PRAISE.

The Musical Courier tells of this high compliment to a young musician:

"Your daughter plays the piano beautifully."

"Do you really think so?"

"Yes, indeed. Why, if I didn't see her fingers hit the keys, I'd swear it was one of those mechanical pianos."

FLOOD OF FOREIGN GOODS WHEN WAR ENDS.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(Special Correspondent) "The only thing that has saved the United States from commercial bankruptcy has been the European War," declares a leading Illinois manufacturer who has recently returned from England and Germany. "Remove that cause and the manufacturers of the world will make America the battle ground of the greatest industrial war the world has ever seen."

The earning capacity of the 100,000,000 people of the United States represents a purchasing power greater than that of any two other nations of the world put together, and the standard of living to which they have become accustomed makes that purchasing power potential under normal conditions. Surely such a market is worth striving for by our foreign competitors, even under a protective tariff. And under a Democratic tariff the domestic market, so far as our industrial life is concerned, because well-nigh a gift causa mortis to our foreign rivals.

The Illinois manufacturer goes on to say: "A month—two months—of peace is declared in Europe will see Pres. Wilson and Congress in a state of panic due to ruinous industrial conditions. A vast army of men who have been engaged in the European war will be available for the peaceful industrial pursuits of these countries and they will be willing or forced to give their services for even less than the meager compensation they received before the war. And not only men, but thousands of women, now being trained in the mills will continue their work and add to the competition which American labor must meet. It must be remembered also that the purchasing power of Europe will be curtailed, especially in the matter of luxuries. Everything that save the bare necessities of life will be to a great extent unmarketable in Europe and will be dumped upon this country. Dress goods, textiles of nearly every variety that are used by both sexes, jewelry, china and the thousand and one articles of a similar nature will be shipped to the United States under our extremely accommodating Underwood tariff. America will be the one great cash market of the world and there will be a tremendous scramble on the part of every European nation to see which can get here first."

Of course this prophecy is based on the possibility of this country being cursed with a Democratic administration at the time of peace in Europe is declared.

According to this manufacturer, the great industrial plants in Germany are all being operated at capacity or are being maintained in such condition and such state of organization that if peace were declared tomorrow they would begin with double shifts to win back their temporarily lost industrial supremacy. Products of many plants are being stored in anticipation of a resumption of commercial activity after the war. Ocean transportation difficulties have largely shut off the exportation of certain articles from Germany, Sweden, Norway and France and English plants are getting the benefit. This explains why our importations of china, cutlery, and textiles are now coming so largely from England.

"What does this signify to the United States?" he was asked. "You cannot too strongly impress upon our people the importance of tariff revision before European factories begin to dump their products in the United States," he replied. "Unless conditions are foreseen and a tariff barrier erected against the influx of European manufactured articles, this country will experience a period of hard times, financial depression, business failure and suffering on the part of our great army of wage earners that will make previous periods of industrial stagnation resemble seasons of comparative prosperity."

In other words, the Republican party must be delegated to attend to the situation in a business-like manner.

SELFISH CITIZENS CAUSE OF CRIME.

University Day Speaker Declares They Are Found in Churches and Schools.

Chapel Hill, Oct. 12.—"The greatest crimes in our American cities are not committed by lawbreakers but by well-meaning citizens, found in our churches, schools, and in the business world, who take no thought for civic betterment and who care not one iota for the welfare of their city.

"We should not stand aloof looking at government as an outside agency of external control. We should rather regard it as the expression of our own highest activities. The citizens of today must make positive contributions to the work of the government."

Taking as his subject, "Patriotism—A New Interpretation," Dr. James Hampton Kirkland, chancellor of Vanderbilt University pointed out the new duties which are demanded of the citizens of today. The occasion was the celebration of the one hundred and twenty-second anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the university.

"The duty of the citizen involves interest in and study of all social and civic problems and an effort to make such study an effective factor in influencing legislation," said Dr. Kirkland. And in this connection he dwelt on the inefficiency of many of our educational commissions.

"Our educational administrations have for the most part been marked by sheer inefficiency and waste. Many and many a time a college president has had to take his stand at the doors of the legislative hall, hat in hand, to beg for enough money to keep his school going. Many a time we have had educational commissions working out reports along this line. The legislatures will have these reports printed, they are then shelved and nothing more is heard of them until the question is brought up again. College men who go into the legislature should be responsible to the appeals of experts."

The exercises in Memorial Hall began when President Graham asked Rev. Homer Starr, rector of the Episcopal Church, to invoke divine guidance. After Dr. Kirkland's speech, Dean Stacy read the list of the Carolina alumni who have died since the last University Day. President Graham then read a few of the congratulatory messages received by him from various Carolina alumni. The loyalty of the University alumni is testified by the number of messages received from alumni not only all over North Carolina but all over the country.

Following are one or two extracts from the most characteristic messages received:

- 1. Boston Alumni Association: banquet assembled send greetings to "Thirteen lusty young Tar Heels in their alma mater and their congratulations on her one hundred and twenty-second birthday." Chas. S. Venable, Sec'y.
- 2. New Haven, Conn: "Congratulations upon the brilliant prospects of the University this year. Best wishes for their fulfillment from a family in exile." Dr. A. H. Patterson.
- 3. Washington, D. C.: "The University of North Carolina—the best asset of the State and may the State realize it." Walter Murphy.
- 4. Charlotte, N. C. "The Horner faculty sends greetings." J. C. Horner, L. R. Hoffman, W. A. Kirksey, J. V. Whitfield, Phillip Woolcott, Ratty Ransom.

One message received by President Graham was so different from the general line that we take the liberty of using it almost in full:

The Alamance County Alumni Association, Burlington, N. C.

"We desire to assure you that you will have our most hearty co-operation and sympathy in every good deed and work. We are alive to every moment made and being made for the advancement of practical and progressive education in North Carolina. We feel that we are just beginning to realize the fond dreams of our student days as we note with pride the onward and upward growth and progress of our dear old University.

