THE INDEPENDENT MOVEMENT.

Burlington, Sept. 1. Dispatch: I ask that you publish this article clipped from the State press: WARSAW NEWS ITEMS.

Duplin's Non-Partisans to Nominate Ticket Sept. 22—Stock Law Issue.

(Special to Daily News.) Warsaw, Aug. 29.—The Duplin county non-partisan party, consisting of the Progressive and old line Republicans, and a few of the Democratic party met in Kenansville yesterday to adopt a platform and nominate candidates for the various county offices and the State Legislature.

They elected L. W. Moore, of Teachers, chairman of the convention, and John King, of Wolfscrape, secretary. J. G. Holland, of Warsaw, presented a motion, which was duly carried, to appoint a committee of one from each of the voting precincts of the county to draft the following platform:

1 We oppose the high rate of taxes in force in Duplin county.

2 To repeal the Dog Law, Fish Law, and Stock Law, now in force in Duplin county.

The matter of nominating the various officers was postponed until Tuesday, September 22.

The stock law is playing an important part in this party, as the majority of the party are farmers who state that they feel that they were done a great injustice by the Democratic members of the State legislature when, as they say, the stock law was forced on them, without their consent or a voice of the people at all. This matter has caused considerable feeling ever since it was passed about a year ago.

There are numbers of Independent or non-partisan Democrats in Alamance who are tired and disgusted with the court house ring, and also tired of our ever-increasing taxes—16 years ago our county was practically out of debt. Now we owe over $350,000, and going into debt thousands and thousands of dollars every year.

Our taxes growing by leaps and bounds. And still we don't see that our roads are being repaired or that we are being benefitted by our increased taxes. I hear the rumblings—the tax payers are getting restless, and are tired of being boss-ridden—they want better government—they want to know what their money is being spent for where it goes, who is being benefitted. We want a chance—a house cleaning—Let us go to work and get out a strong ticket composed of good men, no matter from what party, men who have the interest of the tax-payer at heart who will run our county affairs so that our receipts will pay expenses, or pay as we go, and not run the county in debt.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

isees, who were the strict nationalists and the guardians of the ancient traditions, the Sadducees, who were the liberals in theology and taught many new doctrines, the Herodians, who favored the political schemes of the officeholders, and the scribes—all came from time to time with questions, and problems designed to create heated arguments. Many of the points they presented were mere catchwords and party cries, having no bearing at all, as we now understand, upon simple spiritual life; but every one of them would have placed Jesus in compromising relations with civil or religious law if his answers had not been uniformly wise and unassailable. From the study of this contest we come with renewed confidence in our Lord as the Guide and Teacher of the true spiritual life.

THE SCRIBE'S QUESTION.

On this day when so many were attempting to ensnare Jesus in fruitless controversy and destroy his influence a scribe came forward with a disputed question. The motive of this scribe was mixed with good and bad. He had an admiration for the manner in which our Lord had answered all his opponents, and at the same time he was ready to weaken his hold upon the people if he should deny plain Scriptural teaching. He said: "What commandment is first of all?" The answer to that question might easily stimulate a genuine war of words to no profit, and might end only in bitterness and denunciation. Controversy no more important than this has at times torn nations and continents asunder and put opposing armies in the field ready to shed each other's blood.

THE COMMANDMENT OF LOVE.

The answer of Jesus suggested no new doctrine upon which disputes might be based. The writings of Moses had already furnished an answer to the question, and Jesus replied in words familiar to students of the Old Testament. See Deuteronomy vi 5 and Leviticus xix. 18. Love to God and love to man embraced the sum total of human duties. The supreme law of human life is love; and when love is established in the human heart no other law is necessary for it has all law in its grasp. If any one loves God supremely, with all the heart and all the intellect and all the will; it follows as the most natural conclusion that he will love his fellow man. All the law and the prophets are summed up in the one word "love." If any one is able to grasp the full meaning of love, he will need no other law to regulate his conduct. This is the "new commandment" which Jesus says he gave his disciples. See John xiii 34 and xv. 12-17.

