MY AMBITION FOR MY SCHOOL.

Among the instructions in printed form given out to the teachers of the county at their recent meeting was the following list on one sheet under the caption "My Ambition for My School." This standard is not an idealism that can never be reached but it is perfectly possible and practical.

- 1. A painted School House properly lighted and ventilated.
2. An ample play ground provided with:
a. Base ball outfit.
b. Basket ball.
c. Tennis, etc.
3. A good well.
4. Individual drinking cups.
5. Two well ordered out-houses.
6. A wood house.
7. A front yard of grass and flowers.
8. Good sand or cement walk to school house door.
9. Good desks.
10. Maps.
11. Globes.
12. A library.
13. A good stove or Waterbury heating system.
14. A clean floor—8 hours in the day.
15. Window shades and curtains.
16. Copies of the World's best pictures.
17. Good back boards.
18. Newspapers and magazines.
19. An enthusiastic County Life Club, composed of every man, woman and child in my district, that has for its object the upbuilding of my school's physical intellectual and moral environment.
20. An enthusiastic teacher, who:
a. Is neat and clean.
b. Keeps things in their proper places.
c. Reads.
d. Attends teachers' meetings.
e. Knows the life and environment of her pupils.
f. Follows daily a systematic programme.
g. Keeps a neat and accurate register.
h. Inspires her pupils with so much respect for public property that they scorn to deface school furniture or building or grounds.

Formal Opening of Stony Creek School, Friday, October 15, 1915, 2:30 P. M. PROGRAM.

- 1. Invocation—Rev. Jeremiah W. Holt.
2. The House—Construction—J. D. Christopher, Contractor.

6. Our First School—Prof. John E. Glenn.
7. Some Closing Thoughts.
8. Closing Prayer—Rev. W. O. Sample.

Everybody cordially invited, and it is hoped that all patrons of the school will be present. The regular fall examinations for the teachers (white and colored) will be held in the court house on Thursday, October 14th, 1915.

NOTED CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SPEAKER COMING.

Mr. Karl Lehmann, Field Secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, of Boston, Mass., will speak in the Christian Church at this place Thursday night, October 14th, at 7:30. Mr. Lehmann is making a tour of North Carolina in the interest of the Christian Endeavor work, speaking and holding conferences in the principal towns.

There are two local societies of the Christian Endeavor movement in this city, one at the Christian Church and the other at the Methodist Protestant Church. The members of these societies were very fortunate in securing Mr. Lehmann and giving the people of Burlington the opportunity of hearing a young man who is considered the greatest authority on Christian Endeavor work.

The public is cordially invited to hear this distinguished speaker, who will discuss some phase of the Christian Endeavor Society.

VILLA SAYS WAR HAS JUST BEGUN.

Mexican General Says Mistake Was Made in Carranza's Recognition—Will Fight It Out.

El Paso, Oct. 9.—"The war has just begun and before it is done the nations which recognized Carranza will learn to their sorrow that they have been supporting a weakling."

With this threat on his lips General Villa boarded his special train late this afternoon in Juarez and rolled away towards Casas Grandes, to take command of the forces invading Sonora. News of the recognition of Carranza by the United States and South American government had just been delivered to him. The ex-bandit chief was plainly moved by it. From the platform of his car he waved to the soldiers standing by.

"I will have thousands of men like those following me before long," he said. "Henceforth it will be a war of extermination like the one our enemies have pursued. I will give no quarter nor ask for it. I will feed my men on the provisions of the country we traverse and when I have no money to pay I will take it by force of arms. The common people are with me. They know I am fighting for them."

"When I enter Sonora I will be out of touch of the border and news of me will not reach the United States except through the enemy. When I reappear it will be with 25,000 men behind me at Mexico City."

SPECIAL SERVICES AT THE REFORMED CHURCH.

A series of special services began at the Reformed Church last Sunday night, and will continue each night through this week.

Rev. H. A. M. Holsinger of Winston-Salem is doing the preaching, and assisting the pastor, Rev. D. C. Cox, in the meetings.

The public is most cordially invited to attend these services, which are held each night at 7:30. Members of the choirs of other churches are especially invited to attend and assist in the music.

Initiative seems to be made in Germany. At least none of the other warring nations seems to have any of it.

BURLINGTON TOBACCO MARKET

Sales Last Saturday Largest This Season—The Three Warehouses Sell a Total of 80,005 Pounds—Greensboro Warehousemen Boast of Sale of 76,000 on Same Day.

Last Saturday was a busy day with the local tobacco warehousemen. The three warehouses, Walker's, Morgan's and Guthrie & Allred, made a sale of 80,005 pounds. This exceeded the sales of the Greensboro warehouses by over 4,000 pounds. The handling of this large amount of tobacco by the Burlington warehousemen is evidence that the farmers and tobacco raisers of Alamance and adjoining counties are being paid a good price for their tobacco. If they were not, they would surely seek other places to carry their products.

The merchants and business men of Burlington have offered several prizes to all who bring their tobacco to the Burlington market on Thursday, October 14th. So let every farmer and raiser of tobacco who has not marketed his crop yet bring it to Burlington next Thursday where he will be paid a good price for it and have a chance at valuable prizes that are offered to those who sell on that particular day.

OUT-DOOR MEETINGS.

(Communicated).

Roy D. McIver, for the past three or four months has been conducting religious services under a Big Oak tree on Washington Street on the second Sunday afternoon and giving the people of that part of the city some splendid sermons. His messages have been short, practical and very helpful to all who have heard them and especially so by the older people of the neighborhood who are unable to attend church services.

Rev. Mr. McIver's subject last Sunday afternoon was, "Will you deal kindly with my Father's business," from which subject he preached a very helpful and interesting sermon, which was enjoyed by all present. In his concluding remarks he made a very earnest appeal to the congregation to deal kindly with Our Father's business. There were about thirty people present to hear the sermon and enjoy the service.

MR. LEVEN W. HOLT DEAD.

Mr. Leven W. Holt of Route 7, who has been in very poor health for several months, died last night about 7:30 o'clock. His condition had been very critical for the past two weeks and the news of his death was not a surprise to those who knew his condition.

The funeral service will be held in the Methodist Protestant Church tomorrow (Wednesday) at 1:30 P. M., by his pastor, Rev. G. L. Curry and interment will be in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Holt was truly a good man, a kind neighbor and a conscientious citizen, widely known in Alamance county for his good qualities. A complete account of his death and funeral will be given in the next issue of the Dispatch.

A Scotchman visiting in America stood gazing at a fine state of George Washington, when an American approached.

"That was a great and good man, Sandy," said the American; "a Mc never passed his lips." "Well," said the Scot, "I praysame he talked through his nose like the rest of ye."

FUNERAL OF DAVID MAY.

David M. May, who died yesterday, was born December 9, 1840, in North Carolina and came to Kansas in 1867, settling four miles east of Emporia, where he had since lived. March 15, 1868, he was married to Epenetus Rich, who died in January of this year. Two sons, Alfred E. and A. H. May, both of whom live at home, are the surviving children.

Mr. May was a member of the Methodist Protestant Church at the Fowler Chapel. He was a charter member of the O. O. U. W. Lodge No. 2, and an active member of the Grange.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon. The Rev. B. A. Brooks, of Kansas City, will conduct services at the home, at 12:30 o'clock and at 2:00 o'clock services will be held in Fowler Chapel. Interment will be made in the Hunt Cemetery.

David May was one of this community's best citizens. He lived a blameless, useful life, and did his part in making his neighborhood a good one in which to live. To his sons and to his friends he leaves the inheritance of his good name, which will be always a precious memory to them.—The Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.

Mr. May was an uncle of our fellow townsman and rural letter carrier, Mr. J. M. Workman, who has the sympathy of the Dispatch in this sad bereavement.—Editor.

The members of the club are: Misses Verie Strader, Amie Wagoner, Myrtle Thomas, Mary Barnwell, Myrtle Buckner, Mrs. Minnie Wagoner, Mrs. Pearl Mann, Mrs. Hampton Buckner, Mrs. Fickard, Mrs. Andrews and Mrs. Rosa Reiber.

PURSUED MORE THAN 1,000 MILES, KILLED IN MINNEAPOLIS HOTEL.

Buffalo Woman Choked and Fatally Bitten by Man Who Called to See Her.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Katherine Arnold of Buffalo, who had told acquaintances here she was trying to escape from an enemy who had pursued her more than 1,000 miles, was killed today in her room in a small hotel. The police believe her murderer was a man, who walked boldly to the hotel office, asked for Mrs. Arnold and was shown to her room. She was choked and badly beaten, but none in the hotel reported hearing any disturbance.

