

CLOSING EARLY ON THE SATURDAYS.

Here's a Reason Assigned Why the Wise Plan is the Closing Early Plan.

Although in New York, Chicago and other large cities many retail stores employing men close at 6 p. m., on Saturday—at 1 o'clock in summer—an early closing movement for men is practically unknown in the smaller cities. In fact, many of them have still to achieve a free Saturday evening for women.

In Buffalo, however, with an alert Consumers' League, and an active union of retail clerks, the Saturday half holiday for women has been achieved. And now C. A. Weed & Co., men's clothiers, employing only men, have begun closing at 6 o'clock on Saturday. Their reasons for it, as given in display advertisements in the Buffalo newspapers, make interesting reading.

"No man has a right to climb to success over his brother's bones," they say. "The heads of this firm who engage in no strenuous labor, but merely oversee the work of others, are themselves weary and mentally tired at 6 o'clock. What, then, must be the condition of the men who do the work? Personal observation has proved to us that they are close to the point of exhaustion, and when that point is passed the work of the day begins."

"Employers, therefore, are in large measure responsible for many of the physical ills and resultant misfortunes of their employes. Human nature can stand just so much. When it is pushed to the extreme, it balks. And, as a rule, when employes get sick, they not only lose their salaries, but use up their surplus in medicines."

"The actual responsibility of the employer may cease with the payment of salaries, but his moral obligation to those who help him succeed include not only sanitary working conditions, but such working hours as the human system can stand comfortably."

"It is almost impossible to estimate the amount of good that would come from a general six o'clock closing movement. We ourselves feel so keenly on the subject and we are so confident we are doing right, that nothing on earth can pry open our doors after 6 o'clock Saturday night, no matter if every other retail clothing establishment in Buffalo keeps open until midnight and does a loud office business.—New York American.

(We print the above from Sunday's News and Observer so that the merchants and their clerks can know the stand the most progressive merchants in the larger cities are taking with their help. It is a commendable spirit, and one that should be encouraged here. Clerks in stores work more hours per day than any other class of employes. While we think six o'clock too early to close on Saturday, here, we do believe that the plan of closing at six o'clock the other weekdays should be maintained throughout the year. The old custom of keeping open until 10, 11 and even 12 o'clock every night to accommodate yard-tellers and checker players is fast being relegated to the past.)

As Others See It.

"Lawlessness walks the State like a pestilence, crime stalks abroad at noon-day, sleep lays down with alarm, and the sound of the pistol is more frequent than the songs of the mocking bird." The above lines were written by the late Ex-Governor Aycock in criticism of the last Republican administration of North Carolina. If the Ex-Governor could rise from his grave and hear the sound of the pistols and view with alarm the newly made graves caused by the assassin's hand, he perhaps would larg his head it shame of the political party he once loved.—Clinton News Dispatch.

Equal Suffrage for the Women.

Everybody thinks about the question of Equal Suffrage but to a great many people it seems as foreign and far away as the Home Rule agitation. Many of us who admit the justice and abstract right of Equal Suffrage do not realize the immediate need. Nor do we consider how it would affect our own local conditions. How would Equal Suffrage affect North Carolina?

Some of us will answer that North Carolina does not need it, that the women of the West may vote if they like, but that here at home there is little occasion for considering the matter at all. Of course "It is coming." We all agree to that, some with the joy of hope, others with vague forebodings of disaster, for there are always those to whom whatever is right and whatever is not is dangerous. We are inclined to add, however, that it will be a long time before it comes in North Carolina. And yet why should it be?

A great many men will say "When the women of North Carolina want to vote I think they should be allowed to do so, but unless the majority of the women themselves ask for it I do not think they should be given suffrage."

With the first part of this remark there should be no quarrel. When the women of the State want to vote, surely they should not be denied. Why however, must the majority of women wish the franchise in order to secure it. You cannot "force the ballot" upon anybody, but you can deny it to many. Should the minority who wish political equality with men be denied it because the majority are indifferent or even opposed to assuming their share of political responsibility?

It would be quite as logical to say "When the children of North Carolina want to go to school we will provide schools for them, but unless the majority of the children wish to be educated we will not force education upon them." The average child does not appreciate the value of its education at least until it is in the high school, and frequently not even then. None the less after the physical necessities of food, clothes, sleep and shelter the child needs education, training above all things. It is the duty of the State to realize and provide for that need. The child must be taught to be a useful and efficient citizen regardless of its own indifference. Moreover the child's indifference to school and its indifference to going to school and it does not want to go. Later on, it appreciates the value of training.

