pucky, and if the performers are probably not pumpkins. Ditto, some news papers, some time, and some merchants. A good newspaper will make successful merchants; good merchants make a successful newspaper, and the combination cannot fail to make a good, live town.

Let us believe that the whole of truth can never do harm to the whole of virtue; and remember that in order to get the whole of truth you must allow every man, right or wrong, freely to utter his conscience, and protect him in so doing. Good News From Rockingham.

At a recent meeting of the Republican Executive Committee, of Rockingham County, in response to a call by Chairman J. R. Joyce, the committee discussed at length plans to reunite the Roosevelt-Taft Republicans in the county. The resolution to select a committee of five to confer with the Roosevelt Republicans of the county with a view to uniting the two wings was offered by Gilliam Grissom, of Spray, and carried. All had the same thing in mind and purpose, to unite. It is stated that the conference between the opposing wings will be had very soon and something definite will be done. Both factions seemed determined to reunite, while it seems now that both sides will make concessions, while neither will make itself. They are all determined to get together. They will not fly to get together. They will not fly at another's throat any more. They are not want a double minority. That there is every indication that the two wings will unite soon and begin organizing, and will soon build up a militant, strong and cohesive party is now apparent.

United in Surry Count.

Surry County Republicans and Progressives will hold their primaries on July 11, and a convention a week later. Representation is based upon the vote of both Settle and Meares which indicate unity. Hon. Sam Marshall will probably be endorsed for Congress and Hon. R. L. Haymore and W. M. Jackson for the House. The Sheriff will be nominated by acclamation. For clerk of the court J. A. Jackson, Charles Bodenheimer and present register of deeds, W. A. York are candidates. For register of deeds County Chairman S. G. Brim, Henry Wolfe, H. G. Jarrell, J. A. Riggins and Yancey Davenport will test their strength in the primaries. For treasurer J. W. Redman, Joe Booker, J. S. Patterson and T. Snow are in the race. If every county in the State were like Surry, Democratic rule in North Carolina would soon be a thing of the past.

Treatment for Snakebite.

The Monroe Enquirer tells that J. W. Howie, of Union County, was bitten on the finger by a copperhead snake. He took time to kill the snake and then doctored himself. He saturated the finger in kerosene oil and then ate a lot of grease. He was sick for a short time, says the Enquirer, but was all right next day. "Time was when it was supposed that there was only one remedy for snakebite—the old familiar juice," says the Statesville Landmark. "But in these days of drought a substitute has to be found and Mr. Howie found it in eating grease. The grease may not be so pleasant to take but it seems to have been effective in Mr. Howie's case and when it's best you can do, that's all you can do." "After all is said and done, the grease if it did make the man sick, was not as bad as being sick from drinking too much mean liquor," comments the Oxford Ledger.

We happen to be in position to add a little second hand professional wisdom on this subject. To the day, while engaged in certain studies and investigations of a scientific nature in the Red Bird region of the Over Hills, we borrowed a housewife's fireplace to fry our humble repast of bacon, salmon, fortinolis, hardtack and coffee, and she told us her husband had been poorly for a right smart while along of having been bitten on the hand by a "pilot snake." He was treated by a doctor, and therefore scientifically; and the doctor's treatment consisted of soaking the bitten member in kerosene and turpentine. Fidelity to truth compels us to add that this doctor first caused the man to vomit, and hereafter would permit nothing to be administered to him except the old familiar juice until the other poison was overcome. It is the consensus of testimony of the neighborhood that the gentleman who had been chawed by the copperhead, while out of his senses, "acted jest like a snake."

President Harper's Compromise Approved.