Can any one love God and keep impure things in his heart? Can he love his neighbor and permit any conduct that will do harm to his neighbor? Can he love his neighbor with a genuine, godlike affection and leave out any human being from the working of that all-embracing law? Further words, if any one understands fully what love means, will he not purify his heart and conduct so that all men shall see God in his life?

THE SCRIBE'S REPLY.

If we are able to grasp the wistful, yearning spirit of Jesus in his answer we can see in it more than a mere doctrinal reply to a theological inquiry. It is almost plain to hear in his words an undertone of real saying to the scribe: "This is the first and great demand of God; can you not give me your heart of love?" The scribe saw this look of true love in the eyes of Jesus and heard the tone of deep appeal. He replied: "Teacher, thou hast well said that he is in; and there is none other but he; and to love him with all the heart and with all the strength, and to love his neighbor as himself, is much more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices." The better nature of the man appeared in this reply, and for a moment he forgot the unworthy motive that prompted him to draw Jesus into controversy. He had a better motive than most of the Pharisees who sought to undermine the authority of Jesus; but, like most of us, he mixed his good with bad, and it is difficult to say which shall finally prevail. The taunting faces of the Pharisees are seen in the background of the picture, and the man was not left to his own free choice of a decision. It is one of the most tragic facts in this world that when Jesus is face to face with an earnest inquirer so many other forces should be at work to hold the soul in bondage. Many a man would give his decision promptly and gladly for a better life with his Lord if his associated did not hold him back.

THE FINAL APPEAL.

Our Lord read the deep sincerity of the scribe's heart as he gave his answer, and sincerity is a virtue that never fails to win the approval of Jesus. He said to this man: "Thou art not far from the kingdom of God." When he could understand the vast difference between the spirit of love which Jesus taught and the hair-splitting discussions of the theologians, he was at the open door of pure religion. Jesus was ready to assist him into the full light of his own unceasing fellowship. If the scribe was ready to make the one great decision that meant entire submission to the will of God, Jesus was ready to help him into that life which meant developing character and increasing usefulness in the world. Did the scribe make the final decision? Did he both hear and heed the wistfulness in the words of Jesus when he said: "Thou art not far from the kingdom of God?" We may not answer for the scribe; but for ourselves we may say: "Not only very near, but altogether in the kingdom of God."

QUESTIONS.

Discuss the religious parties in Jerusalem with whom the Lord came in contact.

What office was filled by the scribes in Jewish religious life?

Discuss the motive of the scribe in coming to Jesus.

What question did he propound? What controversy might have been raised by it?

Discuss the Lord's answer.

What appeal did these words contain?

Why is love the summation of the law of God?

Ridicule is a keen weapon. You can hurt most people more by laughing at them than by shooting at them.

You can tell that time is money from the way some people squander it.

Now that the people are talking about the war prices of living the Democrats ought to be able to escape in the general confusion.

To Whom It May Concern:

Having heard a good deal concerning the excellent qualities of the James Oliver Plow No. 11, sold by Coble and Bradshaw, Burlington, N. C., caused me to call upon Mr. James H. Coble, Burlington, Route 1, who owns one, and has recommended it so highly. After observing it work I was convinced that the James Oliver Plow No. 11, was the plow for me. And without further investigation or hesitation, I purchased one.

I am now satisfied that the James Oliver No. 11 sold by Coble and Bradshaw beats any plow I have ever seen or tested. And if I were certain that I could not get another like it, I would not dispense with mine for $150. It has already been worth its price to me, and I have only had it two weeks.

My advice to fellow farmers is that if they desire to preserve ten or fifteen years of their lives, that the sanest and best way to do so, is to purchase a James Oliver Plow No. 11 from Coble Bradshaw.

Sincerely,
Greene A. Nicholson,

This week you can save HALF on Suits that are good for now and fall wear. The assortment is better than usual because the unprecedented sale of Palm Beach and Linen Suits during this summer left us with considerable more woolen suits than usual. So right now is your chance for a good suit.

This is a particularly good chance to fit the boys and young men for school, for the weight and styles of our suits are the ones most suitable for fall, and most young men prefer our clothes anyhow. Call and look the line over. It will not place you under any obligation to buy.