The police held James Hirsch, night clerk, who discovered the body; Lillian Huffman and Anna Levin, women living in the hotel and Samuel Hall, another night clerk and have asked the Buffalo and Chicago police to aid by investigations in those cities.

When a woman is away from home two weeks her husband is apt to use all the napkins in the house for wash-rags.

BANDITS HAVE NOT YET BEEN CAPTURED.

But Officers Claim That Every Possible Avenue of Escape Has Been Cut Off.

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 9.—Every effort is being made by United States officers and railroad detectives to track the bandits who early yesterday held up and robbed Baltimore & Ohio passenger train No. 1 at Central Station. A report received here late today said they are being trailed toward the Ohio River in the direction of Sistersville, W. Va. Railroad police stationed here have been ordered to that city where a large force of deputies and police is being assembled.

All trains, freight and passenger, are being searched as they arrive in the yards at Benwood, five miles south of here and the same is being done all along the route between Wheeling and Parkersburg. Nearly a hundred special detectives, in addition to the railroad police, are at work in this vicinity, and it is claimed that every possible avenue of escape for the men has been closed.

A report from Sistersville says a large party of deputy sheriffs have surrounded a great tract of woods east of there, in which they think the robbers may have secreted themselves. It is said it will take over a day to search it thoroughly.

Loss Than $100,000.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Postoffice inspectors, today, after investigation of the hold-up, said less than $100,000 in currency was gotten by the robbers.

Comptroller Williams issued a statement that the train carried only $57,900 in unsigned National bank notes for banks in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. How much of the money on the train was stolen has not been ascertained.

YOU HANDSOME! GET OUT!

Such Was Greeting to Man Who Came For a Wife and Got an Insult.

(Allentown, Pa. Dispatch)

A sad and disconsolate man, even in Allentown, is Richard Smith, a former hotel clerk of Rochester, N. Y. Fifty years old, Smith got lonely in Rochester and advertised in a New York matrimonial paper for a wife.

The matchmakers informed him that they knew just the woman who would fill the bill, Mrs. Amelia Sperling, 452 Chestnut street, Allentown. Pictures were exchanged and letters written.

Smith arrived here and rang Mrs. Sperling's doorbell. She was taking a nap and stuck her head out of the second-story window.

"What! You, the handsome man whose picture I got and wrote me such lovely letters! Nothing doing. The photo shows a fine-looking young chap. Get out!"

They do say that President Wilson is at last ready to dispatch a note to England, protecting at the monstrous injustice that the Old Lion has been inflicting upon our world trade for the past year. It is getting so that America cannot trade with any country without asking Britain's consent, and the old tyrant is even attempting to regulate our internal affairs by requiring certain promises and exactions of our manufacturers of rubber, leather, iron, etc., before they are to be allowed to manufacture their products. Oh, Albion, how long wilt thou continue to abuse our patience?—The Highlander.

Manager Coley of the Crystal Theatre is always on the alert to secure the very best that can be had for the moving picture lovers of the city and surrounding county. On Thursday of this week he will present a special 5-reel picture entitled "Scandal." The following paragraphs will give you an idea of what the picture is:

"Scandal" is shown in the play in the attitude of throwing mud, indicating the besmirching of reputations, and the figure makes its appearance with such startling frequency owing to the pernicious activity of the gossip bearers that I am hoping the lesson I am seeking to teach will strike home to many, who, unfortunately for their fellow men and women, are guilty of this destructive characteristic.

"Scandal" pitilessly destroys the people in the play, when, as a matter of fact, this horrible creature has no apparent reason for entering into their lives at all. Mankind is general—sad indeed is the commentary—is to listen "with an attent ear," as the Bard of Avon says, to the venomous tongue of Gossip and its victims fall by the wayside like soldiers on the field of battle before the deadly shrapnel.

"The frequent showing of the repugnant figure of Scandal in this screen production is intended to convey to the spectator the idea that is advisable to pause and reflect before giving utterance to character-detracting remarks, the disastrous consequences of which are most vividly enacted in this play of "Scandal." I believe that "Scandal," which has been constructed to admit of strong dramatic action throughout, will act as a most powerful sermon and will thus accomplish much lasting good wherever shown.

Don't fail to visit the Crystal on Thursday, October 14th, and see this great picture. One Broadway Feature every Thursday.

CROWDS FOLLOW PRESIDENT BELGRADE IN THE HANDS OF AND FIANCEE TO BALTIMORE ADVANCING GERMANS.

First Woman of Land-to-be Wears Diamond Engagement Ring on Visit to Mr. Wilson's Brother; President Poincare First to Congratulate Executive.

Washington, Oct. 10.—President Wilson and Mrs. Sorman Galt, his fiancée, motored to Baltimore today to visit the President's brother, Joseph R. Wilson, who had not met the next mistress of the White House before. While there they attended church and were guests of honor at a family luncheon party.

Several hundred persons in Baltimore learned of the presence of the couple and crowded about the church and the apartment house in which Joseph R. Wilson lives to catch a glimpse of the President and his bride to be. Because it was Sunday the applause of Friday and Saturday in New York and Philadelphia was missing, but the people voiced their approval of the President's choice in audible comments.

Mrs. Galt wore a beautiful blue tulle gown, a black velvet hat trimmed with fur, champagne colored gloves, and a short face veil, and smiled happily at the crowd. The President, too smiled continually.

Has Engagement Ring.

On the third finger of her left hand Mrs. Galt wore the diamond engagement ring given her by the President in New York. It had been reported that the platinum ring was set with only a solitaire diamond, but today it was noticed that it also had several smaller diamonds in the narrow gold band.

Efforts of a man giving his name as Joseph Pruijk and his address as Brussels, Belgium, to follow the President's party and later to enter the church, caused a ripple of excitement. The man said he was collecting money for the suffering Belgians, and that he was visiting in Baltimore. The police became suspicious, however, and prevented him from entering the church. He protested that he meant no harm and merely wanted to see the distinguished visitors.

The President and Mrs. Galt decided last night after their return from Philadelphia to make the trip today. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilson and their daughter, Miss Alice, plan to go to Tennessee later this month and they wanted to meet Mrs. Galt.

PRACTICING ECONOMY.

(Philadelphia Telegraph.)

When the conversation turned to the subject of economy this little incident was related by Congressman Charles H. Burke of South Dakota.

Jenkins was sitting in front of the fire-house in a suburban town when a fellow-commuter came along and unreeled a dissertation on the high cost of living.

"Speaking of the high cost of living," responded Jenkins, "everything is economy down or way now. My wife is practicing it to beat the band."

"You don't mean it!" exclaimed the other. "In what way is she economizing?"

"She is economizing on my shirts," was the rejoinder of Jenkins. "She is buying me three for a dollar, so that she can get a $15 hat."

The Invaders Have Not Yet Reached The Main Serbian Positions.—Bulgars are Aiding—Marching on Serbia to Aid in Effort of the Teutons; More Fighting Around Loos.

London, Oct. 9.—Belgrade, the old Capital of Serbia, or the greater part of it, is in possession of an enemy army for the second time since the outbreak of the war, while other Austro-German troops have crossed the Save and Danube Rivers and are attempting to make a great drive into Serbian territory.

It was not expected the Serbians would make any serious attempt to save the city. It is situated on a point of Serbian soil, at the junction of the Save and Danube, jutting toward Austria, where it could be attacked from three sides.

The real test of strength will come when the invaders reach the main Serbian positions on the mountains, where the Austrians were so severely defeated last December. The present, however, is a more formidable attack. The new army group under command of Field Marshal von Mackensen having been organized for that purpose, it is supposed this army is largely commanded by German officers.

HOW TO KILL HOGS.

Careful Handling Before and After Slaughter Improves Quality of Meat Dressing the Carcass.

A well-selected butchering outfit and a convenient place for working are important considerations at hog-killing time. To aid in this work demonstration specialists of the department suggest as a handy and complete "kit" the equipment shown in the accompanying illustration. This consists of two butcher knives, two "bell" or candlestick scrapers, a meat saw, and a sharpening steel. The meat saw is for sawing down the backbone and cutting up the carcass. The candlestick scrapers have detachable handles, and are used to remove the hair and scurf from the hogs. A long water-proof apron, which will protect the clothing, can be had at a small cost.

Preparation of Animals for Slaughter.

