NEWS FROM RALEIGH

Raleigh, June 21.—Collector Bailey finally comes out with his sharp criticism of the State officers whose indifferent attitude toward the prohibition acts of the dominant party make it necessary for the national government to maintain a horde of deputies in Raleigh to enforce a law the benefit of which is entirely to state and detriment to the federal government.

Mr. Bailey made a statement a few days ago in which he defended his course in pleading for the retention of all his office and field deputies recently while in Washington. Mr. Bailey declares that the state officers are not doing their duty but insists that the federal duties are having much more than their share of work to do on account of state legislation. While the interview was not in the nature of an attack upon the state officers, it constitutes the worst sort of criticism of them and boldly charges them with doing less than their duty.

The collector took no hazard in saying this. Wake county is supposed to have more than her share of prohibition sympathizers among the county officers but a blockader would flourish if he had only the sheriff's force to fear. Men have been caught making liquor on the city's property and using the city's water supply for the booze. But they were not caught by the town or county officers. Bailey's deputies did it.

The commission appointed for the reform of judicial procedure in North Carolina met today and deliberated as to parceling out the work for the five members.

The resolution providing for this commission required one Republican on the commission and former Judge W. E. Bynum of Greensboro, is that member. Chief Justice Walter Clark is chairman, and the other members are Judge W. J. Adams, of Carthage, Senator L. V. Bassett of Edgecombe, Judge Bynum, and Major W. A. Graham. The findings will be put into pamphlet form and issued as an address to the people of the state prior to the 1917 general assembly.

The Democracy while trying to avoid a fuss over the governorship may get up a sizable scrap over the lieutenant governor's contest with former Senator H. L. Pharr, of Mecklenburg, and Senator O. Max Gardner of Cleveland as the runners.

Senator Pharr was here Saturday. Until he talked and expressed his desires so freely, it had been supposed that Senator Gardner was to talk into the lieutenantancy with the same ease that attended his candidacy for the presidency of the senate last winter. Mr. Pharr was president pro tempore the other session and each caught the habit—the love of presiding.

Gardner had an easy lead. He went about the state two or three campaigns drumming up first years voters' clubs and pulling for the raw ones. Senator Pharr was practicing law in Mecklenburg. He isn't a campaigner and is not particularly long on latter-day Democracy, his opponents say. He was among the tightest of the standpatters according to the "progressive Democratic" estimate and the former senator isn't a mixer.

But here's where Pharr hopes to head off Gardner. Gardner's daddy-in-law, Judge James L. Webb has held office long and was solicitor before he became Judge. Yates Webb, uncle-in-law, has been many years a congressman. Clyde Hoey, brother-in-law of Max Gardner is assistant district attorney. Two brothers hold recorder-ship and mayorality of Cleveland while another brother-in-law is said to be county attorney. The Gardner family appears to have fared well according to Mr. Pharr.

Then Mecklenburg did not stick to her own candidate when one offered to un-give a Gardner relative from a post. Yates Webb defeated Rand Preston for congress in Mecklenburg, Preston's home. Poor speaker as Senator Pharr is acclaimed to be, he believes he has a talking point that the voluble Gardner cannot meet.

The fact that two distinguished Democrats are going to spend their fortunes for this secondary job will, of course, be urged by the Democratic organs as proof positive that the party is full of patriots.

Collector A. D. Watts of the Statesville office of the revenue department, spent Saturday night and Sunday in the city and some new stories are due to start in a day or so.

A newspaperman was heard to ask the Colonel if Jim Hartness will really race Bryan Grimes for the office of secretary of state. Collector Watts replied: "He wants to if he can win." Despite the Colonel's protestation that his visit was entirely personal, the political observers believe that the collector is learning all that he can before allowing his life time ally to enter a race which will do no more than show, at best, the Watts strength in the state. If Hartness runs and is defeated for the nomination, and he will be if more powerful machinations are not employed than are now for him, it will mean merely that Watts can't put him over.

For a long time it was thought that the Anti-Saloon League would throw itself into the fight. That would admittedly be a help to Grimes because the League is powerful only in legislative circles where it can present petitions as long as a candidate's tongue and letters without limit.

Without reading the editorials in this paper, many Republicans and Progressives have endorsed its view that there is no necessity for the standing back of any well wisher of the proposed unity because he belongs to "the old crowd."

The "old crowd" voted its convictions when it took nerve and prepared a party into which the recruits could come without fear or shame, it is declared by some of the strongest who believe it perfectly possible to get the divided elements together again on fundamental matters, economy in state government, business in its departments, fair elections and in national affairs the immemorial issues of the old party.

These reflections were made by several Raleigh Progressives and Republicans upon a recent interview of a Stokes county Republican who asked about sixteen members of the old parties to retire and make way for such new names as have never adorned the annals of conventions.

INSURANCE MEN TO MEET THIS WEEK

Hendersonville to Entertain Delegates —Mr. Walker Lambeth on the Program.

Much interest throughout the State centers in the meeting in Hendersonville this week, Thursday and Friday, June 24 and 25 of the North Carolina Association of Insurance Agents. Local interest is augmented by reason of the fact that Mr. Walker Lambeth of this city is on the program for discussion.

The address of welcome at the coming convention will be delivered by Mr. E. W. Ewbank, of Hendersonville, with a response by Mr. R. E. Pollin, of this city. President W. B. Merrimon, of Greensboro, will then deliver his annual address, followed by the report of Secretary W. E. Sharpe. There are many social events on the program so that the delegates are assured of a splendid time during their stay in Hendersonville. Addresses on the program are by such well known insurance men as President H. R. Bush, of the Dixie Fire Insurance Company; W. J. Griswold, of Durham; W. N. Mann, of Albemarle; P. R. Moale, of Asheville; Hon. James R. Young, State Insurance Commissioner; James W. J. Martin, John R. Proctor, H. H. H. Southgate, of Durham; Paul B. Hulfish, of Raleigh; Walter Lambeth, of Charlotte; Paul W. Schenck, of Greensboro; W. C. Maupin, of Salisbury, and other well known general and local agents of North Carolina.

The president of the association is Mr. W. B. Merrimon, of Greensboro; the vice president, Mr. E. E. Emerson, of Spray; secretary and treasurer, W. E. Sharpe, of Burlington.—Charlotte Observer.

GIBSONVILLE WINS AT GREENSBORO.

Second Team Defeated Proximity Second Team by a Score of 6 to 3.

Greensboro, June 20.—Yesterday afternoon at Cone Park, the Gibsonville second team defeated the Proximity second team in a well played game by a score of 6 to 3. The pitching of Allrod, the fielding of Sutton and Ellington, and the hitting of Holt and Geringer featured.

Gibsonville made 6 runs, secured 11 hits and made no errors, while Proximity secured 3 runs 5 hits and made 6 errors.

Batteries: Alfred, Pettigrew and Yow; Davis and Grubbs.

BURLINGTON WINS.

Defeated Graham Yesterday Afternoon in Fast and Exciting Game.

Burlington, June 19.—Burlington defeated Graham here this afternoon in a fast and exciting game of baseball, 6 to 1. The feature of the game was the pitching of Bond for Burlington, he holding Graham to two hits. In addition, Bond hit over the left field fence for a homer. Bond and Brittan formed the local battery, while that of Graham was composed of Pace and E. Morris.

Another game was played between Keystone second team and Elmira cotton mills, which resulted in a victory for the Elmira boys, the score being 10 to 8.

CONFERENCE IN BURLINGTON

Durham District Methodists Held Annual Session Here.

The Durham District Conference opened its annual session in Front Street Methodist church here Thursday afternoon at 2:30, the presiding elder, Rev. J. L. Cunningham of Durham, presiding. Devotional services were conducted by Mr. Cunningham, Rev. Costen J. Harrell, of Durham, was elected secretary. The roll was called and there were about seventy-five ministers and laymen present. It was decided to hold morning sessions 9 to 11, followed by sermon, afternoon sessions at 2:30, evening at 8:15, and early morning prayer service at 6:30 to 7:15.