In public affairs women are children. They have not been trained to become real citizens. It is natural that they should in many cases be indifferent even antagonistic to equal suffrage, its advantages are not always obvious and its responsibilities would be great. The State should realize, however, that it is wasting a great opportunity in allowing at least half of its population to ignore the duties of citizenship. More than that it should realize that it is making a terrible mistake in allowing the mother of children no part in the government. It is not only because of valuable service they could render, but more especially because to them is entrusted the training of the younger generation. One great weakness in modern conditions is that many of our best citizens are little interested in citizenship. As the care of the child is left more and more to the mother, and becomes what she makes him far more than what his father makes him, we can but infer this indifference to politics, so much deplored, will increase unless the mother of the child, herself a responsible citizen teaches her son the duties of citizenship.—Miss Annie S. Liddell in News and Observer.

Henry Blount Is Dead.

There will be sadness carried to many a heart and many a home in North Carolina when there is read the sad news of this morning that Henry Blount is dead.

Need we say Henry Blount, of Wilson? Nay, verily, for Henry Blount was of North Carolina, a man devoted to its people and to its great traditions. He loved North Carolina and not a North Carolinian who knew him but gave love in return.

He was the apostle of sunshine and of good cheer. He radiated good humor, and this did not forsake him in the latter days of his life, spent among his Comrades of the Gray at the Confederate Soldiers' Home in Raleigh.

And those who did not know Henry Blount personally knew him from his writings and his lectures. The Wilson Mirror, born in the heart of Henry Blount, was a paper that exhaled love of mankind. It was Henry Blount put into type and wherever it was read it carried sunshine and pleasure.

If Henry Blount ever said an unkind thing of a human being it is something unknown. His heart just ran over with the love of his fellow man. It was good to know him, and those who had his intimate friendship had a joy all their own.

A gallant Confederate soldier he served the South devotedly and well. In peace he gave to his State the best that was in him. Time has called him and he is no more, but his memory will live and the sweetness of his spirit will linger in the thoughts of all who knew him.

We knew him and knew him well. He was a high-minded and noble-spirited man. We pay tribute to his memory out of the fullness of our knowledge of him. We say good-bye to him with the deepest sorrow, and we know that this is a sorrow which is duplicated in the hearts of great hosts of friends. Good-night, friend, true and tried, may the rest which comes to the Redeemed of the Lord be your portion in that land not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.—News and Observer.

Unknown Intruder Attempts to Choke Iredell Woman.

Mooreville, August 27.—Between 11:30 and 12 o'clock last night during a copious downpour of rain a man entered the home of Roy Kennerly, five miles south of town on the Durham place, and going to the bed in which was sleeping Mrs. Kennerly, placed his hands upon her and was in the act of choking her when she was awakened. She gave one bound and scream which frightened the man who broke away and ran out into the darkness and storm.

A negro, Abe Allison, who lives on the place 300 yards from the Kennerly house, has been arrested and taken to jail at Statesville.

The facts in the case are that Mr. Kennerly is working with one of the forces in north Iredell, and was away from home. Mrs. Kennerly and three little children have been on the farm alone since crops have been laid by. This was known to the community, and the negro arrested had talked about the bravery of Mrs. Kennerly and had predicted just what took place to Sherwood Harris, father of the young woman less than two weeks ago.

Much excitement prevailed in and around this vicinity during the day, and if a negro had been identified by Mrs. Kennerly, there would probably have been work for the coroner instead of Sheriff Deaton who was on the job and made the arrest of the negro Allison after a pretty thorough investigation. Mrs. Kennerly is prominently connected among the best and oldest families in this end of the county.

After the attack in the home and the scream of Mrs. Kennerly, the negro Allison came to her rescue and assisted in taking Mrs. Kennerly and children to the home of Mr. Brice Kistler, her nearest neighbor. Allison is past the middle age and has a wife with whom he lived on the place.

Machinery Man Is Badly Wanted.

Greensboro, Aug. 31.—The Greensboro Loan & Trust Company has instituted an action in Superior Court against O. C. Klingman, who has been manager of the J. I. Case Company branch office here for many years, for the sum of $1,200 on a note, and has caused the sheriff to take under a warrant of attachment nine head of cattle, eighty-five bushels of wheat, eleven head of hogs, three head of horses and other property. It is the purpose of this action to subject this property to payment of the note held by the plaintiff. It is alleged in the affidavit for attachment that Mr. Klingman has departed the State or is concealed therein, and cannot be reached by process. Mr. Klingman is said to have left the city several days ago and no one knows where he is at present. Efforts have been made by local people to locate him. He is a man of pleasing address and has made some strong friends in the city. He came here several years ago and established the agency for the J. I. Case Company, which has done a large business in the South through the local offices.

War Will Be An Aid to Fire Prevention.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 23.—Fire Insurance men are endeavoring to impress upon the public the importance of special care in the matter of fire prevention at this particular time.

Normal losses have been heavy, and if a serious conflagration should come the existing financial and banking conditions would produce an unusual result. It would be necessary for the companies to sell large amounts of securities to pay a loss of that magnitude, and with the stock exchanges closed this would be impossible, no matter what great sacrifices they might be willing to make as to price in order to meet their obligations promptly. A conflagration just at this time, with its destruction of values and its disturbance of financial conditions would be serious.

