SOME CONCLUSIONS AS INEVITABLE AS UNPLEASANT.

The possibility is recognized that the official county may disclose a slight majority for the amendments--even that relating to taxation. Should it terminate that way, we shall be very glad, as we feel sure it would be best for the State. But in this respect we shall only feel mildly interested in subsequent events. There is no longer anything vital in our concern. Our interest is academic rather than avid.

It is the sociological, rather than the political aspect of this contest in behalf of the amendments, that has left us confounded. The people have shown little concern in matters of immediate concern to the people. Popular government has seemed to fail at a point where it should not have failed. Obviously the protagonists of the amendments could not have been influenced in their activity by ulterior motives. It is equally obvious that hundreds of the most thoughtful men in the State, men capable of thinking deeply and soundly, would not have urged upon the people a number of measures which would have militated against their best interests. By their indifference the people have said they do not care what sort of rebels the Confederate soldiers are called, or how they are designated. Thousands of people have said by their indifference that they do not care whether the future citizens of the State are better educated or not. Thousands of voters have said by their adverse votes, or their failure to vote at all, that they do not care how members of the Legislature spend their time in Raleigh, or how much they are paid for that time. Thousands of voters have said by their indifference that the work of the carpet-bag Legislature, ratified by negro votes, is good enough for them.

The people were assured by a hundred responsible newspapers and a hundred good and responsible men, that the advocates of the taxation amendment were not seeking to increase taxes, but to secure a juster system of taxation. A few slick politicians and a few newspapers whispered it about that taxes were to be increased, and it was this whisper that found lodgment in the public mind. It was considered a fine thing when the State Press Association went on record last summer at Wrightsville as favoring the amendments. Only one or two publishers were opposed to the proposal at the time. The Clinton News Dispatch is the only one we recall at the moment. That paper has apparently exerted a greater influence than all the rest of the State press. Two Republican weekly papers opposed the amendments on the ground that they were to be regarded as a Democratic scheme to raise taxes and to pull the Democrats out of a hole. E. L. Travis, of the corporation commission, lined up with these two Republican papers--that fraction of the press that had impeached his party. Up to this point there was nothing particularly surprising in the developments but thousands of Democrats have said by their votes that Travis was right in ranging himself on the side of the two Republican papers.

It was very late in the campaign but Senator Simmons came to the support of the amendments. He stated that he had studied the amendments with care, and believed they should be approved. In doing that Mr. Simmons only invited humiliation. It would have been just as well had he kept quiet like his colleague and let things drift. His voice did not carry as much weight as a Republican weekly newspaper that makes no pretense of circulating beyond its own county seat. Only here and there any evidence that men made an intelligent choice in supporting, or opposing the amendments. In some sections where the party leaders, or other

POSSUM AND OYSTER SUPPER.

Poosum, oysters, etc., will be served in the Hay Building on Front Street next Saturday evening, Nov. 14, beginning at 5:30. This supper will be given by the Junior Philathea Class of the M. P. Church, and the proceeds will be used for the benefit of the class. The public is invited. Merchants and clerks are especially invited to go and get their supper instead of going home for it. The occasion will be invigorated by music rendered by the Walawa Orchestra.

MR. THOS. C. CARTER WRITES.

Dear Mr. Editor:--

Allow me through the columns of your valuable paper to express my appreciation to the voters that rendered me their support in the previous election. Although the support was not sufficient to success, yet I feel that it was a compliment paid me and the party and will eventuate to better government in Alamance County and finally to the success of the party if we will only keep the faith and continue the fight. Also, Mr. Editor, allow me to congratulate you upon your fight through the paper in interest of better government in Alamance County. Your paper is a great instrument for good and should have the support of all patriotic citizens, those who are ambitious for their county and its welfare. The defeat on last Tuesday and the columns that our Democratic brethren are heaping upon us are our best assets for success in the future. I was very much shocked at the representation that the esteemed Burlington News gave us in its issue after the election--as "Vile Traitor" after it had harped so earnestly about fairness. I am very sorry that this good paper has no better sentiments for the good Republicans and Progressives in Alamance County. Notwithstanding all this I appeal to all good Republicans and Progressives to stand firm and victory will be ours in the next election.

"The greatest glory is in never falling but rising every time we fall."

Yours in the fight,
THOS. C. CARTER.

50-MILE CONFERENCE OF BARACA AND PHILATHEA.