"Her loyal sons everywhere are thinking of her now; and rest assured that they will continue to march shoulder to shoulder until new dormitories and every other useful equipment is furnished.

"We all want to see the day dawn, when every worthy young man, born and reared in this good old Commonwealth, shall be admitted to the University free of all tuition charges. Let us keep this before us and ways and means will soon be happily realized."

W. H. CARROLL, Pres. E. S. W. DAMERON, Sec.

A national conference of Progressive leaders recently held in New York decided to go on with the party. This decision was partly nullified on the same day by a higher authority—the Supreme Court of New Jersey, one of its justices signing an order barring the Bull Moose from the ticket in the New Jersey primaries because at the last general election the party failed to poll five per cent of the total election the party failed to poll five per cent of the total vote cast and thus is not a party within the eyes of the law.

It is not recorded that Bryan mentioned the one-term plank when he called on the president the other day.

MR. WILSON AND MRS. GALT FORMING PLANS.

Although Their Closest Friends Do Not Know Their Detailed Plans—Wedding Trip Considered.

Washington, Oct. 11.—President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt, his fiancée, today began making preliminary arrangements for their wedding. The President and Mrs. Galt are not discussing their detailed plans even with their immediate friends and relatives. A wedding trip is being considered, but the place has not been revealed. Reports that the couple might go to San Diego or San Francisco exposition apparently were dispelled today when the President replying to an invitation from school children in San Diego asking him to visit the exposition, wrote that he sees no possibility of visiting the Pacific coast at present. Congratulations from all parts of the world continued to arrive at the White House. One cablegram came from President Estrada Cabrera, of Guatemala. The President is answering personally the messages.

THE VOICE OF THE WORLD.

I am tired of airy stories,
Highly colored rainbow gleams,
Sung happy hearts of glories
Realized alone in dreams.
Hungry mouths for food are yearning.
Tender backs are cold and bare—
You your midnight oil are burning,
Building castles in the air,
Heeding voices calling, calling,
Fighting hard against great wrongs
Manly men are bravely falling,
While you're singing dreamy songs,
Cease your fancy-mongered stories,
Cast away your futile dreams,
Burn your silly allegories—
Heed a voice that fairly scream!
—M. B. Andrews.

ALL HE COULD DO.

Benevolent Old Lady—Did you struggle against the consequences of temptation?
Prisoner—Sure I did.
Benevolent Old Lady—Ah, but you should have fought a little harder. If you had fought a little harder you wouldn't be in jail now.
Prisoner—I done the best I could, laddy. It took seven cops to git me to the station.—Exchange.

WANTED TO MAKE SURE.

A man walked into a grocer's shop and handed to the assistant a paper containing some white powder.
"I say," he said, "what do you think that is? Just taste it and tell me your opinion."
The grocer smelled it, then touched it with his tongue.
"Well I should say that was soda."
"That's just what I said," was the triumphant reply. "But my wife said it was rat poison. You might try it again to make sure."—Exchange.

HELP THE DEPARTMENT.

In the investigation of fires and their suspicious origin, this department is severely handicapped because people who are able to throw some light on the conditions and after the fire refuse to give information, giving as their reasons that they are not interested and do not wish to be mixed up in the matter. The firebug is one of the most dangerous of criminals, and unless he is caught red-handed in the act or confesses to his crime, it is almost impossible to secure a conviction. The sympathy of the public to a great extent is with the man accused, as the people go on the theory that as the loss comes out of the insurance companies nobody is damaged, forgetting the fact that the insurance companies base their premiums upon losses, and that every crooked fire loss is in the end paid by the honest insurer.—Fire Marshal J. K. Wilson.

BRITISH OIL TANKERS ATTACKED BY GERMANS.

It is Claimed Yachts Are Being Prepared for Use Against Oil Ships From Mexico.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Agents of the British government are investigating operations of certain yachts which they suspect have been prepared, or being outfitted, for use against ships carrying oil from Mexico for the British navy. Information has been gathered from Norfolk, Pensacola from the gulf of California. Recent reports to British sources of the attack on a British tanker bound from the Mexican oil fields, strengthen the belief of the agents that the attacking ship was manned by Germans and carried one gun. The agents also have reported that they have information that a small ship manned by Germans and outfitted with such a variety of supplies as would be used by a warship left Pensacola, Fla., October 4th. They have not established her identity. Three other small ships recently disappeared from the gulf of California. Charges that certain officers of the two interned German auxiliary cruisers at Norfolk were connected with the outfitting of the ship which left Pensacola also are being investigated. Another phase of the investigation by the British agents concerns allegations that bases for such ships have been established in the West Indies. The plan is said by the investigators to contemplate sending the small ships from American ports and outfitting them at the bases. The warring Democratic factions in Maryland will soon hear their master's voice from the White House. State issues, personal ambitions are as nothing where Mr. Wilson rules. He is the whole thing in the Democracy and he does not hesitate to let people know it.

FULL INFORMATION WANTED

Secretary of the Navy Daniels was talking at a Washington luncheon about submarines.
"But they are complicated," he said, "so very complicated that the average man before them is like the recruit."
"A drill sergeant was examining a recruit on the various parts of the rifle."
"What is the seat?" he asked.
"This 'ere what, Sergeant?" said the recruit, with a polite smile.

THE BEST LAND.

Wish not for a home in the tropical Climes,
Nor covet some ranch in the West,
For there's to be found the best of all times

Wish not for a home with the cold polar bear
In the land of the bleak North Coast
The happiest place is this land so fair,
The Southland, the land we love most.
And wherever you go in search of a home,
To the North, South, east or the West,
You'll always find wherever you roam,
Of them all, the Old North State's best.

JAPAN MAY SEND MEN TO AID ALLIES IN WAR.