A 24 to 36 hour fast, plenty of water, careful handling and rest before slaughter are all important in securing meat in the best condition for use, either fresh or for curing purposes. Food in the stomach decomposes very rapidly after slaughter, and where the dressing is slow the gases generated often affect the flavor of the meat. Water should be given freely up to the time of slaughter, as it keeps the temperature normal.

It is highly important that the animals be not excited in any way sufficiently to raise the temperature of the body. If the animal becomes heated, it is better to allow it to rest overnight before killing than to risk spoiling the meat. It is also essential that the hog be carefully handled so as not to bruise its body.

Points on Killing.

It is customary on the farm to stun hogs before sticking them, although in some localities this is not done. Another method is by shooting the hog through the head with a rifle, although extraordinary care should be exercised in using a rifle around farm buildings. After stunning by a heavy blow on the center of the forehead immediately above the eyes with a poleax, the 8-inch straight-bladed knife is inserted into the hog's throat in the under portion of the neck, to a point just in front of the chest cavity, but not into this cavity. The knife is given a twist and sideward motion to sever the blood vessels and allow the blood to flow. By laying the hog on one side and elevating the ham end the blood will gravitate freely.

Proper Temperature of Water for Scalding and Scraping.

A barrel is the receptacle commonly used for scalding. If it is set at the proper slant with the open end against a table or platform of the proper height and the bottom securely fastened, there is little danger of accident. A strong table built for the purpose would be a very desirable thing on which to work, though it is not absolutely necessary. A box often serves very well. The water for scalding should be heated to the boiling point. This will allow for a reduction of temperature when the water is put into a cold barrel, the best temperature for scalding the hogs being from 145 to 150 degrees. Be careful not to have the water so hot as to cook the skin of the hog. If the water is too hot the hair is likely to set. A small shovelful of hardwood ashes added to the water aids materially in removing the scurf from the body, though it has no effect in loosening the hair. A lump of lime, a handful of soft soap, a little pine tar, or a tablespoonful of concentrated lye has the same effect.

How to Scald a Hog.

The hog should not be scalded before life is extinct or the blood vessels near the surface of the skin will be cooked, giving a reddish tinge to the carcass. While being scalded the hog should be moved constantly to avoid cooking the skin. Occasionally it should be drawn out of the water to air—when the hair may be "tried." As soon as the hair and scurf slip easily from the surface, scalding is complete. If it is suspected that the water is too hot, scald the hind end of the hog first. If the water is too hot and you overscald the head, you will be adding to the trouble of scraping the part most difficult to clean. When the water is about right, begin by scalding the head.

The scraping and cleaning of the hog's skin should be done as soon as possible after removal of the animal from the scalding vat. Scraping a cold hog is difficult, if not an impossible task. Where it is necessary to reverse the position of the hog in the barrel to complete scalding, the portion scalded should be cleaned before attempting to scald the other end of the hog.

When the hair starts readily remove the animal from the water and begin scraping. The "bell" scraper should be used with a long, sweeping movement over the sides and ends while the hog is still hot. The head and feet should be cleaned first, as they cool quickly. Pull the ears from the hands to remove the bulk of the hair. Grasp with the hands the lower portions of the legs and twist to assist in cleaning them. Use the "candlestick" scraper for removing the skin and scurf from the flat surfaces and as much as possible from the other parts and finish the cleaning of the entire carcass, removing all hair, scurf, and dirt by rinsing with hot water and shaving with the large knife.

Cut the skin on the side of the tendons below the hock to expose the hog through the head with a rifle, although extraordinary care should be exercised in using a rifle around farm buildings. After stunning by a heavy blow on the center of the forehead immediately above the eyes with a poleax, the 8-inch straight-bladed knife is inserted into the hog's throat in the under portion of the neck, to a point just in front of the chest too large to scald in a barrel. If it is covered thickly with blankets or with sacks containing a little bran, and hot water poured over it, the hair will be loosened readily. In some localities hogs are skinned, but scalding is far more satisfactory.

Directions for Removing Entrails.

In removing the entrails, first split the hog between the hind legs, separating the bones with the knife. This can easily be done if the cut is made directly through the union of bones between the hams. Run the knife down the center of the belly, shielding the point with the fingers of the left hand and guiding it with the right. There is little danger of cutting the intestines in this way. Split the breastbone with the knife or an ax and cut down through the sticking place to the chine. Cut around the rectum and pull it down until the kidneys are reached, using the knife wherever necessary to sever the cords attaching it to be the "bed." Remove the sexual organs, then cut across the artery running down the backbone, cut around the diaphragm (skirt) and remove the intestines, stomach, and "pluck," that is, heart, liver and lungs, with a backward and downward pull—grasping the mass of organs near the union to the backbone and diaphragm, sever attachments with a knife where necessary.

In this operation the windpipe down to the head should be removed with the pluck. Do not disturb the kidneys or the leaf fat in carcass to be shipped, except in warm weather, when the "leaf" may be removed to allow quicker and more thorough cooling. If the hog is to be cut up on the farm and not intended for shipment in carcass form, it is advisable to loosen the leaf fat from the abdominal wall, allowing it to remain attached to the carcass at the ham end. Open the jaw and insert a small block to allow free drainage; then wash out all blood with cold water and sponge out with a coarse cloth. In hot weather the backbone should be split to facilitate cooling. It is good practice to do this also where the hog is to be cut up on the farm and not intended for shipment. The fat should be removed from the intestines before they get cold. Since it is strong in flavor it should not be mixed with the leaf fat in rendering.

GRAHAM MAN CHOSEN WILSON COTTON GRADER.

Wilson, Oct. 10.—Mr. C. McCracken of Graham has been chosen cotton grader for Wilson county with offices in this city over C. Woodard & Co.'s place of business on South Goldboro in the tobacco district. The government has standardized the grades of cotton on the different exchanges of the country, and in the future cotton will be graded in Wilson in line with the methods used on the New Orleans and New York exchanges. The government, by its system of grading specifies the difference in grades and as graded it must be sold.

It is thought that this innovation will work to the good of plants.

Mr. McCracken is a son of Postmaster McCracken at Graham, N. C.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES

The Minneapolis Journal relates that a mother trying to get her little daughter, three years old, to go to sleep one night, said: "Dora, why don't you go to sleep?" "I am trying to," she replied. "But you haven't shut your eyes." "Well, I can't help it; dey comes unbuttoned."

CALOMEL WHEN BILIOUS? NO! STOP! MAKES YOU SICK AND SALIVATES

"Dodson's Liver Tonic" is Harmless To Clean Your Stagnant Liver and Bowels.

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work. Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "fall knocked out" if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tonic tonight on my guarantee.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tonic is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick. I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tonic will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

TURKS STEAL GIRLS. Harems Filled, Boys Slain, Professors Tortured and Exiled, Letters Say.

Details of Turkish atrocities committed against members of the faculty and students at the American college at Harpoot were made public yesterday by the American committee on Armenian atrocities through letters which Prof. Samuel T. Dutton, its secretary, received from the victims of the outrage.

Two-thirds of the total number of girl pupils at Euphrates college, the American institution at Harpoot, it is reported, have been taken away to Moslem harems or killed. Six out of every seven of the boys have been exiled or slain. Four of the seven professors have suffered similar fates. Professor Tenekejian was killed after the hair of his head and beard had been torn out in torture. Professor Nahigian suffered the same fate.

Professor Vorperian was forced to witness a man beaten almost to death. The sight drove him crazy and he was ordered into exile. He was killed with his family en route. Professor Bojicarian was tortured by having his finger nails torn out and then killed. Three others escaped by paying bribes to the authorities, who allowed them to escape to hiding places. One of them, Professor Lulejian, was beaten insensible by the Kaim-Makam, or mayor of the city, who when tired called upon all who loved religion to continue the beating.

Of the men instructors four have been massacred, three are missing and probably dead, two are in the hospitals, one is in hiding and two are temporarily free through bribes. Of the women instructors one has been dragged to a Turkish harem, three are missing, one was murdered, four exiled and ten are free. These statistics were sent to the American society by one of the officers of the college, who begs that some measures be taken here to stop the slaughter of Armenians.

A cablegram has been received from Ambassador Morgenthau through the state department in answer to an inquiry whether a gift of $100,000 from the society could be used, saying that the amount would be a great relief, but that it would in no wise suffice for the needs. The money would be distributed through missionaries and through the American consul at Aleppo.