Rev. J. D. Dailey reported for the Committee on Examinations, and Messrs. Walter Reese Jenkins and Lonnie Enos Robbins having stood an approved examination and being recommended by the committee, were given license to preach.

The presiding elder appointed the following committees: Quarterly Conference Record: C. R. Ross, J. A. Martin, F. B. Noblitt. Present Status: G. B. Starling, J. J. Boone, H. M. North, W. J. Martin, John R. Proctor, H. H. H. Mullins, G. E. Harris, W. H. McDade, D. B. Cameron. Future Policy: W. C. Martin, N. C. Yearby, J. M. Ormond, C. O. Jordan, W. P. Few, W. E. Sharpe, W. E. Hay, M. W. Brabham, W. H. McDade.

The report of the District Board of Trustees of the District Parsonage was read and approved. The presiding elder was instructed to make appointments to the various charges in the district to cover debt on the parsonage. Conference then adjourned for the afternoon.

Rev. Dr. H. M. North preached a most excellent sermon at night, and administered the Lord's Supper afterward.

The early service this morning was a delightful one and was attended by more than one hundred. Rev. W. W. Peele, of Trinity, conducted the service on the subject of "Personal Consecration."

The business session began at nine o'clock with the devotional service by Rev. Mr. Cunningham. Several more delegates were enrolled. Several visitors were introduced to the conference; Revs. J. W. Jones, W. S. Hales, Hunter and L. D. Massey. Rev. Mr. Jones spoke to the conference in the interest of the Methodist Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Statesville.

Rev. D. H. Tuttle led the conference in the discussion of "Personal Evangelism"; Rev. J. M. Ormond led in "Social Service as Means of World Conquest"; Miss Lillie Duke spoke to the conference in the interest of Woman's Mission Work.

The presiding elder named the following committee on Temperance: E. C. Durham, J. Q. Ware, J. A. Yarbrough, W. L. Markham, A. J. Thompson, W. E. Galloway, H. C. Smith.

After a short recess Rev. A. McCullen, of Durham, preached a splendid sermon on Missions, using as his text: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

The remainder of today and tomorrow will be spent in business sessions and the conference will close with an illustrated lecture on "Africa" tomorrow night.

Invigorating to the Pale and Sickly The Old Standard general strengthening tonic. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC, drives out malaria, enriches the blood, and builds up the system. A true tonic. "Did you break my window?" she demanded wrathfully, pointing to the damaged property. The child looked from the window to her and back again before replying. "Did you saw me?" "No, but—" "Then I didn't do it." And turning he marched away. —Judge. One of the best things Elbert Hubbard ever wrote was: "What this country needs most is oratorical terminal facilities." DUTY VS. DREAM.

To President Wilson, during all of these crisis days, has been given the loyal support of the country. It is a support that has been sincere and ungrudging. Republicans have stood as firmly behind him as have Democrats. In fact, the only discordant note, the only open attack upon his methods, has come from his own party and from his own Cabinet. There is no spirit of partisanship abroad in the nation today so far as concerns our dealings with Germany, or with any other foreign Government. The people look to the man who at this time occupies the office of the President of the United States to steer the country successfully through the Scylla and Charybdis of international complication. This loyalty of support, however, does not mean that the voice of advice and suggestion must be entirely hushed. It does not mean that counsel that is friendly shall not be given. It is in this spirit that we call attention to a note that seems to run through the German diplomatic correspondence of the White House which to our mind distinctly weakens both the position taken and the effectiveness of our dealings with the belligerent nations in aid of American commerce upon the seas. This is the apparent playing for a place in history by being the peace-maker of the present conflict. To be the nation that shall bring peace out of war and so end the devastation of Europe is a laudable ambition. To be the arbitrator whose judgment shall settle the delicate and crucial questions that must be decided, is a position of honor and responsibility which any nation would be proud to hold. There is no dispute as to the worth of such achievement in the cause of peace, or of the prestige which such an accomplishment would give to the United States. But such honor should come in its own way and in the right way. A striving for it that is too evident, an ambition that shows itself too much in the open, will hinder the result rather than help. Through the diplomatic correspondence of the present days there runs a strain of desiring to be on terms of amiability for the sake of being the nation to which all the belligerents will turn when the moment comes to choose an arbiter. There is much in evidence this desire to be on friendly terms with all of the warring countries for the sake of what that may bring at the psychological time. It is a perfectly proper ambition for the Administration to possess, to be the tribunal which shall end a terrible war, but it should not be indulged in at any expense whatever to American rights. A very logical result of such ambition can be a lessened firmness in the demands which we as a neutral nation may make upon the belligerent Governments. There can be too great a desire to placate, there can be a faltering in the path of our strict duty to ourselves. Protection of American life and property on the high seas is something which this nation has a right to expect, and the fearless maintenance of our rights as a neutral nation. Because of our position and our present responsibility is put upon us. We are looked to by the Government that must fight the battle of neutrality in behalf of other countries as well as of ourselves. The coming of peace in Europe is a matter of the tomorrow. No dream of being the central figure at that time should interfere with the plain duty of today. That duty is to maintain the rights of American shipping and American lives. The performance of that duty is straight, many a fashion is what is expected of our Government. No possible opportunity of the future should operate to weaken the force with which we present our demands upon foreign Governments for failure to observe towards us those obligations which our position as a neutral nation should command. To Drive Out Malaria And Build Up The System. Take the Old Standard GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC. You know what you are taking, as the formula is printed on every label, showing it is Quinine and Iron in a tasteless form. The Quinine drives out malaria, the Iron builds up the system. 50 cents. WANTED—A WORKER.

God never goes to the lazy or idle when He needs men for His service. When God wants a worker He calls for a worker. When He has work to be done He goes to those who are already at work. When God wants a great servant He calls a busy man. Scripture and history attest this truth. Moses was busy with his flock at Horeb. Gideon was busy threshing wheat by the press. Saul was busy searching for his father's lost beasts. David was busy caring for his father's sheep. Elisha was ploughing with twelve yoke of oxen. Amos was busy following the flock. Nemiah was busy bearing the king's wine-cup. Peter and Andrew were busy casting a net into the sea. James and John were busy mending their nets. Matthew was busy collecting customs. Saul was busy persecuting the friends of Jesus. William Carey was busy mending and making shoes.—Unknown.

MUDDYING THE WATERS.

The weakness in Mr. Bryan's appeal to the German-American to "Stand by the President," is the provocation it contains for recort in the shape of a question: "Why didn't you stand by him yourself?" If the fourth pronouncement of Mr. Bryan had been the first and only one following on his resignation, his position would now be that of a man who had sought to relieve the Administration of embarrassment. For the three preceding publications contained assertions and opinions not consistent with the contents of the fourth, and the latter irresistibly challenges the query "what was the real reason for your retirement from the Cabinet?" It is very natural that the German-American newspapers should express surprise when Mr. Bryan urges them to dismiss all doubt that President Wilson's desires and policies are all towards an amicable arrangement of all matters of difference with Germany, when this appeal comes as a supplement to his own severance of official relations with the Wilson Administration on the ground that he believed the President's policy would lead to war. The two assertions can not be reconciled. That's the long and short of it. It seems to us that Mr. Bryan acted on impulse and is now engaged in the difficult task of retracing his steps towards a basis of reason without actual knowledge that he went off half-cocked in the first instance. Another thing which does not look well in his final "explanation" is the avowal that the note to Germany was "materially softened" after his resignation had been tendered. This is only half the truth. The note as finally amended, and in the exact shape in which it was dispatched to Berlin, was read to Mr. Bryan before his resignation was accepted, and was so shown to him with the express purpose of altering his determination to quit the Cabinet. He said then that the changes were not sufficient to warrant a withdrawal of his resignation and he has no right now to insinuate that his course would have been different had he been aware before resigning of the shape which the note would take under revision.—Virginia Pilot.