Bulgaria's Entrance on the Side of Central Powers Likely to Change The Program.
Tokio, Oct. 13.—Bulgaria's participation in the war and advices from London that British opinion in some quarters at least, favors the dispatch of Japanese troops to the Balkans have suddenly reopened the question in Tokio of what Japan's future course will be. There is a strong impression that the return from Paris today of Baron Kirkujiro Ishai, the recently appointed minister of foreign affairs, and previously ambassador to France, is likely to be followed by a full reconsideration of the international situation with special reference to Japan's policy for the preservation of her own permanent interests. Another factor in arousing discussion on this subject is the arrival of Hagues Leroux, editor of the Paris Matin, who, although without official mission, comes, it is understood, with introduction from and the approbation of M. Deleasse, the French foreign minister to discuss military questions with prominent Japanese, with a view to determining whether the latest developments justify a change in Japan's decision not to send an army to aid her allies and the likelihood of despatching troops to the Balkan theater.

TOBACCO PRICES ARE NOT EXTRA GOOD AT REIDSVILLE.

Reidsville, Oct. 12.—Tobacco has been coming in steadily the past week and people are glad to see that the breaks are being kept in reasonable bounds. The farmers are acting wisely in watching the markets and not "glutting" them. Prices are not high and the demand does not seem to be very keen. Anything like a "glut" would probably cause a weakening in prices. The quality of the offerings so far is not up to expectations and it begins to look now like the 1915 crop is a very ordinary one—not much better than the 1914 crop. The average is around 8 cents and 9 cents. The impression now prevails that if this crop averages 9 cents it will be all that can be expected unless a much stronger demand later develops. As to advising the farmers when to sell people have no advice to offer, but hope they will watch the markets and avoid "gluts." Also have the tobacco in good order.

When a man is compelled to eat his words his appetite is soon satisfied.

LOVE DETHRONED.

I saw them play along the sea
An age or two ago;
When love was but a thing of youth,
Untried by care or woe,
Their childish souls were passion-fraught,
They swore eternal love;
But in my fancy I could hear
The angels laugh above,
Ah, she was fair no god could blame,
And he was bold with joy,
Yet she was just a foolish girl,
And he was but a boy.
Tonight I see them once again,
Both aged, though in life's prime,
Their love so frail could not endure
The wasting test of time,
With changelessness you sea rolls on,
The same moon floods the sky;
Relenting angels laugh no more,
But only sob and cry,
Oh, Love, behold thy shattered form
And still reclaim thy own,
For hearts have broken their early vows
And cast thee from thy throne.
—Moses Rountree.

The Pro-Ally fanaticism of some Americans is hard to understand. Looks like anyone with a grain of sense could see in the future a war of America against Japan. In that we will find England and the other allies siding with the Yellow man—their present ally. Germany is our one best bet, and we could see it more clearly if our President weren't such an Englishman. He long said that the London Times was his favorite paper, and what a man reads is what he thinks.—The Highlander.

It seems that all the fairs held so far have encountered bad weather which made the attendance small and all the gate receipts dwindle.

In the death of Mr. Levin Holt, the county loses one of its best citizens. Mr. Holt was a man that believed in attending strictly to his own business and always took great interest in the agricultural development of his county and state.

BOLL WEEVIL DISPERSION.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—The unusual storms of August and the very rapid multiplication of the boll weevil in Texas have resulted in a tremendous movement into northwestern Texas and Oklahoma.

The Bureau of Entomology advises that the planters throughout Oklahoma and the supposedly infested sections of Texas begin immediately to pick their cotton and destroy the plants.

After destroying the plants preparations should be made for a winter cover crop and for a rotation of crops next year.

The weevil has maintained its position in Arkansas and has probably extended its area a little farther north in the western portions.

Probably only four or five counties in the mountainous sections of north-eastern Alabama will escape infestation by the boll weevil this year.

Over thirty counties in western Georgia are already known to be infested and there is no doubt but that more will be recorded soon.

PLANT TO MURDER AND TO BURN

Alabama's Plan to Dynamite New York Banks and Slay Wealthy Citizens.

Again has red-handed anarchy lifted its evil hand in the United States! Again has its insatiate hatred of modern society and of organized government vented its bitterness and its hellishness in attempted wholesale murder and spoliation!

The Haymarket outbreak in Chicago a generation ago shocked the nation; but the plot discovered this week in New York to destroy an assassinate transcends it as far as the war in Europe exceeds as opera bouffe uprising in Hayti.

The murder of the Rocketeers, of Andrew Carnegie and of other wealthy Americans, the destruction of St. Patrick's Cathedral on Fifth Avenue and of other churches which are serving the higher ideals of man, the blowing up of banks and trust companies and the seizure of their contents; the creating of a reign of terror in New York such as France witnessed during the Revolution—such was the hellish program mapped out by the Anarchists in New York city and nearby cities.

It seems almost incredible. It would be incredible did we not know that men are capable of becoming devils. But the proof is convincing and two of the miscreants appointed to carry out this reign of terror are safely under arrest, with undeniable evidence of their guilt against them.

Last October when a bomb was exploded in St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York, in an attempt to wreck this beautiful monument to christian love and virtue, the police started an investigation which has been continued night and day to the present moment.

Under the name of Frank Baldo, a detective, whose correct name is Emilio Pogliani, joined the Anarchist group which plotted the blowing up of buildings and churches and the murder of New York's wealthiest citizens.

These Anarchists were to work in small groups, scattering themselves throughout the city, each with his implement of trade—the deadly bomb. The signal for their activity was to have been the blowing up of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

They were to explode their bombs in the financial district, which was to have been plundered, and in other quarters of the city where loot could be obtained. The destruction was to have been practically indiscriminate.

According to the Anarchist plans Abarno and Bardo, the former carrying bombs, entered St. Patrick's Cathedral Tuesday. They were met at the door by a man resembling an aged priest and were escorted to a seat well on toward the altar.

But the reputed priest was not a clergyman at all, but a detective. For that matter there were numerous detectives scattered about the church. The central detective bureau had been kept well posted by Bardo in his capacity as a spy, and every precaution had been taken to protect the sacred edifice and its worshippers.