FABLES OF SLANG.
The New Fable of the Unruffled Wife and the Gallus Husband.
 By George Ade.

One day a Married Woman who was entitled to a long row of Service Stripes on her Sleeve sat in the Motor and watched the remainder of the Sketch try out his new trick Monoplane.

He scooted away with the Buzzer working overtime and soon was cloud-hopping about a Mile overhead.

When he began doing the Eagle Swoops and the Corkscrew Dips, which so often serve as a Prelude to a good First Page Story with a picture of the Remains being sorted out from the Debris, most of the Spectators gasped and felt their Toes curling inside of their Shoes, but Wifey never betted an Eye.

With only one little Strand of Wire or perchance a Steering Knuckle standing between her and a lot of Insurance Money she retained both her Apitomb and Lorquette.

"How can you bear to watch it?" asked a Lady Friend, who was hearing perceptibly.

"Listen," replied a Good Woman. "For many Snows I have been sitting on the Side Lines watching the Dear Ecy take Desperate Chances. To begin with, he married into Our Family. Once, at Asbury Park, he acted as Judge at a Baby Show. Later he put a lot of Money into a Bank, the President of which were Tarnout Whites, and was opposed to Sunday Baseball. He has played Golf on Public Links, hunted Deer during the Open Season in the Adirondacks and occupied the Role of "Grand Melon" in Amateur Theatricals. Once he attended a Clam Bake and took everything that was Pressed. At another time he made a Speech when the Alumni celebrated a Foot Ball Victory. The next day he goes Shopping with me. Last year he acted as Angel for a Musical Comedy. The Review of our Car is a Freshman. And he is a member of the Six Six Six Club."

Weeds Cut Down the High Cost of Living.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—As a remedy for the soaring prices of foodstuffs, Mrs. W. K. Jacques, of 4310 Greenwood Avenue urges housewives to use weeds on their tables.

"There are ten weeds, all edible, that can be used for food," Mrs. Jacques said. "They are the dock, nettle, sorrel, purslane, milkweed, dandelion, pigweed, lamb's quarter, marsh marigold and brake fern. They make excellent greens and are nourishing. Purslane, commonly called 'puss-sy,' which stands for original sin to most people, is edible. Chinese are fond of it and it is found in well cultivated gardens. Purslane will not grow any place else and it can't stand competition."

"As this is planting time for the weeds, when the seeds are ripened and blossoming and each weed is trying to get seeds in the ground for next year, people should decide whether or not these aggressive plants are to decorate the vacant lots over the city. Improvement associations make the mistake of attacking weeds just because they are weeds. They sometimes forget that these plants can be utilized for their beauty. On one vacant lot wild carrot grew riotously. Although wild carrot is a weed, which is called Queen Anne's face," it made a lovely spot of the vacant lot with its pretty white blossoms. The neighbors enjoyed the white weeds across the way, but one day a man from the improvement association came to mow them down.

"Ma'am, them's weeds," he said when the neighbor protested.

At her farm, the Terrace, near South Haven, Mrs. Jacques encourages the weeds to grow. She has made a study of each weed's utility and beauty through many months of watchfulness. She champions the cause of the weeds for their economic value to the poor and many desires they offer to the artist for sketches, she said. But most of all for food.

Catches Snakes with Hooks.

W. E. Noble, a pioneer desert teamster, took a shot at a rattlesnake coiled up close to the road in the Calico country, near Sodaville, Nev. Immediately after the shot his curiosity prompted the marksman to look at a rock which had been broken by the bullet after it had passed through the snake's head, and the assays of this rock runs upward of $150 a ton in gold and 900 ounces of silver. At the present time there are 2,500 tons of ore in sight projecting about the surface of the surrounding country, which is included in the claim staked by Noble.

Fishing for rattlers in the mountains near San Bernardino, Cal., is good. Two anglers fishing along a stream in the region of Big Deer lake disturbed two rattlers in a hole in the rocks along the water's edge. Being unable to get at them in any other way, the anglers fastened hooks to the rocks along the water's edge. Being unable to get at them in any other way, the anglers fastened hooks to the ends of their poles. These they lowered into the hole, and after producing the snakes for a while the reptiles became mad and struck at their tormentors, whereupon they were caught on the hooks and drawn out of the hole.