The Baraca-Philathea City Union, in its regular monthly business meeting held in the First Baptist Church, Sunday, Nov. 1, instituted a Fifty-Mile Conference of Baraca and Philathea Classes with in a radius of fifty miles of Burlington, to be held here, beginning on Friday evening, November 27, and continuing through Sunday, Nov. 29.

The Executive Board of the City Union has appointed various committees to make arrangements for entertaining the delegates and preparing a program for the conference. The program and full particulars of the conference will appear in The Dispatch and Burlington News at an early date.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Tuttle are attending the session of the Western North Carolina Conference, M. E. Church, South, at Shelby, this week. They are the guest of their daughter, Mrs. L. L. Sloop. Mr. Tuttle will return on Saturday to fill his pulpit next Sunday which will close his first year's work in Burlington, as he will attend his own conference which meets in Washington, N. C., on November 18.

DR. HALL AT ELON.

Elon College, Nov. 7.--During the week, Elon College was favored with a visit from Dr. Winfield Scott Hall, professor of physiology in the medical department of Northwestern University, Chicago. A large audience of students and villagers were delighted to hear from him a lecture on the psychology of teaching. To the study of this subject and of kindred subjects, Dr. Hall has given the last 30 years of his life and he came with a message of inspiration and encouragement to every teacher and parent as well as to every student who is preparing to teach. His lecture was nothing of a show of oratory, but he grips the mind of the hearer with the reasonableness of the facts presented. A panoramic sketch of the 3,000 years in the development of the Aryan race was presented and, along side of this, was a plain statement of facts. There was laid the life of a human being, and the history of that being was sketched together with the laws that hold in the development of human life.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

Evangelist J. Hartwell Dew, will be with the First Baptist Church next Sunday to conduct a series of revival meetings. Mr. Dew is from Liberty, Mo., and regarded as one of the most forceful and successful evangelists in the southland. Mr. Dew will be accompanied and assisted by Mrs. Dew, who is a gospel soloist and leader of congregational singing. This gifted woman and religious worker is a convert from the Roman Catholic Church, and some time during her stay in Burlington will speak of the experiences that led her to a saving faith in Jesus Christ. Further announcements of these meetings will appear in due time. Meanwhile the public is reminded that the meetings are open to all and that a cordial invitation is extended to the community at large to attend the services.

COLORED HOSEIERY MILL FOR BURLINGTON, N. C.

Burlington, N. C., Nov. 9, 1914. It is a pleasure in endorsing the movement of certain of the colored people of this community, to establish a Hosiery Mill, which will furnish employment to a large number of that race.

F. L. WILLIAMSON.

The logic of war is this: the side that is ticked will be held to blame, and made to pay. And if some neutrals are to be indemnified, why should not all neutrals, that can prove injury, be indemnified?

But the Indians some of us would like to see in the battle line are the Tammany braves.

"Son graduated?"
"Yep."
"Started to look for a job yet?"
"Not yet. He seems to labor under the hallucination that somebody will make him an offer."--Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Pa, what is meant by the psychological moment?"
"When I give your mother a check, my son, that is the psychological moment for ma to tell her I won't be home until late."--Birmingham Age-Herald.

HOW A CANDIDATE'S WIFE LOST HIM TWO VOTES.

This is not a story of society, but of woman and politics and questions which bear upon both women and politics. Therefore it may take place in this column—particularly on the day after election.

The woman in the adjusting bureau of one of the large stores in the city had grown accustomed to complaints. That was why she was employed in the adjusting bureau. But now and then some aggrieved person wandered in who received the store's rules as a personal affront and always was difficult.

A fortnight ago a portly woman arrived at the window and thrust an obviously worn garment in at the adjusting clerk.

"I am sorry, madam," said the clerk "but this garment has been worn and we cannot take it back."

"But you must take it back," shouted the woman. "I am Mrs. Blank and a lady. You are only a shop girl. What right has a woman in your position to sit in judgment on a lady? I'll take this up with the heads and I'll get your job, too."

The "shop girl" recognized the name. Mr. Blank was a candidate for office in her ward.

Mrs. Blank flounced away from the window and started for the office floor. It happened that the adjusting clerk was taking the elevator also. She found her nearest neighbor on the lift to be her irate complainant, who reopened the subject of idleness and shop-girlism.

"Where do you live, Mrs. Blank?" inquired the "shop girl," anxious to divert the subject. "Why," she went on, when the address was given, "you are a neighbor of mine."

New it happens also that the "shop girl" lives with a friend who can afford to live in a fashionable district. "A neighbor of mine?" queried the lady "are—are you—a voter?"