Abarno was allowed to proceed until he had lighted the bomb which he carried under his coat, with the glowing end of a cigar and hured it toward the altar. Instantly a detective sprang to the spot where the fuse attached to the bomb was sputtering and at once extinguished it. At the same moment Bardo touched Abarno on the shoulder and placed him under arrest.

A few minutes later another Anarchist, Charles Cabone, was arrested as a conspirator and a round up of other Anarchists followed.

The reason Abarno was permitted to proceed so far as to light the bomb and throw it is found in the provisions of the criminal code. The penalty for having a bomb in one's possession or even for making it is much lighter than is the punishment for lighting it and throwing it, and the police were determined to catch the criminals red-handed.

FROM CHAPEL HILL.

The University celebrated her 122nd birthday on Tuesday, October 12th. Dr. J. H. Kirkland, Dean of Vanderbilt University, delivered the annual address; his subject being "Patriotism—A New Interpretation."

"Undoubtedly there are new duties for the citizen of today. Obedience to authority and respect for law and order do not sum up the demands made on us now. We should not stand aloof looking at government as an outside agency of external control.

"For the settlement of all these problems patriotic citizens must exert themselves. One favorite method of working today is by establishing societies for furnishing information on some special subject, for agitating in favor of some special reform. But while the most efficient service is usually rendered by large societies, one individual may sometimes start a movement of national significance.

"Our nation was born in a spirit of devotion. Our government was wrought out with care and consecration. Our liberties have been maintained at a sacrifice of treasure and blood, and who knows how often still these expenditures may be called for to preserve our freedom? A Canadian boy employed in the civil service lay dying in Rhodesia. With a smile on his face he said to his friends, 'It is glorious to die for the expansion of the empire.'"

The Alumni Committee struck a new note this year. Hitherto it has contented itself with a mere invitation to all Carolina Alumni to come down to Chapel Hill for the exercises held there every October 12.

"We trust that wherever, throughout the State and country as many as two or three alumni can come together that they will meet formally or informally, preferably Monday night, October eleventh, and in addition to the usual pleasures of such gatherings, that they will have some direct and uneloquent discussion of University problems, and develop some definite practical plans for co-operation with the University in its work."

SCHOOLS' RELATION TO CONTROL OF CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

How the Schools of Alamance County May Aid in the Control of Contagious Diseases.

As the school's responsibility in the distribution of contagious diseases in any county or community is great, so is the opportunity of the school to control contagious diseases in a county or community likewise great.

Whooping cough, measles, scarlet fever and diphtheria are germ diseases, therefore they are contagious. The infection is contained mainly in the secretions of the throat, nose and mouth and is usually spread by the personal exchange of this secretion.

The school's obligation in this matter of control of contagious diseases is first educational, and second, the compliance with the law relative to the control. The rules and regulations adopted by the Alamance County Board of Health call for the faithful co-operation of every school teacher or principal.

When women vote we shall be able to review the latest fashions at the polls which will be handy.

Benjie was showing his mother how well he could draw a cow. "This is her nose I've just finished," he said, drawing a curved line.

By the co-operation of the teacher with the quarantine officer or his compliance with the rules and regulations of the County's Quarantine Law, the spread of contagious diseases in the school can be kept at the minimum.

To put it differently, there should be no loss of time on the part of the school as a whole on account of contagious diseases and only a minimum loss of time on the part of individual pupils.

LAW.

Frank Crane.

I am law, I am nature's way, I am God's way.

By me comes order, unity, health, happiness and success.

Those who do not follow me are devoured by the dogs of disease, misery and failure.

I am more clever than the cleverest, I am stronger than the strongest, I am as old as God, I never sleep, I never err.

I am the secret of goodness, I am the hero of sin, I am the eternal path, and besides me there is none else.

Without me there could be no art, no harmony of sounds, no charms of landscape or picture, no government, no life.

I am efficiency in man, I am love-liness in woman, I am everywhere, in every wrinkle of the infinite waves of water, in the oak, in the brain, in nourishment, in excreta, in disease, in soundness, in the lover's clasp, in the corpse, in the stars, in the storms.

I whirl, I dance, I flame, I freeze, but always mathematically. For I am more intricate than calculus, more accurate than any instrument.

They that live by me find peace, They that walk with me come at least to God.

They ought to send the British censor to the front, and then censor all the news about him.

HE WOULDN'T STAY.

Two workmen met on the street and stopped to chat about their friends, according to the Chicago News.

"Casey seems to be doing well where he is," remarked one presently.

"He'll not stop long at that job," replied the other, with a gloomy shake of the head.

"Why not? He seems to be quite comfortably placed."

"But he'll not stay there a month, I say it, and I've said it ever since he got that job eighteen months ago."

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure ever known in the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and restoring nature to doing its work. MAJORITY FAVORS PROTECTION

Many times it has been pointed out that in 1912 the Republican and Progressive platforms declared in favor of the protective principle and that the candidates of those two parties polled a total of 7,607,735 votes while the Democratic candidate polled only 6,290,818. It is notorious that the Democratic candidate received hundreds of thousands of votes of staunch Republicans whose course was determined by the feeling aroused by strife within the party. But there are some other figures, not so well known, that throw light on the real strength of protection sentiment. Woodrow Wilson had a majority vote in only 14 states, with a total of 152 electoral votes. The combined Republican and Progressive votes constituted a majority in 34 states whose electoral vote aggregated 379. If therefore, the enactment of a tariff law had been determined by the actual vote as cast, the Republican tariff principle would have been maintained by an electoral vote of 212 to 1.

This fact was pointed out by Senator Warren, of Wyoming, during the tariff debate in 1913. Senator Warren also presented figures showing that the 12 Southern States and Arizona and Oklahoma, which gave a majority for the Democratic party, have a total population of 26,543,828 while the 34 Northern and Western states, which gave a majority for the two protective tariff parties, have a total population of 69,097,369.