That the situation is appreciated by business men generally is shown by the action of Marshall Field & Co., who have instructed the heads of all departments and managers of all factories, warehouses, garages and other properties to be exceptionally careful at this time as regards fire hazard. The notice, issued by Arthur Hawhurst, manager of the Insurance Department, is as follows:

"Owing to the terrible state of affairs in Europe, which affects the entire United States more or less in every direction, this department wishes now to call your particular attention to the results of sustaining a loss by fire. As the stock exchanges are closed the insurance companies would have no market for their securities in case they were called upon for a large amount of money for losses that might be sustained by an extensive fire or conflagration. Naturally they look for the help of every one to prevent such occurring."

"It is the duty of every assured, be he a householder or an employe, to take every wise precaution to prevent fire and its dire results at all times, particularly so at the present time. Consequently we call upon every employe in every department in all parts of our business to be more than watchful and careful in this regard, and every department head will be expected to make this a personal matter with those under him, to see that this is carried out."

"A loss of a property now not only means a money loss of the property but a loss of a plant, which at the present time will be most desirable to have in service, not alone for the good of the house but the welfare of the employes themselves. Let every one read this notice carefully, and let the wisdom of it impress itself upon him or her as the case may be."

KRONPRINZ WILHELM TAKEN?

New York, Sept. 2.—Reports were current here today that British cruisers had captured the Kronprinz Wilhelm, the German liner which has been roaming the seas since her sudden departure from this part a day or so before war was declared between Germany and England.

Sir Courtenay Bennett, British Consul General here, had heard the rumor and made inquiries during the day, but tonight said he had been unable to confirm it.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm, a North
German Lloyd liner, was taken a war prize into Bermuda, according to the reports.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm sailed from New York with darkened lights and all the coal she could get aboard a day or so before the declaration of war between Germany and Great Britain. She has not yet been reported as arriving at any port. The impression prevailed that she went to furnish coal to German cruisers in the North Atlantic.

The British cruiser Suffolk later reported she had sighted the Kronprinz Wilhelm transferring coal in mid-ocean to the German cruiser Karl-ruhe.

PARIS RESIGNED TO SITUATION.

Paris, Sept. 3.—8:50 P. M.—Paris
again today showed its remarkable adaptability to circumstances. Even though all allusions to such a contingency had been strictly forbidden
in the newspapers, that the government would be transferred to Bordeaux
was an open secret several days ago.

among journalists and public officials
and in military circles.

Among these persons the effect of the announcement had been largely discounted. The public, after its first surprise, is viewing the situation with composure, and tonight there seems to be a better feeling all around.

MILITARY SECRETS ARE WELL GUARDED.

Military secrets are being so well guarded that all reference to them is largely speculation, but it is a reasonable supposition that General Joffre prefers to accept a decisive battle against the Germans in front of the forts and the entrenched camp of Paris.

The Temps this evening, printed another article in which it predicted final success for the allies.

The Liberte quotes an English officer who arrived here today from Pierrefitte, 28 miles southeast of Paris, as saying he was wounded in a fierce battle near Compiègne, in which the Germans were driven back several times with heavy losses. He said the French and English offensive was successful over a front of several miles,
the Germans retreating toward the left.

PARIS IS DISAPPOINTED.

Paris, Sept. 3.—10:55 P. M.—Paris
was disappointed today because no
German aeroplane flew over the city.
Crowds gathered in various places from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 7 to watch for the aeroplane but none came. Several French machines patrolled the sky ready to engage the enemy.

Many persons have been astonished that the French aviators have not given chase to hostile machines flying over the city. It is explained, however, that only a plunging fire is effective against aeroplanes and that over a city a machine gun attack causes risk to more lives from bullets that miss the mark than are endangered by the bombs.

BRITISH CASUALTIES GIVEN.

London, Sept. 3.—6:50 P. M.—The official bureau issued a further statement of British casualties as follows:

Killed, 18 officers; 62 other ranks.
Missing, 86 officers; 4,672 other ranks.

The official bureau explains that the missing mentioned in the list of casualties are men not accounted for and include unwounded prisoners and stragglers as well as killed or wounded.

As regards the "other ranks," it is stated that 2,682 men are returned as having been sent back to their base, as unfit, and that a large proportion of these would be included in the number shown as missing in this and the previous reports from general headquarters.

In the report of casualties received tonight the names of the officers were given. Only their next of kin have been informed and the names will be published as soon as possible. No names of the men in the other ranks have been received, but a number of wounded already have been brought home.

SWEDEN URGED BY GERMANY.

London, Sept. 2.—8:10 P. M.—Telegraphing from Stockholm the State

correspondent says:

"Great anxiety is felt in the Swedish capital because of efforts Germany is making as shown by articles in the German newspaper, to induce Sweden
to abandon her attitude of neutrality
and take the field as an ally of Germany. The object sought is to weaken the Russian attack in East Prussia
by means of a Swedish attack on Finland."