Elon College, June 19.—It will be recalled that in March a conference of college president on athletic eligibility rules for North Carolina colleges was held in Raleigh at the instance of The Evening Times. At that meeting the University, A. & M., Guilford, Trinity, Wake Forest and Elon were represented in person and Davidson by letter. Three principles were agreed upon as a basis and the same submitted to the conferring colleges. The A. & M., Trinity, Elon and the University voted to adopt them. Wake Forest, Guilford, and Davidson have withheld their approval because freshmen were excluded. It seemed as if the whole scheme would go shipwreck because of the failure to agree. To save the situation a compromise seemed necessary and one was proposed by President Harper, permitting freshmen to play, but prohibiting athletes, moving from college to college, from playing during their first year in their new college. This plan has received the hearty endorsement of many leading college athletic experts and bids fair to be adopted by the colleges.

The suggestion was made in a private note to Editor Farabee, of The Times, who gave it publicity and reads as follows:

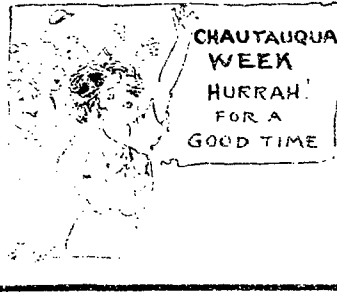

"For some time I have been a close observer and a sympathetic, too, I think of the athletic condition in our North Carolina colleges. We face problems that demand solution, and we will solve them, but we must not be revolutionary. Our solution must be gradual, evolutionary. This was evident at meeting of the representatives held in March in The Times building and at your suggestion.

"At this meeting it was agreed that professionalism should be eliminated from our colleges, but the evolutionary method of securing its elimination was adopted. I mean this: It was agreed that summer ball on teams not under national protection could be allowed and yet athletic relations be maintained. Later we will come to the point where even this "out color" from genuine amateur standing will be prohibited. I can not say when it will come, but it will come. "It was further agreed that scholarship should be insisted upon, and that no player would be eligible to represent his college who was not making the regular work of his course making a passing grade on all of it and having made a passing grade on the previous year's work. One of the great arguments against college athletics is that it lowers a student's scholarship. There is no reason why it should, but if it does in a particular instance that student should be eliminated. That result is aimed at in this second article of agreement. It would hardly seem possible for a man to make a good athletic representative of a college whose mother was to thick to enable him to make a passing grade. Athletics not only call for physical endurance and moral character, but they require mental alertness, or the team will suffer when the crises arise that shall mean victory or defeat. Surely there can be no objection to the articles of agreement, nor to the former as a minimum.

"There was a third agreement that it seems bids fair to make shipwreck of the whole truce of warring opinions. I refer to the one-year residence rule. The A. & M., Trinity, Elon and the University limiting its application to games with North Carolina colleges only. Wake Forest and Guilford were represented in the conference in Raleigh and their representatives expressed approval of the measure, but their constituencies did not sustain them in their opinion. Davidson could not be personally represented, but sent a note of endorsement, and felt that she would agree to any reasonable proposals that the conference might promulgate.

"With four of the conferring institutions agreeing to the proposals, and with three of them agreeing to two of the three measures, but disapproving the third, it would seem that some compromise will have to be entered into or the old conditions that have given college athletics in our good State a rather unsavory reputation be permitted to continue. I believe a compromise can be entered into that will satisfy all interests for the present, and, in this day of standards, standardize college athletics and at the same time place any college unwilling to co-operate in a very favorable light with her peers and with the public generally. My suggestion grows out of the occasion that seemed to demand the third proposal—the desire to prevent what has aptly been styled "scouting for athletes" or to use a plainer term, proselyting athletes from one college to another. This can effectually be prevented by making a man who goes from one college to another ineligible to represent his new-found alma mater until he shall have resided within her walls as a student for one year, meeting at the same time the other two requirements for eligibility. This compromise would allow freshmen to play, provided they should meet the other two tests, and out to command universal approval."

Let Mrs. Lettie Loy, 1018 Dixie St., tell it. Says Mrs. Loy: "I was rheumatic. My back and limbs were stiff and lame and the actions of my kidneys were irregular. I didn't sleep soundly. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills from the Freeman Drug Co., and they made me well. Doan's Kidney Pills are the finest remedy I have ever used. All have said about them in former statements, still holds good."

Mrs. Loy is only one of many Burlington people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills.