"Yes," answered the girl. "My dear, my dear," replied the lady. "Let's think no more about this little incident. Won't you vote for my husband?"

And the girl was not reported, but yesterday morning two women—the "shop-girl" and the friend with whom she lives—took great pleasure in going out and not voting for Mr. Blank. "You see," they explained, "we couldn't imagine how a man could make a good public servant with such an influence at home."

After all, perhaps, woman's suffrage may be more far-reaching in its influence than the anti-dream.

PRaises NEWSPAPERS AS ADVERTISING MEDIUMS.

By their thorough local circulation, their adaptability to all needs, the low rates charged for their space, and the influence behind their columns, newspapers are adapted best of all to the general uses of advertising, according to P. T. Borbour, advertising manager of the Constitution (Atlanta), champion of newspapers in the discussion Monday evening by the Ad Men's club of Atlanta. The club's study class held its fourth session in the Carnegie library.

Mr. Borbour advanced strong argument in behalf of the newspaper advertising columns. He contended that even in advertising campaigns of national scope, newspapers are more effective than any other media because each community can be considered a unit in the national plan and can be reached cheaply and effectively by copy prepared with an eye for local appeal.

Joseph W. Hill, of the Atlanta City Directory, emphasized the strong points of directory advertising. He declared it reaches the largest and best audience, finding that audience in business and commercial circles during office hours when all the facilities for buying are at hand.

Gordon Massengale, of the Massengale Bulletin System, championed pointed bulletins, advancing their strong points as size, location, color, persistency, timeliness, etc. Novelty were championed by Paul P. Reese, southern representative of Whitehead & Hoag, Co. A S. Woodward of the Addressograph Company, argued for direct-by-mail methods.

In the general discussion that followed these arguments, members of the club brought out additional points relating to each medium under consideration. Other media, including the street car cards, billboards, moving picture slides and electric signs, are to be considered at the next meeting of the study class two weeks hence.

How To Give Quinine To Children.

FEBRILINE is the trade-mark name given to an improved Quinine. It is a Tasteless Syrup, pleasant to take and does not disturb the stomach. Children take it and never know it is Quinine. Also especially adapted to adults who cannot take ordinary Quinine. Does not nauseate nor cause nervousness or ringing in the head. Try it the next time you need Quinine for any purpose. Ask for 2-ounce original package. The name FEBRILINE is blown in bottle. 25 cents.

"WOUNDS MAKE BOYS GROW."

Gustave Chatain, 15 years old, a gamin and a soldier, who was brought to the hospital here after he had been playing at war like a man, has started gain for the front. He wished to continue his game of war, having ambition to capture a flag.

The good sisters who had been nursing his wounds were unable to restrain him, especially since an army lieutenant had given him a uniform with the congratulations of the officers of the regiment.

His father took him this morning to the recruiting office. When the father told Gustave where they were going the boy leaped from his bed.

"Bully," he cried, and jumped into his clothes in feverish haste.

Some one suggested teasingly that he would be rejected because he was so small.

"A wound is like soup, it makes you grow," retorted the boy. "Any way if they refuse me I will find a way to wriggle to the front ranks."

HOW JONAH GOT RELIGION.

At the conference of the Evangelical Lutheran Society of Northern Illinois held at Emmanuel church, the Rev. H. E. Zimmerman, of Mount Morris, Ill., spoke on "Jonah and the Whale."

"Jonah became depressed," said the speaker, "while in the whale and this resulted in a religious experience that brought him to know his God. There are a lot of 'floaters' in the church who receive all the benefits and do not contribute a penny until they get to a tight place."—Chicago Herald.

A magazine writer says that when one of the pastors of Danville, Ill., has to be away ever Sunday he always asks Uncle Joe Cannon to fill the pulpit for him, and that the old veteran always gives the people a sermon worth listening to. It is a little of surprise to be told that Uncle Joe is a good preacher, for his reputation for profanity is somewhat extensive, but one can see how it would be a good thing if the ministers would have lay sermons more often than they do. The viewpoint of a business man or a politician with reference to the higher life is worthy of attention, and an occasional address of this sort will mix in well with the sermons which the congregations listen to most of the time.

LET US GO FORWARD.

The campaign is over and the result of the election will be known when these lines are read. There will be some disappointments and some feelings that follow as a result of the election.

We are all citizens of a great Nation, State and County. Let us continue our efforts for the uplift of our people.