TURKISH MOBILIZATION SLOW.

Petrograd, St. Petersburg, via London, Sept. 3.—4:52 P. M.—Turkish mobilization on the Persian boundary is slow. Many Christians and Kurds have refused to join them.

The Turks are forcibly enrolling all persons of military age.

There has been a serious conflict between Turks and Armenians at Bitlis, Turkish Armenia.

GERMANS TAKE AMIENS.

London, Sept. 3.—2:55 P. M.—A dispatch from Amiens, France, to the Daily Mail dated Tuesday, September 1, declares that the Germans have taken possession of Amiens after three day's fighting.

The dispatch to the Daily Mail from Amiens adds that the success of the Germans at Morcuil made the capture of Amiens certain. The entry was not contested. The mayor after receiving a German envoy, announced the surrender of the city and urged the citizens to make no disturbance.

MAYOR SURRENDERS CITY.

"It was seven o'clock Sunday evening," says the Mail's correspondent,
"when a party of Uhlans entered Amiens. After a brief reconnaissance, they retired to the German main body
at Camon. A half hour later they returned, accompanied by an envoy bearing a white flag. The latter interviewed Mayor Giguet at the town hall.
After an hour's discussion, the mayor appeared in front of the town hall with trumpeters and officially announced the surrender of the city. He urged that the citizens make no disturbance."

"Later the mayor and the municipal councillors drove out in carriages
to pay a formal visit to the German commander, who told them that they would be held responsible with their lives for the good conduct of the citizens."

"The Germans thereupon went to the town hall where they hauled down
the French flag and hoisted the German colors. The German troops began entering the city about midday,
singing as they came "Die Wacht Am Rhein," and "Deutschland Uber Alles."

ON HIGH ROAD TO PARIS.

"No time has been wasted, however,
as the orders were to move on swim-gly out on the high road to Paris. Only a few men were left to guard the city.
The only casualties in connection with the German occupation were those of a chauffeur, who was shot at the gates because he did not stop quickly enough at the order of the sentry and that of a local sausage-maker who got into a war of words with some troopers over the price of his wares.
"When the Germans entered Amiens the French retired to Picquigny (8 miles northwest of Amiens) blowing up both bridges over the Somme."

ALLIES ABANDON LA FERRE.

London, Sept. 3.—3:01 P. M.—Anundated French dispatch to The Times says:

"The Valley of the Somme has been abandoned. La Fere has been taken,"

after a bloody combat.

"The right wing of the Germans,"
says the correspondent, "is too far advanced and there is a chance that it will be cut and caught between two fires if the British should be found in force."

"Our center is resting very well and the right wing of our army appears to be taking the offensive."

LABOR PARTY PATRIOTIC.

London, Sept. 3.—7:23 P. M.—The parliamentary committee of the trade-union congress has issued a manifesto expressing approval of the efforts which the Labor members in the House of Commons are making in conjunction with the representatives of other parties to stimulate recruiting,
event of the voluntary system of military service proving inadequate at
tary service proving inadequate at
the present time, the need would result in greatly strengthening the advocacy of compulsory service. Accordingly the manhood of the nation should rally to the defense of the country in such numbers as "will demonstrate to the world that a free people can rise to supreme heights
of great sacrifice without the whip
of conscription."

tablished headquarters for the government.

TURKEY HALTS PLAN TO SEND RELIEF TO DESTITUTE.

Washington, Sept. 3.—Turkey has declined to grant the request of the United States for permission to send the cruiser North Carolina through the Dardanelles to Constantinople to deliver $150,000 in gold deposited here for the relief of Americans in the Ottoman empire.

The grand vizier has informed the American government that the waters of the Dardanelles are mined and that it would be unsafe for a vessel as large as the North Carolina to go through the straits. He declared also that it might establish a precedent for the passages of other foreign warships and suggested that the American naval yacht Scorpion, on duty in Turkish waters, be sent to sea to meet the North Carolina.

This was the substance of a long cablegram received at the White House and State Department today from Ambassador Morgenthau, the first message from him in several days. The ambassador made no mention of any declaration of war, but referred to the diplomatic situation as highly critical.

The ambassador reported that all Americans who wished to leave had done so and that he thought funds
aboard the North Carolina would be sufficient for immediate needs.

In view of the delicate situation the American ambassador suggested that the plan of sending the Scorpion to meet the North Carolina outside the straits be adopted. The incident was discussed at the navy and state departments today and the North Carolina, now at Falmouth, England, will start tomorrow for the Mediterranean.
She probably will touch at Italian ports and take aboard Assistant Secretary Breckenridge, reaching the Dardanelles in a week or ten days.

