A PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICAN NEWSPAPER DEVOTED TO THE UPBUILDING OF AMERICAN HOMES AND AMERICAN INDUSTRIES.

BURLINGTON, ALAMANCE COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA, TUESDAY, SEPT. 22, 1914.

ARMIES ARE FIGHTING IN RAIN AND HAIL

Sometimes Regiments Wade Through Water Waist Deep to Engage Their Foes; A Little Rest In Pelting Storm and Then Again Into the Midst of Fighting.

FRENCH AVIATOR VEDRINES SLAYS ADVERSARY IN AIR

German Airmen Sails Over Allies' Lines and Intrepid Frenchman Goes Up With Gun and Destroys Him and His Machine—Such Terrible Fighting and Great Artillery Duels Have Never Been Known to Man as Now in Progress Across Northern France.

Paris, Sept. 20.—11:00 P. M.—The official statement issued tonight says that in violent fighting north of Soissons, the Germans gained ground, which afterwards was recouped by the Allies.

The statement reads: "On the left wing north of the river Aisne below Soissons, our troops were furiously counter-attacked by superior forces and yielded some ground, which however, they regained almost immediately.

"On the other hand, we have continued our progress on the right bank of the River Oise.

"Likewise, north of Rheims, we have repulsed all the enemy's attacks although they were vigorously conducted.

"On the center, east of Rheims, we have made new progress through our attacks.

"In the Argonne situation remains unchanged.

"In the Woëvre district the last rains have soaked the ground to such an extent that all army movements have become very difficult.

"General Le De Mauld Huy (80th Infantry Brigade of the Sixth army corps) has received on the battlefield the cross of commander of the Legion of Honor."

BRITISH CRUISER DISABLED.

London, Sept. 20.—11:10 P. M.—The British admiralty reports that the German protected cruiser Koenigsberg caught the British light cruiser Pegasus overhauling her machinery in Zanzibar harbor this morning and attacked and completely disabled her. The British lost heavily.

GERMAN MERCHANT CRUISER SUNK.

London, Sept. 20.—9:57 P. M.—The official press bureau made the following announcement tonight: "The Carmania, armed as an auxiliary cruiser, attacked and sank a German armed merchant cruiser, either the Captrafalgär, or the Berlin, off the east coast of South America. "The survivors of the German ship were rescued by a collier. The Carmania had nine men killed and 26 wounded.

FIGHT IN WATER WAIST DEEP.

London, Sept. 20.—10:10 P. M.—Reports from the front says the Exchange Telegraph's Paris correspondent, show that the French and British troops are fighting waist deep in water, the rains having flooded their trenches.

PRZEMYSL IS BOMBARDED.

Petrograd, Sept. 20.—The official statement from the chief of the general staff issued tonight, says that the Russians are bombarding the fortress of Przemyśl, whose artillery has opened fire.

The statement follows: "Austrian troops which attempted to check our advance in front of Baranow and Ranichow (in Galicia) were repulsed with heavy losses. "Siege artillery is bombarding the fortifications at Jaroslau.

"Fighting is going on against the garrison at Przemyśl, who have repelled with artillery fire.

"Russia troops crossing the forest are finding batteries abandoned by the Austrians."

THE BATTLE UNDECIDED.

London, Sept. 20.—9:45 P. M.—One of the fiercest battle of all times, which has been raging across Northern France for a week past, with first a slight advantage on one side and then on the other, remains undecided.

The two great armies which have been fighting for a month with a few if any intermissions, have dug themselves into entrenchments on rivers and mountain ranges on a front reaching from the Oise to the Meuse, and thence southeastward along the Franco-German frontier.

Artillery duels such as never before have been seen are being carried on with the hope of compelling the evacuation of the strongly held positions, with occasional successes to the opposing sides, while the infantry in the face of a galling fire, have charged right up to the guns, only to make their opponents give way slightly, or be repulsed with great losses.

Fighting has been fiercest on the Allies' left, which lies on the right bank of the river Oise, in the vicinity of Rheims, the famous cathedral of which has been set afire by German shells, and between that town and the Argonne ridge, it has been give and take all the time.

French official reports again claim slight progress on the French left and that the allies again have repulsed strong frontal attacks between Crouonne and Rheims.

TIDE EBBS AND FLOWS.

Around Rheims itself matters have been about equalized, as the Germans have recaptured the heights of Brimont, while the French have taken the defenses of La Pompelle.

The French also have scored a success between Rheims and Argonne, where they have taken the village of Sausin, and have captured numerous prisoners. In addition the French report progress on the western slopes of the Argonne, where the Crown Prince's army opposes them, while the Germans have retired beyond the frontier (in Lorraine, evacuating Avricourt. In all cases these are separate attacks by the armies lying in the trenches waiting for their artillery to compel the other side to slacken its fire. The losses in these attacks must be enormous for the men cannot move a foot without being made targets of the heavy guns posted on the hills above them.

BRITISH IMITATE JAPS.

The British apparently have learned something from the Japanese attacks on Port Arthur. They make a rush forward and when the fire becomes too heavy for them to make a further advance they again dig trenches for themselves and remain there until another opportunity offers them to gain a few more yards.

The Germans have had most of their artillery at work, but the French are bringing up more and bigger guns. This kind of fighting with both sides in strong positions may go on for days yet, but sooner or later one side must find the continued fall of shells and the disconcerting infantry attacks too much for them, and leaving a strong rear guard, will draw back for abreathing spell.

BATTLE LIKE SHA-HO.

The battle resembles in many particulars that of the Sha-Ho in 1904, where the Japanese and Russians with much more time to do it, established positions which each thought to be impregnable.

Shells and infantry attacks, however, finally compelled the Russians to withdraw with losses that at that time were without precedent. With all the hard long fighting behind them the Germans again are making attacks toward Verdun, while the allies are making frontal attacks on the German right and once more are attempting to outflank it.

The German cavalry have been showing considerable daring and have been trying to cut the communications of the allies between the Oise and the coast. French reports confirm rumors that the Saxon army under Gen. Von Hausen, has been reorganized. The report used the phrase "broken up" but this is taken to mean that it has been reorganized and the parts distributed among the other armies. Its cavalry has been sent east.

HARD FIGHTING IN GALICIA.

While accounts of the operations in Galicia differ and one goes so far as to say that General Dankl's army is surrounded by Russians and only remnants of the German corps there remain, it is considered certain the armies have not come to grips again as yet. The Russians will have to capture Przemyśl, where it is reported three German army corps have been sent to hold the Austrians, before they can make further progress westward. The other Russian army, however, will be free to proceed against Gacow if General Dankl is disposed of. The German army in Silesia has become more active and the Russians are claiming to have taken a part of artillery on the Breslau-Ivangorod lines.

The Servians announce another victory by their army over the Austrians near Novipazar, the town which has been so often mentioned in Austro-Servian controversies.

From the Battle Front, Sept. 20.—via Paris, 5:36 P. M.—The bulk of the allied armies remained today in trenches, waiting while their artillery exchanged a furious cannonade with the strongly placed German batteries. Some brilliant feats at arms were performed at various points on the lines extending along the Oise, the Aisne and Woëvre. The seasoned Algerian Troops made a galant capture of another German flag.

FRENCHMAN WINS IN AIR.
Jules Vedrines, the noted French aviator, was credited with a courageous fight in mid-air with a German aviator who he brought to earth. The German was daringly reconquering the position of the allies when Vedrines ascended.