POOR PR

HOW A GOOD ROADS ASSOCIATION COULD HELP.

(From Greensboro News.)
It is not our notion that it would be necessary or in order to create a highway association for Guilford county that would undertake to do much with money, or require any considerable amount of financing. An association with the moral support of the people of the county generally, and with a few industrious and zealous men as officers and directors, would be able to accomplish a great deal if it had no more money to spend than what it would need for stationery and postage and similar small items.

It might be desirable, of course, for the organization to have a demonstration fund. It might undertake, with the consent of the authorities, the upkeep of a stretch of country road and perhaps one dirty street in Greensboro and one in High Point. We have in mind an organization of this sort which has always, in its history of a dozen years or so, looked after some roads of its own, and kept them in excellent condition most of the time. These roads have been designated by signs which showed them to be in the care of this society.

But we do not feel that actual road work would be necessary to the success of such an organization. Well-directed propaganda work, the assistance of the authorities in experimenting as to the best and cheapest methods of constant repair of roadways of the various sorts, publicity and persistence—these things would eventually solve the worst of the vexations now incidental to the use of the roads and streets of the county. We are thoroughly convinced that things are by no means as they should be, that they are much worse than they need be; and that a good roads association offers more assurance than anything else of righting these conditions.

It would be desirable, of course, to have as large a membership as possible, including as many kinds of users for the roads as possible, for all this would mean a large moral support. There would be necessary no more than a nominal membership fee. The authorities of the county and of the towns are usually made honorary members of these associations, and one of the aims of such an association is to work in harmony with the authorities, and not to antagonize or alienate them.

The gradual improvement of the roads and streets generally would soon begin to put money into the pockets of all the people who do any freight hauling of any sort. Especially, it would be profitable to the doctors in general practice, who now find an automobile a necessary part of their equipment; to the traveling men who work local territory with automobiles; to merchants, whose delivery routes include the whole town, good streets and bad, and a large suburban territory. The number of people who still use horse-drawn vehicles is of course much larger, and this improvement and standardizing of the roads would save them all money and add to the comfort of all. The automobile repair shops might lose money by it, but it would tend to help the automobile business, at least a little; for there must be some few people who could manage to buy a machine that have not yet done so.

We think that it is a work that is necessary now, and will be necessary for many years to come. We know of no county that has an active good roads association that has reached ideal road conditions. It's a long, long way to ideal road conditions. But where there have been active road associations conditions have steadily improved.

We might as well face the situation. Greensboro has a few miles of surfaced streets, and will build a few more. The county has a few miles of surfaced way, in varying stages of wear, and is building a few more; but both city and county have to use much more mileage of earth surface and will have to use it so for a long while. It will not cost a great sum to keep this in good conditions, in dry weather at least; and it will be worth a great deal. A beginning must first be made, and there is no assurance that even a beginning will be followed up.

Heart Disease Almost Fatal to Young Girl

"My daughter, when thirteen years old, was stricken with heart trouble. She was so bad we had to place her bed near a window so she could get her breath. One doctor said, 'Poor child, she is likely to die any day.' A friend told me Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy had cured her father, so I tried it, and she began to improve. She took a great many bottles, but she is now as well as day, a fat, rosy checked girl. No one can imagine the confidence I have in Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy." A. E. CANON, Worth, Mo.

The unbounded confidence Mr. Canon has in Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is shared by thousands of others who know its value from experience. Many heart disorders yield to treatment, if the treatment is right. If you are bothered with short breath, fainting spells, swelling of feet or ankles, pains about the heart and shoulder blades, palpitation, weak and hungry spells, you should begin using Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy at once. Profit by the experience of others while you may.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is sold and guaranteed by all druggists. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

THE FURY LIMIT.

"Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned?"

Well, how about that poor benighted wreck,

Who, some hot morning as he dresses finds

A boil just where his collar hits his neck?

BLOCKED.

A man very much out of breach ran into the railroad station and made a wild rush for the ticket seller's window. A few moments later he came back and sat down with an air of dejection.

"So you missed your train," remarked his neighbor. "I suppose there was a woman at the ticket window hunting for her pocketbook."

"Worse than that," replied the disappointed one. "There was a fat man trying to get through the turnstile."

LOVE---GOLD---TITLE

"Man From Home," to Be Produced Here, Treats of These.

A Young Lawyer From Kokomo, Ind., Furnishes a World of Comedy While Upsetting the Plans of a Crowd of Plotting Fortune Hunters.

On the last night of our Chautauqua we are to have the pleasure of witnessing a splendid production of "The Man From Home," one of the most successful plays of recent years. "An American comedy of distinction" is the way the World Today describes it. The play opens in Sorrento, Italy, where Miss Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have met and joined the circle of the Earl of Hawcastle and his sister, Lady Creeche. Through their machinations the wealthy young Miss Simpson becomes engaged to the earl's son, the Hon. Almerie St. Aubyn, and a marriage settlement of $750,000 (150,000 pounds English sterling) has been agreed upon to be given by the girl to her husband. This arrangement needs but the sanction of the girl's guardian, Daniel Voorhees Pike, a young lawyer of Kokomo, Ind., who is administrator of the estate left by her father. The girl and her brother are elated over the prospects. In the glitter of the titles that surround them it seems to them impossible that they had been born in Indiana. They rather fear the coming of Pike, dreading lest his Hoosier ways will embarrass and humiliate them.

When he does come the encounter is even worse than they imagined. He comes pushing the broken down motor of a chance acquaintance whom he has met in a hotel and whom he familiarly dubs "Doc." Ethel is chagrined at the actions of "the man from home," but she is yet to learn—and so has Pike—that "Doc" is the Grand Duke Vasilii of Russia.

"The ceremony is to take place within a fortnight," Ethel loftily informs Pike. "We shall dispense with all delays," and she makes it plain that he might have saved her and her brother mortification by staying away and sending his consent as her guardian and arranging the all important settlement in the same way.

"How much do you want to give him?" he asks.

"A hundred and fifty thousand pounds," she answers calmly.

"Gee, he must be a great man," exclaimed Pike, who had not yet met St. Aubyn. He must be the prince of the world to make you care for him like that. Why, I'd have to squeeze every bit of property you've left you."

When "the man from home" finally sees St. Aubyn he says that he appears to be a cross between a parrot and a poodle.

"Seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars for that!" he exclaims. "Say, how much do they charge over here for a real man?"

Horace (her brother) joins them, and Pike turns on him the torrents of his complete disgust.

"It is impossible for you to understand the motives of my sister and myself in our struggle not to remain in the vulgar herd," says the brother, "but can't you try to comprehend that there is an old world society based not on wealth, but on that indescribable something which comes of ancient lineage and high birth? You presume to interfere between us and the fine flower of Europe."

"Well, I don't know as the folks around Kokomo spoke of your father as a 'fine flower,'" the man from home reminds him, with a chuckle, "but we all thought a heap of him, and when he married your ma he was so glad to get her that—well, I never heard yet that he asked for a settlement. The fact is, when she took him he was a poor man, and if he'd had $750,000 I'd bet he'd 'a' given it for her."

This will serve to show something of the trend of the play, a play that is filled with the richest humor from start to finish. "The Man From Home" is a great play built around one of the most likable characters the American stage has produced.

SCRAMBLE FOR HER GOLD BEGAN BEFORE HER BURIAL

Asheboro, June 15.—The death of Acouith Cor, which occurred at his home in Grant township one week ago today, has precipitated a scramble for her goods and chattels that is to say the least, rather unseemingly. Before the old lady could be buried one administrator had been appointed and appeared on the scene demanding everything in sight and in less than 24 hours the clerk of the court had revoked his appointment and granted letters to another man.