Let us not conclude that our country is going to be in bad because of any party in power.

If those in authority do not do their duty it is up to the voters to turn them out of power when the next election day comes.

If you have said unkind things of your neighbors on account of politics within the last few weeks, it will be well to get right with your neighbor and go and unite your efforts with his for the betterment of your community and the future of our country.—Catawba County News.

NEWSPAPER BEST INVESTMENT.

The address of former United States Senator Davis, of Illinois, contained quite a complimentary reference to the work of newspapers. Among other things he said:

"Every year every local paper gives from 500 to 5000 free lines for the benefit of the community in which it is located. No other agency can, or will do this. The editor, in proportion to his means does more for his town than any other man. He ought to be supported, not because you like him, or admire his writings, but because a local paper is the best investment a community can make. It may not be crowded with great thought, but financially it is of more benefit than both teacher and preacher. Today editors do more for less pay than any men on earth. Patronize your home paper, not as charity, but as an investment."

An illustration of thrift is contained in the story of a Scotswoman who had been promised a present of a new bonnet. Before she made the purchase the benefactor called and asked the good woman, "Would you rather have a felt or a straw bonnet, Mrs. McDuff?"

"Weel," said Mrs. McDuff, "I think I'll take a straw one. It'll be a mouthful to the coo when I'm done with it!"

Mrs. Deer—How modestly and how sensibly she dresses!

Mrs. Sneers—Pes; that woman will go anything to attract attention.—Topeka Journal.

In real life one sometimes gets the whole of a romans and sees its real is in the leading lady thereof cooking for boarders.—Atchison Globe.

"Do you think he's able to support a wife?" "Why, he can't even maintain a conversation."—Judge.

IN THE SAME PULPIT 50 YEARS.

Enjoying the distinction of being the only Lutheran minister to hold a charge at the same church for 50 consecutive years, the Rev. S. A. K. Francis, pastor of Evangelical Lutheran church of the Trinity, yesterday (Sunday) celebrated the golden jubilee of his pastorate of the church with appropriate services, which were attended by men and women who at one time or another during the last half century attended the church.—Philadelphia Record.

A gardener just outside Houston has a magnificent field of green peas. "Do they taste as good as they look?" I asked him jokingly. "Hess you," he replied, "it would be like eating money for me to use them on my own table. I haven't tasted a pea except out of a can for five years."—Boston Post.

Overstrung Nerry Householder—"Good gracious. Are you Germans?" Official—"No, mum. We're from the water company to see the fittings."—London Opinion.

"This pianist has wonderful power. He can make you feel hot or cold happy or moose, at will."

"That's nothing new. So can our janitor."—Canadian Courier.

Well, the Salt river voyagers had first class weather for it.

"Mrs. Nurich, did your daughter get home?"

"Yes. It was just as disgraceful. She went over there to try to get into the peagee, and, instead, she came home in the steerage."—Chicago Post.

DORIS BLAKE SAYS:

Judging by the Hours They Keep Some Young Men Are Just Naturally Cut Out For Milkmen.

MAN'S INDIFFERENCE.

Dear Miss Blake: "I have been going with a young man for two years. We are now engaged. But for the last few months his indifference has caused me much unhappiness. He fails to keep appointments with me and his calls are becoming few and far between. What should I do? Mabel."

If I were engaged to a man and I scented indifference in the atmosphere I wouldn't lock myself up in my room and pine for one who didn't care whether I was pining or not. No! Life is too short for nursing senseless heartaches. There's only one course open to a girl when her sweetheart's affection begins to wane and that is to apply the old maxim of like curing like—meet indifference with indifference.

I know this isn't as easy to do as to write about, especially if the girl is one of the 95 per cent heart type. But it's a state of mind worth working one's self into in view of the fact that being at home has for its reward not the return of the prodigal sweetheart but just more tears, while on the other hand indifference—apparent indifference—has brought lots of sweethearts to their senses and to realize that they were letting "the best girl in the world" slip out of their hands into the hands of another.

Writing notes to the prodigal one begging him to return, only makes doubly sure in the man's mind the fact that you are attainable—his for the asking. Nothing is more true than that the unattainable has the faculty of holding a man. And the girl who is on to the job of being a woman keeps up this barrier of something that can pass for the unattainable. The tenderest hearted man, somehow, becomes adamant against tears and wails when love is dead.