The people of this country were in favor of protection in 1912, and after two years experience with a tariff for revenue only, they are more strongly in favor of protection, notwithstanding the fact that the dire results of Democratic tariff policies were prevented by the outbreak of the European war.

THE RULES OF THE SENATE.

The President is said to be undecided about calling an extra session of the Senate. He would like to "hear from the country" on the subject.

Inasmuch as one—perhaps the chief reason for calling such a session is to try to pass a cloture rule in order to jam through the ship-purchase bill, it may be said with truth that the country has already spoken on the subject. We do not refer now to the poll of its membership which was taken by the National Chamber of Commerce and which was so overwhelmingly adverse to the ship-purchase bill, but to the general verdict which the country has passed upon those Senators—Democratic and Republican—who joined, under the Senate rules as they are, to defeat the measure. These men have forfeited none of the favor of their constituents, no one of them has been rebuked for his opposition to the bill, and no one of them, so far as we have heard, is coming back to Washington prepared to knuckle down to the President on this question. They know that the country approves of their action—and the President might know it, too, if he would take the trouble to inform himself.

The fact is that there is no call for the ship-purchase bill; and further there is no call for a cloture rule in the Senate. Unlimited debate, never prevented the enactment of any measure which the people have demanded; it has never, in fact, prevented the enactment of any legislation which a successful party platform has called for. In theory the any legislation, good or bad, which a lusty group of filibusters may determine to kill. In practice, the mortality is always among the unfit. Unlimited debate in the Senate has saved the country from some very unwise legislation; it has never deprived the country of any necessary or helpful law.

HITCHCOCK'S SATIRE.

Raymond Hitchcock is, of course, an incorrigible joker, quite unable under any circumstances to refrain from his bit of fun, says the National Monthly.

While in Boston recently Mr. Hitchcock had occasion to patronize one of the trolley cars there, which he boarded with a friend. The conductor in charge of the car was an extremely slim, boyish fellow, whose chin was absolutely guileless of any hair, and whose rosy cheeks proclaimed his country origin.

"Did you ever see such a young conductor?" queried the actor of his friend.

"That's right," replied the other, "Looks like a mere boy, doesn't he?"

"He does, indeed," announced Mr. Hitchcock, narrowly scrutinizing the conductor as he drew near. He then appeared more youthful than before, although that would seem incredible. "Are you the regular conductor?" queried Hitchcock, affecting an intense interest in the matter.

"Yes, sir," replied the youth, "Then permit me to say that you are the youngest conductor I ever saw. Why, you don't appear older than my friend's son here. He is 17."

"You don't say so?" queried the conductor, slightly fussed, and in a testy tone. Then, in a scruff voice, "Fares, please." "May I ask you just one question?" queried Mr. Hitchcock, after the fares had been paid.

"Yes, but please make it short; I'm busy," replied the conductor. "What I would like to know," said Hitchcock, "is this; were you born on this trip?"

50 TONS OF DYESTUFF ARRIVE FROM GERMANY.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Fifty tons of coal tar dyestuffs of German manufacture arrived in New York today on the steamer St. Louis consigned to the Secretary of Commerce. The shipment is for the account of Wm. A. Mitchell, of Lowell, Mass., representing the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. In a statement the Commerce Department said: "Several months ago the Secretary consented to act as consignee of two cargoes of dyes from Germany for which safe passage was assured by permits granted by the British government, upon the express condition that the Secretary of Commerce would be the consignee. The embargo upon the exportation of these cargoes from Germany has not been lifted. Arrangements were, however, made by American manufacturers with the British government whereby that government has permitted the exportation to the United States of the dyes coming on the St. Louis. It is hoped that this is the first of a series of similar shipments.

Three men were talking in rather a large way as the excellent train service each had in his special locality. One was from the west, one from New England and the other from New York. Two men had told marvelous doings of trains and it was distinctly "up" to the New Yorkers. "Now in New York," he said, "we not only run our trains fast, but we also start them fast. I remember the case of a friend of mine whose wife went to see him off for the west on the Pennsylvania at Jersey City. As the train was about to start my friends said his final good-bye to his wife and leaned down from the platform to kiss her. The train started and would you believe it, my friend found himself, kissing a strange woman on the platform at Trenton!"

REASON FOR ENTHUSIASM.

The amateur theatrical performance was being discussed. "You know that part of the new play where the man seizes the woman, forces her into the cupboard and turns the key on her?" "Yes." "Well, last night a fellow in the audience applauded it so much that they had to put him out."

REASON FOR ENTHUSIASM.

The National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis has been compelled to cut its dividend rate from six to four per cent. The reason assigned is that there is small demand for loans and that the interest rate for these is very low. This is suggestive. It is evident that there can be no large industrial or business activity in this bank's circle of clients. There is an ocean of idle money in this country, but there is no business to use it except among the "war trade" enterprises.

Bert Willis is a very nervous, fidgety young man. While traveling on a train one day he chanced to be seated next to a woman who held a baby. The infant's face was covered with a thick veil, and every now and then it would utter a sharp cry, which the woman endeavored to suppress. Young Willis watched the proceedings with considerable anxiety for some time and finally, leaning over toward the woman, asked:

Has—that baby any—anything contagious, madam?

The woman turned and looked at him with an expression in which scorn and pity were blended.

"Well, 'twouldn't be for most folks, but maybe 'twould for you," she replied sharply; "he's teething."—Harper's Monthly.

The business girl—the girl who trolleys or hikes down every day is the girl a famous American designer had in mind when she designed this trim little tailored suit of French serge.

It's navy blue, of course, the American woman's national color. The coat curves in a bit at the waist as all the new coats do, and the pouch pockets are not only very convenient for the business girl, but they add a touch of trimming to her suit. The small round hat of polished plush with a band of gross grain ribbon and a double quill at the back give the final touch of prim simplicity to a costume ideal for every day wear down town.