Moving swiftly upward until he was above the German, Vedrines gave chase.

The German machine was riddled and the aviator killed, both collapsing to the ground fifteen minutes after Vedrines took the air. Vedrines has accomplished a similar feat once before. These incidents, however, are important only for their influence in encouraging the allied troops, and do not affect the result of the great battle which already has lasted a week and promises to continue for many days longer.

Military experts believe the longer the battle endures the better it will be for the allied armies.

CONTINUE FIRE ON RHEIMS.

A western end of the battle line Rheims has been the object of the greatest attention from the Germans, who time after time have unsuccessfully attempted to break the allies lines after subjecting the town to an intense bombardment. It is the Germans' intention, it is understood, to capture Rheims, which is an important railroad junction, the possession of which would give them the command of another road to the north. They have made an especial mark of the magnificent cathedral, which has been in flames since yesterday.

ALLIES OCCUPY HEIGHTS.

The allies, meantime, have made for themselves a strong position on the right bank of the Aisne, where they occupy all the heights. The Germans have taken advantage of the sites of the forts intended for the defense of Rheims, but which were abandoned by the allies when the invaders made a rapid dash southward from Belgium.

A heavy hailstorm, with a cold wind, added today to the hardships of the entrenched troops who are entirely without tents, but it did not affect their spirits.

CATHEDRAL OF RHEIMS DESTROYED BY GERMANS.

Bordeaux, Sep. 20.—10:25 P. M.—The Minister of the Interior Louis J. Malvy, announced today that the famous Cathedral of Rheims had been destroyed and other historic and public buildings either laid in ruins or seriously damaged by German artillery. Coupled with this announcement was a statement that the Government had decided to address to all he powers a note of indignant protest against "this act of odious vandalism."

Structures, the Minister said, which had been destroyed or ruined included in addition to the Cathedral, the 12th century church of St. Jacques, the 15th century archbishop's palace, and the city hall, dating from the 17th century.

M. Malvy said official reports revealed that the Cathedral was in flames today, the burning having begun yesterday as a result of the ceaseless bombardment. It was officially stated that the destruction of these historic buildings indicated the Germans considered their situation desperate. The government in other words will soak the soaks, and put the heft of the war tax on old J. Barleycorn.

HAW RIVER MAN SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Mr. Daniel Davis Found Unconscious Beside Railroad Early Sunday Morning.

Lying with his leg crushed and a deep gash in his head, Mr. Daniel Davis, a young white man, of Haw River, was found on the Southern tracks near that town Sunday morning. The crew of Southern passenger train No. 108, that is due to arrive here at 9:28 a. m., found the young man lying in an unconscious condition on the track and brought him to Durham. He was carried to the Mercy Hospital and throughout yesterday afternoon and until late last night the physicians and hospital authorities thought that the injuries must necessarily prove fatal. However, this morning the treatment of the physicians began to have favorable results and his condition is reported slightly improved. He now has a fighting chance for recovery.

When the Southern passenger train passed Haw River early yesterday morning, the engineer saw the body covered in blood lying on the tracks. He stopped the train and the crew placed the injured man on board. The train was brought into the city limits on time and a telegraph message to Southern Agent J. W. Roach, in Durham, asking him to have an ambulance and a physician at the train, was carried out. The ambulance rushed the wounded man to the hospital, where he was operated on in great haste.

Just how the accident occurred is not known. The young man's father, who is a prominent citizen of Haw River, was in Durham yesterday and arranged for every possible attention to be given his son. He could not tell how the accident occurred. The general idea of those familiar with railroad accidents, is that he attempted to board a freight train and was thrown under the wheels. The injuries consisted of a mangled left leg, cuts about the face and body, and a deep gash in the skull, that may result in concussion of the brain. He was also badly bruised. Loss of blood caused his condition to be unusually weak. Should he survive the accident, it will be by sheer pluck and grit to hold on to his chance for recovery.

The father of the young man stated that he was 22 years of age, and that during the summer he has been playing ball with the Roanoke baseball club of Virginia. He stated that young Davis had only been home a few days and that the accident was a total surprise to his family.

Handsome Store Fronts.

B. A. Sellars & Son are keeping pace with the spirit of progress of our town by putting in handsome new fronts in their dry goods and clothing stores on Main street. These fronts were constructed by a leading manufacturer of store fronts from designs drawn by an architect and come all ready to put in place. The original fronts including the supporting posts are being taken out to be replaced with all glass and metal materials equal in appearance to any in the city as well as those of the larger towns.

Greensboro Boy Was Drowned at Norfolk.

Palmer T. Phillips, an employee of the Southern Railway Company, fell overboard at Norfolk, Va., Thursday night and was drowned, his many friends will be grieved to learn. The body was not recovered until late Friday afternoon, when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Phillips, of 803 Ashboro street, this city were notified of the death of their son.

The deceased was a young man, only 34 years of age. He had been in the employment of the Southern Railway Company during the past five years, with headquarters in Greensboro, and at the time of his death was in Norfolk on business for the company.

Mr. Phillips leaves a father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Phillips, six sisters, Mrs. J. W. Stedman, Mrs. W. P. Herndon, Misses Lena, Flea, and Joyce Phillips, of this city, and Mrs. J. M. McAdams, of High Point. He also leaves two small children.

The burial services will be conducted at Mt. Hermon Methodist Protestant Church, six miles south of Graham, by Rev. R. G. L. Edwards, an ex-pastor of the family, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The pall bearers will be employees of the Southern Railway Company. A large number of friends will accompany the bereaved family today to Graham on the 9:40 a. m. train.—Greensboro News, Sunday.

Surprise Marriage of Miss Ada Bell Isley to Mr. Paul Morgan.

Miss Ada Bell Isley and Mr. Paul Morgan took their many friends by surprise and were married in Graham yesterday evening by Rev. Mr. Green.

The affair was altogether a surprise as none of the members of the family on either side knew of the plans of the young people. The bride was visiting in Durham, where she was met by Mr. Morgan and driven immediately through the country to Graham where they were married. Mr. Morgan is connected with his father in the tobacco business at Kingstree, S. C., and is a young man of promise. He wins as his bride one of our most beautiful and charming young women with a sweet Christian character and has many accomplishments.

Both bride and groom are members of the best known and most respected families of our town.

Gospel Tent Meeting.

The Gospel Tent Meeting, Webb Avenue, East Burlington, conducted by Rev. H. M. North and the M. E. pastors of the city is being largely attended and much good is being accomplished at each service. Not less than a thousand people were present at the Sunday meetings. The meetings will continue there this week at 3:30 P. M. and at 7:30 P. M. Rev. North preaches at the night services and every sermon counts for righteousness and is truly practical. Earnest and eloquent. The singing is of the very best, being led by Mr. Milan, of Atlanta, who had charge of the music at the famous Kilgo Meetings in Charlotte, last spring. Hear him. The tent is full of excellent Chautauqua seats with good backs and you can be perfectly comfortable while hearing the Word. Come!

"How did they get into the scrap?"

THE CALL TO SERVICE.

Prepared by J. L. Cuninggim.

ISAIAH VI. 1-8.