When indifference is in the air a girl makes her worst mistake in clinging. There is nothing so absolutely meaningless to a man as the clasp of a woman's arm or the levelling in a woman's eye when he is not seeking or wanting her love or his love for her consumed itself. The turning of the table, the fear for him that is slipping away from the command and his habit of her, is the man's game in reviving a dying affection. Let him see another fellow toss the campus, even just as the last spark is flickering to white ashes, he is aroused and fights desperately for what he considers his right. Blessings do so brighten as they take their flight.

Rivalry will not arouse the dyemasters, then the girl may make up her mind there's no feeling there that can revive.

THEY WANT HOROSCOPES.

Dear Miss Blake: "Would you kindly print the horoscopes of our birthdays in the paper? I have two boys and two girls, whose birthdays are May 28, Nov. 15, Sept. 1 and Nov. 3. W. X. Y. Z. horoscope for each month appear in this column the first Sunday of each month. If you will watch the paper you will find your horoscope printed, or if you wish a personal reply and will send a stamped addressed envelope, the horoscope will be sent you. Since they are so long, it will be impossible to print individual horoscopes in the paper."

LOVES JULIA NOW.

Dear Miss Blake: "I am a young man of 24 and have been keeping company with a lady friend of my age for the last three months. I find that lately I am more interested in her sister Julia than in Anna. How can I leave Anna and go with Julia?"

"PUZZLED."

Under the circumstances you cannot pay your attentions to Julia without giving hard feelings in the family. Attempt it unless you are in love with Julia.

Golden had a new office boy.

After a few days after his arrival some money was missed from the cash drawer.

Calling the new boy into the private office, Mr. Golden said, severely: "There is $10 gone from my cash drawer, Albert. Now, you and I are the only people who have keys to that drawer." "Well," replied the boy, cheerfully, "suppose we each pay $5 and say no more about it?"—Harper's Magazine.

AMERICAN SHOES MARCH FORWARD.

When it was reported that one of the European armies was equipped with American shoes, it was remarked that "these shoes would only march forward."

In an industrial sense American shoes are going ahead this fall to a greater extent than ever. Demand is heavy and factories busy.

Just now the stores are showing the fall styles—all of them creditable to our American shoe makers.

But for your individual need some shoes are better than others.

It would be well to post yourself as to the merits of the different brands and the stores selling them, by reading the advertising in The Dispatch.

BUY A BOLT AS WELL AS A BALE.

More practical help to the cotton industry even than buying bales of raw cotton would be the purchase of a bale of cotton cloth.

That not only helps use the cotton up but keeps the mills going.

Practical movements for increasing the vogue of cotton goods are starting in many cities.

The stores are showing interesting values.

Keep your eye on the advertising and you will be posted on the buy a bolt movement.

Every merchant who chooses to do so can make every day a "pay-up-day," so far as his own business is concerned.

Nell—"Why are you wearing such a thick veil, dear?" One can hardly recognize you through it."

Mae—"Well, to tell the truth, in this transparent blouse I'm ashamed to show my face."—Puck.

"You should see Ferdinand's truck." "Ladies from all continental hotels, I suppose."

"No; samples of shot from every camp in Europe."—Judge.

"Malachi," said a prospective homesteader to a lawyer, "you know all about this law. Tell me what I am to do."

"Well," said the other. "I don't remember the exact wording of the law, but I can give you the meaning of it. It's this: The Government is willing to bet you ten acres of land against $14 that you can't live on it five years without starving to death."

When a girl is wearing a diamond ring she doesn't consider it bad form to pick her teeth at the table.

When a would-be friend says he would do anything in the world for you, don't jolt the friendship by asking him to loan you a quarter.

THINK IT OVER.

Although people generally seem prone to lose sight of it, it is a basic principle of the credit business that the term of credit should be definite.

If you deal with a bank, you are forced to recognize this principle. The bank charges you for every day that you use its credit, and holds you strictly to an accounting. It takes its pay in advance and if you would keep your ability to purchase credit unimpaired, you must be as prompt as the day, either to pay up, or to make new acknowledgement of the debt, and pay for the extension.

The easy merchandise credit system is more lenient, apparently at least. We suppose none of us is under any illusion about this merchandise credit. It is the natural assumption that the merchants charge us for it—they themselves do not get credit for nothing. And theoretically credit increases the volume of their sales, and thus enables them to turn their capital faster. But this indefinite credit extension tends to produce a sloppy condition of the community's business, to get things all spraddled out and balled up. If every body would make a hearty effort once to get square with the mercantile business of the community, it would oil the wheels of community progress a lot. Dollars set in general motion in this manner would help everybody as they moved along. People who have money, and who have bills overdue, are too reluctant to kiss that money goodbye. They get in the habit of holding on to it just as long as possible.