PRESIDENT IS USING PRIVATE TELEPHONE.

He Has Had Private Wire Strung From His Dressing Room to Boudoir of Fiancee—Change Wedding Date?

Washington, Oct. 11.—Any lingering doubt of the intensity of the Presidential love affair was dispelled today when it became known that Mr. Wilson has had a private telephone wire installed between the White House and the residence of his fiancee, Mrs. Norman Galt, in Twentieth street. Mrs. Galt now monopolizes the daily official program of the chief executive of the nation. When the President is not dining with Mrs. Galt at the White House, calling on Mrs. Galt at her residence, driving with Mrs. Galt, golfing with Mrs. Galt or "seeing Mrs. Galt" from church or evening entertainment he is communicating with Mrs. Galt over the new private wire.

Any one who has encountered the "busy signal" for an hour at a time in endeavoring to telephone the residence of a prospective bride and the office of the prospective bridegroom will realize the burden of that private wire. Also any one who has inadvertently crossed wires into the telephonic conversation of a newly engaged pair will realize the value of the precaution taken by the President to shield his romance from the public.

The private wire, a mile in length runs from the dressing room of the President to the boudoir of Mrs. Galt. At any time, day or night, that either is seized with the desire to talk to the other, the wish is gratified simply by lifting the receiver from the hook. Intervening between the wish and its realization there is no White House switchboard, no central, "no wrong number, no "busy, please call again," no servants carrying summonses to the phone. When the boudoir phone rings in Twentieth street Mrs. Galt knows that the President is on the wire." When the dressing room phone rings at the White House the President answers in person for he knows that it is not another "ife long Democrat" asking for a job and he knows there will be no eavesdroppers accidental or otherwise, on that particular telephone wire.

The order to install the private wire was received by a local telephone company last Friday as the President and Mrs. Galt departed for New York. The White House instructions were to complete the installation without fail before the President's return. The company accomplished the work at the expense of delaying other but less important construction work for private persons. The President and his fiancee had their first talk over the private wire on Saturday night after Mrs. Galt returned home from the dinner at the White House.

Mr. Wilson was not far away from that her husband's affections were his prospective bride at any time to-day. Although he walked alone from the White House to the Memorial Continental hall to address the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Galt made the same journey by a slightly more circuitous route in her electric limousine. She sat among the auditors in the hall and heard the President in his speech refer playfully to their romance in the confession that recently he had come under the influence of a woman to a tremendous degree.

Shortly after breakfast this morning the President made it known that the most important immediate business on his mind pertained to some urgent shopping. Thereupon he set off walking at a rapid pace down F. street, the secret service men overtaking him only when he stopped to peer into the shop windows. It transpired that he was in search of a leather goods store where eventually he purchased a large solo leather "trousseau" trunk and a swagger "going away" bag.

Along late in the day a report materialized that the wedding would take place tomorrow. This was denied at the White House where it was stated that the event need not be looked for before December 1, besides, why should a private telephone wire be installed if Mrs. Galt were so soon to take possession of the White House.

 Attractive Model

Profusely illustrated in color.

Washington, Oct. 11.—Any lingering doubt of the intensity of the Presidential love affair was dispelled today when it became known that Mr. Wilson has had a private telephone wire installed between the White House and the residence of his fiancee, Mrs. Norman Galt, in Twentieth street. Mrs. Galt now monopolizes the daily official program of the chief executive of the nation. When the President is not dining with Mrs. Galt at the White House, calling on Mrs. Galt at her residence, driving with Mrs. Galt, golfing with Mrs. Galt or "seeing Mrs. Galt" from church or evening entertainment he is communicating with Mrs. Galt over the new private wire.

Any one who has encountered the "busy signal" for an hour at a time in endeavoring to telephone the residence of a prospective bride and the office of the prospective bridegroom will realize the burden of that private wire. Also any one who has inadvertently crossed wires into the telephonic conversation of a newly engaged pair will realize the value of the precaution taken by the President to shield his romance from the public.

WILSON BUTTONS OUT.

Buffalo, Oct. 11.—President Wilson campaign buttons today were in evidence on the coat lapels of hundreds of Buffalo democrats. On the button is a picture of President Wilson in blue and the words "Safety First" are conspicuous in big red letters, all on a white background.

Some Democrat in Kentucky is going to get a letter pretty soon. It will be dated at the White House and it will be signed by Woodrow Wilson. It will tell how much the President desires the election of a Democratic Governor in the blue-grass country, and so on.

HOG CHOLERA MAXIMS.
Measures to Observe for Preventing Infection, Treating the Disease and Disinfecting Premises.
 Hog cholera is most prevalent at this season of the year, and the department offers the following suggestions to those who are interested in combating the disease:
To Keep Hog Cholera out of the Herd:
 1. Locate your hog lots and pastures away from streams and public highways, and do not allow the hogs to run free range.
 2. Do not visit your neighbor or allow him to visit you, if either of you have hog cholera on your premises.
 3. Do not drive into hog lots when returning from market or after driving on public highways.
 4. Do not use hog lots for yarding wagons and farm implements.
 5. Do not place newly purchased stock, stock secured or loaned for breeding purposes, or stock exhibited at county fairs with your herd. Keep such stock quarantined at least two weeks and use care to prevent carrying infection from these to other pens in feeding and attending stock.
 6. Burn to ashes or cover with quicklime and bury under 4 feet of earth all dead animals and the viscera removed from animals at butchering time. They attract the attention of buzzards, dogs, etc., which are liable to carry hog cholera infection.
 7. Confine your dogs and do not keep pigeons unless you confine them.
If Hog Cholera Appears in Your Herd:
 Treat your hogs immediately with anti-hog-cholera serum, after which they should be kept on a light diet and pure drinking water and confined to limited quarters that may be cleaned daily and sprayed three times a week with one part of compound cresol solution to 30 parts of water: until the disease has abated in the herd. To obtain the best results the serum must be administered before the disease has progressed in the herd.
To Rid the Premises of Infection:
 Remove all manure and saturate with quicklime.
 Burn all litter rubbish and old hog troughs.
 After the premises are thoroughly cleaned, spray walls, floors and other surfaces with disinfectant (1 part compound cresol solution to 50 parts water.) Where hog houses are small, turn them over, exposing interior to sunlight.
 Wallow holes and cesspools should be filled in, drained, or fenced off.
 All runs underneath buildings should be cleaned and disinfected and then bordered up.
 Destroy hogs that do not full recover, as they may be carriers of cholera infection.