1 In the year that king Uzziah died I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple. 2 Above it stood the seraphims: each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly. 3 And one cried unto another, and said, Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of hosts: the whole earth is full of his glory. 4 And the posts of the door moved at the voice of him that cried, and the house was filled with smoke. 5 Then said I, Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips: for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts. 6 Then flew one of the seraphims unto me, having a live coal in his hand, which he had taken with the tongs from off the altar: 7 And he laid it upon my mouth, and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips; and thine iniquity is taken away, and thy sin purged. 8 Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me.

THE LESSON EXPLAINED.

In the year that king Uzziah died (v. 1.) This statement gives us the date of Isaiah's call, fixing it at about 740 B. C. And, what is far more important, it furnishes the occasion of his call. Uzziah as king of Judah was marvelously prospered of God; his reign of fifty-two years was one of great splendor. But in the very midst of his glory he dishonored God, going into the temple to offer incense upon the altar. Because of his sinful sacrilege God smote him with leprosy; he was deformed and died in the leprosy house. Such a shocking incident was calculated to stir the conscience. We may well believe that it was the contemplation of the great king's terrible affliction brought on himself by his impious act that led to Isaiah's vision of God. Above it stood the seraphims, etc. (v. 2.) The character and form of these creatures are a matter of speculation. The thing that impresses Isaiah is their attitude of reverence, humility, and service. In the presence of the holy Jehovah, smitten with the sense of unworthiness to look upon him or to be seen of him, they stand ready to render obedience to every command. And one cried unto another, and said, etc. (v. 3.) The song of the seraphim was antiphonal, the one part crying, "Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of Hosts," the other part responding, "The whole earth is full of his glory." The word "holy" thrice repeated for emphasis, originally meaning only separateness, is here used to characterize the inner character of Jehovah as the sovereign, sublime, and sin-aboring God. The glory of Jehovah, which the seraphims see everywhere present, is but the outward manifestation of his holiness.

And the posts of the door moved (v. 4.) Even the physical surroundings bear testimony to the holiness of Jehovah, the smoke filling the house particularly emphasizing, as seems probable, the divine wrath against sin. Then said I, Woe is me! etc. (v. 5.) Isaiah has had a wonderful vision. He has seen Jehovah of hosts high upon his throne in kingly majesty; he has seen the seraphims, his ready messengers, stand abashed and covered in his presence, while they continually declare his holiness; he has felt the foundations rock and seen the air grow dark with divine displeasure. The vision which he beholds brings to him a deep conviction of his own iniquity, and he cries out: "Woe is me! for I am undone." In contrast with the song of the seraph choir his own lips are unclean. Nor, indeed, is he alone in his sinfulness. The whole nation is guilty. Even their very worship is but unclean in the sight of Jehovah the Holy One. Then flew one of the seraphims, etc. (v. 6, 7.) Following conviction of sin comes the cleansing. The live coal, or hot stone, taken from off the altar, is typical of the purifying power of God's Spirit, through whom the iniquity is taken away. It is applied to Isaiah's lips because his feeling of conviction was focused at that point, and perhaps also in anticipation of his mission as a spokesman for God. I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, etc. (v. 8.) Jesus said: "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." (Matt. v. 8.) So with Isaiah as soon as his iniquity is cleansed, his ears are open to hear the divine voice. The word spoken is not addresses to him individually and by name, but is a general invitation. He hears it "not as command, but request, and answers, not of compulsion, but of freedom."

THE LESSON APPLIED.

It is interesting to note that circumstances under which men and women feel the call to some definite service. An investigation of a large number of instances shows that the circumstances vary widely. Very frequently the Spirit of God uses the prayers of parents to impress upon the child some definite duty. Sometimes the conscience is quickened and a decision reached as a result of the death of some loved one. In a large number of cases some word or deed of a pastor has turned the current of the life into a definite line of service. "One day when I was a small child our pastor laid his hand on my head and said: 'This boy will be a preacher some day.'" This is the testimony of one. "Once our pastor held prayers in our home and prayed especially for me, and from that day I have felt called to the ministry," so another experience runs. Such experiences may be multiplied indefinitely. Before Isaiah heard the call to service he had a vision of God's holiness and of his own uncleanness. He was purified and made fit to be God's messenger before he was sent forth to speak for him. Such an experience is always essential to real service. A life that has not felt the cleansing and vitalizing power of God's Spirit is but poorly prepared to represent God to men. A life that has not been cleansed of sin and made anew by divine power is not apt to hear God's call to service. Young people who are considering the problem of their life work are sometimes perplexed with the question as to whether they ought to give their lives to some special form of Christian service, such as the ministry or missionary activity, and they wonder what constitutes a call. The experience of Isaiah throws light on this question. The "Home Readings" for the week give illustrations of others who were called to special service for God, and they represent various types of experience. All of these are instructive to us, showing, as they do, that God has not shut himself up to one plan in dealing with men, but has manifold methods in making known his will. But the call of Isaiah is perhaps most illuminating. It is a call born of a consciousness of need. The vision of God which he saw not only convicted him of his own sinfulness, but it brought him to a realization of the iniquity of his people. As soon, therefore, as his own life was made to feel the divine power, his thought was of them and their need of a messenger from God. In this painful realization of his people's condition he hears the voice of God calling for some one to go. Another characteristic of Isaiah's call is suggestive. It was a general request directed to any who would answer. The Lord did not say, "Isaiah, will you go?" but "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" It was Isaiah himself who made the call an individual matter. Here is food for reflection. Are we not too much inclined to demand of God more than we have a right to expect? We know the appalling need for men for the ministry and the mission fields; we hear the insistent call for laborers. If we have ourselves seen God and felt his power in our lives, is this not enough to justify us in offering ourselves for the service? It was so with Isaiah. This leads us to still another fact about Isaiah's call that is worthy of note. It came not as a command, but as a question. Isaiah did not wait to be driven by compulsion; he freely offered himself. It is just at this point that many make mistakes, waiting for some compelling power to drive them into the service, instead of accepting the invitation that is constantly being heard. Paul felt that necessity was laid upon him to be a minister. "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel," he said. But this was not the experience of Isaiah. Nor is it the experience of multitudes of God's faithful servants with whom the call is a glad acceptance of a privilege rather than a reluctant yielding to necessity.

LESSON QUESTIONS.

What was the occasion of Isaiah's call? What is indicated by the attitude of the seraphim? What attitude of God is emphasized by the cry of the seraphim? What is indicated by the rocking of the foundations and the appearance of the smoke? How was Isaiah affected by his vision? What was the significance of the live coal, and why was it applied to Isaiah's lips? What was the character of Isaiah's call? Does God call all his special servants in the same way? Is a realization of the great need for laborers in itself a call to service? How To Give Quinine to Children. FEBRELINE is the trade-mark name given to an improved Quinine. It is Tasteless Syrup, pleasant to take and does not disturb the stomach. Children take it and never know it is Quinine. Also especially adapted to adults who cannot take ordinary Quinine. Does not nauseate nor cause nervousness nor ringing in the head. Try it the next time you need Quinine for any purpose. Ask for FEBRELINE in original package. The same FEBRELINE is blown in bottles. 25 cents.

Not a Good Prophet.

To the Editor of The Press: Sir:—A few days after war was declared a clergyman, "Made in Germany," but at present living in Roxborough, felt moved to do the prophet act. He informed us that within six weeks from that date Paris would be occupied by German troops; the Czar of Russia "would be hiding in Moscow," for the very good reason that St. Petersburg has shared the unfortunate fate of the capital of the French Republic, and that the Kaiser, "on a warship" in London would dictate terms of peace. Well, well, well. He probably believed it, too! Seems to me, though, unless the reverend gentleman is not a good deal better preacher than he has proved himself prophet, he should hunt another job. Thomas J. Barnes. Philadelphia, Sept. 13, 1914.