An Unfrenzied Financier.

Among the unfrenzied financiers of the wild and woolly west, E. R. Dewitt, of Snowflake, Ariz., will rank as a copper-bottomed and copper-fastened. He has a contract with the postoffice department for carrying parcel post matter from Holbrook to Snowflake, 30 miles, at $1.60 per 100 pounds. The postage on parcels is $1.08 per 100 pounds.

Mr. Dewitt needed a lot of rolled barley. He bought five tons of the Mesa Milling Company and shipped it from Mesa to Snowflake in 200 sacks of 50 pounds each. For railroad transportation of this barley from Mesa to Holbrook, a distance of several hundred miles, and team transportation from Holbrook to Snowflake, 30 miles, he paid the United States government $108, and the United States Government paid him for carrying it the 30 miles $160. He received $52 more than he paid for transportation. He got his 200 sacks of rolled barley carried for nothing and obtained $52 besides.—Los Angeles Times.

Foolish Remedies.

Mayor Mitchell, of New York, said of a foolish suggestion for winning Ulster over to home rule:

"This remedy reminds me of the woman who looked up from the woman's magazine and said: 'John, it tells you here that sliced onions scattered about the house will absorb the smell of fresh paint.'"

"That's right, I guess," John answered. "Decapitation, too, will cure a cold in the head."—Washington Star.

Worthy.

"Are you sure you love your neighbor as yourself?" asked St. Peter, who was cross-examining the new arrival, relates The Birmingham Age-Herald.

"Yes," answered the applicant for a golden crown. "For ten years he used my telephone to carry on his business, and I never complained."

"Enter, my good man," said St. Peter with much feeling.

The Sugar Situation.

Perhaps there is no use talking about it now, but there is scarcely a free trader in the whole country who will not admit that the cut in the tariff on sugar is producing bad results. The country would have been in better position now, so far as prices on sugar are concerned, had the cut not been quite so deep. The Louisiana sugar planters were deprived of protection to such an extent that thousands of acres that had been devoted to sugar cane were put to cotton and to other crops, and in consequence, Louisiana sugar is not the factor in the market it has been. Coincident with this condition in the American sugar producing industry, beet sugar growing in five European countries have been abandoned for the time. The sugar beet industry in this country is scoring a last opportunity all of which combines to make an ideal situation for the manipulation of the sugar markets. Sugar seems to be a victim of circumstances.

Family Reunion Near Altamahaw.

The Ross family got together last Sunday at Mr. J. M. Ross for a family reunion and a general good time.

A large number were present, including relatives and friends of the family.

The reunion was a success in every way—especially the dinner—if we accept the statement of those present. The table was spread at twelve o'clock and the guests enjoyed one of the best dinners they had eaten in a long time. In the afternoon a number of watermelons were cut. Those present were: From Rockingham, G. M. Ross and family and Will Carter; from Altamahaw No. 1, W. L. Ross and family; from Burlington, J. M. Hayes and son; from Burlington No. 8, A. T. Isley and family, J. H. Ross and J. F. Sutton; from Altamahaw No. 2, Samuel Somers and family and G. W. Sutton; and from Elion College, No. 1, R. L. Somers and family, and Eddie Cook.

The reunion was a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Ross, but none the less they enjoyed it on that account. We hope they will have another one next year. Mr. Ross has 6 children and 27 grandchildren all living.

Green vs. Spring.

On August 22 Spring came to Green's ground and played them a very fussy game of ball. The fuss was, however, among the Green players and outsiders. Green had three umpires and all the outsiders had a voice in it every few minutes. The Green boys got very angry several times and came running out in the diamond with bats and "old stumps" to command peace but they were not dangerous. The Spring boys held their ground and would not be run over, some of the Green people used their eyes tested for glasses as they could not see the Spring boys tag the bases when they were in five feet of them. In short language the Green people know more about baseball than the New York Giants, but can't play the game. Spring won from them 12 to 9 with all the umpires in Green's favor. Hurrah for Spring.