To further complicate matters one H. M. Garner, a near neighbor, appeared before the clerk with three paper writings, one purporting to be the last will and testament of the deceased and the other two being deeds for two parcels of land aggregating 550 acres, with no consideration specified but with an estimated value of $5,000.

A hearing on the will was had before Clerk of Superior Court Caviness Saturday afternoon which was not concluded and adjournment was had till Wednesday in order to certify the issue to a higher court as the will will be contested to the better end.

About $10,000 in money is in the hands of administrator No. 1, $4,000 having been on deposit at the time of her death and about $5,000 in gold and silver coin being found on the premises in old cans and pots and the remainder being in unminted gold. It is intimated and believed that there is much more somewhere but whether it will ever set daylight or not is problematical.

PICNIC AT PIEDMONT PARK.

The firm of J. D. & L. B. Whitteds and employes enjoyed a picnic supper at Piedmont Park Tuesday night. The party composing of about 20 people all met and went in group to the park. After enjoying the dainties the evening was spent in conversation and enjoying the cooling breeze.

WIND AND WATER.

The long-winded member of the Debate Club had held forth for many minutes past his allotted time, and still showed no signs of exhaustion.

Feeling thirsty, he reached out for the water carafe, but found it empty. Motioning to the usher to have it filled, he would have proceeded with his speech but for an interruption.

A member in the back seat rose and waved his arms excitedly. "I protest, Mr. Chairman," he said. "I protest."

"Protest against what?" asked the Chairman.

"Running a windmill with water," was the reply.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Dispatch.

SAYS TEUTONIC ALLIES HAVE LOST 3,750,000.

London, June 18.—Hillaire Belloc in Land and Water estimates the German and Austrian losses up to the present total as nearer 4,000,000 than 3,000,000 men. He bases his calculation on a careful analysis of the figures of British casualties given by Mr. Asquith in the House of Commons last week.

I love my freedom, but oh, you bonds.

And a dark horse won, well wonders will never cease.

The suspense must be awful, let the agony soon be over.

Jeter Lucy Patillo and Leo Frank will know their fate about the same time.

Now don't kick if you are called upon to pay the fiddler, haven't you been attending the political dances? Why of course, you have, and the fiddlers must be paid.

And now they say that they are going to advance the city water rate, well why not? Everything else has advanced, why not pay more for the water we drink?

The so-called Republican who refused to serve upon a committee some time ago, because he was trying to secure a job under the City Administration, will be willing to serve now within a few days when he learns how hard he has been sat down upon, and he will get just what was coming to him, too.

Mr. County Commissioners, please lower our assessment. It is true we have voted more bonds, but you know we were told this would not increase our taxes and we believed them. Now please do lower our assessment so that our taxes will not be increased, but do let us have our bonds, for we do love them, and vote them every time we get the chance, but do not raise our taxes. Lower taxes and more bonds is our political creed, and you know what that is to me.

Over in High Point a certain faction of the Democrats and a certain faction of Republicans have been fusing together and dividing up the office, but a new crew has charge there now and they are making the boot lickers walk the gank plank. Some of the thin skins are trying to fuse here but they will not succeed, there are only a few jobs to hand out and the faithful must and should have these. Turn the boot lickers down, consider none that are not well qualified from the standpoint of ability, let the boot lickers see where they stand.

The post office department are having some 16 foot holes dug upon the post office site to determine how far they will have to get to secure a solid foundation. Some of our friends seeing the large holes and not knowing what they were for thought that the city had bought a lot and was sinking some more deep wells. The city has made so many blunders trying to sink deep wells that our people think every time they see a hole in the ground, that we are trying to sink more deep wells.

There are several so-called Republicans boot licking this city administration trying to secure jobs, and it is disgusting in the extreme. Don't you know that the faithful would not stand for it, and why should they? Are not these jobs for the faithful? Well, you will find out when the jobs are parcelled out and you will be treated just right, too. Don't try to boot lick any one for a job, ask for it upon your merits and stand or fall upon your ability. Those of you who would seek to get them by boot licking are not worthy of a job and besides you won't get it, which serves you right.

You have heard a great deal now for some time about an all time health officer but we are to have an all time Mayor, just as if this is something new, we were under the impression that all our Mayors were all time Mayors until their terms expire, but it seems that this is a mistake, and now we are to have an all time Mayor with an all time salary. Well why not do it. We have plenty money and more bonds to sell, what do we care for expenses? Lay it on McDuff. No one has the nerve to cry hold enough, and besides ain't it all done in the name of Democracy any way?

ALREADY ADVERTISED.

John Wanamaker wants the churches to advertise in the newspapers, but aren't they pretty well advertised in the newspapers already?—Florida Times-Union.

Some of the churches are trying the well known method of securing attendance by advertising in the newspapers and are making a decided success. In this day of catch phrases and other devices to attract attention to secure attendance at various places it is no wonder that the churches that have tried, or are trying, it are well pleased with results. It might be well for our home churches to try it, nothing succeeds like success.

W. M. Combs has the credit of running the first effective religious or church advertising in this city. When the meeting was held recently at the First Baptist church, Mr. Combs prepared some most effective copy for display advertising, and it attracted wide attention. There is no means so appealing to the general public as a displayed advertisement, especially is this so in attracting attention to a protracted meeting. One of these times all the churches will understand the importance of advertising by using well prepared half page and full page advertisements in the newspapers.—Greensboro News.

THE DISPATCH AS AN ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

The advertising patronage of the Trice-A-Week Dispatch comes from various sources and from patrons many and varied vocations of life. As an advertising medium, the Dispatch serves all who wish to place their goods before the purchaser, not only in the matter of selling and buying and carrying on trade between the producer and the consumer, but it will serve as the medium through which a person in a distant state may be put in touch with the class of people desired.

For an example of the advertising quality of the Dispatch columns, we cite the following:

Mr. Virgil Robbins, who lives on R. F. D. No. 27, Hortonville, Ind., placed an ad. in the Dispatch a few weeks ago, under the head of "Wife Wanted." He informed us last week that he had received thirteen replies from the fair sex in North Carolina.

WILSON ADMINISTRATION OUT OF MONEY.

For eleven months of the fiscal year ending June 30 the receipts of the United States Government have been $577,000,000 and its net expenditures have been $682,000,000, leaving the frightful deficit in receipts of $105,000,000. It is acknowledged even by the Democrats that this deficit is the result of low tariff rates by the Democratic party. In spite of the large receipts from the income tax law and the $100,000,000 "war" tax imposed upon a helpless people at peace with all the world, the close of the fiscal year will show a deficit so large that some extraordinary revenue measures will have to be restored in order to meet the expenses of the government. Says a Washington correspondent: "Whether Congress will be called in to extra session and asked to extend the war tax measure or revise the tariff by taking sugar off the free list is not yet settled." "Tis the same old story ever true of the party of free trade. Democracy—depression—deficit—debt, and finally defeat by an outraged people. The alliteration marks the usual gradations in the downfall of the Democratic party whenever promoted to power. Of course that party now rules by accident, on account of the unfortunate breach in the Republican party, and not by the intention of the American people. It has repeated the same blunders. It has cut down the tariff duties and proportionately deprived the government of customs receipts. It has increased the number and kinds of offices and enlarged appropriations. Having cut off the chief source of revenue in tariff duties it has tried to lift itself by the bootstraps by levying a so-called war tax. Thus the Democrats have again plunged the government head-over-heels in debt; and if it were not for the favorable economic conditions produced by the war in Europe, there is no doubt that we would have financial reverses much more serious than a gigantic deficit in government finances.