Fellow dropped into the office the other day and ordered the paper, and we were pleased. Said it was a good paper, and we were glad. Said it was more than worth the money to any man of intelligence, and we were tickled. Said it was the mainstay of the town and we were super-tickled. Said it was the greatest booster and the most reliable town builder and developer in this whole community, and we yelled with joy. Paid for his paper, and we slid gently to the floor in blissful unconsciousness. Nature had reached its limit.—The Highlander.

HE'S 40 YEARS OLD; NEVER BEEN KISSED.
 Minsolda, L. I., Oct. 11.—Warren A. Brown, a bachelor real estate dealer who confesses to be 40 years old, has never kissed nor hugged a woman in his life. Neither has he submitted to any like affection with a woman taking the offensive. Brown so testified in defending himself against a $10,000 suit brought by Joseph S. John, a parish instructor, who charges Brown with stealing his wife's love.

The "sacred ratio" bobs up again. Henry Ford has examined a standard American submarine and declares it is sixteen times too big. The fact is, however, that our submarines are sixteen times too few in number.

IN MEMORIAM.
 In loving remembrance of our dear friend, Ester King, who breathed her last September 18, 1915. She was the sweetest flower that bloomed on earth but God saw fit to call her home. She left many friends to mourn her death, but let us comfort ourselves by this blessed thought that we shall meet to part, no never.
 We have lost our darling Ester
 She has bid us all adieu
 She has gone to live in Heaven
 And her form is lost to view
 Oh, that dear one how we loved her
 Oh, how hard to give her up
 But the angel came down for her
 And removed her from our flock.

It is hard that one we cherish
 Should be taken from our home
 But the joys that do not perish
 Live in memory alone
 All the years we spent together
 All the happy golden hours
 Shall be cherished in remembrance
 Fragrant sweets from memory's flowers.
 We miss thee from our home dear Ester
 We miss thee from thy place
 A shadow over our life is cast
 We miss thy kind and willing hand
 Thy fond and earnest care
 Our home is dark without thee
 We miss thee everywhere.
 Through all pain at times she smiled
 A smile at heavenly birth
 And when the angels called her home
 She smiled farewell to earth
 Heaven retaineth now our treasure
 Earth alone casket keeps,
 And the sunbeams love to linger
 Where our sainted Ester sleeps.

Farewell dear, but not forever,
 There will be a glorious dawn
 We shall meet to part no never
 On the resurrection morn
 Though thy darling form lies sleeping
 In the cold and silent tomb
 Thou shalt have a glorious waking
 When the blessed Lord doth come.
 —MRS. M. J. THOMPSON.

The soldier was telling the workman about a battle that he had once been in that had lasted from 8 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock at night. His description was most graphic, and became very enthusiastic as he lived through the stirring scenes again.
 "There's one thing I can't understand about the story," said the workman slowly when he had finished. You say the battle began at 8 o'clock in the morning and lasted until 7 o'clock at night?"
 "Yes, that's so," was the reply.
 "Then," retorted the workman with a puzzled air, "what I can't make out is how did you manage about your dinner hour?"
 President Wilson is a sly old boy after all. While the country thought he was busy preventing war and mediating upon the glorious prospects in Mexico, he was making love and arranging to take unto himself a help-mate. The country will wish for him much happiness.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY DIRECTORS WERE RE-ELECTED YESTERDAY.
 Richmond, Va., Oct. 12.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Southern Railway company today Fairfax Harrison, president of the company, Robert M. Gallaway, banker of New York and John W. Grant, capitalist, of Atlanta, whose terms as directors expired, were re-elected, and Henry B. Spencer, vice-president of the company, who was elected by the board to fill the unexpired term of the late Col. A. B. Andrews, was also elected director for a full term of three years.

No wonder our people trade away from home. The outsiders want their business advertised and ask for the trade of our people, while the home merchants, the banks, shops, etc., think they can get the business without asking for it. Some of these days they will wake up and find that they have lost thousands of dollars trying to save a few pennies.

TAKE AN INVENTORY.
 Now the need of a compass in the equipment of a ship is no greater than the need of a compass in a business, which is the taking of a careful inventory at regular periods. The inventory is the compass of a business because the information which it gives enables the merchant to steer his course toward success, the destination he is seeking.
 We occasionally find a merchant who has apparently done well, sailing his craft upon dead reckoning alone; but for every success among such merchants there have been failures upon failures.
 To many merchants the taking of an inventory seems a big job. They neglect it, excusing themselves day after day with the argument that they cannot spare the time, or do not want to employ extra help, which the taking of the inventory requires. They forget that the inventory is the first essential in ascertaining whether the business is heading toward success or failure; and this is true whether the business be large or small.

 It is inexcusable on any grounds for a merchant or manufacturer to wait until what he has is less than what he owes, to discover that bad management or miscalculation has brought him face to face with failure. Through the inventory there will be revealed to him whether or not the gross profits of his business are larger than cost and operating expense combined, or his investment is suffering a shrinkage and the business is headed toward failure.—Hartford Agent.

It Always Helps
 says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill.
 I wish every suffering woman would give

GREATNESS

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

The greatness of a man lies in his ability to interpret his age.

Such a man must have the rarest of traits of genius; he must instinctively feel his fellow men.

He is not a leader. The whole strong man theory is a humbug. He is a servant.