The "pay-up-day" should be taken seriously by our good, honest people. If they will just take the time to think the matter over, the idea is going to be a success, and to help local business conditions wonderfully.

Captain—Can't you do something for that sick passenger, doctor? Doctor—No, he wants too much. Captain—Why, what does he want? Doctor—He wants the earth.

A certain major in the Philippines managed in some way always to get leave just before trouble with the natives was due. His colonel suspected him of having no stomach for fighting.

"Some day," remarked the colonel, "they'll want to give that fellow a decoration and I'll suggest one. It will be a wreath of leaves of absence."

WAR!

Means higher prices and greater demand for grains. The price of wheat has increased 35 cents, corn 20 cents per bushel.

You can't do better than to hook up to a good grain farm. If we were in the farming business we would grab this one. but since it is our business to sell 'em, we must let her go. One twenty acre field produced 500 bushels wheat this year. Another field produced 541 bushel oats. There will be 500 bushels of corn with proper season.

The farm is divided into fields with barb wire and American field fence about three miles of fence in all.

Field No. 2.....17 acres. " 3.....22 acres. " 4.....40 acres. In original oak timber and is used for hog pasture.

" 4.....27 acres. This farm contains 127 acres. It has a large barn 30 by 50 ft., a tool shed, crib, milk house and three room house Ever flowing stream through the centre of the farm. In good neighborhood, only one half mile from Friendship, a good state high school, seven and half miles Southwest of Burlington.

We will sell this farm on EASY TERMS, for less than $30.00 per acre.

An inspection will convince you of the merits of this proposition. Let us show you.

"Seein' Things."
I ain't afeard, no snakes, or toads, or lugs, or worms, or mice,
An' things 'at girls are skeered at I think are awful nice!
I'm pretty brave, I guess; and yet I hate to go to bed.
For, when I'm tucked up warm an' snug, an' when my prayers are said,
Mother tells me "Happy dreams!" and takes away the light,
An' leaves my lyn' all alone an' seein' things at night!

Sometimes they're in the corner, sometimes they're by the door,
Sometimes they're all a-standing in the middle 'iv the floor;
Sometimes they are a-sittin' down, sometimes they're walkin' round.
So softly an' so creepy-like they never make a sound!

Sometimes they are black as ink, an' other times they're white—
But the color ain't no difference when you see things at night.

Once, when I licked a feller 'at had just moved on our street,
An' father sent me up to bed without a thing to eat,
I woke up in the dark and saw things standing in a row,
A-lookin' at me cross-eyed an' pintin' at me so!

Oh, my, I wuz so skeered that time I never sleep' a mite—
It's almost allaz when I'm had I see things at night!

Lucky thing I ain't a girl, or I'd be skeered to death;
Bein' I'm a boy, I duck my head an' hold my breath;
An' I am, oh, so sorry I'm a naughty boy an' then
I promise to be better an' say my prayers agin!

Grandma tells me that's the only way to make it right
When a feller has been wicked an' sees things at night.
An' so, when other naughty boys

would coax me into sin,
I try to slushw *he Tempter's voice 'at urges me within;
An' when they's pie for supper, or cakes 'at's big an' nice,
I want to—but I do not pass my plate 'r them things twice!

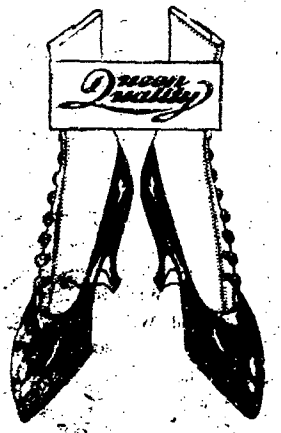

No, ruther let Starvation wipe me slowly out o' sight
Than I should keep a-livin' on an' seein' things at night!

DORIS BLAKE SAYS:

"Girls Sometimes Kiss With the Lips of Memory and Close Their Eyes to Help Them Imagine That it is the Other Fellow."

I hate to have to admit it—but woman is a contradictory creature! Some time ago I was staying in a household the father of which had "retired." From what he "retired" I never perfectly understood, for, as far as I could ascertain, he had never done any work in his life. But at any rate he had "retired" from whatever he had been doing, or not doing, before he began to do what I found him at when I moved into the household—cating heavily, smoking far too much, and the rest of the time grumbling gruffly about everything and against everybody—especially his wife.