The American soldiers are soon to leave Vera Cruz. After their departure we shall know whether, in the absence of the cat, the mice will get into mischief or just play innocent games like prisoners' base and man-in-the-ring. Prinsip, who slew the archduke of Austria, say the alienists, is suffering from meglomania, a form of exaggerated ego. Some of the war lords who got into the game later on are similarly afflicted.

A friend in need seldom hates to tell you so. Summer Constipation Dangerous. Constipation in Summer-time is more dangerous than in the fall, winter or spring. The food you eat is often contaminated and is more likely to ferment in your stomach. Then you are apt to drink much water during the hot weather, thus injuring your stomach. Colic, Fever, Ptomaine Poisoning and other ills are natural results. Po-Do-Lax will keep you well, as it increases the Bile, the natural laxative, which rids the bowels of the congested poisonous waste. Po-Do-Lax will make you feel better. Pleasant and effective. I called on a doctor of Ripon, Wis., but received no relief. I tried Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which gave me instant relief. I was then able to resume work. Swamp-Root is the only relief I can get from kidney disease which I am subject to in the spring of the year. I am writing this testimonial through my own free will that sufferers of kidney and bladder diseases will know of the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root. I recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root whenever I can and always have a bottle of Swamp-Root in my house. I purchased Swamp-Root of Mr. C. J. Burnside, Druggist, of 202 Main St., Ripon, Wis. Very truly yours, THOMAS J. LYNCH, 525 Newberry Street. Ripon, Wis. I have read the above statement that Thomas J. POOR P

A Dangerous Pathway.

The people of the United States have been witnesses of many an era in the country's life when the old gave place to the new when the discredited proposition of yesterday became the law of today. But never in that life, probably, has the spirit of change been so strong as is now the case. With such speed have we rushed along the pathway that formerly was marked with the "Danger" signpost, that we do not realize the distance we have gone.

We are witnessing today the enactment into law of the principles and propositions that in the past have been freely denounced as economic heresies, and upon which the voters at the polls more than once put their stamp of disapproval. Today the same issues arise, and in but little different form, and are adopted with but perfunctory protest and but the shadow of real opposition. The country seems to be dazed at the speed at which it has been carried along a new economic highroad, and too surprised to resist.

It was in 1896 that the Democratic party turned its back upon its own past, changed its former dark uniform to one of silver and red, and started along the road that up to that time had been used only by the Socialists and the Populists. The voters of the country rose in revolt. A new term came into the dictionary of politics, that of Bryanism. And at the polls in that year the people declared that the definition of Bryanism was menace, a menace to American institutions and to American legislative life.

Less than a score of years have passed since that verdict was first pronounced. There is in the White House today a so-called conservative President, one whose training and life work have been far removed from the shouted demand of the orator of the street corner, who was himself one of the opponents of the doctrines that in 1912 were woven into the fabric of Democracy. Yet with his full approval and consent, and even upon his initiative, there are being put into force and law the same propositions that then spelled danger and disorder.

Today the credit of the Government is being extended to cotton bales, to tobacco, to turpentine and resin. In what respect does this differ from the financial propositions advanced at that time, and which was so riddled by shafts of ridicule upon the campaign platform? Congress is now seriously considering a bill to require the United States Treasury to buy silver bullion at the market price in order to help out the mining interests of the West. Is not such a plan a clear echo of the Bryan silver demand of 1896?

The President is demanding an Act for what amounts to Government ownership of steamship lines. Is not that an exact parallel on water of that old demand for Government ownership of railroads? Does not one lead logically and inevitably to the other? Is 1914 the triumph of the proclamation of 1896?

The Secretary of the Navy is now being sent forth as the spokesman of the Administration. One of the statements contained in his speeches is that: "Under Wilson the ideals of Jefferson have been realized." It is not Mr. Daniels unfair both to Jefferson and to one of his own colleagues in the Cabinet? Is it not fair to tell the truth and to declare, what is the fact, that under President Wilson the ideals of Mr. Bryan are fast being realized, and that Bryanism is not now the millstone of the Democratic party, but its guiding star?

An Only Daughter

Relieved of Consumption
When death was hourly expected, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting with the many herbs of Calcutta, he accidentally made a preparation which cured his only child of Consumption. He has proved to the world that Consumption can be positively and permanently cured. The doctor now gives his recipe for only asking two cents postage to pay expenses. This herb also cures Night Sweats, Nausea at the stomach and will break up a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address: Credlock & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

Annual Reception at Greensboro College for Women.

Greensboro, Sept. 166.—In the college chapel from eight until ten Saturday evening the Y. W. C. A. of Greensboro College for Women gave its annual entertainment in honor of the new girls. The guests were greeted at the door by a receiving line composed of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet—Misses Anna Neal Fuller, Lucy Belle Totten, Alee Aycock, Helen Weaver, Vada Wynne, Jeannette Pearce, Hettie Rochelle, Gertrude Falls, Alice Clark and Lucile Abernathy. The chapel was decorated in autumn leaves, Japanese lanterns, palms and ferns. Rustic seats and soft pillows were in every available place. The first feature of the evening was a contest in which each girl was requested to write upon a card the names of as many new girls as she was able to introduce herself to in two minutes.

Lola Woltz, who obtained twenty-eight names, was given the prize. After this all the guest born in the same month were placed in a croup and each group chose a speaker who extolled the merits of the month she represented. Dolores Miranda who delivered her speech in her native tongue, Spanish, was given the prize. The judges, Dr. Turrentine, Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Siler agreed that her arguments were more forceful, her gestures more appropriate and her enunciation more distinct than those of the other contestants. After this the refreshments were served and then the guests departed.

Money for Rapid Transit Work.

The Finance Committee Councils is wise and Councils will be wise if they allow Director Taylor to have his $500,000 for rapid transit plans. The sum should be assigned to his department in the loan bill and there should be no question about its being expended for that purpose.

Rapid Transit is not the city's only need, but it is one of its greatest needs and has waited the longest of any that are now under consideration. It is time for action and this proposed appropriation from the next loan is necessary for the initial work. It should be incorporated in the loan bill and will receive the approving vote of the people.

Interesting Suit Closes.

New Bern, Sept. 16.—A most interesting case came to an abrupt close at yesterday's session of Craven Superior Court when a non-suit was taken in the case of P. M. Draney against the Norfolk Southern Railway Company, in which the plaintiff was suing for damages in the sum of $2,000 for alleged false and malicious prosecution. The affair grew out of the arrest of Dr. Draney several months ago on a charge of having in his possession brass which had been taken from the Norfolk Southern Railway Company. The railway company discovered the brass after it had been shipped to a concern in Baltimore and promptly had a warrant issued for Mr. Draney, charging him with the larceny of it. The case went to Superior Court and the defendant was acquitted and at the present term of court he was asking for $2,000 as a balm to his injured feelings.

The censors ought really to be a little more careful telling things about the German Crown Prince.

Within a few days that distinguished young man has been reported as dead in Brussels, as leading the German army in East Prussia, and as fighting around Nancy. If the censors don't know that all of these things could not have happened everybody else does.