The American committee on Armenian atrocities has organized auxiliaries in many cities to collect a fund for the sufferers. One committee has already collected $15,000. The Armenian war relief fund has offered to turn over its receipts to the committee. The largest single donation was received yesterday, when the Rockefeller foundation sent $30,000 for the cause. Public meetings will be held in this and other cities, following the example set by Viscount Bryce in London, to increase the fund.—New York Sun.

ALLIES LOSSES GREAT.

Believed to be Impossible to Dislodge The Germans.

Buenos Aires, Oct. 7.—The French and British losses in their combined offensive on the western front up to October 5 totaled 175,000, according to the special correspondent of La Nacion, who has just completed a tour of the German line at the invitation of the German general staff. The correspondent states that in his opinion the Germans are so strongly entrenched on that front that to overwhelm them and retake the territory now held by the kaiser without colossal losses, even the entire population of England and France would prove inadequate.

WHEN TO MARRY.

Marry when the year is new,
Always loving, kind and true,
When February birds do mate,
You may wed, nor dread your fate,
If you wed when March winds blow
Joy and sorrow both you will know,
Marry in April when you can,
Joy for maiden and for man,
Marry in the month of May,
You will surely rule the day,
Marry when June roses blow,
Over land and sea you'll go,
Those who in July do wed,
Must labor always for their bread,
Whoever weds in August be,
Many changes are sure to see,
Marry in September's shine,
Your living will be rich and fine,
If in October you do marry
Love will come, but riches tarry,
If you wed in bleak November,
Only joy will come, remember,
When December snows fall fast,
Marry, and true love will last.

VICTIMS OF ROBBERS.

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Joseph Daniels, wife of secretary of the navy, and Mrs. Page, wife of Congressman Page, were victims of robbers, while attending the United Daughters of the Confederacy convention today. Mrs. Daniels lost a silver purse and valuables, while Mrs. Page lost a diamond brooch. Josephus should call out the navy.

EUROPE TO PREVENT WAR IN FUTURE, SAYS TAFT.

New York, Oct. 10.—The utter state of exhaustion of both the victor and the vanquished at the close of the present war in Europe, former President Wm. H. Taft said in an address here today, will result in the people of the warring nations being in a position to demand of their rulers that some means be taken to make the recurrence improbable. He declared that it was none too early to begin a discussion of the proposals which he hoped this nation will offer, through its representatives at the conference of nations that is certain to follow the war.

In his address, which was delivered at the Mount Morris Baptist Church, Mr. Taft outlined the proposals of the league to enforce peace of which he is president and expressed the hope that the United States would take the lead at the close of the war, in the establishment of the league as a world power for the enforcement of peace.

CHICAGO DRY SUNDAY, FIRST IN 44 YEARS.

Chicago, October 10.—Saloons, and hotel and restaurant bars were closed here today for the first Sunday in forty-four years as a result of Mayor Thompson's order for the police to enforce a State law which had been ignored so long as almost to have been forgotten. The 7,152 saloons have been regulated under a city ordinance which required only that they be closed between 1 and 5 o'clock in the morning.

The police received a few reports that saloons in remote localities had admitted a favored few customers behind locked doors, but in the main the order was rigidly observed. No arrests were made.

Leaders of the liquor interests sent out word yesterday that the law was to be obeyed, after Circuit Judge Matchett had refused to enjoin the city from enforcing the order to close at midnight.

3 KILLED WHEN WALL FALLS AT RICHMOND FIRE.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 10.—While firemen were at work today among the ruins of buildings destroyed by fire this morning a brick wall toppled over and buried them. R. M. Norman, captain of Fire Company No. 1, was instantly killed; C. L. Atkinson and W. R. O'Leit were so badly injured that they died soon after reaching the hospital and A. K. Davenport and L. I. C. Johnson were perhaps fatally injured.

The fire, which destroyed Crenshaw's tobacco warehouse and a dozen other buildings did damage now estimated at $500,000.

GRATITUDE.

When there are so many things to play,
Why should a small child ever be sad?
Kites to fly on a windy day,
Paper dolls when the skies are gray,
And stories to make you glad,
There are sleds and slides in the winter, too,
And in summer you row on the lake;
Store and soldier the whole year through.
Dolly's sewing and clothes to do,
And splendid sailboats to make,
But if the day's been stupid and long,
So you wish and you wait for the night,
And though everything's cross and wrong,
There is always the "Sleepy Song,"
And mother to hold you tight,

THE MEASURE OF MEN.

Taking the measure of men, you say?
Just for a suit, or a hat? What pray,
Is taking the measure of men but this—
Their measure of grace for the manly bliss
That comes to the life of every man.
Whose measure is true to the Godly plan?
Yes, we measure them, one by one,
For this and for that but the measure's begun
When we measure their hearts and souls for truth:
When we measure their wills to face life's truth
And measure the manhood down inside,
To get at its depth, and to see how wide,
The measure of men is, indeed, to show
How much they have measured in things that grow
Into the perfect and noble creed,
Of manly action and manly deed,
And righteous living, and power and strength—
To measure up men to the whole soul's length!—Bentztown Bard.

An eminent lawyer was once cross-examining a clever woman, mother of the plaintiff, in a breach of promise action, and was completely worsted in the encounter of wits. At the close, however, he turned to the jury and exclaimed: "You saw, gentlemen, that even I was but a child in her hands. What must my client have been?" By this adroit stroke of advocacy he turned his failure into a success.

Dispatch will be honored at this office
unless it is numbered with stamped figures.

Entered as second-class matter
May 10, 1908, at the post office at Burlington, North Carolina, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Burlington is prepared to handle
your tobacco as well as any other market, and will pay you just as much. All the large companies are represented and they all have the same limits as the buyers upon other markets, therefore can pay just as much here and elsewhere. You can come to Burlington and go back the same day. This means much to busy men who are farming upon up-to-date
methods and where labor is scarce.
Do not go by what some paid representative tells you about the different markets but come and see for yourself. Our warehousemen are clever gentlemen who know their business and will treat you right and see to it that buyers do the same. Come to Burlington when you get ready to sell. A welcome from buyers, ware-housemen and business men awaits you.

LARGE BREAKS OF TOBACCO.

There was a large break of tobacco
upon the Burlington market last Saturday and the prices were fairly satisfactory. There was about a hundred thousand pounds sold and all was firm from common to medium grade, very little being what is termed good working stock. The price averaged a little less than ten cents and while some thought that certain grades was too
low, yet upon the whole it did fairly well. There is one thing our farmers can rest assured of and that is they can do as well here as elsewhere.
There is a full corps of buyers and the warehousemen are bending every energy to please. When you get ready to market a load, try the Burlington
market.

THERE ARE TWO.

In a former issue of the Dispatch
we published an article commending
the Building and Loan Associations to the people who wanted to own homes
and yet did not have all the means necessary at their command, and in commenting upon the different associations we called attention to the fact that Mr. W. E. Sharpe was connected with one of the companies at Burlington, and inadvertently failed to state that Mr. C. C. Fonville was at the head of the other one. Now, we are not partial to one more than
the other except in an official way.
Mr. Fonville is the manager of the Mutual Building and Loan Association, a live, progressive association whose officers are among some of the best men in the county. They have a series open now and will be glad to call and explain the workings of the association to any one interested in the home building. The Editor of the Dispatch commends this association to its readers just as strongly as he does any other association, but what we want understood is that there is no better medium than the Building and Loan Association for people
of small means to build them a home,
and every man, white or black, ought
to own his own home if possible.
Home owners means better citizens and more independent citizens. When you live in your own home you certainly can make out your own method
to eat and thereby be free and independent from the land loan and not be at his mercy should sickness or other misfortune overtake you. Let us urge you by all means to see some one connected with the Building and Loan Association and take some shares and get in line to build you a home when spring opens if not sooner.

MOONLIGHT SCHOOLS.

Letter to Superintendents and Teachers by State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

To Superintendents and Teachers:—
I have been greatly gratified
and deeply touched by the enthusiastic and unselfish response of the superintendents and the teachers of the State to the call to vounteer for extra service in organizing and conducting Moonlight schools to teach our too long neglected adult illiterates to read and write. When this bulletin went to press five thousand teachers had already voluntarily pledged themselves in writing to teach without compensation for at least one month in the Moonlight schools of the State. I have no doubt that if others shall be needed for the work, they too will readily respond. Such a record should make every teacher of the State prouder of his profession
and should challenge the admiration,
as it merits the gratitude, of every good citizen.