Under such conditions is it any wonder that Secretary Bryan has resigned? He says that he resigned on account of conscientious scruples as to international peace. Many suspicion that his purpose is to supplant Wilson as president in 1916. After all, his real purpose might reasonably be to escape the political disgrace of a depleted treasury and the issuing of bonds or the levying of increased taxes that must follow. The handwriting is already on the wall—the Democratic party again weighed in the balance and found wanting. Let the once cloven party of progress and prosperity, re-united by the financial ills imposed upon the country by the disastrous policy of free trade, if by no other means, forgetting the differences of the past, muster its forces for the victory that will come next year by the vote of the American people, who will then be glad to drive from power the party whose principles and policies always spell depression, disaster and national and individual bankruptcy.

LITTLE RECRUITING OFFICER.

Small Girl Begs Englishman to Join The Colors.

London, June 19.—Muriel Phillips, an eleven year old girl, is walking about London appealing for recruits. On a broad red ribbon worn over her shoulder around the body are the words printed in gold letters: "Join the Army and Become One of the Heroes of the Day. Avenge Murder of Little Girls like Me." Her campaign is in her own idea, inspired by hearing her school teacher tell of the Lusitania horror.

Mr. T. N. Fitch, Route No. 1, Union Ridge, is the fortunate possessor of an International Harvester 8-16 Mogul tractor recently purchased from the Colbe-Bradshaw Company, the popular Burlington dealers.

This useful little machine has become widely known as the "small-farm tractor for all work." It is a tractor of the 4-wheel, general purpose type, which can be used for all plowing, seeding, harvesting, hauling, and for the running of all such machines as ensilage cutters, hoppers and shredders, feed-grinders, and other power machines in general use on North Carolina farms.

Mr. Fitch expects to use it for all these purposes and to do with it, in the course of a year, a great deal of work for which at present he is using horses.

SAYS WOMEN WILL NOT BE FOR BRYAN.

Miss Todd Declares Latest Move of Ex-Secretary was a Failure.

President Wilson's firm action with Germany in regard to the Lusitania incident has strengthened him with the four million woman voters in the Western suffrage States, according to Miss Helen Todd, of California, who recently arrived from the Golden Gate to campaign for the cause in the East. The Women's Peace Party also is in accord with the President's stand, Miss Todd said.

The woman advocates of peace do not want war—that is a plank in their platform. But, at the same time, they reason that the President's attitude was the one that could be taken upholding both the principles of real peace and the dignity of the nation. Miss Todd thought that Bryan's action is made with a view to getting woman voters to support him.

Bryan's promise that he would incorporate a plank for woman suffrage in his 1916 platform is not considered seriously by the suffragists because they believe his chances for the nomination are slight—very, very slight. To achieve their desire of having at least one party come out for suffrage in a national platform, there will be held in San Francisco late in the summer a Woman Voters' Convention, to which delegates from every group of woman voters will be sent. From these will be selected a strong team that will make concerted demands on every national convention. The party that induces woman suffrage, according to the suffragists will then have the solid backing of the 4,000,000 woman voters.

MISS BLANCHE MAGUIRE.

Miss Blanche Maguire, dramatic soprano with the Adams Trio, is one of the greatest singers on our Chautauqua program. She sings Irish, Scotch and English ballads and has a remarkable voice.

GIRL TOOK VETERAN'S PLACE.

It is not often that a girl has the honor of being the principal orator on Memorial day. But such was the case with Miss Ruth Elliott, the soprano who is to appear here with Colangelo's Band during the Chautauqua. It happened only a very few years ago in a certain Massachusetts town.

Miss Elliott's father was a veteran of the civil war and had been asked to deliver the address on Memorial day. As the time approached Mr. Elliott became ill, but clung to his determination to deliver the address. However, when the morning arrived he was too ill even to read the address, so his daughter, Miss Ruth, had to take his place. She had read the address aloud to her father at the hotel on the evening before; but, of course, she never expected to read it before an audience.

But she did. And she did it so well that she was given an ovation at the close of the address. Miss Elliott, who is one of the most likable young ladies imaginable, says that she appreciated the applause, but that the greatest reward for her effort was the warm handshakes of her father and his words of praise and appreciation.

MISS RUTH ELLIOTT.

A MASTER OF MAGIC.

All the world loves mystery. The intellect enjoys being puzzled. And the intellect will have a feast of puzzles when Springer, the magician, comes to Chautauqua. No one can adequately describe a magician's entertainment. Springer is a master, doing a multitude of bewildering things that always keep an audience wondering and applauding.

At a recent election in Denver, involving a bond issue for a women's industrial home, city hospital improvements, and home rule on the liquor question, the "women vote" was the lightest known in the twenty-two years of suffrage in Colorado. Mrs. Martha J. Grammer, a member of the State Board of Pardons, says: "Only a few more elections, and all the women in Denver will quit voting."

CALOMEL WHEN BILIOUS? NO! STOP! MAKES YOU SICK AND SALIVATES

"Dodson's Liver Tonic" is Harmless To Clean Your Stagnant Liver and Bowels.

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with your bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out" if you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tonic tonight on my guarantee.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tonic is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tonic will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

Great Play Coming to Chautauqua

DANIEL VOORHEES PIKE MEETS THE ENGLISH NOBLEMAN.

YOU can't help liking Pike, the young lawyer from Kokomo, Ind., who is "the man from home" in the great play of that name, coming to the last night of our Chautauqua. Pike is all the quaint humor that induces the dwellers of that region of the country watered by the famed Wabash river. He is honest and self sacrificing, with all of the native Hoosier's dislike for shams and unrealities in life, and when he meets St. Aubyn, the titled Englishman his ward wishes to marry, he is disgusted and determines that the girl shall not bestow her fortune on the sprig of aristocracy.

His adventures in Italy, where he has joined his ward to investigate before consenting for her to make the marriage settlement demanded, furnish many gripping moments and a world of humor.

The play will be presented by the Avon Players, a strong company, with correct costuming and lighting effects.

QUIPS AND QUIDDITIES.

"That's the way with a man."
"What is?"
"He often said he would lay down his life for me!"
"Well!"

"And now he grumbles when I asked him to lay down a carpet!"

An esteemed city resident was rambling through the country when he came across a farmer busily engaged with a hammer and saw and a can of paint.

"Another building boom, I see," jovially remarked the city man, halting. "Is it a garage or a miniature bungalow?"

"Wrong on both counts, mister," answered Uncle Josh, continuing his work. "This here thing is a chicken coop."

"A chicken coop, eh?" returned the city man, with a closer look. "Why do you paint the inside of it?"

"Have ter do it, mister," solemnly declared Uncle Josh. "That's ter keep the hens pickin' the grain out of the wood."

"This world war," said a famous raconteur, "has penetrated everywhere. It has even penetrated into the vocabularies of our children."

"I know a man who wanted to give his little boy a dose of castor oil concealed in raspberry preserves. But the little boy refused the delicious preserves suspiciously."

"Why," said the father, "why have you taken such a sudden dislike to your favorite preserves?"

"Because they're mined," the boy answered.

WM. J. BRYAN ARGUED AGAINST PREPARATION.

Upheaval in Europe Result of False Philosophy, That Might Make Right.

Washington, June 17.—Asserting that the preparedness provokes rather than prevents war, and that the upheaval in Europe was a result of the false philosophy that "might makes right," former Secretary Bryan today in a second of his series of three statements on "The Causeless War," submits an argument against military preparation by the United States and praises the course of President Wilson in the international emergency.

"If any nation is without excuse for entering a mad rivalry with the belligerent nations in preparation for war it is the United States," says Mr. Bryan. "We are protected on either side by thousands of miles of ocean and this protection is worth more to us than any number of battleships."

"We have an additional protection in the fact, known to everyone, that we have men with whom to form an army of defense if we are ever attacked; and it is known also that we would have the money too—more money than we would have had if all the surplus earnings of the people had been invested in armament."

"The leading participants in the present war are the nations that were best prepared and I fear it would have been difficult for us to keep out of this war if we had been as well prepared as they."