There was no "retiring" for her. I noticed she kept up her household duties always and excellently—spurred to efficiency in them by his perpetual presence about the house. She felt it—I could plainly see—she was so obviously and so objectionably there. He never went outdoors because he held—on no evidence—that his heart was weak, and he was always threatening to "drop down dead" where he stood at any moment. But he didn't carry out the threat. How I and all the other people in the house pitied that poor wife!

Well, one day this plethoric individual was seized with a violent attack of indigestion and a doctor was summoned. The doctor prescribed "golf." My golf be praised—because the circuitous game removed this husband from the household. He went completely crazy about it. He talked about it ceaselessly and was so absorbed he had no time to interfere in the affairs of the household. The truth was his wife seldom saw him now.

It was then that an intimate friend—more in whom the wife had confidence than in her domestic burdens—ventured in a tactful way to congratulate her upon the change. But she was interrupted by a flood of tears. The wife sobbed miserably. Between the sobs she complained of never seeing the husband now. She spoke of his having "deserted" her for golf. She "missed" him. The friend, stupefied, could only stare at her in amazement. Verily the affection of faithful harassed women passeth all understanding!

Woman is a contradictory creature—there's no denying it! More often than not a woman with a husband who is "painfully trying" when he is around will miss him dreadfully when he is not.

NO RACE SUICIDE IN THIS FAMILY.

"Squire R. I. Mitchell, who visited his old home near Ridgeville this week, brought back a bit of news that is rare, to say the best. The wife of West Graves, a negro of that section, has just presented her husband with the 8th consecutive set of twins. The young couple have been married about 13 years, the knot having been tied by Squire Mitchell when he was a justice of the peace. A remarkable circumstance thereof is the fact that in each set of twins was a boy and a girl. There are 8 children living one of each set having died. Had the story come from another source, it might be doubted.—Caswell Sentinel.

In a certain machine shop an apprentice was one day swinging his hammer somewhat languidly when along came the boss. An angry expression o'erspread his countenance as he observed the performance of the lad. He took the hammer from the boy and delivered himself of the following:

"When I see a man that takes his hammer by the end of the handle, like this, and strikes fine, hard blows—like that, like that—I pay the man anywhere from $18 a week up. But when a man takes his hammer by the middle, like this, and strikes gentle taps—like this, like this—he gets only $9 a week, and he's the first to be laid off when work's slack."

Then the boss returned the hammer to the apprentice, thinking that he had taught him a good lesson; but the shrewd lad came back with:

"Would you mind showing me, sir, where I ought to hold the handle for $9 a week?"

"The head of a Chicago mail order house died the other day and left an estate valued at seventeen million dollars, and the same week a man who had been doing all his trading with the mail order house died and didn't leave any estate at all," says an exchange. HE NEEDS THE MONEY.

The dealer who tries to sell something "just as good" in place of a standard advertised article "needs the money."

Your satisfaction is not so important as his profit.

It is short-sighted policy of course—something the wise and the reputable merchant would not stoop to.

Purchasers should be on their guard against the "I need the money" men.

When you ask for a standard advertised article, "GET IT."

Don't take something the other man wants to sell.

Scan the columns of The Dispatch for your wants.

THE STRAIGHT ROAD.

"On a straight road no one can be lost."

There is an message in that sentence for every national manufacturer seeking a market for his product.

There are not "pitfalls" on the straight path, no gaps to be filled in.

Turn this thought to your own advertising and merchandising problems.

The straight path is the newspaper.

It not only reaches the consumers who buy the goods but influences the dealers who sell them.

Newspaper advertising not only creates demand, but it makes the sales.

Mrs. Hitch was having some trouble with a little fellow in her spelling class.

"B-e-d spells bed," she explained over and over again; "b-e-d, bed. Do you understand?"

"Yes'm."

"Well, c-a-t spells cat, d-o-g spells dog, and b-e-d spells—what did I tell you b-e-d spells?"

"Dunno."

"Don't know! You don't know what b-e-d spells after all I've told you?"

"No'm."

"Well, once more, b-e-d spells what you sleep in. Now what do you sleep in?"

"My pajamas!" triumphantly exclaimed the youngster.

Mr. Gladstone used to tell how an English lady, a friend of his, chartering a cab for a day in Dublin, said to the driver: "You won't mind if I take you for the day?"