By the time of her arrival officials
here expect Turkey will have declared war on either Russia or Great Britain.

was a leading member of the Methodist Protestant Church here, and has spent his entire life in the pursuit of his chosen vocation, that of farming. The funeral was held in the M. P. Church today at 11 o'clock by his pastor, Rev. G. L. Curry, assisted by Rev. R. M. Andrews, of Greensboro, and Rev. C. H. Whitaker, former pastors of this church. There was a large concourse of people at the funeral and the floral designs were most beautiful. The design of wheat deserves special mention in that it represented his chosen profession, and showed the esteem in which he was held by his farmer friends. Picnic on No. Eight.

The annual picnic on Route Eight was pulled off on last Saturday, August 29th, on the grounds of the Isley School House, and when we remember that Mr. James Hayes delivers the goods on that Route it need not be stated that the occasion was a splendid success; for Mr. Hayes is without a peer in the line of Rural Free Delivery Picnics.

The crowd was fully as large as usual and the table fairly groaned under its burden of delicious victuals of all kinds from the most substantial ham to the most delicate cake and pie. All who have tasted need not be told that the women on Number Eight are among the best cooks to be found anywhere. After dinner the crowd was enlivened by speeches from Messrs. John M. Cook, E. S. W. Dameron, James Hayes, R. J. Hall, Ed Hodge and Mr. Riley, of Massachusetts. Upon the whole the picnic was, perhaps, a greater success than any previous picnic on that Route, and when that is said a great deal is said.

Mr. Hayes passed about among the crowd continuously and kept everybody feeling good with his genial wit and anecdotes, and he has thoroughly won the title of "Sunny Jim." In addition to the large attendance of patrons on Number Eight, there were present on this occasion visitors from Rockingham County, Caswell County, Route Number Two and the courteous carrier on Number Three, Mr. Jay Tate. This picnic added to the al-

Episcopal Picnic Thursday.

The Episcopal Sunday School held its annual picnic yesterday, going to the Model Farm of Mr. A. L. Combs, about eight miles from here on No. 1. The day was one full of pleasure and was especially enjoyed by Mr. Erwin A. Holt, this magnificent home being his birth-place. Games were indulged in by the children, while the older ones spent the time in conversation. Dinner was spread at 12:30 and much credit is due the ladies for the dainties also to the committees of the occasion for refreshments. Many courtesies were extended to the picnickers by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Combs which were appreciated beyond means of expression.

In Memory of Capt. E. S. Parker.
At noon Tuesday the court took a recess to allow memorial service to be held in honor of Capt. E. S. Parker by the bar of Alamance County.
The meeting was called to order and Judge W. P. Bynum of Greensboro was chosen chairman and Mr. J. S. Cook of Graham secretary.
Col. J. A. Long offered resolutions and fitting tributes were paid to the life and services of Captain Parker as lawyer and citizen by Col. Long, Hon. S. M. Gattis of Hillsboro, Mr. E. S. W. Dameron, of Burlington, Mr. J. Dolph Long, of Graham, and Judge W. P. Bynum, when the resolutions were adopted. At the reconvening of court Judge Rountree paid a touching and handsome tribute to the memory of Capt. Parker and ordered the resolutions spread upon the minutes of the court as a perpetual memorial.
The Resolutions are as follows:

IN MEMORIAM.

Captain Edward S. Parker was born in Cumberland County, N. C., on the 14th day of June 1838, and died on the 27th day of July, 1914, at Graham, N. C. He obtained his license to practice law just before the war between the States and was associated with Hon. George V. Strong at Goldsboro. He volunteered as a private soldier in 1861 and served with distinction throughout the war, rising by promotion to the rank of Captain.
He was one of the officers made prisoners and placed upon the ship known as the Maple Leaf, and started to a northern prison, who on the voyage by concert of action overpowered the officers and crew of the ship and made their escape, after many days of weary hardship to rejoin their commands. Before the close of the war he was happily married to Miss Ellen C. Northam, and she and three children—two sons and one daughter—survive.
He resumed the practice of law at Smithfield soon after the war and was employed as general counsel for the North Carolina Railroad Company, and in 1869 he moved to Company Shops, now Burlington.