Ingersoll's Vision of War—Extracts From a Speech Delivered in 1876.

The past rises before me like a dream. Again we are in the great struggle for national life. We hear the sounds of preparation; the music of boisterous guns, the silver voices of heroic bugles. We see thousands of assemblages and hear the appeals of orators. We see pale cheeks of women and flushed faces of men, and in those assemblages we see all the dead whose dust we have covered with flowers. We lose sight of them no more. We are with them when they enlist in the great army of freedom. We see them part with those they love. Some are walking for their last time in quiet woody places with the maidens they adore. We hear the whisperings of the sweet vows of eternal love as they lingeringly part forever. Others are bending over cradles, kissing babies that are asleep. Some are receiving the blessings of old men. Some are parting with mothers who hold them and press them to their hearts again and again and say nothing. Kisses and tears, tears and kisses—divine mingling of agony and love! And some are talking with wives and endeavoring with brave words, spoken in the old tones, to drive from their hearts the awful fear. We see them part. We see the wife standing in the door with the babe in her arms—standing in the sunlight sobbing. At the turn in the road a hand waves—she answers by holding high in her arms the child. He is gone and forever!

We see them as they march proudly away under the flaunting flags, keeping time to the grand, wild music of war—marching down the streets of the great cities, through the towns and across the prairies, down to the fields of glory, to do and to die for the eternal right.

We go with them one and all. We are by their side on all the gory fields, in all the hospitals of pain, on all the weary marches. We stand guard with them in the wild storms and under the quiet stars. We are with them in the ravines running with blood, in the furrows of old fields.

We are with them between contending hosts, unable to move, wild with thirst, the life ebbing slowly away among the withered leaves. We see them pierced by balls and torn with shells in the trenches, by the forts, and in the whirlwind of the charge, where men become iron, with nerves of steel.

We are with them in the prisons of hatred and famine, but human speech can never tell what they endured.

We are at home when the news comes that they are dead. We see the maiden in the shadow of their first sorrow. We see the silvered head of the old man bowed with the last grief.

They sleep under the solemn pines and sad hemlock, the tearful willows and the embracing vines. They sleep beneath the shadows of the clouds, careless alike of sunshine or of the storm, each of the windowless Palace of Rest. Earth may run red with other wars, they are at peace. In the midst of the battle, in the roar of conflict, they found the serenity of death.

A vision of the future arises.

I see our country filled with happy homes, with firesides of content.

I see a world where thrones have crumbled and kings are dust. The aristocracy of idleness has perished from the earth.

I see a world without a slave. Man is at last free. Nature's forces have by science been enslaved. Lightning and light, wind and wave, frost and flame and all the secret subtle powers of earth and air are the tireless toilers of the human race.

I see a world at peace adorned with every form of art, with music's myriad voices thrilled, while lips are rich with words of love and truth; a world in which no exile sighs, no prisoner mourns, a world on which the gibbet's shadow does not fall; a world where labor reaps its full reward, where work and worth go hand in hand, where the poor girl trying to win bread with the needle—the needle that has been called the "asp for the breast of the poor"—is not driven to the desperate choice of crime or death, of suicide or shame.

I see a world without the beggar's outstretched palm, the miser's heartless, stony stare, the piteous wail of want, the livid lips of lies, the cruel eyes of scorn.

I see a race without disease of flesh or brain—shapely and fair—the married harmony of form and function—and as I look, life lengthens, joy deepens, love carries its earth, and over all, in the great dome, shines the eternal star of human hope.

Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

For Congressman, 5th District:
JOHN T. BENBOW,
of Forsyth County.

COUNTY CONVENTION!

Acting under instructions of the County Convention held August 15th, I hereby call a mass convention of all persons opposed to the present county government to meet in the County Court House,
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 3, 2:30 P. M.
for the purpose of nominating all county officers to be voted for at the coming election.

Hon. E. A. Holton, former United States District Attorney, and Hon.
John T. Benbow, candidate for Congress, will be present and address the convention.

Speaking promptly at 1:30 P. M.
Convention promptly 2:30 P. M.

All voters who are opposed to the extravagant and inefficient present county administration, and are in favor of a progressive and economical administration and who want to see the county affairs administered in the interest of the tax payers, and not in the interest of the court house ring, are cordially invited to participate in this convention.

All persons are invited to hear the speaking. Friends favorable to this movement will please help make the event public by telling your neighbor.
We believe in publicity, not secrecy.

GEORGE W. VESTAL,
Chairman Alamance County Republican Executive Committee.

Mr. Editor:

I think the citizens and taxpayers of Alamance County owe you a debt of thanks, and think that every taxpayer in the county should show their appreciation by contributing to The Dispatch one dollar for one year's subscription. It will be the best investment you ever made. This would show that the citizens and taxpayers appreciate the fight that you are making in their behalf.

I think the suggestion to abolish the office of County Treasurer is a good one. This would save the taxpayers $900 a year. Any bank in Alamance would be glad to act as Treasurer, just for the sake of getting the County business.

I would also suggest that we go back to the old system of only three commissioners.

Now, Mr. Editor, I want to ask if the taxpayer has no rights. Must they submit if so why. I must admit that I am getting a little bit nervous. Over our county affairs. There has been some very serious charges or intimations made, and I have been surprised that our County officials would rest under such charges. I have been looking for them to refute some, but not one word. So it begins to look to an outsider that there is something rotten in Denmark.

Keep up the fight, the people are waking up.

TAXPAYER.

PARTY CONFERENCE.

All persons opposed to the present county management, are requested to meet in Burlington, Saturday, Sept.
26th. Matters pertaining to the benefit of all the tax payers will be discussed, conference will last from 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon until 10:00 at night. Those who cannot get here for the afternoon conference, can come for the night conference. Methods and measures will be discussed how to wrest the county government from the hands of the court house ring and restore it to the people. All who are in favor of this movement are invited to be present, conference open to all sympathizers. We will be glad to welcome you.

Two Killed, Three Hurt in Motor Car Accident.

Charlotte, Sept. 21.—Mr. John M.
Craig, secretary of the Ed. Mellon Company, and one of the most popular and promising young business men of this city, and Miss Christine Maxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D.
Maxwell, who live at 1605 S. Boulevard, Dilworth, were instantly killed last night at 10:45 o'clock when Mr.
Craig's high-powered seven-passenger touring car in which they were riding was overturned on the Statesville road, one-half mile north of Crofts, and 10 miles from Charlotte.
Mr. David J. Craig, of Statesville, a brother of Mr. John M. Craig, and Mr.
W. H. McCabe, Jr., who were also in the car were both painfully but not seriously injured while John Fingers, the colored chauffeur, had his leg broken.

Miss Mabel Choate makes the suggestion through The New York Post that in connection with the prayers for peace to be held October 4, in response to the President's request, a collection be taken for the immediate use of the Red Cross in its work of humanity in war-ravaged Europe.
The suggestion is one which will be seconded by the people of the entire country.

Why not include Haw River?

The obvious conclusion is that the Bull Moose has taken to the Maine woods.

It will certainly behoove us to listen to all that the railroads have to say.

Means higher prices and greater demand for grains.
The price of wheat has increased 35 cents, corn 20 cents per bushel.

You can't do better than to hook up to a good grain farm.
If we were in the farming business we would grab this one,
but since it is our business to sell 'em, we must let her go.