The greatest man is the man who comes nearest to executing the will of the people. He is "servant of all."

If he is a poet, he utters the word they dumbly feel. If he is an artist, he embodies forth their impotent fancy. If he is a statesman, he materializes their political convictions. If he is an orator or writer, he says what they would all say. Always behind him is the mass, from which he draws his force.

It is this power of submerging one's self into the current of others' feeling that is the gift of greatness.

The lawyer is great who loses himself in the interests of his clients.

The physician is great who gives himself up to his patients, serving the poorest of them as loyally as any subject ever served his king.

The teacher is great who is the exponent of his pupils, the expression of their intellectual curiosity, the will of their highest ambitions.

The workman is great who feels the profit of his employer, the care of his goods, and the perfecting of his work as if it were his own.

The merchant is great who senses his customers, divines their needs, ministers to their wants; and he is greater yet if he feels his responsibility to those he employs, if he is the personal embodiment of the activities of all his working force.

A president, a governor, a senator, a congressman, a mayor, is great if he knows his people; if their conscience; if his voice is their thought; if their desires and deals move his hand and brain.

Homer, Goethe, Voltaire, Shakespeare spoke their time.

The great men are the manufacture of the people.

David, Caesar, Washington, Napoleon, these knew how to ride the crest of the multitudinous wave.

Even of Jesus no greater thing can be said than that He uttered the heart of all mankind.

MR. CLARK'S CRADLE ROLL

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

Champ Clark essayed the role of prophet in his speech on Clark Day at St. Joseph. No one questions his belief in the Democratic party. Being honest, he could not overlook the fact that the Democratic victory in 1912 was a fluke. He knew that Mr. Wilson got 1,300,000 fewer votes than Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt and that he fell short of Mr. Bryan's 1908 vote 110,000, notwithstanding the growth in population, the enfranchisement of the women of Washington and California and the admission of Arizona and New Mexico. The combined vote of the Republicans and Progressives was also short, 74,000 less than Mr. Taft got in 1908, due to so many disgusted Republicans having pronounced a plague on both the factions.

The only comfort Mr. Clark could offer was that the young men who were on the cradle roll in 1896 will vote the Democratic ticket next time. But there have been other cradle rolls. Every election since 1896 has had its crop of first voters. But the Democratic vote was smaller in 1912 than in 1896, although the population has increased by 23,000,000, three States were admitted and women of two States enfranchised. At every successive election the Republican vote grew larger, being 7,104,779 in 1896; 7,207,923 in 1900; 7,623,486 in 1904 and 7,678,908 in 1908. The Democrats at no election since have equalled the 1896 vote. Why does Mr. Clark think that the young voters of 1916 will be more unsophisticated than those in 1900, 1904, 1908 and 1912? At no election since 1912 have the Democrats gained. Where were the young voters who became of age in 1913 and 1914? The Republicans will get their full share of young voters and some who were young voters in 1912 are old in experience with Democratic Administrations now.

SPEAKING SOFTLY

A Virginia farmer was driving a refractory cow down the road, and cow and driver came to a crossroad. The man wanted the cow to go straight ahead, but the cow picked out the cross-road. A colored man was coming along the cross-road.

"Haid her off! Haid her off!" yelled the driver.

The colored man jumped about the road and waved his arms. The cow proceeded calmly on her way.

"Haid her off! Haid her off!" yelled the driver.

"Is trying ter!" replied the colored man.

"Speak to her! Speak to her, and she'll stop."

"Good mawin, cow—good mawin!" said the other politely.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

HARD TO CONSIDER THE LILLIES

Cotton twelve cents, wheat more than one dollar a bushel, and meat 20 cents a pound. Verily it is hard for a poor mortal to "consider the lillies" alongside of such figures.—Fayetteville Observer.

Evelyn is a cowardly child, and her father decided to have a serious talk with his little daughter.

"Father," she said at the close of his lecture when you see a cow, ain't you afraid?"

"No, certainly not, Evelyn."

"When you see a bumblebee, ain't you afraid?"

"No!" with scorn.

"Ain't you afraid when it thunders?"

"No," with laughter. "Oh, you silly, silly child!"

"Papa," said Evelyn, solemnly, "ain't you afraid of nothing in the world out mamman?"

Remove all manure and saturate with quicklime. Burn all litter rubbish and old hog troughs. After the premises are thoroughly cleaned, spray walls, floors and other surfaces with disinfectant (1 part compound cresol solution to 50 parts water.) Where hog houses are small, turn them over, exposing interior to sunlight.

Wallow holes and cesspools should be filled in, drained, or fenced off.

All runs underneath buildings should be cleaned and disinfected and then bordered up.

Destroy hogs that do not fully recover, as they may be carriers of cholera infection.

The Pro-Ally fanaticism of some Americans is hard to understand. Looks like anyone with a grain of sense could see in the future a war of America against Japan. In that we will find England and the other allies siding with the Yellow man—their present ally. Germany is our one best bet, and we could see it more clearly if our President weren't such an Englishman. He long said that the London Times was his favorite paper, and what a man reads is what he thinks.—The Highlander.

Fellow dropped into the office the other day and ordered the paper, and we were pleased. Said it was a good paper, and we were glad. Said it was more than worth the money to any man of intelligence, and we were tickled. Said it was the mainstay of the town and we were super-tickled. Said it was the greatest booster and the most reliable town builder and developer in this whole community, and we yelled with joy. Paid for his paper, and we slid gently to the floor in blissful unconsciousness. Nature had reached its limit.—The Highlander.

YOU AND THE CHURCH.

Speak a good word for the church. It never speaks ill of you. It does nothing to your detriment, and much for your benefit. It is not your enemy, and it is your friend. As a friend, it is entitled to your respect, your consideration, your support. And more, it is entitled to your presence—it ought to have your presence. What is good for the church is good for you. Keep it in mind—speak a good word—remember your friend and go yourself. Welcome will greet you at the door.—Exchange.