In July, 1870, he made the first application for and obtained the first writ of Habeas Corpus on behalf of A. G. Moore and others, who had been arrested under orders of Gov. W. W. Holden and Col. G. W. Kirk, and he was prominent in all litigation and trials held both in the State and Federal courts concerning that and other arrests.
In 1871 he settled in Graham, where he lived and labored the remainder of his life.
He was elected State Senator for this Senatorial district, and also Solicitor for the State in this Judicial District, and served with distinction in both positions.
Therefore, be it resolved by the Bar Association of Alamance County:
First: That we most deeply and sincerely deplore the departure of our faithful fellow member and friend, whose splendid talents, great learning, honest counsel and fidelity to duty so fittingly adorned our profession and gave to him a place of secure precedence among the greatest lawyers of the State.
Second: That we most heartily commend his example as a true, upright and patriotic citizen in peace and in war, and point with grateful pride to his civic virtues as worthy of all emulation. As a lawyer painstaking, accurate, fearless and candid, as a citizen, broad-minded, unselfish, public-spirited and loyal; as a friend, warm hearted, sincere, sympathetic and faithful, always—in all the relations of life conscientious and scrupulously true, Captain Parker must ever rank as one of the builders of the great community of Alamance, and as an exponent of all that is highest and truest and noblest in the best citizenship of the nation.
Third: That we tender our sincerest sympathy to the bereaved members of his family and relatives in their deep grief and distress.
Fourth: That our secretary be instructed to furnish a copy of these resolutions to the several county papers and to the daily papers of the State with the request to publish.

This 25th day of August, 1914.

Claude Allen's Fiancee Weds J. V. Bowman.
Love levels all things, and pretty brown-eyed little Nellie Wissler, betrothed of the ill-starred Claude S. Allen, has forgotten her cup of sorrow in the happiness of one who has capitulated to the barbed shafts of the wily Cupid. Last night, she, who seventeen months ago was widowed before wed by the stern necessities of law became the wife of J. Victor Bowman, of Coalwood, W. Va., the marriage being performed by Rev. John M. Crowe, pastor of the Methodist Church in Pulaski, the home of the bride.
Richmond will long remember the little mountain lass who so faithfully clung to her condemned lover through the months of his incarceration in the Virginia State Penitentiary, where the extreme penalty of the law was finally meted out to those who shocked the world on that March day when a judge on the bench was shot, together with other court officials, by the band of Carroll county mountaineers. For weeks she was a familiar sight as she, clad in deepest mourning, made her daily trips to the grim building, bearing messages of love and hope to the youth who was to pay with his life for his outlawry.
Hundreds of persons united in offering the bereaved girl expressions of sympathy in her time of trouble. As long as there was hope, she clung to her post, and her fortitude heard the despairing news that nothing could save her lover. Bowed down with sorrow, she left for her mountain home, where she was when the Hillsville herow was exploited by Claude Swanson Allen and the leader of the clan, Floyd Allen, with their lives.—Times Dispatch.
Good Prices for Tobacco.
Tobacco has been bringing very satisfactory prices on the Lumberton market this week. There has been quite a bit placed on the market. This reporter attended the sales Tuesday and all the farmers who sold tobacco that day were well pleased. Prices ranged from 2 3-4 on scrap to 17 1-2 cents, considering the European fluctuations. Good tobacco is selling mighty well, considering the European war troubles.—Lumberton Robesonian.

Two Planks on Primaries.
The fact that the Republicans of the State put a plank in their platform calling for a state-wide primary ought to put those great and good "leaders" in the interest of the people but being out and desiring to get in they are wise enough to see that it is good policy to promise that which the people of the State have made up their minds to have. The difference in the attitude of the two conventions towards the wishes of the people of the State, however, is quite noticeable. In the first convention the handful of Democrats at Raleigh listened to the few opponents of progressive democracy and refused a state-wide primary, while the second convention, Republican, eagerly grasped this issue and will seek to make all the capital possible out of it. The state-wide primary law is coming, and neither party will be entitled to any great credit for it when it does come. Though each will swell up and claim full credit.—Salisbury Post.

Who knows what the squabble between Collector Bailey and the Greensboro News is about? Neither one has ever adhered to any one political creed. POOR F

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER.

Transparent Crinoline Frocks — The Wide, Flat Sailor—The Hat the Moment.

SIMPLIFIED COIFFURES.

New York, Sept. 1.—The popularity of crinoline hangs in the balance. The war is stifling Parisian news and it will probably be up to American dress-makers whether they follow the lines set by Poiret, Doucet and many other French houses before the war depleted their ranks, or whether it will be a period of American creations designed for American women. It is an ill wind that blows nobody some good, and this terrible conflict abroad may mean the uprising of dominating American styles.

The arrival of wider and fuller skirts cannot be denied, and many of them are held out by a heavy cord in the hem. Then there is the long, full tunic, often made of lace with a tighter underskirt below. Around the edge of the tunic are wreaths of artificial roses. The waist is of lace or tulle and the line of the low neck is outlined by these same roses.

The 1870 style of bodice which is so stylish now is almost always seen sleeveless. It has a long waistline and a strap over the shoulder. This waist conforms more to the figure than the waist of a few months ago and had a lining of chiffon or very light weight silk. A striking gown of this type, which I have just seen, was made of very dark blue, soft silk. The straps which went over the shoulders were not applied but in one with the dress and so wide that they dropped well over the shoulders. About the round cut decollete neck was an inch wide beaded band of jet. The sleeveless armhole had a band of beaded insertion, composed of a series of long bugles placed crosswise, with a small bead on either end at the edge. A six-inch beaded girdle encircled the waist drooping well over the hips. The skirt had a long and plain tunic, slightly fluted at the waist. Just below this was noticeable a tight fitting underskirt.