One twenty acre field produced 500 bushels wheat this year. Another field produced 54 bushel oats. There will be 500 bushels of corn with proper season.

The farm is divided into fields with barb wire and American field fence about three miles of fence in all.

- Field No. 2....17 acres.
- " " 2....22 acres.
- " " 3....40 acres. In original oak timber and is used for hog pasture.
- " " 4....27 acres.

This farm contains 127 acres. It has a large barn 30 by 50 ft., a tool shed, crib, milk house and three room house.
Ever flowing stream through the centre of the farm. In good neighborhood, only one half mile from Friendship, a Revival Meeting in Progress at M. P. Church.

A series of revival services began at the Methodist Protestant Church last Sunday. Rev. N. G. Bethea, of Henderson, arrived Monday and is doing the preaching. Prof. T. O. Pender, of Mebane, is directing the song services. The meeting is being well attended, and much interest has been manifested.

Rev. Mr. Bethea is a very forceful speaker and is preaching splendid sermons. He is a former Burlingtonian, having spent his boyhood days here. He joined the M. P. Church at this place when a boy and later prepared for the ministry. He is now recognized as one of the best ministers in the North Carolina Conference of the M. P. Church. His many old friends and acquaintances and the public in general are afforded an opportunity of hearing and meeting him this week.

The services are being held at 9 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The morning service lasts only 45 minutes. Everybody is most cordially invited to attend these services. Singers from the other churches are especially invited to attend and assist in the music. Professor Pender is a splendid singer and director of vocal music. His solos are very beautiful and impressive and his ability as a choir leader and director is notable. The meeting will continue through this week and part of next week.

Chamber of Commerce Wants Information.

The Executive Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Burlington authorizes me to say through the columns of the Twice-A-Week Dispatch, that they would like to co-operate with any section of the county that is interested in good roads in any way, either in building roads or improving present roads. It is the expressed purpose of this body to help in any way they can.

If you are interested, write to R. F. WILLIAMS, Secy., Chamber of Commerce, Burlington.

White Han Who Beat Baby Gets Ten Months on Roads.

Henry H. Hall, a white man, drew a sentence of 10 months on the county roads from Judge Brown in Municipal Court yesterday morning for an assault committed on a female child ten months old. The child on whom the assault is alleged to have been made is Hall's own little girl and she has bruises and scars on her forehead and cheeks to show for the severe whipping she had taken from her parent. The defendant appealed from the judgment of the court.

Burlington, N. C.

DOROTHY BLAKE SAYS:

"It's all right, girls, to cultivate a love of sport—but not to the extent of wanting to marry one."

A GOLDEN RULE.

Here's a simple, plain, little tale of A Golden Rule. I tell it to you exactly as it was told to me, with my recommendations for all you married folks who read it to adopt the rule prescribed:

"One morning in the first year of our married life my husband went to his office without the good-bye kiss which had become a part of our daily program. I did not accompany him to the door as was my habit of doing, to see him off and wave good-bye before he turned the corner of the next block, which would hide him from my view.

"I knew he was now lingering, hoping that I would come to him, and I, hurt and indignant, found much to do in the kitchen, but in my heart I was wishing he would come and seek me, but he called good-bye and in an indifferent tone I answered.

"I heard the door close and my heart sank about 10 degrees, a hard lump rose in my throat that ached terribly, tears came in my eyes, but I would not allow them to fall, as I considered it a great weakness to weep over anything except death.

"It was a long, long day which followed. How the hours dragged! I carried the little alarm clock from room to room as I went about my work. Occasionally I would call up central and ask the time, feeling sure my clock was slow. But the day came to an end, as all bad days do, and I was looking forward eagerly to his coming and listening intently.

"At last that quick, firm step I knew so well was coming up the walk. I caught my breath, my heart bounded with joy. I ran to the door and stopped, listening. He took hold of the knob hesitated then quietly, softly the door swung back; the anxious, worried look vanished from his face as he saw me standing there smiling.

up at him. Without a word he held out his strong arms and I just jumped into them, too happy for speech.

"He leaned his head on mine and held me so close and tight as though he never wished to let me go again. His heart pounded furiously and his voice trembled when at last he spoke: 'My darling, this has been the most miserable day of my life. Forgive me, dear love, for those unkind words and I promise never to be guilty of such cowardly conduct again to the sweetest wife a man ever had.' I reached up, and putting my arms around his neck, kissed him and told him I had forgotten all about it in the joy of having himself again.

"We laughed then, and he said that we must guard against getting on such dangerous ground in the future, so we made and framed a rule to govern a possible repetition of this sort. And we hung it where we could see it first thing in the morning.

"For fifteen years we have lived by it and most happily. We have differed in opinions, but the possibility of a serious quarrel, we kissed away with our golden rule, which read: 'Give the good-bye kiss in the morning and the welcome kiss at eve.'"

A BIRTHDAY GIFT.

"Dear Miss Blake: What is a proper birthday gift, if any, for a young gentleman friend to whom I am not engaged? We like each other fairly well.

"CONSTANCE."

It is improper to make a birthday gift to a young man unless you are engaged to be married to him. If I were you, I should write him a sincere little note of good wishes or invite him to dinner at your home, and prepare the dinner yourself. That would be a perfectly proper way of showing him your interest.

Expected to Leave It.

"Aunt Mollie, do you think you are a Christian?" asked a preacher of an old negro woman who was smoking a pipe.

"Yes, brudder. I 'spects I is."

"Do you believe in the Bible?"

"Yes, brudder."

"Do you know that there is a passage in the Scripture that declares that nothing unclean shall inherit the kingdom of heaven?"

"Yes, I've heard of it."

"Well, you smoke, and there is nothing so unclean as the breath of a smoker. So what do you say to that?"

"Well, when I go dere I 'spects to leave my breff behind me."—Mrs. J. B. Sparks, South Carolina.

Cannot Attend White Schools.

Raleigh, Sept. 16.—In a list of 26 opinions delivered this afternoon by the Supreme Court in appeals from the first and second districts one of special public interest was J. S. Johnson vs. The Wilson County Board of Education, involving the right of Johnson's four children to attend the public schools for white children, in spite of the fact that the children had negro blood in their veins to the extent of possibly less than one-sixteenth. The Supreme Court, Judge Walker writing the opinion for the court, reverses the lower court and holds that neither these children, nor any others with any mixture of negro blood have any right to attend the schools for white children.

The trial judge in the Superior Court held that since the State Constitution legalized the marriage of a white person to one who had not more than one-eighth negro blood, the Legislature exceeded its authority in specifying that children of such parents could not attend the white schools.

However the Supreme Court holds that while the Constitution did legalize the marriage of a white man to a woman with one-eighth negro blood, it did not intend to abolish any of the distinctions based on color and social relations as distinguished from purely political equality with which the Constitution was dealing.

Commission Against Southern in Matter of Placing Spur Track.

Raleigh, Sept. 15.—The Corporation Commission today ruled against the Southern Railway in the action of Craven & Holman, lumbermen of Ridgeway, who declined to sign one of the Southern's contracts in the placing of a spur track on the petitioner's lands.

The clause which cause Craven & Holman to protest was this: "That it will indemnify and save harmless the railway company against any and all damage resulting from the negligence of the party of the second part, its servants and employes in and about said industrial track and the right of way therefor; and furthermore, against any and all claims, demands, suits, judgments, or sums of money according for loss or damage by locomotive, engines or trains of the railway company to buildings used by the party of the second part in connection with the business served by said industrial track, or to contents of such buildings, or to other property stored by or with the consent of the party of the second part upon or near said industrial track."