This is educational work the success of which is necessarily dependent mainly upon the active leadership
and wise direction of superintendents and teachers. The newspapers of the State, the fraternal and civic organizations of every sort, like the Farmers'
Union, the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, the Women's Clubs, have pledged their active and enthusiastic support to this commendable campaign for the reduction and elimination of illiteracy. Rally all of these agencies to your assistance in organizing and directing the Moonlight schools in your counties and school districts, and especially in interesting and enrolling in your schools
the men and women who cannot read and write.

I beg to make the following

Suggestions:

1. Get from the census the names and addresses of all illiterates in the school district. With the aid of the school committee, and others well acquainted with the residents of the district, verify, and if necessary correct and complete this list.
2. See to it that every one of them receives a sympathetic, tactful and earnest personal invitation to attend.
Select the right person to give this personal invitation to each—some neighbor, some friend, some fellow-
member of church or fraternal order,
some one that has the confidence and friendship of the person invited and knows how to approach him.
3. Many illiterates are naturally sensitive over their inability to read and write. Report their feelings. Let the invitation be extended, and all the work of the schools for them be conducted in a spirit of sympathetic brotherhood, good fellowship, and democratic equality. In word and act, avoid everything that may smack of
condescension, pity, smug superiority.
These are our brothers and fellow-citizens—in the eyes of God and the State as good as we are—suffering under the handicap of illiteracy, for which most of them are not responsible, because in childhood they had no opportunity to go to school or had nobody in authority over them sufficiently appreciative of its importance to make them use the opportunity to go to school. It is our duty and our privilege to help them help themselves
to remove this handicap, for their own sake and for the State's sake, before it is forever too late. In this spirit should this work for them and
with them be done.
4. By resolution adopted unanimously by the North Carolina Press Convention at its recent meeting, the newspapers of the State pledged themselves to print, a week in advance,
the lessons in reading and arithmetic
for each week and to send free to each pupil of a moonlight school in the county for a month a copy of the county paper containing these lessons.
They also agreed to print weekly a brief news letter from each neighborhood in which a moonlight school is taught, containing interesting items

about the school and other news of the neighborhood, expressed in words
and sentences comprehensible to adult beginners in reading.

The County Superintendent and the teachers of each school should furnish the editor of the county paper the names and addresses of all pupils enrolled, and should make arrangements
with some reliable person in each district to send this letter to the paper
each week. The pupils should be instructed to bring the paper with them
to school each night, that it may be used for reading the lessons and the news letters, and for general supplementary reading.

Bulletins containing the lessons
have been printed and furnished the County Superintendent for free distribution through the teachers, upon application, to each pupil of a Moonlight School; but these can not take the place of the county paper. It is important that the county paper
should be placed in their hands from the first, to interest them, to stimulate their desire to learn to read, that they may read their home paper like other folks and keep up with what is going on in their county and in the world; to cultivate from the first the useful habit of reading their home paper; to furnish, as they begin to learn to read, an abundant supply
each week of the best and most interesting material for supplementary reading. Most of them, as soon as they begin to acquire the power to read, will read each week everything in the paper that they can read. Each night extracts from the paper should be read aloud to the pupils by the teachers, and as soon as possible by the pupils themselves. Most of the pupils learning to read will become permanent subscribers to the county paper and keep up their practice in reading. So far as I know, North Carolina is the only State in which this co-operative plan with the county newspapers in teaching illiterates to read has been suggested or in which this generous offer has been made by the papers. I am exceedingly anxious that it shall have a fair trial, because I am confident that it will contribute greatly to the success and to the permanency of this work.

5. Upon application to the State Superintendent, bulletins containing twelve lessons—three a week for four weeks—in reading, in arithmetic, and in writing, prepared especially by the State Department of Public Instruction, with the aid and criticism of some of the most experienced and successful primary teachers of the State, some of whom had had experience in teaching adults, will be furnished County Superintendents in sufficient number to supply each pupil enrolled with one copy. Superintendents are urged to order at once the number needed, but not to order more than will be needed.

A teachers' edition of the same bulletin, containing valuable suggestions
to teachers for teaching the lessons,
will be furnished through the county
Superintendent to each teacher of a Moonlight School. The County Superintendent is urged to order at once
from the State Superintendent's office
the number of teachers' bulletins needed for his county, and to send at once to the teacher of each Moonlight
School a copy of the teachers' bulletin
and a sufficient number of the pupils'
bulletins to supply each pupil with a copy.

6. Copies of the bulletin containing the Lessons by weeks will also be sent to the editor of each county newspaper, but the County Superintendent
is expected and urged to see the editor
personally, explain the plan to him, and arrange for him separately
by weeks, with the date of the publication of each, the lessons to be published each week.

7. The County Superintendents and teachers, in co-operation with the school committee, the various community organizations and others interested, are urged to arrange some social entertainment in connection with the Moonlight Schools, participated in by the pupils and by other citizens, to add to the interest and happiness of the pupils, and to afford an opportunity for all to get together and
for an expression of interest and encouragement from outsiders. The

8. November has been designated as Moonlight School Month in North Carolina because that seemed to be the most convenient month for the majority of the counties of the State.
If, however, some other month is more convenient for your county, and the roads are in good condition, select that month. Be sure, however, to select a month when the weather is likely to be pleasant and the roads in good condition.

During November or such other month as may be selected, concentrate public interest and effort upon this one work of teaching the adults of your county to read and write. Rally to the work your newspapers, all organizations that have pledged their aid and all other agencies that can be enlisted for service. Have the papers full of it every week. See that they are furnished with the facts and the news about the schools. Publish before the schools open the number,
but not the names, of adult illiterates
by school districts. Publish each week the number, but not the names, of those enrolled in each school. As soon as possible, for the encouragement of others, publish from week to week the number, and, by their permission, the names of those that have learned to read and write and cipher.
Most of this news can be supplied weekly through the news letter from each school, and should also be reported to the County Superintendent
by the teacher. The Superintendent and the teachers should keep in close touch with the papers and see that the weekly material is promptly supplied.

9. Superintendents are urged to call a joint meeting of the County
Teachers' Association and the County
Committee on Community Service, consisting of the County Superintendent, the County Farm Demonstration Agent, the Home Demonstration Agents, the President or Secretary of the County Farmers' Union, editors of the county newspapers, the mayor of the county-seat, one representative
each of the Junior Order of the Women's Clubs of the county, two weeks before the beginning of Moonlight School Month in the county, to ascertain the facts about the adult illiteracy of the county by districts as reported by superintendent and teachers, and to complete the organization
and plans for pushing the campaign and the work for its elimination. A suggested program for this meeting
will be found inclosed.

10. The program for Community Service Day and North Carolina Day
this year, now in the press, centers around the Moonlight School and the elimination of illiteracy in every

school district as the one most important community service to be concentrated upon this year. It is suggested that this be observed in each county on the Friday before the opening of the Moonlight Schools, and that on that day at each schoolhouse all the details of opening and successfully conducting the school be completed.

11. Because of their onerous duties
in the day schools and their inadequate salaries, I did not feel that I ought to ask or that the community ought to expect of the public school teachers more than one month's extra service at night without compensation.
It is hoped and expected, however,
that before the close of the month sufficient interest will be aroused and sufficient success attained in many of the Moonlight Schools to warrant extending the term, and that citizens
and interested organizations and orders in the community will arrange for such extension and for payment of the teacher or some other person
to continue the school, and also to provide, where feasible, instruction
for other adults, besides illiterates,
desiring additional instruction.

J. Y. JOYNER,
State Supt. of Public Instruction,
Raleigh, N. C., October, 1915.

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION FOR MOONLIGHT SCHOOL MONTH.