"Happy for our nation that we have in the White House at this time a President who believes in setting the old world a good example, instead of following the bad example which it sets in this matter. What an unspeakable misfortune it would have been, if such an hour as this, the nation had been under the leadership of a President inflamed by the false philosophy which has plunged Europe into the abyss of war."

In discussing the cause of the European conflict, Mr. Bryan in a lengthy analysis argues that it is no war of race, religion or families, and declares:

"If I have correctly analyzed the situation, the war is the natural result of a false philosophy. . . . The fundamental precept of this false philosophy is that might makes right."

YOUTH'S EXPERTNESS AT INVESTMENT FREES HIM.

Clerk Boosted $2,000 to $6,000 And Employers Say They Can use His Skill.

New York, June 16.—The employers of Albert Rees, a twenty-two-year old clerk, who stole $2,000 from them and ran it up to $6,000 by good investments, are so impressed by his business acumen that they not only will not prosecute him, but will retain him in their employ. The complaint against him was withdrawn in the Morrisania Court today.

"In view of the fact that Rees did not use the money in gambling and on women," explained Edgar Martin, counsel for Lanigan Bros., Bronx contractors, for whom Rees worked, "his employers have reached this discussion. Rees was an efficient worker and the money he made by using the firm's funds was invested with such shrewd judgment that he is able to make full restitution. As this is the first charge against him, they want to give him a chance."

Magistrate Levy said he was willing to dismiss the complaint, if Assistant District Attorney Mullin agreed. Rees was freed and now will devote his talents to the interests of the firm.

The man's arrest followed an investigation which disclosed that checks which Rees had been told to deposit in the firm's bank had been diverted to his own use. He led detectives to his own bank and showed deposits of $6,000. He declared he wanted only to run the account up to $10,000 and had planned to make restitution then. Rees lives at 969 Tinton Avenue, The Bronx.

BOUNTY ON THE FARM.

The Quartered Blackberry Pie—Snap Beans for the Can—The City Man's Experience in Growing Potatoes.

(Farmer J. Z. Green, in The Marshville Home.)

Was it Editor Ashcraft of The Monroe Enquirer who was ruminating and meditating along in the month of June last year and finally gave it as his unbiased and impartial opinion that it should be made unlawful to cut a blackberry pie into more than four pieces? The blackberry crop has not been hurt by drought this year and the quality will be good. In fact, they are going to be so plentiful that a fellow who follows a mule 15 hours a day will probably feel like he doesn't want his blackberry pie cut at all except in the final process of consumption. Of course he will not object to having it cut into quarters, if you will let him have all four pieces.

With beans, Irish potatoes, beets, cabbage and blackberries all coming on the same time it will look like anything else but starvation on the farm for a while now. But with all this variety I am not entirely satisfied until roasting ear corn is ready, and I usually arrange for a succession of this particular food until after frost comes. Two or three years ago I was in the western part of the State the latter part of October when a cold wave warning was sent out. The next thought was of my late roasting ear patch and I wired home a request to gather the corn and put it in the cellar. The freeze and frost came that night but I was supplied with roasting ears for several weeks following.

"I am certainly going to put up some canned sweet potatoes next Fall," said a Lanes Creek Township farmer who had just bought all the remainder of the canned potatoes left with the Union Co operative Association by an Anson County canning club girl. And why not have fine fresh sweet potatoes all the year? If properly canned they carry their original flavor as well as peaches or tomatoes. And snap beans, if gathered and properly canned when about the size of broom straws carry the original flavor so well that they can hardly be distinguished from fresh beans direct from the garden. The canning club girls in this section sold out their beans ahead of all other products last season. The best results of the canning club work are not in the profits realized by the girls for the sale of their products, but in imparting information with which families on the farm provide for their own consumption a splendid variety of wholesale fruit and vegetables properly prepared for home use all the year around."

It is true that canning fruit and vegetables in the Summer time is very much like work, but it is no harder than a great many other kinds of work on the farm. I have often wondered why town and city folks do not have more and better gardens and provide for their tables by canning fruits and vegetables as country people do. Now and then a city man or woman takes an interest in such things, but this is not the rule. A traveling man who lives in Norfolk told me the other day that he made enough vegetables on a back lot forty by sixty feet to supply his family with vegetables the year round. Of course if comfort and ease and idleness were the things he and his family were looking for, it would be much easier to step to the telephone and have the grocery man to send out what is wanted for each meal—and then grow about "the high cost of living."

It has been several years since the seasons were as favorable for early vegetables as they have been this year. The usual April and May drought did not come to check growth, and the vegetarians can have it as they want it for the next few weeks, at least. It will be mighty bad on the truckers, who expect to realize a profit from the sale of their products. The markets will be glutted and food products will go to waste. And consumers in cities who buy through the "regular channel" will not get much benefit from the increased production as the retailers have a standard price from which they vary but little. In an eastern town last year truckers were selling Irish potatoes at $1.25 a barrel and consumers in that town were paying thirty cents a peck for potatoes delivered by local grocers. It is better illustrated by the experience of a city liveryman at Raleigh who decided to raise some Irish potatoes as a side line. Later on he made the remarkable discovery that he had been selling the local groceryman his potatoes at sixty cents a bushel and his wife was ordering the same potaatoes by telephone and the groceryman was delivering them at her home at thirty cents a peck. And then the liveryman said a few words not heard in the Sunday school lesson, and quit raising Irish potatoes for the market.—Charlotte Observer.

CROP PROSPECTS IN CLEVELAND

(From The Cleveland Star.)

Crop conditions in Cleveland County are very favorable except in the small hail stricken district. The outlook is unusually promising at this season. Farmers are now busy fighting the grass which has flourished from the effects of showers, sowing peas, harvesting wheat and oats and planting the late corn. The wheat and oat crop are turning out well and progressive farmers have made enough feed stuff in the form of oats, vetch and clover to supply their needy neighbors. The wheat binder is at large and the crop will probably surpass anything ever made in this county, while many farmers failed to get in as much as they would have, had the rainy season not come on last Fall before sowing time was over.

THE SOUDAN GRASS.

(From The Wadesboro Associan.)
A fine sample of Soudan grass was on exhibition here a few days ago. It was grown by Mr. Junius S. Liles, a city farmer, on Bermuda Heights. This grass is like Johnson grass in appearance and it is feared that seed of the latter grass are often mixed with the Soudan seed. It has a strong analysis, an acre produces from one to one and a half tons the cutting and may be cut three times each year. This specimen was planted April 26, showed good stand May 1, and four feet high in six weeks.

THE MOONSHINE BATH.

(From The Greensboro Record.)
Conscience and law are not always bed fellows. This week a Yadkin County man told the Federal Court he made a little whiskey to bathe his wife in. Further he had his preacher on the stand to testify that he called on him for spiritual advice and was told that it might be illegal but not morally wrong to make the juice for the purpose. The preacher backed his attitude up under oath.

A "SAFETY-FIRST" MINERAL.

Asbestos is a potential life-saver. We do not all realize, perhaps, that the fire proof theater curtain is made of asbestos, which is rock matter but nevertheless almost as soft and pliable as cotton or woolen fabric. Asbestos has of course many other uses. Its incombustibility and its fibrous structure make it one of the most useful mineral for many and various structural purposes. It is used in making lumber, roofing, plaster, and stucco. Houses that are built largely of asbestos afford their occupants not only complete protection from fire because it is a "nonconductor," but assure them also the comfort of freedom from extreme heat and cold. The asbestos-producing industry of the United States is growing. For many years we have been the greatest manufacturers and users of asbestos, drawing our raw material from Canada, but we are now getting some excellent fiber in our own country. The most notable feature of the asbestos industry in 1914 was the development of a new field in Arizona, which is furnishing a grade of fiber that compares very favorably with the Canadian. As the mineral occurs in the Grand Canyon it is frequently designated Grand Canyon asbestos, although the deposit in that remarkable natural wonder is not yet producing asbestos commercially. For electric installation the Arizona asbestos is even better than the Canadian product, for it contains a lower percentage of iron. Asbestos of a low grade has been produced in Georgia for many years.