The Southern asked to be heard on the rights to require the lumber firm to sign that contract before erecting the siding, in accordance with the commission's order.

The commission finds as a fact that the defendant's statement that such a contract is signed by substantially every person or firm using such spur tracks, but doubts seriously the validity of the indemnity clause because it does not think a company can contract against its liability. "But whether it be legally valid or not" the commission holds, "the commission is of the opinion that it is unreasonable and unjust for the railroad company to require or demand such a stipulation on the part of any shippers, and this commission takes this occasion to express its disapproval of the railway companies in that respect."

The commission further holds that a person with business enough to justify the erection of a side track, is entitled to that facility without conditions that do not apply to other shippers. It adds: "The result of this stipulation would be to release the company from all liability for damage by fire caused to the property of the petitioners, whether such fire was set out by engines used on the siding or by engines used on the main tracks totally disconnected with the business done on the sidetrack and without regard to how negligent the railway company might be in setting out such fires." It holds it the duty of the companies to erect sidings when requested by the commission to do so without any conditions.

The commission declines to modify the order or to require any signature to a contract containing the indemnity clause. It was this disagreement last week that caused the Southern to threaten appeal and the commission to encourage one. Should such a suit be brought in the State courts the commission will recommend the repeal of the present law and the nullifying of that clause.

No Wonder.

"Is that you, dear?" said a young husband over the telephone, "I just called up to say that I'm afraid I'm afraid I won't be able to get home to dinner tonight, as I am detained at the office."

"You poor dear," answered the wife sympathetically. "I don't see how you manage to get anything done at all with that orchestra playing in your office. Goodbye."—L. L. Redfern, Massachusetts.

Should Not Be.

We are told that the State is strong for prohibition and if this is so there can be no objection to a law that make the law more effective.—Durham Herald.

POOR P

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER.

Matching Blouses of Chiffon or Satin —Braided and Beaded Trimming This Fall.

PRETTY AUTUMN COSTUMES

New York, Sept. 19.—Did it ever occur to you that there is such a thing as clothes sense? Some women and men possess it and others lack it deplorably. To some an unharmonious combination of style, color or lack of becomingness and suitability necessary in the successful gown is a painful as a discord in music.

Fortunate is the woman if she realizes that she lacks this gift, for then, if she desires, she can by a little careful study acquire some sense of clothes. Remember that the first essential is to wear clothes which accord with your mode of living. Be careful to have your costume complete; for instance, do not wear heavy shoes with an evening gown, or slippers with a tailored suit. The same thing may be said of hats. Tailored hats are for tailored costumes and more dressy hats for the more elaborate gowns and social occasions. The combination of cheap and expensive materials is a gross mistake unless an unusual color combination or other effect is obtained, and usually such an effect can only be attained by an artist. A most important thing to remember is not to buy a dress because it pleases your fancy, but because you know it will accentuate all of your good points. To many this category of don'ts will seem so elementary that they are hardly to be taken seriously, but unfortunately they are but few who actually put these rules into practice.

The style this season are shown in such variety that there are clothes for the fat, the thin and the negative woman.

Velvet and other pile fabrics, and the imitation fur-cloths, such as mole, Persian Lamb, civet and leopard, are used extensively for gowns, suits and wraps, as well as for the trimming of gowns.

A taupe gown of chiffon over the same colored charmeuse had two tunics which were edged with bands of imitation mole skin. The waist also had a band of it to outline the surplice waist.

Black Serge Frock Trimmed with Heavily Braided White Broadcloth.

Another stunning gown had a waist made after the jumper style of Persian lamb cloth. The sleeves of the waist were of black chiffon. The skirt was made with a long tunic of velvet with a lower skirt of fur-cloth.

A suit of black velvet has a jacket with long ends, which tie at the back beneath a cape-like back. The cape is edged with a four-inch band of Persian lamb. The long tunic of velvet has a band of this same fur and is over a narrow skirt of velvet.

Jet glitters and glistens on gowns of velvet, lace and satin. Bands of it encircle the waist, form straps to go over the shoulders and suspend the waists of evening gowns. Jet beads and paillettes are fastened to a net foundation, which makes a wonderful scintillating cloth—supple and attractive without the weight of the jacked cloth of years ago when it was so much the rage.

One-toned costumes are very smart. Suits of gray, green, brown or blue have blouses to match of satin, or chiffon. A striking suit of beige-colored corduroy had its jacket semi-fitted and flaring at the bottom. The skirt had an upper and lower tunic, both very wide and rippling in effect. The blouse was of exactly matching chiffon, which was made with a U-shaped yoke about the size and shape of a man's shirt front, which was filled with narrow ruffles of the chiffon picot edged.

Braiding and beading are used extensively for trimming, and are combined charmingly with a darning stitch in coarse silk, which is done in effective but simple designs.

Illustrated is a costume of simple good style. Then new small armhole is evident, and the skirt with its tunic having set-in pleats at the side and pockets, which are placed just at the pleats on either hip, makes a costume of singular smartness. It is here developed in black serge trimmed with white broadcloth for revers, cuffs, pockets and sash ends, which is heavily braided in black. The dress buttons down the front of the waist and to the bottom of the tunic with buttons of the same. Around the waist is looped a sash of serge. A cunning little hat of black velvet, with dashing little white Mercury wings laced on either side, adds a chic finish to this costume.

Whoever You Need a General Tonic Take Grove's
The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is equally valuable as a General Tonic because it contains the well known tonic properties of QUININE and IRON. It acts on the Liver, Drives out Malaria, Purifies the Blood and Builds up the Whole System. 50 cents.

Carried to Asheville for Safe-Keeping.

Asheville, Sept. 17.—Dave Allison and Dolly Parker, two Transylvania County young men, have been brought to this city for safekeeping following the death of J. W. Clayton, a well-known farmer who lived near Brevard. The young men declare that they know nothing of the manner in which the deceased met death, although officers who brought them to Asheville stated that witnesses have said that they were the last persons seen with the deceased.

Feeling is reported to be bitter against them in the section in which Mr. Clayton met death and the Transylvania officer tonight thought it wise to bring both young men to this city, where they are safe behind the walls of the Buncombe County prison.

Those ladies and gentlemen who were so delighted in going abroad and experienced war's discomforts, are now infected with more home pride than the village police judge which is saying a great deal.

The Maine Election.
In spite of the general collapse of the Progressive party elsewhere there is still enough of it left in Maine to enable the Democratic candidate for Governor to get in by a small plurality. The Republicans much more than doubled the Taft vote of two years ago, their gain being in fact 125 per cent., while the Progressives have lost 63 per cent. of the Roosevelt vote. This shows that the Progressive party still has some power for evil in Maine as assistant to the Democrats and has given that party through the minority in every district one Congressman and the Governor of the State.

The congressional delegation remains unchanged politically, three Republicans and one Democrat with no Senator to elect until 1916. A Republican Governor chosen when the opposition to the Democrats was united gives place to a Democrat because enough former Republicans who have seen fit to desert their party persist in that desertion, although it is manifest that is only effect, where it has any, is to place and keep in power the party whose principles these Progressives have always opposed and still profess to oppose.