Whereas there are in North Carolina 132,000 white men and women,
boys and girls, over 10 years of age
who cannot read and write—an army greater in number than was sent by North Carolina to the service of the Confederate States—and 14 per cent of the white voters are reported in the census as illiterate, the State in this particular standing practically at the bottom of the roll of States; and

Whereas it is largely because they lacked opportunity, largely because they "had no chance," that these people, brothers and sisters of ours, are illiterate today, growing up as they did in the years of war and reconstruction, and the years of poverty that followed before the State had provided adequate schools or thoroughly
realized its duty to provide facilities
whereby every child may "burgeon
out all there is within him," and

Whereas the State has now come to a poignant realization of its duty
not only to provide schools for the boys and girls of today, but also to open the doors of knowledge, of hope,
and of opportunity for all who were neglected in her days of poverty;
and

Whereas while our illiterate people as a whole have bravely and perseveringly achieved greatness, success, good citizenship, high character, despite their terrible handicap,
we can but feel how infinitely greater
would have been their achievements
how infinitely richer their contribution to the life of our Commonwealth

had they but had the keys of learning in their hands; and while our State, through patient struggle, has won its way out toward prosperity
and civic progress, we can but reflect upon the far, far greater progress we should make were all our people educated; and

Whereas, through the "Moonlight
School," as we are assured by the experience of Kentucky and by the experience of numerous counties in our own State, the method is at hand, as outlined by the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the State Committee on Community Service, whereby we may carry the immeasurable
benefits of education to all who were neglected or neglectful in their youth;

Now, therefore, I, LOCKE CRAIG,
Governor of North Carolina, do issue
this my proclamation to designate the month of November, 1915, as "Moonlight School Month" in North Carolina, and set it apart to be devoted to the high purpose of beginning a crusade
to eliminate illiteracy from the State, trusting that the movement
then begun will not cease until every unlettered man and woman, boy and girl is given access through reading
to all the wealth of knowledge now sealed to them, to the end that North Carolina long before another census
year may be a State without adult illiterates.

I, therefore, call upon the citizens,
teachers, and educational authorities
of every county to organize for the purpose of eliminating adult illiteracy from that county; and

I call upon the members of the Farmers' Union, the Press Association, the Junior Order, the Federation of Women's Clubs, and all the other organizations that have already enlisted in the cause, to be unflinting in their splendid purpose to carry it through to a triumphant conclusion; and

I call upon the commercial organization, boards of trade, civic clubs,
religious organizations, Sunday
schools, and all organizations everywhere to give loyal, enthusiastic aid
and support to a movement whose success will promote the welfare of every individual in the State and bring new confidence and courage to all the people; and

I call upon every man and every woman who craves the sacred privilege of being of greater service to those in greater need to render here
the infinite service of bringing new freedom to a human mind.

Done in our city of Raleigh on the 9th day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, and in the hundred and fortieth year of our American Independence.

LOCKE CRAIG, Governor.
J. M. LANE, Private Sec'y.

UNLUCKY HENRY. A New Englander was complaining to a friend of the hard-luck encountered by his son, Henry. "Now, take the last case," he said, "just as soon as he went to Boston to work Henry fell in love with a girl. She lived in one of the suburbs, and as soon as Henry made up his mind he liked her he up and bought a 50-trip ticket to her place and—" "And—" "Got turned down at the second call! The ticket was left on his hands! If that ain't hard luck, what is?"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

COLDS DO NOT LEAVE WILLINGLY. Because a cold is stubborn is no reason why you should be. Instead of "wearing" it out, get sure relief by taking Dr. King's New Discovery. Dangerous bronchial and lung ailments often follow a cold which has been neglected at the beginning. As your body faithfully battles those cold germs, no better aid can be given than the use of this remedy. Its merit has been tested by old and young. Get a bottle today. 50c and $1.00.

"LURLINE." Do you think of me, darling, I murmur, When night falls on valley and hill, When out of the sky day has faded, And the night-bird her vesper song thrills? Do you think of our last tender parting, And the sorrow that clouded my brow? Ah! say, see the tear-drops are starting, Lurline, do you think of me now? CHORUS. Lurline, dear Lurline, while the twinkling stars shine o'er the sea, Oh! tell me, Lurline, are you waiting and watching for me?

There's many a change since we parted, The years with their burden of care Have left me no longer light-hearted, And silvery now is my hair, But I have been true to thee ever, And do you remember the vow We pledged to be constant forever, Lurline, do you think of me now? Tonight I am eagerly waiting

The hour that shall bear me to thee, To hear the sweet words that will welcome The wanderer back from the sea; Thy smiles, which are bright as the sunbeams Will banish the clouds from my brow; Ah! earth seems an Eden of gladness, Lurline, as I think of you now.

$100 Reward, $100. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one untraced disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Merely destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution, and assisting nature to doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Sent for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. WASTING HIS TIME. "Joseph," said the grocer to his new boy, "what have you been doing in the back room so long?" "Picking the dead flies out of the currants, sir," Joseph answered briskly. The grocer's lip curled. "So that's what you were doing, is it, Joseph?" he said. "And your father told me that he knew you were cut out for the grocery trade. Well, Joseph, you'd better study for the ministry."—London Opinion.

COMING SOON. SCANDAL. HERE is a wonderful and unusual play. Not merely, but completely superb. A play about everyday people such as we meet in daily life. But it is so big as human passions are deep; it is so strong as human nature is weak. You must make it a point to see this—it is too big a picture to miss.

HE DRESSED WELL. Amos Whitaker, a miserly millionaire, was approached by a friend who used his most persuasive powers to have him dress more in accordance with his station of life, relates Lippincott's Magazine. "I am surprised, Amos," said the friend, "that you should allow yourself to become so shabby." "But I'm not shabby," firmly interposed the millionaire miser. "Oh, but you are," returned his old friend, "Remember your father. He was always neatly, even elegantly dressed. His clothes were always finely tailored and of the best material." "Why," shouted the miser, triumphantly, "these clothes I've got on were father's!"

A PINE WHOOPING COUGH REMEDY. Mothers, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is just the remedy for your children's cold ailments. The fact is that pine is a quick enemy of cold conditions. Its qualities loosen the mucous in the throat, soothe the lungs and open up the air passages. The combination of honey, soothing and pleasant, with the loosening pine quality makes this an ideal cough remedy for children. Each passing year brings for it, new friends. A family of growing children cannot afford to be without it. 25c. a bottle.

HE SOON REPENTED. Ah! The sweet summer twilight and the silence of the woodland had got to young Giles' head. Suddenly he turned to his fair companion and stammered: "Mary, w-will ye m-m-marry me?" "Yes, Giles," replied Mary, in soft confusion. Then followed a silence deeper even than that of the woodland, and the girl got impatient. "Why don't you say something, lad?" she asked. "Nay, lass," replied her lover, in desponding tone, "I think there's been too much said already."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

RUB-MY-TISM Will cure Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Headaches, Cramps, Colic Sprains, Bruises, Cuts, Burns, Old Sores, Tetter, Ring-Worm, Eczema, etc. Antiseptic Anodyne, used internally or externally. 25c. A PERSUADED PRISONER. There is a deputy marshal in Mississippi who does not permit any such trifles as extradition laws to stop him in the performance of his duties, says Harper's Magazine.

When a certain term of court was about to begin a man who was out on bail was reported to be enjoying himself over in Georgia. The deputy marshal went after him. The next day he telegraphed the Judge: "I have persuaded him to come." A few days later he rode into town on a mule, leading his prisoner tied up snugly with a clothes line. The latter looked as if he had seen hard service. "Why, Jim," said the judge, "you didn't make him walk all the way from Georgia?" "No, sir. Part of the way I drug him, and when we come to the Tallapoosa River he swam."

RHEUMATISM AND ALLIED PAINS—THEY MUST GO! The congestion of the blood in its flow causes pain Sloan's Liniment penetrates to the congestion starts the blood to flow freely. RIOT AMONG SAILORS AT NEWPORT NEWS PIER.

Two Men Knocked Overboard and Drowned—Four Arrested Charged With Mutiny.

Newport News, Va., Oct. 9.—Two men were knocked overboard and drowned and several others were seriously injured here today in a riot among half a hundred merchant sailors on a pier. Four arrests were made, the man being held on a charge of mutiny.

The dead are: Charles Lund and Carl Svendson.

The sailors were said to be members of the crews of the British steamer Berwindvale and Terek and the Norwegian steamer Maricora. The fight started in the early afternoon and continued several hours before the combined police force of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company could disperse the mob.

The men from the Terek were said to have demanded their pay from the commander and when it was refused they rushed aboard the vessel to attack the officers. The latter however had barricaded themselves in a cabin. The cause of the general disturbance had not been determined. The bodies of the drowned men were recovered.

A LETTER FROM A HOTEL MAN.

By Dr. Frank Crane,
 Dear Sir:—Some time ago I read in the papers an article entitled "A Letter to a Hotel Man."

It's not very often I try to answer anything in the newspapers; it's too much like a siner in the back pew endeavoring to talk back to Billy Sunday, or a whip-poor-will arguing with a spring thunderstorm, but this time I'm going to take a whack at you.

This is a letter from a hotel man. In your letter to a hotel man you strike the keynote of our success as hotel people—my wife and I. We haven't a great big caravanary in a city, but we do have a genuine, regular hotel in a small town in Texas, a "house by the side of the road," where every week we take care of a number of travelers.