A report by J. S. Diller, of the U. S. Geological Survey, on the production of asbestos shows that in 1914 the United States produced and sold 1,247 short tons, valued at $18,965, a gain of 13 per cent in quantity and 72 per cent in value as compared with the production of 1913. Besides the small production in California and Virginia there were three important producers, two in Georgia, who furnished the greater portion, and one in Arizona, who produced high-grade material only.

Whenever You Need a General Tonic Take Grove's The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is equally valuable as a General Tonic because it contains the well known tonic properties of QUININE and IRON. It acts on the Liver, Drives out Malaria, Enriches the Blood and Builds up the Whole System. 30 cents.

WYOMING COAL PRODUCTION. Output in 1914 Was Nearly 6,500,000 Tons, Valued at Over $10,000,000.

The quantity of coal mined in Wyoming in 1914 was 6,475,293 short tons, valued at $10,033,747. This was a decrease of 917,773 tons in quantity and $1,476,398 in value as compared with 1913, according to C. F. Leshner, of the United States Geological Survey. The decrease is attributed mainly to a lessened demand for coal for domestic uses, by reason of the unusually mild weather throughout the year, and to the smaller amount required by the railroads. The resumption of shipments of coal from the Colorado mines after the settlement of the strike in that state, late in the year, into markets temporarily supplied in 1913 by Wyoming coal, accounts for a large part of the decrease in certain counties of Wyoming in 1914. Labor troubles did not seriously affect the coal-mining industry in the State in 1914, as but 248 men were involved throughout the year for an average of 11 days. There was an abundance of labor for coal mining and a plentiful supply of cars for transportation.

Wyoming continues to maintain a high record for efficiency in the rate of production per man employed, and although there was a falling off in the average tonnage for the year, the average per man per day was the highest on record in the State. The average tonnage per man decreased from 887 tons in 1913 to 798 tons in 1914, and the average for each man, per day, increased from 3.82 to 4.15 tons.

The first production of coal in Wyoming was reported in 1865, one year later than the first reported output of coal in Colorado. This pioneer coal mining was probably carried on in connection with the construction of the Union Pacific Railroad. The total output in that year amounted to 800 tons. Five years later, when the railroad was completed, the production amounted to about 50,000 tons.

A CALL TO—KNEES.

My Country, O my Country,
Hear thou what she will say—
She of the peaceful army—
She of the peaceful way—
She with a heart so tender—
She with a soul so brave—
Of homes the great defender,
Of sons a willing slave.

My Country, O my Country,
I of the mother-heart
Did bear a son to serve thee,
Not die on Hell's foul mart;
But on the fields of labor,
Where manful work is done,
To be, and serve, a neighbor,
Not bear a shotted gun.

My Country, O my Country,
Hear thou what Christ shall say,
Not He of blood-stained banners
But He of the peaceful way
Who prayed within the garden—
A swordless soldier brave—
Gave freely them a pardon
Who smote him with a stave.

My Country, O my Country,
Read thou My Words Divine,
See how I conquered Nations
With power that may be thine;
Like Me be thou forgiving—
Thy murders unblame
And conquer all the living
On a cross of burning shame.

My Country, O my Country,
Jehovah now doth speak,
Not He of the flame-spirit battle
But He of the humble, meek;
The God of peace, not fighting,
The God of life, not blood;
The God who wrongs is righting,
The God of Brotherhood,

My Country, O my Country,
(I speak in flaming tropes),
See not in great battalions
Thy everlasting hopes;
I am the God of Nations,
The God of bond and free;
Trust not thy meditations—
Trust thou alone in Me.

WHO WILL HELP THESE CHILDREN TO SCHOOL.

Touching Letter Received by The Journal From a Little Girl.

(Atlanta Journal, June 16, 1915.)
A girl twelve years old has written the story of her life to The Journal in the hope that it may reach "some kind, tender-hearted man that will feel it in his heart to help us."

It is short story, written in pencil in a round, childish hand, and it reached The Journal office Monday. Toward the close of the letter she quotes a verse, "Knock and it shall be opened unto you; seek and ye shall find."

This is the letter:

"Dear Editor: I am a little girl twelve years old. I was born December 12, 1902. It is my desire to write you a story of my life, as it may reach some kind, tender-hearted man that will feel it in his heart to help us. My papa married a delicate girl in 1900 and her health has been declining every since until 1914 which she was compelled to undergo a serious operation which has left her in a very nervous condition. That and other expenses has caused him to fail in business and has left him without home, money or anything to do, and unless God sends us better times I don't know what will become of my sister, my brother, my poor sick mamma and myself and also dear papa. If some kind hearted person would only help us we know nobody could be any more thankful than us and beside God would send them some day. All of us, my sister, brother and myself, all went to school until Christmas and then had to stop because we were not able to pay the fees or to buy books, tablets and pencils. We sure did hate to stop school very bad, and besides mamma and papa wish us to have a good education. School starts again in September and we won't get to go again unless papa gets a job or somebody helps us. The Bible says, But who so hath this world's goods and seeth his brother have need and setteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him? The Scripture says, Ask and it shall be given unto you, seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you. Now dear Editor, I will close with a sorryful heart hoping that God will hear my humble prayer and may the good people help us in some way or other and if they don't I feel like I won't have any mamma very long because she is worried almost to death and is sick too. Goodby dear Editor. Your little friend."

The Journal has the name and address of this little girl and will furnish them on application.

PRESIDENT AND SIMMONS CONFERENCE.

Questions of Interest to The Nation Party Are Discussed.

Washington, D. C., June 14.—President Wilson discussed with Senator Simmons today a number of topics of interest to the United States and the Democratic party. Senator Simmons said after the conference that he did not feel at liberty to say any more about the conversation than that the President is hopeful about the international situation and that he is optimistic about the business of the country as well as the future of the Democratic party. The conference was held late this evening in the White House proper, after the President had left the executive offices for the day. Though Senator Simmons did not say whether or not the advisability of an early session of Congress was discussed, he said he made no recommendation to the President on the subject. Senator Simmons does not believe there is any necessity for a special session of Congress beginning October 1, as has been proposed. He sees no reason for such a session unless something unforeseen should develop in the international situation which would require Congressional action.

THE GOOD TIME COMING.

(By Charles McKay.)

There's a good time coming, boys,
A good time coming,
There's a good time coming—
Wait a little longer—
Wait a little longer.
We may not live to see the day,
But earth shall glisten in the ray
Of the good time coming.
Cannon balls may rid the truth,
But thought's weapon stronger,
We'll win our battle by its aid,
Wait a little longer.
There's a good time coming, boys,
A good time coming;
The pen shall supersede the sword
And right, not might shall be the Lord
In the good time coming.
Worth, not birth, shall rule mankind
And be acknowledged stronger,
The proper impulse has been given—
Wait a little longer.

There's a good time coming, boys,
A good time coming;
Hateful rivalries of creed
Shall not make their martyrs bleed
In the good time coming,
Religion shall be shorn of pride
And flourish all the stronger,
And Charity shall trim her lamp—
Wait a little longer.

There's a good time coming, boys,
A good time coming;
War in all men's eyes shall be
A monster of iniquity;
In the good time coming,
Nations shall not quarrel then
To prove which is the stronger,
Nor slaughter men for glory's sake—
Wait a little longer.

Having nothing to wear serves some women as an excuse for not going to a party. But it also serves some as a reason for going.

QUIPS AND QUIDDITIES.

"What makes you think the baby is going to be a great politician?" asked the young mother.