"Is it me mind, me lady?" was the gallant reply. "Sure, I would not mind if ye tuk me fur life."

"No one but an Irishman could have said that without giving offense," was Mr. Gladstone's invariable comment on the story.

New Scales of Salaries for Rural Mail Carriers.

Compensation for rural carriers of the Postoffice Department has recently been fixed upon a scale based on the length of the routes, the time required to serve them, in accordance with the authorized official schedules.

The new scale, however, provides no carrier shall be reduced in compensation below the schedule in effect June 30, 1914, and that $1,200 shall be the maximum salary.

Where a carrier serves one tri-weekly route, he shall be paid on the basis and subject to the conditions for a route one-half the length of the route served by him, and a carrier serving two tri-weekly routes is to be paid on the basis of a route one-half the length of the combined routes.

The new routes do not apply to routes recently established, but to those in operation before June 30, 1914, the new ones taking the rates in effect before the change.

HOW TO HELP THE RETAILER

Every time this newspaper prints the advertising of a standard article it is helping the retailers who handle that product.

It is to the interest of retailers that a newspaper should increase its general advertising—because it stimulates business at their stores.

People like to get the goods they read about in the newspapers.

Retailers help their home newspapers and help themselves when they push these goods.

It is co-operation profitable alike to the dealer, the manufacturer, the newspaper and the consumer.

BE A BOOSTER.

Just whatever town you live in, That's the town to spend in, give in. That's the town to which you ever Owe your bravest, best endeavor. Don't knock sneer and criticize: That never yet has won the prize. If you feel your town is lagging In the rear, just keep on dragging: At the traces—cheering, bragging, Pull until you're out the mire, Keep on pulling, higher, higher! When the stranger comes to town Never run the old burg down, Show him how you are advancing, How your values are enhancing. By your courage and elation You can win his admiration, Success? This is the way to win it. A town is just the people in it. Send the stranger home content; Are those who have their chances missed, Let us all be to each other Fellow true and pulling long; Pulling straight and pulling strong; Pulling, pulling all together, Heedless of the wind or weather, We have got the old town going, Keep on rowing, keep on rowing, Game, and crowing like a rooster! Be a Booster.

The Senior Class of Wake Forest College has joined the Buy-a-Bale Movement. At a meeting of the class the members voted to buy a bale of cotton at 19 cents a pound, and appointed a committee to solicit subscriptions for the purchase price. It has not been decided to what disposition the class will make of the cotton.

J. E. MOORE, Mayor.

An Object of Compassion.

George Ade, apropos of a May-December marriage, relates the New York Tribune, said:

"When your octogenarian millionaire weds your beautiful stenographer of 17 summers, it is not to the radiant bride, but to the husband, that my sympathy goes out."

"Why? Well, I'll tell you why in a little while."

"Old Gobsa Golde has wedded Tottie Footlits and one evening he called to her from his dressing room:

"My dear, for this after-theatre supper at the hotel I don't know whether to wear my dancing shoes or my patent leather boots. Which is the better form for a man of my age?"

"In her green and gold brocade kimona the young and beautiful Mrs. Gobsa Golde, stretched on a chaise-louange, undergoing the attentions of her manicure and her coiffeur, called back to her poor old husband in a clear, cold voice:

"The best form for a man of your age, my dear, is chloroform."

Each day for a week a quantity of sheet metal disappeared from the back yard of the H. C. Thomas factory. A watchman engaged to guard the premises was unable to catch the thief. The sheet metal continued to disappear until Thomas saw a goat enjoying a midday meal off one end of the pile of sheet metal. Mrs. Carl Gillmeister, owner of the goat, was fined $1.00 by Judge Gronon for permitting the goat to run at large. Afterward the fine was remitted when she promised to keep "Billy locked up."—La Crosse (Wis.) Dispatch to Milwaukee Sentinel.

A pompous manufacturer of machinery was showing a stranger over his factory.

"Fine piece of work, isn't it?" he said, when they were looking at a very ingenious machine.

"Yes," said the visitor, "but you cannot hold a candle to the goods we are turning out."

"Indeed!" said the chagrined manufacturer. "And what is your line?"

"Gunpowder," was the reply.

He who never relaxes into sportiveness is a wearisome companion; but beware of him who jests at everything! Such men disparage by some indelicate association, all objects which are presented to their thoughts, and thereby render themselves incapable of any emotion which can either elevate or soften them; they bring upon their moral being an influence more withering than the blasts of the desert.—Southey.