To act as Assistant to the Democrats with no prospect or hope of gaining anything for themselves is so unsatisfactory that Progressives generally have grown tired of it and are returning to their old party. It is an ignoble part to play and is responsible for all the experimental and unwise legislation that a Democratic Congress and Administration have placed upon the country. If Progressives are pleased with the result then they are Democrats at heart, and should join that party openly. If they are not pleased then they are following a course clearly to their own hurt and disadvantage.

Persistence in this supreme folly is more than most voters will consent and the Progressives standard-bearers in most States find their following dwindling to insignificant proportions, though in some localities as in Maine, it may still be able to fill a little longer the role of Assistant to the Democrats.

Future Demand for Our Goods Will Be Enormous.

New York, Sept. 17.—Future demand for American goods in France will be enormous, according to an opinion expressed in a cablegram received here today from Franklin Johnston, published of the American Exporter.

"Business conditions here are remarkably good," said the message, "and are improving. There has been an especially marked improvement this week. All shipment routes from France are open. Considerable manufacturing still is going on and exports of the specialties and luxuries typically French continue good."

"The future demand in France for American machinery and manufactured goods of all sorts will be enormous."

One thing has been overlooked: there has been no meeting of the newspaper paragraphs held, or even called, for the purpose of whereasing that they view with alarm the present lowness of the price of cotton in the w. k. south, and resolving that something ought to be done about it, right away.

Soissons Saved by Woman.
Paris, Sept. 17.—A story is being printed here of the courageous manner in which a woman of Soissons, Mme. Macherez, approached the Germans who entered the town and saved it on easy terms.

The Germans on entering the town demanded to see the mayor. The mayor was out of town and none of the other local officials came forward. Mme. Macherez thereupon went to the German commander and said:

"The mayor is not here, but I am here and I answer for every one and everything, as you will have to do if depredations are committed."

She then conducted the negotiations regarding the requisitions demanded and is said to have done so very skillfully.

Cat Battles With Turtle.
When B. F. Magnin, of Ninth street and Ridge avenue, Darby, went to investigate a noise in the rear of his home, which awakened him early in the morning, he found the family cat battling a 2-pound snapping turtle. The cat, unable to understand his opponent's tactics, was furiously scratching the latter's hard shell back. The snapper made prodigious efforts to seize the cat's flesh with his beak, but was unsuccessful. Magnin separated the two, and captured the snapper who will next be seen in the form of snapper soup.

A Boston court has ruled that a girl has a right to keep an engagement ring even after she has jilted the giver, but wouldn't the girl who insisted upon exercising such a right be well lost even at the price of the most costly ring?

A Comfortable Prediction.
The nights have been so cold now for almost a week that people are beginning to look for an early frost. But the probability is that we will have another warm spell and no killing frost until the middle of October. —Newton Enterprise.

Maybe So.
Remembering that we have had a poor system of assessing property for taxation for all these years it must be that the average man has it figured out some way that he is getting the best of it.—The Durham Herald.

The high sheriff, of Buncombe, Charlie Williams, and his honor, 'Squire McIntyre, had a fight the other day. Subsequently 'Squire McIntyre acted contumeliously in 'Squire Walt Gudger's court, and was sent to languish in prison 10 days thereof. Quite right. Anybody treating 'Squire Gudger's court with contempt should be, and will be, severely dealt with.

The Statesville Landmark wonders that J. Scroop Styles, of Asheville, parts his name in the middle. It admits that it is entirely Mr. Styles' own business; but we can see that The Landmark would be a lot better pleased if he signed himself as Jas. S. Styles, Jno. S. Styles, as the case may be, or J. S. Styles. We have to inform the Landmark that some of Mr. Styles' acquaintances sometimes refer to him as J. Scroopalous.

R. F. D. No. 8.
 Mrs. J. J. Taylor of Efland, spent Sunday and Monday with her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Hayes.
 We are glad to announce that Mrs. Hayes is improving some, and we hope she will soon be able to be out again.
 Miss Margaret Isley has gone to Lexington, where she will engage in teaching.
 Mrs. J. S. Correll, of Greensboro, is visiting at J. M. Story's.
 Mrs. George Wakefield spent last Thursday at our house. Glad to see our 'Sis' again.
 Thanks to J. C. McCulloch, Mrs. W. A. Moore, Mrs. Euliss Ross, Uncle Nathan Gant and J. B. Foster for melons, fruit and vegetables.
 Virgil Foster and family and Mrs. J. B. Foster spent Sunday at G. E. Faucette's.
 Thad Isley has moved to his new house. Glad of it. Maybe he will go to his mail box now. Thad made a yoke to keep his cow in the pasture and he put the yoke on the fence instead of the cow. Guess it worked all right, as we have heard no complaint.
 We wish to call the attention of our patrons to the Health Bulletins which are State is now sending out.

Read them carefully and act accordingly, and you may save lots of doctor bills. It is an old saying and a true one that "An ounce of Prevention is worth a pound of Cure." It costs the State quite a lot to send out these bulletins and they are free to you and you ought to read them and appreciate the advice given.
 Peter Troxler has finally come home. He has a fine girl baby. Maybe he will be good now.
 Miss Clara Hughes is visiting at J. W. Somers. It will be remembered that she taught school on No. 8 last year.
 Misses Eihel and Grace Somers spent Saturday and Sunday at W. M. Leath's on Altamahaw No. 2.
 Farmers are putting in the time now curing tobacco, pulling fodder, plowing, etc. Plenty to do these days.

County Commissioners' Proceedings.
 The Board met September 7th and transacted the following business:
 The Johnson Company in Newlin township was relieved of tax on saw mill valued at $500, same listed in Chatham county and tax paid in that county.
 Hugh D. McPherson was relieved of tax on $580 solvent car, an error in listing.
 A. C. Brown was relieved of poll tax on account of disabilities.
 The Board donated $2,500 for improving the court house square.
 The Board adjourned to meet Saturday, Sept. 12th, when it met and transacted the following business:
 Thos. Allred was relieved of graded school tax on $635 for Glenwood Graded School, same not in the district.
 White Furniture Company was relieved of excess tax of $20,000 same being relieved by Corporation Commissioners.
 The Board ordered built a steel bridge 75 feet in length at the lower ford place, near Miss Eula Dixon's, to be done just as soon as it can be done, the citizens in the community agreeing to pay $100 toward building said bridge.
 The Superintendent of Roads was authorized to employ a civil engineer to survey the road asked for in Coble township, beginning at or near Mr. Comb's gate and running to the bridge on the most feasible route at the expense of the citizens, and report the survey to this Board at their next meeting.

The chairman of the Board appointed the entire Board to investigate the proposed cart-way asked for in the lands of Miss Faust.
 The jurors who assessed the damage on account of widening the road on and across the lands of H. C. Stout and Lewis H. Holt, in which report the jury gave H. C. Stout nothing and Lewis H. Holt the sum of $30 from which decision the said Lewis H. Holt appealed to the Board of County Commissioners.
 The Superintendent of the County Home was authorized to receive Logan Griffis as an inmate of the Home.
 The Board appropriated $400 for farm demonstration work in Alamance County.
 R. F. Williams and W. D. Foster were appointed a committee to employ a civil engineer to survey the road from Deck Whitsell's to the Guilford County line, without expense to the county.
 Mr. and Mrs. Farrar Royster and little daughter, of Burlington, spent yesterday in the city with relatives and friends.—Greensboro News.