The modern crinoline dress is indeed paradoxical when one thinks that although skirts seem fuller there is always a tight skirt underneath. In fact, in one of the late French magazines was shown a wonderful gown of sheerest pale pink organdy, and showing through was the figure swathed closely in satin from waist to ankle.

A Dress of Grosgrain Taffeta With Over Blouse Having a Ripply Cape Back.

The wide flat trimmed sailor is the hat of the moment. It is flat with a large, round, low crown. It is made of straw, taffeta or velvet and trimmed simply with a rose, a quill, or a snappy bow. The shape itself is suitable for as many diverse occasions as its trimming, or the material used in its making.

The illustration is of a chic model in brown grosgrain taffeta, which is both new and smart. The waist is made with an overwaist which has a rippling cape in the back. This is worn over a plain waist which buttons down the front. A tunic, tucked in groups of three around the waist is worn over a tighter underskirt of striped taffeta, while a wide sash of striped taffeta ties with a large bow just below the cape in the back.

For winter suits and separate coats the pile fabrics, such as velvet, plush and many imitation fur cloths, are most fashionable. For the very dressy afternoon costume a delicate pile material, combined with velvet or with a chenille striped fabric, is stunning. The basic material for these stripes is usually chiffon or soft satin.

Lace will be used this Fall on afternoon as well as evening gowns. White or cream lace tunics over black are very good and often worn with a fashionable basque waist of satin, or velvet. Net with satin or velvet bands are, also, smart and used in the same way whether in black or white.

The style of wearing the hair is decidedly changed from last season when the ears and line of the hair on the neck and brow was invisible, but now the hair is combed straight from the back of the ears, leaving the ears exposed. To be absolutely correct in Paris the hair should be drawn away from the forehead, leaving it perfectly bare. Another way becoming to the woman with a high forehead is to have the hair parted on one side, not waved at all, but drawn back from the face with a light, straight fringed bang falling over the forehead.

Democrats Open Headquarters.

State Democratic headquarters were opened here in the Yarrow Hotel yesterday by Chairman T. D. Warren, of Newbern and Secretary J. R. Collie, of Louisburg.

From now on the headquarters will be kept open and the campaign pushed.

Mr. Warren sees a big majority for the party in the November election and feels confident that the people of the State will, by their votes, give endorsement to the State administration and that of the Naion under Woodrow Wilson, whose wise administration is becoming more and more apparent.

Politics have been rather in the back ground just now," said Mr. Warren. "Everybody has been talking of the war, cotton and the tobacco situation. Of course the prices of our commodities are of vital interest to our people and we can but expect them to be deeply concerned.

"As soon as we get the machinery working in the office we expect to put up a vigorous campaign. Good government is just as essential to our people as good prices and at the proper time they will be enthusiastic about the election."

Mr. Collie will be here all the time until the election, but for the present Mr. Warren will not be here permanently, but will be here as often as necessary and will keep in thorough touch with the situation.

He came to the city Monday night and will be here for two or three days.

Raise More Revenue By Special Tax Bill.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Tobacco will not be one of the commodities upon which a special war tax will be levied. This announcement was made today by Senator Simmons after a conference with President Wilson and Secretary McAdoo. It was also decided at this conference, at which Majority Leader Underwood was present, that immediate steps will be taken to raise revenue by a special tax. Just what will be included in the bill has not been given out, but it is certain that tobacco will not be included in the list.

It was stated by those at the conference that tobacco is already carrying a heavy tax and that to place an additional burden upon the tobacco people at this time would be rank injustice.

Members of the ways and means committee have been opposed to levying a special tax until December but after today's conference it is stated that a bill will be introduced within the next week which will carry a special tax upon articles sufficient to raise $100,000,000.

Never Forget His Friends.

"General Grant's most pronounced characteristic, perhaps, was his regard for the friends who had stood by him in his early days," said Col. S. A. Holmes, of St. Louis. "While Grant was doing the best he could after he had quit the army and was down and out, he wanted to get the job of County Surveyor of St. Louis County. This job was in the keeping of the three County Judges, and Grant could get only one of them to vote for him, so he didn't get the place, which was a mighty good thing for the nation, as events afterward proved.

"After the war, when Grant was serving his first term as President, a delegation of Missourians visited the White House to urge the appointment of a St. Louis man for Collector of Internal Revenue, the most lucrative positions in the State. Grant listened to the arguments and looked over the petition presented. Then scratched his head and remarked:

"Isn't there an old fellow out there by the name of Long, who used to be a Judge of the County Court?"

"Nobody in the delegation could recall Long, but Grant told them to go back and find out. Some time later he was told that Judge Long was still living in the county, but was not conspicuous.