They come along tired, frazzled, lonesome and hungry, and we send them away contented and cheerful, full of good food and happy memories and ready once again to wrestle with this ornery and cantankerous world.

About fifteen years ago we started out greenies in the business, but we had one idea in our heads, and that was that the traveling man is a human being, just the same as the farmer or the banker, that he has father, mother, brothers, sisters and folks like the rest of us, and that the things we enjoy he would enjoy.

Consequently the nearer we could come to making our hotel seem like a home the surer we would be to please him.

Our hotel is not an institution. It is not run on the principle of a jail, a boarding school, or any asylum. We haven't a lot of fool rules. In fact, we've never had a rule about the place, never needed any, for we have never had discord nor any more trouble than the usual inn with its forty and one regulations.

We simply expect every guest to be a gentleman and as a result, he is almost invariably. If he is not, we quietly get rid of him.

We have entertained people of every station—almost everybody except a President so far—and they all get the same generous, whole-hearted, democratic hospitality, and seem to like it.

It's a great, big, common home, where everybody is at ease. When the governor of the state walks in here—the same treatment as anybody else. And when the little cigar salesman comes, tired and discouraged, he gets just as good as the governor. It's simple to feel he is somebody, and he puts out again with a new grip on life.

When a man comes here our aim is to make him our friend.

We take his money, but only for value received. So he gives it gladly. He is not allowed to stop here unless he knows exactly what it's going to cost him. And his bill at the end of his stay is just that and nothing more.

We do not forbid tips, owing to universal custom. But we feel they are unfair, demoralizing, and not American and we discourage them.

Come on down here and give us "the once over." You will find the finest drinking water on earth, made by the Creator Himself, somewhere about 2,000 feet down in the rocks. And say, if you care for fried chicken, the real cut-at-the-joints and browned-just-right kind, with milk gravy full of bits of goodies and if you enjoy fresh buttermilk, why, this is the place.

We don't run a sanatorium but there's many a sick man we've kind of looked after—mother just naturally enjoys nursing—and more than one homesick young fellow has thanked her for sitting up with him, bathing his feverish head or reading to him, or some such regular human business.

We just love the hotel business, because we love folks. We have thousands of good friends.

And when we get to the good place—and we expect to go—all we ask of the good Lord is to give us charge of a little public house, by the side of the road, where the pilgrims go by on the way to their permanent abiding, where we can give them a bit of refreshment, a hail and a farewell, and receive from them that which after all is the innkeeper's best pay, a smile, a handclasp, a heart's grateful appreciation.

Yours truly,
MAT BRADLEY.

(The above letter is not accurately Mr. Bradley's but is suggested by one he wrote me.—Frank Crane.)

WHAT'S DE USE?

WOMAN MADE HEAD OF GOLDSBORO SCHOOLS.

Goldboro, Oct. 7.—At a meeting of the board of trustees held yesterday, Mrs. M. O. Humphrey, of this city, was unanimously elected "Teacher Emeritus" of the Goldsboro graded schools and is an honor bestowed for the first time in the history of the schools and the above recognition followed the resignation of Mrs. Humphrey, who has been a teacher in the Goldsboro schools covering a period of thirty-four years, and there are many professional men throughout the State and in this city who will recall receiving a taste of her none too soothing and famous punishment administered to naughty pupils in the way of stings in the palm of the hand with a twelve inch rule, and while the writer came in for his full share of the above punishment.

The genuine loafer rests before he gets tired.

"TOM TARHEEL COMING HOME."

A Home Coming Week for North Carolina will be during the State Fair October 18 to 23. Mr. Clyde L. Davis, of Aberdeen, has written another catchy poem, which will be sent to many North Carolinians who have strayed far beyond the confines of the Old North State and are only awaiting an invitation to get back "down home." Here is Mr. Davis' second Tar Heel Home Coming poem:
 Saw Tom Tarheel at the fair,
 Whiskers white and so's his hair,
 Ain't the man he used to be Back in eighteen-ninety-three,
 Stummick was an aching void;
 Collar was of celluloid;
 Open work, I see by chance,
 On the boom of his pants,
 I was smoking my segar,
 Setting in my own Ford car,
 "Tom," says I "hit seems to me
 You have failed since ninety-three."
 "Lordy, yes," says Tarheel Tom,
 Never ought to left the State—
 Hindsight's best I kakilate,
 Often yet I cuss the day
 I left here for Florida,
 Hoped to live in lordly pomp,
 Lost ten thousand in a swamp,
 Californy papers come,
 Went, and well—they touched me
 some,
 Thought I'd better get away,
 Pulled for Western Canada—
 Bought a farm near Moose's Jaw,
 Floated off the first spring thaw,
 Left for Kansas right next day,
 An' there my family blowed away!
 Agin' I'm on the Old North Sod,
 An' I am here to stay b'dod!
 The best of land that lies outside
 Is right down here in good old Hyde,
 The best farm works—without a chance—
 Is right back there in Alamance,
 For raisin' clouds of progress dust
 Our Sandhill Section sure ranks first
 What e'er you want, when e're you
 turn,
 The North State's got it—and to burn
 If I had stayed and worked like you,
 I now could ride and smoke up, too,
 So take advice from one as knows
 And stay right here till Gabriel blows."

NEW YORK LETTER.

DINNER DANCE, AND BALL GOWNS.

With Timely Suggestions for All Saints' EVE.

PANNIERS FAVORED DETAILS.

Afternoon frocks for more dressy occasions are quaint and becoming to a degree; many of them look as if they might have been worn by grande dames of the period just following the French Revolution, with perhaps a little added dignity.

The tulle, failles and velvets favored for these gowns lend themselves particularly well to the draperies now in vogue, panniers, puffs, and the loose panels of Watteau's figures.

The tang of winter in the air recalls us all to the dignity of formal dinners, dances, teas, and like occasions, with their respective demands for more formal frocks than those we have enjoyed all summer, our simple wash and taffeta models, so becoming and youthful-looking. This winter, however, the added formality consists merely of the addition of a few quaint ruffles and draperies that will appeal to most of us very pleasingly.

Dinner, Dance and Ball Gowns. Dinner and ball frocks are extremely dainty and quaint this winter. The panner, with its graceful draperies over the hips, is often accompanied by a loose hanging panel, and hung over contrasting underskirts of figured or flowered taffeta, or one of the charming embroidered brocades of the moment, in silver or gold. Now and then one sees a ball or dinner gown of black satin, heavily trimmed with sparkling jet; there are many veiled models, too; tulle, failles, and satins, veiled with beaded nets or chiffons. Gray is nearly as popular a shade for this type of frock as for daytime wear; often it is combined with black lace over white most effectively. Much velvet is used, combined with satin, taffeta, or faille, or as bandings for the cloth frocks which are quite popular.

The Day of the Dance Not Passed

Dancing is still much in favor. Some charmingly capricious frocks have been designed this winter especially for the maid or matron who dances. Many of these are delightfully youthful and frivolous, an especially dainty creation has a shirt made entirely of ribbon, with net bodice, veiling a band of the ribbon at the bustline. Net and the daintily colored bordered chiffons, are much used for these gowns; also the quaintly patterned tulle and brocades, so reminiscent of days gone by. The nets and chiffons are usually hung over slips of satin or taffeta, or looped up, panner fashion, over a silver or gold brocaded satin underskirt.

The Fancy Dress Costume.

There are times when it is pleasant to dispense with the frock especially designed for certain purposes, and to let fancy take her own way, and garb us as she will in some particularly fantastic creation all her own. All Saints' Eve, or Halloween, is one of these times. The maid who looks for her fate in the candle's flame, and the man who frivols in fantastic, and the are at perfect liberty to enjoy this evening in whatever costume pleases them most. There is no more demure, pleasing costume for the maid than this quaint Empire frock with its frilled pantalettes, its crescent and star-decked bonnet, and its fuzzy-tailed black cats, world-wide omens of good luck and witches' magic, bordering its shawl, full skirt. The man may wear a Pierrot costume; it has always been a favorite and loses none of its charm this winter.

THE BIG LOAN.

The English-French allies have secured their big loan of $500,000,000 in America.

How unfortunate-how unwise-how inimical to our interests! I was talking with the biggest cotton manufacturer in this section the other day. He said that if this money were loaned to South America, which we hope to develop into a great market for our manufactured products, it would have been of infinitely greater value to us than to make the loan to England and France, our commercial and industrial competitors, who are getting us to pull their chestnuts out of the fire.