"I'll tell you," answered the young father, confidently. "He can say more things that sound well and mean nothing than any kid I ever saw."

Wife—A tramp at the back door, who has already eaten a piece of that pie I made yesterday, wants to know if you can do anything for him.
Husband—Tell him, my dear, that I am a commission merchant, not a doctor.

WILLIE'S BRAVERY.

The conversation in the lobby of a hotel turned to bravery the other night, when Congressman William G. Brown of West Virginia recalled an incident that occurred in the south, says the Philadelphia Telegraph.

Not long since little eight year-old Willie went to visit his aunt, and among other things told her that he had been to see the dentist this morning.

"And so you went to the dentist's?" responded auntie with a proud smile look for the usual nickel. "What did the dentist do to you?"

"He didn't do nothing to me," was Willie's startling reply. "He pulled two of Brother Johnny's teeth."

POWDER PLANT IS A WONDER.

City of Ten Thousand Inhabitants Has Sprung up Like a Mushroom—Little of Plant Can be Seen.

Dujout City, Va., June 15.—Down here in Virginia on the plains where Grant made his final drive at Lee, a new Gary with a population of 18,000 has sprung up like magic. Thousands of men are working feverishly at buildings homes, hotels, stores, theatres and other structures, meanwhile sleeping in tents or going to Petersburg, ten miles away for shelter at night. A branch railroad and 125 automobiles running from the new settlement to Petersburg are kept busy handling the traffic.

Within two weeks after the sinking of the Lusitania, 7,000 additional men were rushed to the new $10,000,000 powder plant at this place. This brought the total number of workers to 13,000 and more men are wanted. Day and night shifts are working in the plant.

Extraordinary precautions against espionage or accidents are used at the works. The plant is entirely surrounded by a barbed wire fence eight miles long and twelve feet high, and three hundred armed guards, mounted and unmounted, patrol the grounds. Newspaper men are barred, and none but employes are admitted through the gates.

Whether the United States government is back of the rush of activity at plant is unknown here, but the coming of the army of workmen has created a remarkable situation. In the wake of the workers, 5,000 others have followed with more coming every day. Two-thirds of this population has arrived within the last month. The exciting scenes of the over-night settlements on Western Indian lands are being duplicated on a larger scale.

The new settlement is along the James river, running back of City

Point, fronting the immense grounds of the munitions plant. The works lie in the angle created by the junction of the James and Appomattox rivers and on the flats in front and the sloping hills above a new city has come into being.

Three weeks ago this extraordinary place held hardly a woman. Now, as the problem of housing is being solved the families of the workers are arriving. This is expected to shortly treble the population.

Petersburg, Virginia, has been the base of supplies for the new community, but stores, bakeries, hotels and other buildings are rapidly going up and the new city will shortly be able to take care of its people. Petersburg, which has had few thrills since the war between the states, has been galvanized into new life.

A hardware dealer last month received a $40,000 order for hardware for the munitions plant, and for double the amount this month. The hotels are crowded. A short time ago Petersburg boasted less than half a dozen automobiles for hire. Now there are 125. From sight-seeing cars to runabouts, all getting a share of the new rush of business. They charge twenty-five cents a trip to the new city ten miles out, and make several trips a day. Rooms in Petersburg are at a premium, and near the new settlement, farmers are renting tent space on their land.

The county officials are in despair at the havoc wrought on the county road from Petersburg to the new community by the automobile traffic. The road is repaired and ruined daily. A traction line to carry both freight and passenger traffic is now planned from Petersburg to City Point in the expectation that it will relieve the county road traffic.

The munitions plant is in four great units, stretching along the river from the new town. More units will be added, and the plant is to be maintained as one of the principal centers of this class of manufacture in the United States. The reports here are that the government encouraged the building of the plant at this place in order to have a munitions source isolated from other sources, and that much of the government war supplies will be manufactured here. An enormous amount of gun cotton is now being turned out, but the utmost secrecy is maintained concerning its ultimate destination.

Little of the plant can be seen from the outside. The groups of tall smoke stacks, half a mile apart, are visible over the trees, and glimpses of immense buildings can be had, but the high fence and armed guards leave little else to see. Few people who go to the scene, however, are attracted by what is going on behind the tall fence. Their attention is held by the absorbing human interest furnished by a city trying to complete itself in a day, with hotels, sidewalks, sewers, and all the adjuncts of a municipality suddenly set down in the wilderness.

FIVE HUNDRED MINERS ARE DIGGING TO SAVE COMRADES

Joplin, Mo., June 17.—Five hundred miners working in five hour shifts tonight were digging frantically into 70 feet of earth and stone, which has imprisoned Daniel Hardendorf and Reed Taylor for seven days in the Longacre Chapman mine at Neck City.

Tappings on an air line driven into the drift showed the men were all alive. Four other men imprisoned at the same time were rescued Tuesday. Mining engineers say the imprisoned men cannot be reached before noon tomorrow.

Plenty of people are willing to swear that the street cars run thirty miles an hour if they are trying to catch them, and three miles an hour after they have caught them.

SCHWAB TO PUT UP NEW LOADING PLANT.

$60,000 Structure is Third Needed to Supply Increased Orders For Shrapnel From British.

South Bethlehem, Pa., June 17.—In order to more quickly manufacture shrapnel shells for England and keep up with the ever-increasing orders from the British, it was announced today by Charles M. Schwab that he would start at once on building another $60,000 shell-loading plant. This will make the third plant of this kind here.

So far, it is believed, Mr. Schwab has spent nearly two million dollars in building new plants and machinery to produce war material. About six thousand people are engaged at the local plant only on manufacturing war material, and the daily output is now 10,000 shrapnel shells, not to speak of other kinds of weapons, such as guns, etc.

RESIST LANDING U. S. MARINES.

Governor Maytorena Says His Troops Can Protect Foreigners From Yaquia.

Nogales, Sonora, June 19.—Governor Maytorena authorized the statement today that the entire forces under his command would be used if necessary to resist the landing of American marines on the west coast to protect foreign settlers of the Yaqui Valley.

A detachment of nearly 1,000 troops sent to the Yaqui Valley yesterday, he said, was dispatched primarily to protect settlers and their crops from the Indians, but they had orders to resist any landing of American military forces.

"These forces at our disposition," said Governor Maytorena, "are sufficient to afford ample protection to all foreigners and their interests. There is no necessity for the landing of American marines at Tebari Bay, or elsewhere."

FRANK'S CHANCES STILL IN DOUBT.

Slaton Says He Will Either Commute or Decline to Interfere.

Atlanta, Ga., June 19.—Governor Slaton stated today that he probably will not be prepared to announce his decision on Leo M. Frank's application for commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment until Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning, the day set for Frank's execution for the murder of Mary Phagan.

The Governor said positively that there will be no respite granted in Frank's case, but that by Tuesday he will decide either to commute the sentence or to decline to interfere. "The judgment of the court," said the Governor, "should cause the prisoner to prepare for death. In the event my decision is adverse, he has had ample time to make preparation."

NEURALGIA PAINS STOPPED.

TREMENDOUSLY TRAGIC, BUT BEAUTIFUL.

Cambridge, Mass., June 19.—In a statement tonight Edmund T. Dana, assistant professor at the University of Minnesota, described the suicide of his young wife by drowning at Nantucket Thursday as a "tremendously tragic, but beautiful end."

"Mrs. Dana," her husband said, "had always held the stoical idea, that it is more dignified to die of one's own will, than to leave the hour and manner to circumstances. Personally, I am glad it was an act of my wife's own choice, and not a horrid accident, thought it was pathetic mistake that made her feel the world would be better without her."

No man, because he owns a horse, which he has purchased with his money has any more right to whip or beat the animal and urge him to excessive speed or labor than I have to stand over that same man with whip in hand, if I have purchased his day's labor with my money, and make unreasonable demands upon his physical capacity.—D.