"Get up a petition for him, advised the President, and I will appoint him Internal Revenue Collector.

"The friends of Long lost no time in presenting the requested petition and the old Judge was appointed.

"Grant had never forgotten the favor done him when he was less prosperous."

He Got the Orange.

The Boston Journal relates that an English Bishop, offering an orange to a little child, remarked sweetly: "Now, my little man, I shall give you this orange if you tell me where God it."

"My lord," answered the child, son of a clergyman. "I'll give you two oranges if you'll tell me where he is not."

Food prices came down in Chicago when the investigation began, which shows that the trouble was largely psychological.—Greensboro News.

Rushed the Order

A TRAVELING Salesman, while in Nashville, Tenn., took a large order, promising delivery in ten days. It would take two days for the order to reach the Home Office by mail. It took him only a few minutes to telephone the order from a pay station of the Bell Telephone system.

ain. In that event they deem it more prudent to keep the cruiser away from the scene of possible naval conflicts. The incident recalled past relations between the United States and Turkey on the passage of foreign warships through the Dardanelles. The United States never has recognized the right of Turkey to close the straits to foreign warships in time of peace, although European powers have agreed to it. The American government has merely recognized the custom of excluding foreign warships as "a usage."

Secretary of State. Fish in 1870 wrote in this connection to the Turkish government:

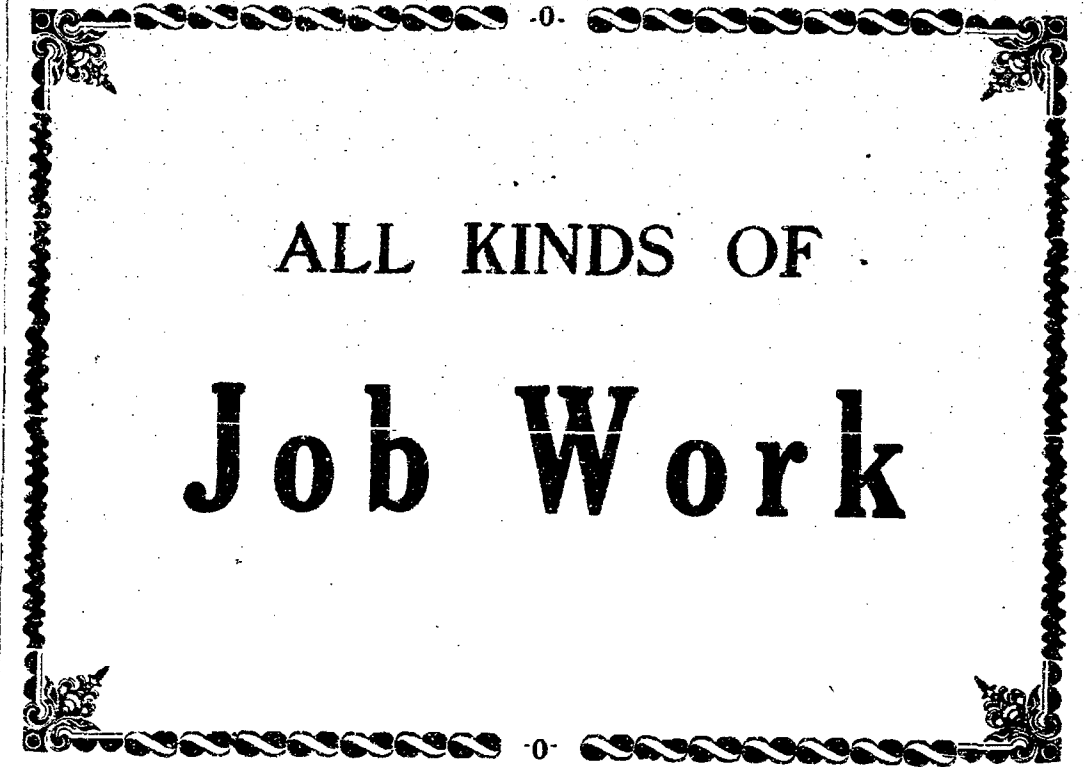

"The abstract right of the Turkish government to obstruct the navigation of the Dardanelles even to vessels of war in time of peace is a serious question. The right however, has for a long time been claimed and been sanctioned by treaties between Turkey and certain European states. A proper occasion may arise or us to dispute the applicability of the claim to the United States men of war. Meanwhile it is deemed expedient to acquiesce in the exclusion."

Officials here agreed that the imminence of war in Turkey made it similarly expedient at this time for the American government not to press its request that the North Carolina be granted passage.

Gentleness, which belongs to virtue, is to be carefully distinguished from the mean spirit of cowards, and the fawning assent of sycophants. It removes no just right from fear; it gives no important truth to flattery; it is indeed not only consistent with a firm mind but it necessarily requires a manly spirit and a fixed principle in order to give it any real value.—Blair.