They have succeeded in getting us to become their ammunition and cannon manufacturers, all our other industries being greatly depressed, while Britain continues to run her factories on full time, supplying South America and the rest of the world as usual. This means that after the war is over England will become more prosperous than ever, while our factories, suddenly finding themselves without ammunition orders, will face a period of depression like unto which we have not seen since the days of Cleveland.

In the meantime, we of the South can greatly rejoice that our cotton crop is cut short about one-third and that the war engines require a bale of cotton for every shot, thus giving us prosperity at the expense of a world woe and sorrow never before known.—The Highlander.

A NEW FERTILIZER FORMULA FOR SMALL GRAIN.

Those farmers who want to use a complete fertilizer for small grain this Fall and find those mixtures containing potash too high in price, may use the following acre mixture with very satisfactory results, especially in the Piedmont and mountain sections of the state where the soils contain a high percentage of insoluble potash:

600 pounds of ground limestone or marl, 300 pounds of 16 percent acid phosphate and 100 pounds of cotton seed meal or fish scrap, or 60 pounds of dried blood.

This mixture will contain from 480 to 540 pounds of lime or calcium carbonate about 50 pounds of available phosphate and about 7 pounds of available nitrogen with a small amount of potash if the cotton seed meal is used. For best results this entire amount should go on an acre.

In addition to supplying an essential plant food in itself, the lime will react with the insoluble potash, phosphate and nitrogen of the soil and render a portion of these elements available for the growing crop. Indeed lime is now looked upon as a real fertilizer for all crops and especially those of the legume family, such as the clovers, alfalfa, peas, beans, vetches and so on.

The Commissioner of Agriculture will furnish the farmers of the state ground limestone and marl at the lowest possible cost but they must get their orders in early to get them filled on time.

Approved: W. A. GRAHAM, Commissioner of Agriculture.

JAS. L. BURGESS, State Agronomist.

JOY FOR ONE, ANYHOW.

A minister meeting a parishioner of his who had been quite recently married and about whose domestic happiness terrible stories were rife, saluted him, according to Punch, and said,

"Well, John," says he, "and how is all going on?"

"Oh, happily enough," returns John.

"I'm glad to hear it. You know there were rumors of rows or—"

"Rows," says John, "Oh, yes, there are plenty of rows; whenever she sees me she catches the first thing to hand, a dish or anything, and fires it at me. If she hits me she's happy; if she doesn't, I am! Oh, we're getting on fine!"

Captain von Papen seems to be one pippin.

THE LAW OF THE TABLE.

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

These are the ten commandments of the table. They are not for the feast at which guests are present, nor for the formal dinner, but more especially for the family.

1. Bring with you a cheerful mind. Dismiss your tempers and clear yourself of all doldrums and angers. A serene soul is the best aid to digestion. Depend upon exercise, and take no stimulant to give you an appetite.

2. Don't read. For the hour of eating devote yourself to the family. Meal time ought to be the sacrament of love. Keep books and papers away. To immerse yourself in reading at the table is selfish.

3. Converse. Everyone ought to master the art of conversation. The table is the best time for the practice of it. Let your subjects be light and agreeable. Do not bring up serious, troubling or offensive topics. Don't argue. Don't criticize. Save your funny stories for this hour, when they do more good than at any other time. Don't indulge in a silent grudge.

4. Don't hurry. Eat slowly. Re- deem the grossness of feeding by the play of mind and heart. Be human.

5. Let your children be disciplined. Teach them good manners and set them an example. Eat as you would if there were guests. If a child is rude, or interrupts, or offends in any way against good breeding, quietly have him to go to the kitchen. Let him know that he can eat with the family only on condition that he is polite.

6. Never reprove a servant nor a child at the table. Wait until the meal is over. Never say cutting things. Avoid sarcasm.

7. Neglect no one at the table. Greet kindly every one present. Encourage each one to share in the conversation. Let not the parents monopolize the talk. Aim to increase everyone's self-respect.

8. Laugh as much as possible. One good laugh is worth many medicines. And sing, if you can. If you have a tableful of children, let them often sing during the waits of meal time.

9. Avoid satiety. Arise from every repast with appetite not quite satisfied. Drink little.

10. Say grace. It is a most civilizing and wholesome custom. Even better than saying grace it is to sing it.

The table is the family's opportunity. With a little pains and some reasonable and courteous ritual you may make breakfast, lunch, and dinner sweeten the day, improve the household atmosphere and be points of spiritual as well as physical refreshment.

GIVE US MORE LIFE.

The social life of a town has much to do with its attractiveness as a place of abode.

If there is always "something doing," plenty of variety, outdoor sports and indoor gatherings, home becomes a real home and there is little incentive for young men to stray into foreign fields. The old home town attractive to them and become solid citizens and as time progresses they do their utmost to improve local conditions. The population increases and prosperity moves steadily onward.

But when the town is dull life is the same humdrum day by day and social gatherings are few and slow, the bubbling spirit of youth demands wider fields and seeks its outlet in the larger cities.

And as they drift away one by one the town suffers in the vanishing of many of its young men of intellect and promise, the population is retarded, people lose their enthusiasm and a veil of indifference descends over the community.

Life still remains, but the town in time becomes known as a "dead one." Give us more life among the young people, and when they become old they will still be "our people."—Exchange.

Von Papen wrote: "I always say to these idiotic Yankees they had better hold their tongues." But we'll bot her didn't say it.

A man who goes to extremes may be a middling good man in spite of it.

WHAT MAKES A GENTLEMAN.

(By H. Addington Bruce.)

The word gentleman often is misapplied. Many people use it as though it appertained only to the rich. By others it is used to signify descent from some social prominent family.

Now, rich men and men of distinguished ancestry may be gentlemen. But they never are gentlemen simply because they possess wealth or can boast of a long genealogy.

One can be a gentleman if he never had a bank account and never had an ancestor who figured in the history of his day.

This is important to remember both for the sake of accuracy of language and because it suggests that anybody can be a gentleman. As a matter of fact, everybody is a gentleman who thinks and behaves in certain ways.

I have in my library a book that my father gave me many years ago. It is quaintly bound in green and black and, I imagine, is long since out of print. But it gives the best account I know of the rules to be observed by all who would become gentlemen. And, please bear in mind, nobody is ever born a gentleman. It is always a case of becoming one by observing the rules of question.

Here they are: "A gentleman is recognized by his regard for the rights and feelings of others, even in matters the most trivial. He respects the individuality of others, just as he wishes others to respect his own.

"In society he is quiet, easy, unobtrusive; putting on no airs, nor hinting by words or manner that he deems himself better, wiser, or richer than any one about him. He is never 'stuck up,' nor looks down upon others because they have not titles, honors, or social position equal to his own.

"He never boasts of his achievements, or angles for compliments by affecting to undertake what he has done.

"He prefers to act, rather than to talk, to be, rather than to seem; and above all things, is distinguished for his deep insight and sympathy, his quick perception of, and prompt attention to, those little and apparently insignificant things that may cause pleasure or pain to others.

"In giving his opinions, he does not dogmatize; he listens patiently and respectfully to other men; and if compelled to dissent from their opinions, acknowledges his fallibility and asserts his own views in such a manner as to command the respect of all who hear him.

"Frankness and cordially mark all his intercourse with his fellows, and however, high his station, the humblest man feels instinctively at ease in his presence."

The book from which these sentences were taken is called "Getting On in the World," and it was written by a Chicago man, Dr. William Mathews. It was Dr. Mathews' belief that to be a gentleman was a profitable as well as a pleasant thing, serving an excellent foundation on which to build success.

Undoubtedly Dr. Mathews was right, and undoubtedly every young man starting out to seek his fortune would do well to mold his behavior in accordance with these rules.

Even in fate in the end is unkind to him, and he fails to find the pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow of his early dreams, he will at least have traveled through life along a smoother path than he would otherwise have followed.

And, what counts for still more in the scheme of human existence, he will have done much to make life brighter and happier for those he has met or passed in his journey from youth to age.

Despite the chilly spring day little Wilbur was out playing without his coat. This worried a neighbor, but her advice went unheeded. Finally, she said: "Wilbur, go home and get your coat, and when you come back I'll give you a piece of cake."

The bribe worked, and Wilbur soon returned with his coat on and was duly rewarded. Next day he knocked at the door to announce significantly:

"I ain't got my coat on today."—Christian Register.