Burlington and Gibsonville.

The Burlington ball team Saturday afternoon met on the diamond at Piedmont Park the Gibsonville team and umpire supposedly for the purpose of playing a ball game, but much to the disappointment of the crowd no such sight was in store for the spectators, as it turned out to be about the worst thing that has happened in the park in the ball line this year.

The Burlington boys made several expensive errors and seemed to be having an "off day" in the playing line. Their errors were little if any worse than those made by the Gibsonville team. The teams are very evenly matched when each side has only nine men, as was evidenced by the score of the two former games when Burlington beat them 4 to 2 in the first game and 3 to 2 in the second.

For bad decisions the umpire Saturday had everything beat that has ever been tried in this section of the State. Two of his "outs" were when the player dropped the ball and had to walk after it. Quite a number of his decisions were said by the spectators to be "rotten."

Burlington finally left the field at the beginning of the eighth inning on one of his decisions and he declared the game forfeited to Gibsonville by a score of nine to nothing.

The score board showed the final score to be 8 to 5 in favor of Gibsonville. We are not sore at all about losing a game, but all we want is a fair chance—nine men on each team and the umpire for neither side, regardless of whether he is to be paid if his team wins the game.

SOCIAL NEWS.

Monday night, Mrs. James N. Williams, Jr., was at home to a small party of young people in honor of her nieces, of Martinsville, Va., Misses Margaret and Mary Holt Spencer, her guests for the week.

The lovely home was a scene of beauty and brilliancy. The porch, which semi-circles the house, was tastefully arranged with potted flowers and many inviting nooks in the recesses. The floor was bared for dancing, and the new steps were gracefully done.

During the course of the evening refreshments were served. The spirit of summer jollity entered the gathering, and joy of more than usual abandon prevailed.

Misses Bessie Bennett and Sula Stokes, visiting young ladies, were the honorees Saturday of a morning party given by Miss Byrde Dailey at her home on Union Avenue to the Embroidery Club. The guests assembled at ten-thirty, and were entertained until twelve. Progressive Rook was the game of the morning. Ice tea, sandwiches, pickles, cakes and cream were served by the hostess assisted by Misses Mary Holt, Ruth Dailey and Sallie Wilson Hatchett. The summer's heat was forgotten in the genuine pleasure of the occasion.

Misses Jessamine and Corinna Gant entertained a few friends at their home, "Bonny Oaks" last Wednesday night. A party of young people from our sister city, Graham, added much to the pleasure of the evening. The occasion was very informal. Music by the victrola in the large living room where the floor was cleared for dancing, filled the company with one-step spirit. The new dances were the favorites. Pleasant repartee in the rosy corners of the porches made the evening most enjoyable.

Mrs. J. W. Murray entertained the Round Dozen Club at her beautiful home on Davis Street Thursday afternoon from four to six.

Tables were set for Rook, the game of the afternoon. The game was played progressively.

The afternoon was one of genuine pleasure, and both members and visitors left thanking Mrs. Murray most sincerely for a happy time.

Grape Juice and sandwiches, cream and cake were served.

At Piedmont Park Saturday.

The M. P. Church gave their annual picnic Saturday at Piedmont Park, leaving the church at 10 and returning at 4. All the Sunday Schools in the county were invited and 13 churches were represented. Supt. H. A. Garrett, of High Point, was present and made an able address. The rest of the time was spent socially. About 500 people were present.

The Sunday School of the Reformed church held their picnic Saturday at Piedmont Park from 5 to 9. The members of the Sunday school with their friends formed quite a large crowd but a long table loaded with things thoroughly satisfying to every one present, made the occasion a very pleasant one.

Boy Hurt by Falling Bricks.

What came very near being a fatal accident occurred yesterday evening about six o'clock when John Malone was struck on the head by falling bricks from the new building of C. F. Rauhut on Front street. The boy was pushing a wheelbarrow of bricks on the street just in front of the building when the bricks gave way. It was thought at first that the boy could not recover, but information this morning stated that the boy was getting along very well.
